Tribal member hosts the pope

■ Archbishop Chaput a member of the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation

By Ali Holcomb

Archbishop Charles Chaput, a member of the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation, hosted Pope Francis on Saturday and Sunday during the pope's visit to Philadelphia, it was reported.

Chaput, who was named to lead the Archdiocese of Philadelphia four years ago, served as the pope's host as he traveled to and from events in the city.

Pope Francis arrived in Philadelphia on Saturday morning, and a mass was held at the Cathedral Basilica of Saints Peter and Paul.

The pope then visited Independence Mall and paraded around the city, stopping to visit the Festival of Families.

On Sunday, Pope Francis met with bishops at St. Martin's Chapel in St. Charles Borromeo Seminary. He then visited the Curran-Fromhold Correctional Facility. Mass was held in the afternoon at Benjamin Franklin Parkway to conclude the World Meeting of Families event.

Chaput told the local CBS affiliate in Philadelphia that the papal visit was "a gift that will have a lasting impact."

He also told reporters that the pope was touched by his visit to Philadelphia.

The Archdiocese of Philadelphia is home to nearly 1.5 million Roman Catholics and is one of the U.S. church's most historically important posts.

Chaput was born in 1944 in Concordia. He attended Our Lady of Perpetual Help Grade School in Concordia and St. Francis Seminary High School in Victoria.

Chaput's maternal grandmother was the last member of his family to live on the Prairie Band Potawatomi reservation, but he was enrolled in the tribe at a young age.

His parents were Marian (DeMarais) and Joseph Chaput, and his siblings are Jolene Harper and Gerald Chaput. His grandmother was Adelaide Keegan, and his great-grandmother was Adelaide Bourdon. His great-great-grandmother was Judith Navarre.

He was ordained into the priesthood in 1970.

"Nunsense" to be presented next weekend

By Brian Sanders

A musical comedy that started as a greeting card phenomenon and grew into the second-longest-running Off-Broadway show in history is coming to Holton as part of the upcoming Second Saturday Fall Fest.

"Nunsense," the 1985 musical comedy that spawned a number of sequels and spin-offs, will be presented Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 10 and 11, by the Holton Community Theatre group at Penny's on the west side of Holton's Town Square. The Saturday, Oct. 10 performance includes a dinner theater, along with other activities to benefit Holton Community Theatre.

Director Shannon Wittmer said "Nunsense," with a book, music and lyrics by Dan Goggin, was chosen for the Fall Fest performance for its music, its comedy and its all-female cast. Rehearsals for the musical comedy are going well, Wittmer said.

"Last Thursday, we had our first practice where we got through everything, start to finish, with the music and the script involved," Wittmer said. "We kind of split it up. We rehearsed the lines on certain days and concentrated on the music on certain days, because we had a lot to work with."

The musical comedy centers on five of the 19 surviving "Little Sisters of Hoboken" after discovering that their cook, Sister Julia, Child of God, accidentally killed the other 52 residents of the convent via food poisoning. Upon discovering the disaster, the convent's Reverend Mother starts a greeting card company to raise funds for the burials.

The cards are a success, but the Reverend Mother misappropriates the money before all the burials were completed, and so a variety show in Mount Saint Helen's School auditorium is planned to raise the amount needed to complete the burials. However, the nuns have to act fast, because the last four bodies that need to be buried are temporarily on ice in the school's freezer — and the local Board of Health is getting suspicious.

The five-woman cast is led by Carol Totten as the Reverend Mother, a former circus performer who cannot resist the spotlight. Wittmer said Totten was the perfect choice to play the Reverend Mother, since Totten has "lived an eclectic life and has been through a lot, so she's definitely kind of a mother figure to us."

The nuns' "second-in-command" is Sister Mary Hubert, the Reverend Mother's competitive but dignified rival whom Wittmer describes as "the loud and boisterous one." Mallory Jacobs plays the role, which Wittmer says fits Jacobs' personality perfectly.

There's also Sister Mary Leo, a novice who is determined to be "the world's first ballerina nun." That role is covered by Erin Fox, whom Wittmer said handles her own choreography, and "while she may not be a trained ballerina, she's doing wonderfully with her footwork."

The fourth nun is Sister Robert Anne, a streetwise nun from Brooklyn played by Carrie Holliday. Rounding out the cast is Wittmer, playing the role of Sister Mary Amnesia — a childlike nun who lost her memory when a crucifix fell on her head — in addition to directing the show.

Keeping in the tradition of the show, Totten — whose husband, Rhett, is working with Nancy Sipes to provide the show's musical accompaniment — has designed some greeting cards that will be sold during the Oct. 10 performances. Cards will be sold in sets of six for $10, and proceeds will benefit Holton Community Theatre.

Wanted: Chili and soup cooks

By Ali Holcomb

Six individuals or teams have signed up so far to compete in next weekend's chili and soup cook-off here, and more cooks are sought for the friendly competition.

The cook-off, which will raise funds for the Holton Fire Department, has been set from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10, on the Holton Square in conjunction with the Fall Fest Vintage Market.

Those wanting to participate in the annual chili and soup cook-off must provide four to five gallons of their homemade recipe that Saturday.

There is a $1 registration fee, and cooks are encouraged to pre-register by contacting David Powls at The Holton Recorder at 785-364-3141.

A list of cooks set to participate in the event will be published in an upcoming edition of The Holton Recorder.

In addition to the soup or chili, participants must provide their own table, extension cord for electric hook-ups, a larger cooker to keep their food warm and larger bowls and spoons to serve residents who wish to purchase a larger bowl of their food. Cooks are also encouraged to decorate their display.

Tables need to be set up by 10:45 a.m. that Saturday for judging and public participation at 11 a.m.

To sample the variety of chili and soup that day, a pack of tasting bowls will be sold at a cost of $5 per person. The fee will include enough tasting bowls to sample all the chili and soup provided that day.

The tasting bowls will be available to purchase at a table in front of The Holton Recorder that Saturday. All proceeds from the purchase of the tasting bowls will be donated to the Holton Fire Department.

In addition, members of the public can also purchase a larger bowl of their favorite recipe from the participating cooks, who are encouraged to donate a portion of those proceeds to the fire department. Each cook will set the price of any larger bowls sold. Like previous years, various prizes will be awarded including "People's Choice," "Best Chili," "Best Soup" and "Fire Chief's Favorite."

The best chili cook will receive $50 in Chamber Bucks and five free tickets to the Kansas City Renaissance Festival. The people's choice winner will receive a one-year subscription to The Holton Recorder.

Holton Fire Chief Kevin Ingels has agreed to serve as one of the judges for the event and noted that donations to the fire department are always appreciated.

For more information, call The Holton Recorder at 364-3141.

Callison, Riley new owners of Lasting Impressions

By Brian Sanders

Two long-time employees of Holton's Lasting Impressions custom embroidery and screen printing business are now the new owners of the business, it has been reported.

Michelle Callison and Stephanie Riley took over the business from long-time owner Carole Danner effective Aug. 21, just as the business was getting ready to enter what Callison said is one of its busiest times of the year — getting new clothing lines and other merchandise ready for Jackson County's three school districts.

"It's a good thing," Callison said of the level of business being done at a transitional time. "We're still trying to get our feet underneath us."

With the experience that Callison and Riley have working under Danner, it's likely that won't take long. Callison has worked for Lasting Impressions as a production manager and graphic artist for the past 14 years — coming aboard not long after Danner took over the business in 2000 — and Riley has worked there for nine years "in all capacity of operations," she said.

The business got its start in 1998 as a home-based embroidery business owned by Karen Beightel, who

Circleville seniors hear Honor Flight report

By Barbara Hutchinson

The meeting of the Circleville Senior Citizens was called to order on Sept. 21 by President Ken Wykert. Wykert led the flag salute, and Dennis Hutchinson gave the blessing.

Thirteen were in attendance. There were no birthdays and one wedding anniversary, Dale and Ilah Rose Askren. Guests were introduced. A bountiful meal consisting of fried chicken, provided by the organization, and salads and desserts, provided by the members, were enjoyed.

Jackson Heights Superintendent Adrienne Walsh gave an update on the upcoming year at Jackson Heights. It was noted that there is an increase of 15 students.

Dr. David Allen, representative on the Jackson Heights Education Foundation, thanked the group for its contribution.

Members agreed not to have an October meeting and to go to the Holton meal site in November.

On Dec. 7, the group will go to Soldier Senior Citizens and enjoy Jackson Heights band members playing Christmas songs with their director, Laura Holliday.

It was discussed that club members would like to give something to the kids for Halloween, and it was voted on and decided to contribute $25 for the Trunk or Treat.

Judy Olson and others are planning to have the Christmas House (selling candy and other goodies) at Circleville City Hall (as they did last year).

The program on the Jackson Heights Honor Flight to Washington, D.C. was given by Melvin Wells, Holton, and Ken Wykert. A display board brought by Barbara Hutchinson was used to put up clippings and other memorabilia.

Evelyn Allen brought two framed photos for Wykert. Dr. Allen had taken the photos on the trip. Evelyn used her laptop to provide visual aids during the presentations, and this was appreciated.

Several of the students had written letters of appreciation to Wykert and Wells, and these were enjoyed. Superintendent Walsh also sent photos from her phone so we could print them off at a later date.

Each veteran expressed appreciation for the opportunity for the trip. Wykert said his favorite part was the changing of the guard at the Arlington National Cemetery.

Wells said that it was such a wonderful positive reception at the airports. When they arrived, people clapped and thanked them for their service. He said that when he returned from Korea and hopped off the ship in San Francisco, people had signs in their yards about the unpopular Korean War and took it out on the veterans.

The program was enjoyed by all, and it was suggested that it might be given at the Holton meal site, and someone will contact Mary Jo Fernkopf.

National Newspaper Week, Oct. 4-10

This year marks the 75th anniversary of National Newspaper Week.

It was created in 1940 by the Newspaper Association Managers as a time to celebrate the newspaper industry.

The theme of National Newspaper Week this year (Oct. 4-10) is "Power Of The Press."

I'm not sure where the phrase "Power Of The Press" originated.

But in 1928, Frank Capra made a silent movie called "The Power Of The Press."

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. played Clem Rogers, an ambitious cub reporter hungry for a scoop. He gets more than he bargained for when his big story implicates the mayor's daughter - who just happens to be Clem's girlfriend - in a murder.

In the end, the heroic journalist lands the story and the girl, and exposes political chicanery to boot.

This old film was selected in 2005 by the United States National Film Registry to be preserved by the Library of Congress because it was "culturally, historically, or aesthetically significant."

U.S. newspapers today continue the important watchdog work of monitoring the activities of our local, state and federal government.

U.S. newspapers also continue to provide the most trusted news reporting in the world.

While there has never been as much information being broadcasted, in as many ways, as there is now, there has also never been so much misinformation being broadcasted, in as many ways, as there is now.

And this is precisely why newspapers continue to thrive in this country. Readers want the truth and they want the truth arrived at fairly.

Good journalism never goes out of vogue, never goes out of season.

At The University of Kansas at Lawrence where I studied journalism more than 30 years ago, I was recently asked by faculty there how journalism and newspapering has changed since I started in the business.

My short reply was that good journalism never changes. There are many new ways to distribute the news these days. But good journalism as a career, as a vocation, as a profession, has not changed, in my opinion.

Fact-checking, multiple source reporting, fairness, statement of relevance, all of these components of good reporting have not changed and will never change.

Like all careers, vocations and professions, community journalism - like we practice here at The Holton Recorder - naturally keeps evolving and improving. The way we design our newspaper product today, for example, is completely different than the way we did it in the 1980s when I started. And that's OK. Actually it is more than OK. For me, the newspaper design work today is easy work compared to the way we used to do it. The same can be said about a lot of professions.

When it comes to the newspaper writing, and newspaper editing, that whole process has not changed.

Congratulations to newspaper people all across this country during National Newspaper Week.

The pope's visit was inspiring

The visit to the United States by Pope Francis recently, which received unprecedented around-the-clock television news coverage, was a ray of bright sunshine for me and for millions of other people, it seemed.

At a time in history when movie stars, music makers, other celebrities and national politicians usually grab the most TV time, Pope Francis clearly held the country's attention and admiration while he was here. And that was an amazing thing to see.

Pope Francis implores us to take care of the poor and all those in need. He preaches endless mercy.

One of his best-known quotes is, "Who am I to judge?"

For me, listening to the pope and watching him took me way outside of my daily work routine. I was moved by how the pope was revered wherever he went, by all people, of all religions. He made me want to be a better person.

Pope Francis, in contrast to our usual news makers, is an intent listener and somewhat of a reformer in the Roman Catholic Church, by the way.

"I see the church as a field hospital after battle," Pope Francis said recently. "The thing the church needs most today is the ability to heal wounds and to warm the hearts of the faithful; it needs nearness, proximity. ... Heal the wounds, heal the wounds. ... And you have to start from the ground up."

The pope's visit to the U.S. reminded me of the famous quote by the ancient philosopher Plato when asked how the "ideal state" could be achieved: - "There will be no end to the troubles of states, or of humanity itself, until philosophers become kings in this world, or until those we now call kings and rulers really and truly become philosophers, and political power and philosophy thus come into the same hands."

Pope Francis lives beyond the philosophy. He walks the walk.

National Newspaper Week

Newspapers separate the truth from gossip

"I got credit down at the grocery store and my barber tells me jokes..." —Roger Miller

By Ray Mosby

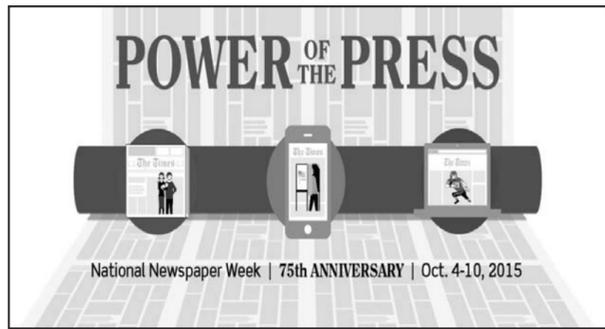

ROLLING FORK, Miss.—The chosen theme for this year's National Newspaper Week is "Power of the Press," and that power, it seems to me, is a very relative thing.

Everybody understands the power of, say, The New York Times or The Washington Post, but probably less recognized and appreciated is the power of the Deer Creek Pilot and the thousands of other small, community newspapers just like it all across the land.

In survey after survey, it is these little community-minded newspapers that are continuing to thrive. And there are some very tangible, observable reasons for that, not the least of which might be the notion I share that the smaller the community, the more important its newspaper.

For more than 20 years now, I have put out a little country weekly that's been published continuously for 138 years in what most folks might consider Backwater, U.S.A., the two poorest counties in the poorest state in the union with a combined population of less than 6,500 men, women and children.

And it is neither flippant nor hyperbolic when I say that little country weekly newspaper is the only news organization on the planet Earth that gives the first tinker's damn about Sharkey and Issaquena counties, Mississippi. That, folks, is what makes the Deer Creek Pilot mighty, mighty important to those people who call that place home.

While mine might serve as prime example, it is in that respect no different from all those other community newspapers in all those other towns in this country.

Community newspapers have the power to bring about great good and make a profound difference within their locales. And among the good ones, the ones who endure and even prosper, there is always to be found one common denominator—trust.

In a small town the local newspaper is not like the local hardware store. It simply isn't.

In a small town, every newspaper subscriber is a stockholder, because there exists a real relationship, an implied contract, if you will, between that paper and its readers.

They buy the local newspaper, advertise in the local newspaper, sometimes even when they don't have to, based on a simple precept: They trust the newspaper to do its very best to find the truth and to tell it to them.

News travels fast in a small town; bad news travels even faster, but all too often that "news" is no such thing. All too often, that "news" is little more than rumor, sometimes made up out of whole cloth and at best some grain of truth exaggerated in its retellings vastly, and often alarmingly out of proportion.

In a small town, readers expect their newspaper to separate the wheat from the chaff and then to "tell it like it is."

And why not?

The community newspaper is not some monolithic entity; its editor is not some ivory towered "big shot." He or she is also a neighbor. He or she is one who goes to church with you, or stops to chat in the grocery store or is always there to volunteer

LETTER

Dear editor,
How lucky we are to have a grocer and his clerks that care.

Thursday, Sept. 24, I went to pay my grocery bill at Ron's IGA. Well, my card was denied three times.

Janet had the cashier sign my receipt and asked me to come by Friday, which I did.

Scott, thank you and Janet for letting me have my groceries and mostly your trust.

Being a resident of Holton for less than a year, that means a lot. Thank you, Scott and Janet!

Sunshine Week transparency needs to continue all year long

By Kevin Goldberg

The 10th Sunshine Week ended about six months ago, on March 21.

This annual celebration of open government was created by the American Society of News Editors with a grant from the John L. and James S. Knight Foundation.

Now co-sponsored by American Society of News Editors and the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, Sunshine Week is intended to highlight the importance of open government around the country.

All indications pointed to the fact that this year's Sunshine Week was one of the best yet. In Washington, D.C. and throughout the country, people found new and innovative ways to make people think about transparency (my personal favorite was the brewing of Sunshine Wheat beer - the first beer of Sunshine Week).

Even government agencies embraced the spirit of open government for those seven days. One could take a field trip every day to an agency event touting their success with regard to transparency and disclosure of government records and information.

Media outlets also were doing great things. Highlights included op-eds on the importance of open government by Associated Press President and CEO Gary Pruitt and by Eric Newton, Senior Advisor to the President of the John L. and James S. Knight Foundation.

There were also print and online stories on the barriers to access, editorial cartoons and a video segment highlighting some of the most egregious FOIA delays in existence.

Fantastic. But now six months down the line, what has been the net effect?

Sunshine Week was created because of a perception that people don't truly appreciate the importance of open government, in part because there was little to no discussion of the issue itself.

Sunshine Week was intended to make people stop taking transparency for granted, but not just for a week.

We don't stop being American when the clock strikes midnight on July 5. So why does it feel like government, media and citizens don't commit to transparency for the 51 weeks until the next Sunshine Week (which, for those looking ahead, will be held from March 13 to 19, 2016)?

In some ways, Sunshine Week undercuts its own success. The Congressional Committees with jurisdiction over the federal Freedom of Information Act, the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform and Senate Judiciary Committee, have largely fallen into a pattern of holding one and only one hearing relating to the federal FOIA every year using Sunshine Week. And that's if we're lucky.

As processing delays and unnecessary invocation of FOIA exemptions diminish the law's true utility for those who need meaningful information from government agencies in a timely fashion, Congress should be asking more questions of agencies on a regular basis. Congress, the media and the public need to take note as executive branch agencies increasingly try to control the message by limiting unfettered access to staff or by only allowing staff to speak "off the record" or "on background."

Not pushing back against these abuses allows the government to, in effect, manipulate Sunshine Week for its own gain.

In fact, many agencies have their playbook down pat. Show up when asked to testify by a Congressional Committee and endure the hot seat for a couple hours and/or hold a public event during Sunshine Week, making sure to say all the right things about transparency and throwing out a few numbers to prove that your FOIA backlogs have decreased.

Release a few high value datasets (which aren't really all that high in value at all) to show you are being proactive. Make it through the week and then most everyone is off your back until the next Sunshine Week.

Quite often it works. Don't believe me? Look at what the White House did this year. On March 13, 2015, two days before Sunshine Week started, it announced that the White House Office of Administration would no longer be subject to FOIA.

Granted, this was not a violation of law, as a federal court had ruled six years before that this office is not subject to FOIA. But the simple fact is that both the timing and the action itself smacked of contempt for open government and should serve as a reminder that no government will ever authentically embrace truly open government, except perhaps within the confines of the one week in which they know all eyes are on this issue.

Government agencies tend to act like a boxer stealing a round when it comes to transparency. There's a grand flourish when they know it will score big points.

But we need to refrain from giving them the champion's belt for such tactics; at best, they deserve a participant's medal.

Yes, government agencies need to do a better job of committing to transparency 365 days a year, but so do those pushing them to do better. It's time to really take what we've learned during Sunshine Week and use it the rest of the year. We still have time to accomplish that before next March.

New Life Nazarene

By Janice Kneisley

In his third sermon as new pastor of New Life Church of the Nazarene (formerly Holton Church of the Nazarene), on Sunday, Sept. 20, Pastor Kevin Kneisley challenged the congregation to think positive. Kneisley said that basically we face two doors in life, the door of positivity or the door of negativity.

He cited walking through the door of negativity is easy. We do it all the time. Watching the TV news or entertainment shows, the evolution of comedy from slapstick to slanderous, to social media outlets.

He used an example of jump-starting his Chevy Vega when he was a teenager and getting the jumper cables turned around, getting the negative on the positive and the positive on the negative... and the outcome was not good. Kneisley said that can happen in life too, and when it does, our world can seem like it is all messed up.

But Jesus said, "I am the door." In John 10:9 Jesus said, "I am the door. If anyone enters by me, he will be saved and will go in and out and find pasture."

One of the best ways Satan enters our lives, Kneisley said, is to entice us to walk through the door of negativity. Positivity, Kneisley said, "is a God-driven outlook that gives us a God-ordained outcome." So our outcome is determined by our outlook, Kneisley said.

The Bible, he said, keeps it real, as it shows both the positive and negative qualities of people and teaches us how to deal with negativity. He used Numbers 13 as an example where the children of Israel were given the Promised Land. Only two of the 12 disciples had a God-driven outlook, as they were the only ones to enter into the Promised Land. He encouraged the congregation to be like Joshua and Caleb, the two who made it into the Promised Land, and focus our lives on the positive.

Kneisley went on to say that the negative sign is horizontal but the positive sign is vertical and in the shape of the cross, and if we have our eyes on Jesus and walk through the positive door, our God-given outlook determines a God-ordained outcome; we have in fact gone vertical, like the cross.

"So when the world gives us the horizontal sign, let's allow God to upright it to vertical and remember what He has done for you and is doing for you. Let Him hook up your cables to the positive."

New Life Church of the Nazarene held a communion service on Sunday, Sept. 27 during worship service.

Williams' motion to fire attorney denied

A Netawaka man charged with picking up a package reportedly containing four pounds of marijuana at the Whiting post office in May was denied a motion to dismiss his attorney on Tuesday in Jackson County District Court.

District Court Judge Jeff Elder denied a motion filed by Johnny Lee Williams, 54, to dismiss Holton attorney J. Richard Lake as his counsel and reminded Williams that his trial on charges of distribution and possession of marijuana has been scheduled to begin Tuesday, Oct. 13 in district court. A pre-trial motion hearing will be held on Friday, Oct. 9, Elder noted. Williams told Elder that he was planning to hire an attorney to replace Lake, but Elder countered that the other attorney was not present for the day's hearings. Williams is currently being held at the Jackson County Detention Center.

Williams was arrested in May on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, a Level 2 drug felony, after he was observed picking up a package reportedly containing about four pounds of marijuana from the Whiting post office. Jackson County Sheriff Tim Morse said at that time that Williams had been alleged to have distributed marijuana from shipments he had been receiving through the mail from California.

district meeting this summer, I was a participant in an extended communion service and was moved by the intensity of the service. I wanted our church members to also experience it, as it goes more into depth with the Nicene Creed, the Lord's Prayer and responsive readings. It engages the congregation in the true meaning of communion," said Pastor Kneisley.

Next week's sermon will touch on forgiveness, using John 8:2-11 as reference. Kneisley said he will use the story of the Pharisees who brought a woman caught in adultery to the temple courts and in front of Jesus. Instead of accusing her, Jesus said "Let any one of you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her." (John 8:7).

Wednesday night Bible study will be held at 6:30 p.m. Led by Allen Bowser, the Bible study is over the book of Nehemiah. The community is invited to study God's word at the church, 209 New York Ave.

Lady Cobras stop slide with a pair of wins on home court

Since a big breakthrough at the Lyndon tournament more than two weeks ago, the Jackson Heights volleyball team has been stuck in a rut. To be fair, the Cobras have also faced three of the top four teams in the Northeast Kansas League in their matches following that tournament, but the coaches and players were well aware of the backwards trend and wanted to change it.

Some home-cooking seemed to be just the remedy the Cobras needed, as JHHS hosted McLouth and Oskaloosa on Tuesday night and picked up two big wins that ended the team's little skid.

"Ever since the Lyndon tournament, we've kind of gone downhill and haven't been doing as well. We've been talking in practice about getting our communication back together, since that was one of our goals that we talked about from the very beginning," coach Kaylee Mick said. "I finally think I stressed it enough and they had seen it themselves and they came out ready to go."

Heights may have had a little extra motivation on senior night in its last home matches of the season, but that didn't stop things from starting off a little bumpy.

Mick went deep in her rotation early in the first match and while it took the Cobras some time to find their rhythm and mesh on the court, the team did so quickly after an early timeout and then cruised to a 25-15 and 25-8 victory over McLouth.

Everybody eventually contributed to the defensive effort, which was key against the Bulldogs, and Hannah Williams proved to be an imposing force at the net right away. Williams picked up some kills at the 10-foot line and also contributed some key blocks that helped fuel the Cobras on Tuesday night.

Against Oskaloosa, it was Bree Williams who got the Cobras going as she delivered a kill and an ace to start the match, forcing a quick timeout by the Bears. Jackson Heights never looked back.

"We were excited from start to end and didn't let down. They just stayed on top of it and didn't stoop down to the other team's level," Mick said.

Shortly after that, Morgan Bryan stepped back to serve and that stoked the fire even more. Bryan's defense has been crucial for the team this season, according to Mick, and against Oskaloosa she had a service streak that allowed the Cobras to pull away. Bryan and Williams both had two aces in the match against the Bears.

Of course, Hannah Williams helped add to the team's momentum with a huge block and kill during that stretch which saw JHHS take a 10-4 lead. She finished the match with six kills and two blocks in total.

The Bears answered with a pair of back-to-back aces from Tomi-Lyn Hickman, but errors sank Oskaloosa late and Marley Wareham shut the door on the first set with yet another ace for the Cobras.

Serving was a strength for the Cobras all night, as Mick noted Abby Williams also came up big for the team in that regard. While the team faltered late in the final set against Oskaloosa, Mick quickly reminded her team to keep putting on the pressure.

"There at the end they kind of started falling apart, but I called a timeout and that was one thing we talked about was missed serves," Mick said. "We came out and finished it and didn't give up on the serves. They kept fighting and giving it all they had and making it tough for them (Oskaloosa)."

Wareham and Logan Rethman, both part of that deeper rotation, came up with some big kills and digs as well to help Jackson Heights handle Oskaloosa in a 25-13 and 25-16 victory.

Katelin Strube and Bree Williams also pitched in four kills, while Williams had five digs to go with that. Taylor Abel led JHHS with 12 assists and also had four digs against the Bears.

Going into the night having already collected wins over both teams, Mick said her team handled itself well. While she was quick to note the progress teams will make over the course of the season, she said her team took advantage of what it could to pick up two more wins and she hopes the Cobras continue to do that moving forward.

"When they play games like this, it proves to them that they have the capability. They can do it. They can beat these teams and not make it so close. As long as they have communication and excitement together as a team, they're able to do whatever they set their minds to," Mick said.

After the excitement of a sweep on senior night, Mick is hoping her players have their minds set on keeping the momentum rolling as Heights (9-11) returns to action at the Valley Falls tournament on Saturday. Matches will start at 8 a.m.

RV volleyball splits at Perry

In a volleyball league as tough as the Big Seven, teams cannot afford any off-nights. Royal Valley found that out the hard way on Tuesday, as the team hit some road bumps at Perry-Lecompton and ended up splitting with the Kaws.

"We really struggled Tuesday night. We just weren't meshing together," RV coach Denise Visocsy said. "We just weren't playing together as a team, so it was a very frustrating night."

Those issues presented themselves early and led to the Panthers dropping the opening set, but the team rallied back to take the final two of the first match and earn a 22-25, 25-23 and 25-21 victory.

Defensive adjustments were crucial late in that first match, especially with the RV offense struggling to get going, and Visocsy credited her players for adapting.

"They were tipping a lot and we started really picking some stuff up," Visocsy said. "Sarah (Beam) and Macy (Putnam) were all over the back row when they were on the back row, so I think that made a big difference."

In addition, Putnam had some key serves late in the decisive final set to help the Panthers squeeze out a win, while the team also finally found an offensive combination that had some success.

"When Kate (Hanson) and Ali (Bryan) were in during their three rotations across the front, I think we were able to really focus there and push ahead that third set of the first match," Visocsy said.

Following that opening win, though, the team's mental lapses and lack of communication proved too much to overcome as the Kaws took the final match, 27-25 and 25-22.

Not only was there a communication breakdown, but the Panthers' team leaders also had some uncharacteristic errors that proved costly in the second match.

It perhaps spoiled a return to form by Sarah Beam, playing in her second series of the season, as Beam had a strong all-around effort and rarely came off the court Tuesday night.

Visocsy noted she hopes Beam can keep that up with a busy week ahead still and that it sparks the Panthers moving forward in some ways.

"Hopefully we can build on that momentum," Visocsy said. "We have to take care of some other issues, so hopefully we can get back on track."

Putnam also turned in another consistent effort, but the coach noted the Panthers have to be better at adjusting and adapting in game and they will be tested in that aspect as Royal Valley could see Perry-Lecompton again at the Silver Lake tournament this weekend.

The lesson to be learned, Visocsy said, is to recover and that is something Royal Valley will have to do quickly as the team welcomes in Sabetha for two more big league matches on Thursday starting at 5 p.m. Then, the Panthers (9-6) will start competition at the Silver Lake tournament at 8 a.m. on Saturday.

Wetmore, ACCHS CC teams shining

Cross country action was the highlight of the week for the Wetmore and ACCHS schools as the fall sports season continues, while the football and volleyball teams faced some challenging foes.

In Seneca last Thursday, both the Cardinals and Tigers had some top performers at the Nemaha Central Invitational.

The Wetmore boys turned in their best team performance of the season, taking third in the meet, while Aaron Achten led the way individually with a top-five finish and Jonathan Hladky-Bailey finished just outside the top 10. No female runners competed for the Cardinals at the meet.

Meanwhile, the ACCHS girls went above and beyond that by taking the team title at the Nemaha Central Invitational, though they were the only full team in the field.

Still, the Lady Tigers dominated the individual results as well as Madison Bissel claimed an individual title in her second meet of the season while teammate Beba Scholz was right behind her in second place. Maddison and Mackenzie Forbes also finished in the top 10. Meanwhile, Connor Perkins led the boys with a top-25 finish.

The Wetmore football team had more of a mixed bag in the past week, going 1-1 in its last two games. The first of those was the team's second varsity game against Frankfort last Friday, which was very much one-sided in favor of the host Wildcats.

Frankfort scored four times in the opening quarter and the Cardinals could not dig themselves out of that hole. Three fumbles in the game didn't help Wetmore, but coach Rick Schnacker noted the play up front was a key factor as well.

"Frankfort has a good team and played physical football. Frankfort controlled both sides of the ball on the line of scrimmage," Schnacker said. "We need to continue to improve on the line and reduce mistakes."

While Schnacker said his team played hard throughout the game, the Cardinals couldn't dent the Wildcat defense.

Frankfort held Wetmore scoreless on the way to a 46-0 win, as the Cardinals just barely topped 100 yards of offense for the game.

On Monday, Wetmore quickly turned things around and rebounded in a JV game against Burlingame to split the week's contest, squeaking out a 34-28 victory on the road.

The Cardinals will now get set to head north next Monday as the team has a date with Twin Valley League foe Doniphan West's JV squad, which will start at 6 p.m. on Oct. 5.

Atchison County's football team had a similarly tough task last Friday as they welcomed in undefeated Nemaha Central for the Tigers' homecoming game.

The Thunder raced out to a 34-0 lead by halftime and ACCHS could never catch up, as Nemaha remained undefeated with a 54-6 victory on the road.

Next, the Tigers will hit the road and get a break from league play as ACCHS will take on West Franklin in Pomona this Friday. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Not only did Wetmore volleyball face some stiff competition from league foes last week, but the Cardinals were also pushed by some strong teams from Nebraska in a weekend tournament at Axtell.

After a tough three-set loss to start the week against Clifton-Clyde, Wetmore never really recovered. While the team came close in a few sets, it couldn't get over the hump and went winless at the Axtell Invitational.

The Cardinals will try to get back up on the horse this weekend as they enter more tournament competition, this time at Onaga, starting at 8 a.m. on Saturday.

While the Atchison County volleyball team has had a good deal of success outside of Big Seven League competition, the Tigers had a rough go of it last Thursday. In a stout road test at Santa Fe Trail, the team could not come up with a win against the host Chargers or Valley Falls, falling in straight sets (25-9, 25-15 and 25-18, 25-12) to both teams.

The Lady Tigers will look to bounce back now in league play, as ACCHS will return to action on the road against Perry-Lecompton next Tuesday. Matches will start at 5 p.m.

HHS, RV football set for key league contests in week five

Halfway through the high school football season, the stakes are going to continue to rise for the Jackson County teams as they get deeper into league and district play.

Holton and Royal Valley will get a taste of that this week in a pair of critical league match-ups, while Jackson Heights has a bye week to prepare for the start of district play on Oct. 9 against Valley Falls.

Like the contests against Silver Lake the past two seasons, the Wildcats recent clashes with the Thunder of Nemaha Central have probably been marked on fans' calendars for a long time.

Nemaha Central has thrust itself into the role of primary challenger to Holton, trying to knock the Wildcats from the throne they have occupied for seven straight seasons and have not moved from in nearly 50 games.

The Wildcats could have their hands full on Friday, though, as HHS coach Brooks Barta noted the Thunder are big and physical up front and extremely athletic at the skill positions.

While Holton managed those factors last year on the way to a 28-6 victory in Seneca, Barta believes this year's match-up could be a game of runs, in which case he believes playing at home could help his team.

"I think it's going to be a game based on momentum," Barta said. "I think our kids would really like to have a large, vocal crowd and I think that could really help us Friday night."

Considering that Friday night is Holton's homecoming as well, it's bound to get loud as the two teams with unblemished league records clash.

Nemaha Central enters the game averaging 49 points a contest through four games. Given the penalties and injuries that have plagued Holton so far, that is a focus for Barta and the Wildcats entering Friday's match. The coach noted the offense will have to find some consistency and it will be crucial for the HHS defense to force some third downs in the game to draw out and wear down the Thunder.

"I think the big play is a concern. They've got good speed at all their skill positions. They throw and catch well. They run well, so we're going to have to make them earn some things," Barta said.

Holton volleyball starts busy week well

Starting a busy week of volleyball, the Holton Wildcats have come out nearly unscathed so far, picking up three wins in their first four matches.

On Monday, Holton (ranked 10th in Class 4A-DII) hosted a pair of non-league foes from KC Christian and Tonganoxie. While the team breezed to a win over the former, it was the latter that gave the team its one early loss.

Holton did not falter, though, as it took the court again last (Tuesday) night. Perhaps emboldened by that tough match with Tonganoxie, the Wildcats dispatched a pesky Hiawatha squad handily for two crucial wins on the road in league play.

In fact, the Wildcats didn't drop a match in Hiawatha, with the JV and freshman teams getting sweeps as well. Full scores for Holton from the week so far are listed below.

The Wildcats (17-10) will now get ready to close out their busy week by hosting Perry-Lecompton for two more league matches starting at 5 p.m. on Thursday.

Varsity
Holton def. Hiawatha: 25-20 and 25-15

Holton will try to shore up some things on both sides of the ball leading up to Friday's showdown, but it looks as though the team will still be short-handed on the line for the foreseeable future.

Barta noted Kyler Tannahill may return for the Wildcats on Friday, but it could be a while before the offensive and defensive line are at full strength, which makes it important for the entire team to play sound football.

"We're continuing to work hard on eliminating mistakes on offense, even defensively. That's a big focus for us and then we just have to get better fundamentally on the line of scrimmage on both sides," Barta said.

The Thunder have a plethora of weapons to choose from, be it quarterback Ryan Hasenkamp, receiver Dylan Steinlage or running back (and Big Seven 100m dash champion) Jacob Koelzer, so Barta noted the Wildcats will have to stay on their toes throughout Friday's game.

There are plenty of distractions during homecoming week and while Barta noted he wants his players to join in the fun, he also wants them to remain focused on the task at hand, as challenging as it could be.

As far as focus goes, Barta believes this group is keyed in as the 2015 Wildcats want to claim their own league title and understand the implications of this game.

Holton (2-2) will look to put it all together in order to take down Nemaha Central (4-0) for a homecoming victory on Friday. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Outside of one game, Royal Valley has not gotten into the heart of its league schedule yet. That is about to change, though, when the Panthers welcome in a deceptively challenging Riverside squad on Friday.

"I think they're a much better team than their record. They've played some of the better teams in our league, so they're someone that you can't overlook," RVHS coach Jake Lott said.

The Cyclones will have a little different look than last year after losing do-it-all quarterback Andrae McLaughy, but Lott noted while the personnel has changed, the stunts and packages have remained the same. This year, though, the focal point of Riverside's offense has been running back Bryer Miller.

Lott noted his team will need to be ready for a heavy dose of the feature back on Friday, but also noted Leroy Watson can be a dangerous weapon for the Cyclones as well. Defensively, the coach also noted Riverside has a strong corps of linebackers and, in particular, he said the offense would need to get middle linebacker Gaige Olivero blocked each play.

While the offense has done a lot well so far this season, one thing the Panthers continue to work on is protecting the football and that continues to be the case this week and something Lott said has to improve prior to Friday's game.

"On offense, the main thing is we have to work to eliminate penalties and we still have to work to eliminate turnovers," Lott said. "We've talked about those throughout the season and it's something that we still haven't improved to our liking. It's something that we need to eliminate if we want to continue to grow as a football team and become better."

The Panther defense has been stout all-around the last few weeks and especially strong as a team, but Lott said the players can still work to get better individually when it comes to their assignments and technique.

One thing Lott knows he doesn't have to worry about is his team being driven. While Royal Valley has already improved on its win total from a season ago, the coach said these players have shown a hunger to keep pushing forward and they are not satisfied.

Coaches and players alike want to see continued improvement and that will be especially crucial as Royal Valley enters the heart of its league schedule now.

"We believe that's an important part of our season because we have such a tough league. We feel like if you can be successful against our league, we feel like you can be successful later on," Lott said. "Our goal is to be successful in league and make the playoffs, so it's time to take another step in our season."

That starts at 7 p.m. on Friday when Royal Valley (3-1) faces off against Riverside (1-3) in Hoyt.

Drama rises for county teams as middle school season nears end

Middle school teams in Jackson County weren't short on drama this past week, as several exciting finishes punctuated the successes of squads from Holton, Jackson Heights and Royal Valley.

On the gridiron, Jackson Heights seemed to be the exception that proved the rule as the Cobra football team got one of the few blowout victories of any kind last week.

After a tight loss on the road in its previous outing, the JHMS team left little doubt about the outcome in Everest last Thursday, as the Cobras rolled to a 48-6 victory.

Now, the team will return home this week to face the Rams of Pleasant Ridge on Thursday. Kickoff is set for 6:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, Royal Valley needed a little extra time to pick up a win over Sabetha on the road. After both eighth-grade teams went scoreless through the first four quarters, the Panthers finally found the end zone in overtime to escape with a 6-0 victory.

The seventh-grade team wasn't as lucky and only got one quarter of action last Thursday. In that match-up, the results were flipped and the Blue Jays seventh-grade team managed the split with a 6-0 victory over the Panthers.

Royal Valley will remain on the road this week as the team gets ready for a showdown with Perry-Lecompton starting at 4:30 p.m. on Thursday.

Holton saw both sides of the drama as well last Thursday in a pair of match-ups in Hiawatha.

For the eighth-grade team, it was a bittersweet trip. While coach Brian Hickman noted his team played one of its most physical games of the season, the big play plagued the Wildcats throughout the night and allowed the Red Hawks to collect a 30-0 victory.

"Other than four plays, I felt our team played extremely well," Hickman said.

The seventh-grade team fared a little better and helped Holton walk away with a split, as the younger Wildcats held on for a 20-12 victory over Hiawatha.

Next up for Holton is a home clash with Jeff West this Thursday. Games will start at 4:30 p.m.

While the football team might have broken the pattern, the Jackson Heights volleyball team definitely got swept up in the drama as three of the team's last five matches went the full three sets.

It started last Thursday, as the B and C teams picked up wins in straights over Everest (25-16, 25-21 and 25-13, 25-13) on the road, but the A team was not as lucky. After an intense battle in Everest, it was the home team coming out victorious with a 27-25, 25-27 and 25-20 win.

That loss only seemed to fuel the Cobras going into the weekend as the team headed to Centralia for a quad. The team played two more three-set matches, but this time it went Jackson Heights' way.

Against Centralia, Heights squeaked out a 27-25, 22-25 and 25-21 victory, while the team also got past Hanover, 26-24, 8-25 and 27-25. Now, the Cobras will host one more home match against Pleasant Ridge on Thursday before getting into league tournament competition this weekend. Matches on Thursday will start at 4:30 p.m.

Holton had some similar results in Perry last Thursday, as the Wildcats' eighth-grade A team went toe-to-toe with the host Kaws before falling 19-25, 25-12 and 11-15 in three sets. The squad then came back to sweep Atchison in straight sets, 25-19 and 25-21.

On Tuesday, things went a little smoother for the eighth-grade as the A (25-11, 25-20 and 15-6) and B (25-8, 25-11 and 25-7) teams swept Royal Valley in straight sets. The Panthers came away with a split, though, as the seventh-grade A (25-8, 25-10 and 15-3) and B (22-25, 25-14 and 25-9) teams took five of six sets from the Wildcats.

Things will likely heat up even more this weekend in league tournament play. The seventh-grade tournament will be hosted by Riverside, while Royal Valley will handle host duties for the eighth-grade tournament. Action will start at 9 a.m. at both sites on Saturday.

Royal Valley didn't quite have the same dramatic flair as the seventh-grade team swept Jeff West in straight sets last Thursday (25-17, 25-8 and 15-9), while the eighth-grade team dropped the first two on the way to a three-set loss, 23-25, 22-25 and 15-11.

In Perry-Lecompton on Saturday, there were no theatrics either as Royal Valley piled up the wins in tournament competition. The seventh-grade team went undefeated on the way to a tournament title. Meanwhile, the eighth-grade team won at least one set in each of its pool play matches, but came up a little short in its quarterfinal match.

The Panthers are now getting ready for the same Big Seven League tournament as Holton this upcoming weekend.

Out on the cross country course, things were a little more predictable for the Jackson County teams competing at the Royal Valley Invitational.

Yet again, Royal Valley's Mae Joslin and Holton's Paige Paxton finished first and second in the seventh-grade girls race.

Meanwhile, eighth-graders Skyla Howe and Drew Holliday turned in runner-up finishes for Jackson Heights in the girls and boys races, respectively.

A number of Jackson County runners filled the top 10 and full results for the Holton, Jackson Heights and Royal Valley teams are listed below.

Holton and Royal Valley will next compete at the Perry-Lecompton Invitational this Thursday at 4 p.m., while the JHMS runners will be back in action at Sabetha on Oct. 8.

Lady Wildcats making headway

Despite a two-week span between varsity golf tournaments, the Lady Wildcats showed no signs of rust in Council Grove last Thursday. In fact, the Holton girls golf team had one of its best showings of the season, finishing fourth in the field and getting an individual medalist (Quinn Holaday).

With that gap, HHS coach Dennis Tegethoff noted he still tries to get his golfers in some competitive situations. He noted that lay-off was actually part of the reason Holton initiated its home JV tournament. That allows all the HHS golfers to get in some work in a competitive environment.

After the varsity team's last outing, that work proved crucial, too, and the Wildcats clearly made the most of their time.

"We've been trying to iron out just a few kinks from what we encountered at Dub's Dread and, for the most part, I think it's kind of paid off," Tegethoff said.

Most of the Holton golfers were pretty pleased with the results in Thursday's tournament. Some may need to work on their consistency, but the Wildcats will have plenty of opportunities to do that with a busy remaining schedule.

Quinn Holaday got that stretch off to a good start, shooting a solid nine-hole score of 47 at Council Grove. That earned the senior golfer a medal and, if not for a couple of holes, Tegethoff noted she played well enough to claim an individual title.

"She had two bad holes Thursday or she might have won the tournament," Tegethoff said. "In spite of those two bad holes on seven and eight, she dug down and came right back on number nine and got a par. She finished strong and that's important."

Younger sister Faith Holaday, a freshman, also had an impressive outing. She suffered the same setback as Quinn, with a couple bad holes bringing down her score. If not for that, the younger Holaday also would have medaled, but she ended up just missing out on a tiebreaker.

Tegethoff also gave sophomore Michaela Adcock her first taste of varsity action and noted the work she has put in during practice is starting to pay off, and that showed in last Thursday's tournament.

All of the Wildcats have been hard at work to improve their game and that has eliminated some of the issues from early in the season. Now, the HHS golfers can zero in on their biggest weaknesses and focus on those in the little practice time left this season.

Given the little bit of success the Wildcats got a taste of in Council

Grove, Tegethoff noted he hopes that keeps his golfers pushing forward as they prepare for a busy stretch and the regional tournament to come.

"Hopefully they smell a little blood in the water here. They got close to getting in that medal count and they all know that they could've played better," Tegethoff said. "Hopefully that'll kind of keep them driven to keep working at it."

Holton will now head to Meriden for a JV event this Thursday starting at 1 p.m. Full results for Holton from the Council Grove tournament are listed below.

Gardener's Corner

Seasonal changes go underground

By Sandra M. Siebert

Fresh leaves have sprouted on the tropical milkweed that monarch butterflies larvae stripped down to bare sticks. The larvae have transformed into butterflies and flown south.

Fresh new greens and radishes wait to be harvested.

Renewal and transformation. Tiny larvae that can do no more than crawl become beautiful winged creatures, delicate to look at, but capable of a journey of thousands of miles.

The milkweed, dead in appearance, offers new growth. Even in the waning season, seeds sprout to become food for our table.

But most of nature goes through a different sort of transformation now, drawing energy downward, into roots. Spurred by the decreasing light, trees release leaves. Perennial plants drop seed and pull energy into roots and leaves brown and die. As they decay, they become nourishment for next season's growth.

Annual plants rush to drop seed, their only way of surviving is to produce a new generation. Frogs bury themselves in mud to survive the winter.

As the world gathers itself in, preparing for a season lacking sun and warmth, so do I.

Houseplants that have summered outdoors move to shadier spots so they can slowly turn their "sun leaves" into "shade leaves" and (I hope) avoid the leaf drop that occurs when plants are suddenly moved into low indoor light.

I gather as much of the summer crops as possible — tomatoes, green beans, long beans, peppers, herbs — stuffing the freezer to the brim, dehydrating, canning or fermenting them for use during the dark months.

In the days before supermarkets, and even now where grocery stores don't exist, this is what everyone did and does at this time of year. Of course, various fruits and vegetables come to maturity spring through fall, but the act takes on more urgency now as we watch the world ease back. The fall fruits — apples, winter squashes, sweet potatoes and other roots — are such that will keep until spring without special storage or processing. In the days before refrigeration, these foods, salted meats and perhaps some fermented foods kept people alive until spring crops matured.

As the weary sun drops toward the southern horizon, I sow winter cover crops to protect and improve soil during the cold. Finally, I have time to clear weeds out of those neglected areas. I haul mulch onto garden paths. It's time to start inspecting and fixing fences, if you have them. Clear away the debris from summer vegetables and flowers. So much yet to do.

But I, too, begin to draw in, pulling my energy into my roots, shedding unnecessary tasks. I go after garden tasks at a slower pace. I am no longer itching to get outdoors early in the morning.

Earlier sunsets mean darkness falls long before I want to go to bed. I read, write, research. I reestablish contact with friends and neighbors, gathering them in for saunas and the sharing of food. We tell stories of our lives, our hopes.

As my focus draws inward, I evaluate the past season. What did well, what did poorly? Why? What did I wish I'd planted more of, what should I have planted less of? What tasks can I eliminate? What tasks need more focus? I assess my seed supply. What do I need to order? I make notes. I plan where each crop will grow next year.

Even as the garden wanes, I prepare for its renewal. Nature reminds us that renewal comes. Life is a circle, a spiral, not a straight line. The world transforms, sometimes slowly. Surely, you noticed autumn starting to set up shop back in August. I could see it in the changing color of evening light.

Sometimes the transformation comes quickly, as in a heavy snow-storm, when the brown and gray world becomes a dazzling white landscape, its features softened or obscured.

Then comes the melting of snow and the greening of the world - which seems to happen intolerably slowly. By March I have such a hunger for green things. But the change, the green does arrive.

Each human life also has its seasons of renewal and transformation, times of incredible energy or abundance and times of waiting, processing, contemplating and resting, releasing of that which is no longer needed, then a return of energy and joy. Waxing and waning.

Spring and summer bring a time of great physical exertion for me. My thoughts focus outward. Now, as the world settles into its resting phase, I draw in, focusing on mental and spiritual energy, assessing my life. What do I want to do more? What should I do less? Do my actions and thoughts help manifest my dreams? What do I need to let go of?

In ways, the drawing inward is far more difficult than the physical work of spring and summer. It is difficult to change old habits of doing, even more difficult to change old habits of thinking.

It is much easier to flow with the cycle of nature, to let the garden dictate my daily routine than to contemplate my own renewal and transformation.

I could simply let the world entertain me. I have it at my fingertips on the World Wide Web. Activities abound in town. I don't have to think.

But even as the world appears lifeless, life continues. Roots grow and gather energy. Seeds do not simply lie dormant in the ground, they go through constant changes in preparation for emergence in the spring. Insect larvae born in the soil change and grow. Real change can begin only when one turns the focus inward.

Without the hidden changes, growth does not occur; life wanes and ceases. The butterfly does not emerge and fly.

Chaput was appointed bishop of Rapid City, S.D., and also became the second Native American to be ordained a bishop in the United States. He became the first Native American ordained an archbishop nine years later.

In April 2008, Chaput presided over a special mass at Our Lady of the Snows Church on the Prairie Band Potawatomi Reservation.

Chaput is the author of three books, "Living the Catholic Faith: Rediscovering the Basics," "Render Unto Caesar: Serving the Nation by Living Our Catholic Beliefs in Political Life" and "A Heart on Fire: Catholic Witness and the Next America."

Prior to the pope's visit, Chaput gave an interview to The Washington Post where he shared his thoughts on the pope and the future of the Catholic faith.

"I do strongly feel that Christians individually and the Church, as a community, should engage the issues of public life as part of their discipleship. That's just common sense. Religion confined to the home and the local parish is too tame to change anything, let alone the world — which is what Jesus calls us to do," he was quoted.

In the interview, Chaput said he was "very surprised" that Philadelphia was chosen as one of the stops on the pope's visit to the United States.

"The Church in Philadelphia is an icon; a flagship of the Catholic experience in the United States," he said. "So I hope the pope's visit to Philadelphia will do two things: remind us that America is one continent, with one people north and south; and set our hearts on fire to become the missionaries that a new era in the Church requires."

Chaput said that the Catholic belief is a message of love and meeting people where they are at. It's also about speaking truth with love. He said the pope exemplifies those characteristics.

"The American bishops love the pope — every pope, and certainly this pope — as a brother and universal pastor of the Church," he said. "In the Catholic tradition, the pope stands in our midst to ensure fidelity to the faith of the Church and to make certain that we forget no one's needs, focus on the poorest of the poor — who include the unborn child, by the way — and remain in communion with the rest of the Church. So we should be very comfortable with the leadership of Francis. He's a gift to the whole Church."

moved the business to a location just off Holton's Town Square in 1999, then moved to another location on the south side of the Square (currently occupied by Homestead Affordable Housing) within a year. Danner took over not long after that, and shortly thereafter, Callison joined the staff.

The business moved to its current location in 2006, after the renovation of the former Campbell Precision Machine shop just north of Holton Country Mart. At that time, Danner said the move was necessitated by a need for more retail and work space than the business had on the south side of the Square.

At that time, the business sold gift items in addition to its screen-printed and embroidered goods, but Danner and husband Brett — who will retain ownership and management of the building — made room for Advanced Chiropractic to lease the front of the building in 2013. Earlier this year, another portion of the building was leased to Seneca Cellular, which was looking to expand into Holton.

Despite the reduction in retail space — Callison said Lasting Impressions "got out of the gift shop part of it" and is sticking to embroidery and graphics printing — there certainly hasn't been a reduction in business, the ladies said. Danner has continued to make herself available during the transition period, they added.

"Carole's been great in helping us take over," Callison said. "She's stuck around, and she comes back and helps us out when we need it."

And if it should get too busy and Danner's help is needed again?

"She's not too far away," Callison said.

Meanwhile, Callison and Riley are preparing some new clothing items and continuing to take orders from area businesses and schools.

"It's been a little overwhelming," Riley said of being a new business owner. "But the transition's been smooth, and we're just going to keep doing what we've done before, adding new stuff as we go along."

Lasting Impressions is located at 123 Dakota Ave. in Holton. For more information, call Callison or Riley at 364-4900.

County purchases "mixing strip" near Hoyt for $1

By Ali Holcomb

A "mixing strip" located on land along U.S. Highway 75 north of Hoyt has been purchased by the county from the Kansas Department of Transportation for $1, it has been reported.

This spring, KDOT representatives meet with the Jackson County Commissioners to discuss the strip of land owned by the state. The strip is located just east of the highway between 118th and 126th Roads.

The property was previously used by KDOT to store highway materials and was initially put in place in the early 1990s when U.S. Highway 75 was expanded to four lanes, it was reported.

KDOT representatives told the commissioners in May that the state no longer needed the strip and asked if the county would be interested in purchasing it.

The piece of property is accessed by a drive off the highway, and the land is surrounded by a six-foot chain link fence with a gate, the commissioners reported.

The land includes 2.44 acres, and the legal description for the location of the tract of land is in the northwest quarter of Section 14, Township 9 South, Range 15 East of the 6th P.M.

According to county records, the land has an appraised value of $6,390.

Commissioner Bill Elmer said that the county will be able to store road rock, tubes, steel and other items at that location, saving the county time and money.

"This is going to be a huge benefit," Elmer said.

Nonsense...

Also as part of the Saturday, Oct. 10 show, which begins at 6:30 p.m. with dinner, the group will auction off a number of gift sets and baskets donated by local businesses to raise money for the group after the show's conclusion. Wittmer also noted that Annie Brock and Inga Nordstrom-Kelly will entertain at intermission that evening with a "nun comedy" routine.

The Sunday, Oct. 11 matinee begins at 2 p.m. and will feature dessert and coffee service, Wittmer said.

Tickets for the Saturday, Oct. 10 show are $35 each, and tickets for the Sunday, Oct. 11 matinee are $15 each. Tickets may be purchased at Holton's three banks, it was reported.

Correction

In a recent article regarding the upcoming centennial celebration of St. Francis Xavier Church in Mayetta, the people presiding over Sunday's special mass were listed incorrectly.

Mass will be led by Archbishop Joseph Naumann, Monsignor Gary Applegate and several former pastors.

The Recorder apologizes for the confusion.

Buck's Grove Church

By Betty Bernriter

Sept. 27, 2015 was a beautiful fall morning that greeted the Buck's Grove United Methodist Church congregation. Tyler Vance rang the bell and Katie Vance lighted the altar candle as Sandy Hefty played the prelude.

John Hefty led the congregation in the call to worship and the opening prayer. He read scripture from James 5:13-20. As a group, those present recited Psalms 124 and the Affirmation of Faith.

As Sandy played, the congregation sang "He Leadeth Me, O Blessed Thought," "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations" and "God Of Grace And God Of Glory."

Betty Bernriter held a healthy moment describing "how to survive a heart attack when alone."

John read Gospel scripture from Mark 9:38-50 and titled his sermon "God Still Heals." John explained that when Jesus lived on this earth, He would lay His hand on a person and heal them. God is the same God as years ago, and He created us and wants us to be healthy, but we need to do our part to be healthy.

To ensure good health, we need to eat good foods and not garbage. Exercise is a great benefit to good health, also. Now when we think of healing, we think of a group that prays to God for results. God likes to hear our prayers and He likes to hear praise from us. God wants us to engage in a relationship with Him and petition Him. We want God to know who we are and He wants us to know Him.

Wayne Rieschick and Don Boling acted as offertory ushers. The service closed with "Come Oh Lord."

Bible study followed immediately after the service. We are always happy to have John and Sandy Hefty join our study group, as they are very knowledgeable about the Bible and contribute more understanding to the lesson.

Circleville Christian Church

By Jeannie Arnold

Ellsworth and Sandra Hewitt served as greeters at the door for Cowboy Church at Circleville Christian Church on Sept. 27. Dale Askren gave the opening prayer. Music was provided by the praise team of Dale and Ilah Rose Askren, David Allen, Max Lierz and Paul and Sue Davault. Mike Cochren gave the announcements of upcoming events, and David Allen gave the prayer for concerns and praises.

Blair Wagner brought the Sunday morning sermon about unity and vision. He used several scripture texts to bring out the point that unity does not exist without diversity, and diversity does not become unity without value. We have constructive conflict between idealism and reality, we need both.

We are not perfect, but we need to work toward the ideal church and always find value in others. Christ gave us responsibilities so we can be people of service. How good and pleasant it is when God's people live in unity. Honor one another and live at peace with everyone. Our purpose is to know Christ and become a disciple.

Following the message, Charley

McCauley, Matt and Kelly McCauley and Miles and Carter came forward to place membership with our church. We are happy to welcome this family.

Paul Davault used text from Proverbs 27 as he gave the communion meditation. Communion servers were Don Askren, Mike Cochren, John Ray and Jason Claycamp. Music was provided by the Cowboy band as communion was served. The prayer for the offering was given by Dale Askren, and the service closed by singing "Happy Trails To You."

At 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 3, there will be a baby shower in honor of Gabrielle Keeley at the church. Gabrielle is the daughter of Walt and Frida Kieffaber.

At the Whiting Fire Festival last weekend, Kolt Kautz (shown above) drove the ATV that pulled a kiddie train in the parade and all around the festival. The activity was provided in memory of Kody Kautz and for the Kod 4 Kids children's charity. Photo by David Powls

Circleville Community News

By Jeannie Arnold

Kenny Wykert and Wayne Wheeler were two Circleville residents that went on the Honor Flight on Sept. 17, sponsored by Jackson Heights schools. They saw the World War II memorial and the Korean, Vietnam and Lincoln memorials in Washington, D.C. They also saw the changing of the guard at Arlington Cemetery and Iwo Jima Memorial. They enjoyed a sit-down evening meal at Ole County Cafe and then traveled back to the airport for the flight home. They arrived home around 12:30 a.m.

The Circleville Seniors met on Monday, Sept. 21, at the lodge hall for a fried chicken dinner with salads and desserts. Kenny Wykert and Melvin Wells told about their trip on the honor flight to Washington, D.C. They expressed appreciation for the opportunity to go, and they commented on the wonderful positive reception at the airports, where people clapped and thanked them for their service.

Superintendent Adrienne Walsh gave an update on the upcoming year at Jackson Heights. It was noted there is an increase of 15 students. There will be no October meeting, and the November meeting will be held at the Holton meal site. In December, they will join the Soldier Senior Citizens and enjoy the Jackson Heights band playing Christmas songs with their director, Laura Holiday.

Dennis and Barbara Hutchinson attended the Royal Valley Invitational Cross Country meet at Hoyt on Thursday, Sept. 24, and watched their granddaughters, Shelby and Kylie Moore, run. There were a lot of teams there, and the weather was great.

Barbara Hutchinson attended the funeral of Arluvene Thompson on Friday morning, Sept. 25, at St. Dominic Catholic Church. She was a former librarian at the Holton High School and a member of Alpha Iota Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, of which Barbara is a member.

Several people from the area attended the memorial service for Tom James that was held on Friday, Sept. 25, in Holton. Tom and Daisy James had lived in the Circleville/Soldier area and attended the Circleville Christian Church before moving to California years ago.

Congratulations to Jackie Lundin, who retired from the Jackson County Road and Bridge department after 30 years of service. A reception was held in his honor at the Courthouse on Friday, Sept. 25.

Barbara Hutchinson went to a meeting at the Topeka Grace United Methodist Church on Saturday, Sept. 26, for a district United Methodist Women meeting titled "Missions, Hope for the Future." An interesting part on the program was a presentation about the METour that was held last summer in June where 44 girls and staff went on a bus trip to the Southwest U.S. and some of the things on the itinerary were touring Mammoth Cave, the Red Bud Mission in Kentucky, and also seeing where the Upper Room publication was printed in Nashville. This is a yearly event and it is sponsored by the United Methodist Women of the United Methodist Church.

A utility company has been in town trimming trees from the power lines this past week. When they came to the mulberry tree in the alley behind our house, they took the whole tree down. I'm going to really miss watching the birds and squirrels playing in that tree but come next spring, I won't be missing the purple bird droppings.

We have new neighbors for a while, as Gary and Rebecca Robinson and boys have moved into Judy Olson's home. They put their home in Tonganoxie on the market and it sold faster than expected. They are still looking for the right place to relocate.

I had a family dinner on Aug. 30. Those that were there were Lorri and Brad Trimble, Sarra Ann Mahoney and Rex and Cheryl Hill.

On Sept. 2, the cousins met at Boomers'. Those present were Rosie Boling, Lorma Hladky, Ramona Robinson, Joyce DeVader, Mary DeVader and me. We will meet in October at the Mexican place on the east side of the Square.

Noah and Rex power-washed my deck on Saturday. Then they painted the deck Sunday. It sure looks nice.

On Sunday evening, Noah and I went to Mary DeVader's home for a cookout. We really enjoyed the evening.

I had a family dinner on Sunday. Lorri and Brad Trimble and Rex and Cheryl Hill were here. Cheryl mowed my yard.

Sympathy from the community goes to the Anthony Brenner family. He was the city meter reader for 35 years. He will be greatly missed.

Mayetta Methodist Church

By Shirley Stauffer

On a beautiful Sunday morning, Sept. 27, the congregation gathered for church services at Mayetta Methodist Church. A thank you was read for our help with the prayer breakfast. Bud Stauffer rang the bell and Cory Smith was the acolyte. Call to worship by Pastor Howard was from Psalms 94:14-15, after the Pastoral prayer.

Concerns for the families of Leland Schnacker and Maxine Lund. Several birthdays were mentioned and the birthday song was sung. Prayers are for the health of Irene White.

Hymns were "I Surrender All," "Pass Me Not, Gentle Savior" and "Great is Thy Faithfulness." For special music, the congregation sang "When We All Get To Heaven." Mary Anderson and Connie Reding took up the offerings.

Pastor Howard's sermon was titled "Hope Born Of Despair," based on Jeremiah 8:18-9:1. Afterwards, we did our weekly circle of friendship prayer. Our prayer covenant church for this week is Stull.

The Millers enjoyed watching Caliber and the Panthers play a flag football game in Topeka, and they also enjoyed the marriage of Bryan and Bridget Bloomer on Saturday in Topeka.

Micheal and Wanda White went to Cider Days and out to lunch on Saturday. Stan and Wanda have a new nephew.

The White family gathered on Friday to celebrate Jazzmyne's 13th birthday.

June Schlodder and Marie McKinney spent some shopping time in Topeka on Tuesday. This was the first time June had visited the Iwig Dairy south of Tecumseh.

Marie McKinney's granddaughter, Persephanie Washburn, age eight, has been chosen to audition for the Russian ballet in El Paso on Oct. 10.

Church services on Sept. 20 at Mayetta Methodist Church began with the lighting of the candles by Cody and Cory Smith. An announcement was made that the Charge Conference will be held Oct. 18 and the Hoyt United Methodist Church.

This was a special service, as it was a dedication ceremony in honor of the memorial of an organ and new front porch for the church in remembrance of Alvie Burns. We were very honored to have as visitors members of the Mayetta Masonic Lodge and Mayetta Chapter of the Eastern Star, Chapter 383.

Matthew and Rhonda Burns brought special music - "Unclouded Day" and an original song composed by Matthew, "I Want To Be Just Like Him." Hymns sang by the congregation were "The Family Of God" and "They'll Know We Are Christians By Our Love."

Randy Rickel and Todd Stauffer took up the offering. Pastor read the Word of God from 1 Corinthians 14:1,12.

Cody Smith was playing football in Manhattan on Sunday afternoon.

The Millers enjoyed watching Caliber play football in Topeka on Saturday. Karlie Miller took a picture to the Kansas State Fair and received a blue ribbon. The family had a great time at the fair in Hutchinson.

Bud and Shirley Stauffer watched their granddaughters, Aidan and Brenna Stauffer, play soccer in Topeka on Saturday afternoon. On Sunday, they attended the Stephenson reunion in Holton.

Thursday, Sept. 17, was a special day for the Hallauer family members to get together. Those meeting at the Zion Cemetery north of Everest were Gene and Brenda Hallauer, Allen and Donna Hallauer, Virgil and Anna Jo Hallauer, Lee Knudson and Floyd and June Schlodder. They put a solar cross on the grave of sister, Donna Knudson, as an early birthday gift. They then had a delicious lunch at the cafe in Everest and then they went to the home of Allen and Donna for peach pie and ice cream.

It is a joy to have June's brother, Arnel Hallauer, home from the hospital and recuperating at his Texas home.

Bud and Shirley Stauffer hosted a pitch party at their home on Saturday evening.

Immanuel Lutheran

By Esther L. Ideker

"Would that all the Lord's people were prophets, that the Lord would put His Spirit on them!" These words of Moses in Sunday's Old Testament reading find their fulfillment in Jesus Christ. Called and gathered in the name of the Triune God, we have the amazing assurance that the Holy Spirit does indeed rest on us!

The spirit brings us to the amazing grace of Jesus Christ as we gather around His word and His table. The works that are done among us in the name and by the spirit of our God will send us forth today to share the grace our Lord promises to all who call on His name. This shares the Old Testament lesson for the 17th Sunday after Pentecost worship service at Immanuel Lutheran Church on Sept. 27.

The service opened with the hymn "God Of Grace And God Of Glory." The Order of Matins with the Venite and Te Deum was followed. Mike Keehn, elder, read the Old Testament lesson from Numbers chapter 11 and the Epistle lesson from James chapter 5. Pastor Jeffrey Geske read the Holy Gospel from Mark 9:38-50. Pastor Geske gathered the children at the altar for a message. He led the children in singing "I've Got The Joy Down In My Heart" and "I've Got The Peace That Passes All Understanding."

The sermon titled was "Leaning On The Everlasting Arms."

The sermon title was "At Peace With One Another," based on the Gospel lesson of the day. Think how awesome it would be if this world could live at peace with one another. At the heart of peace is harmony. To be at peace with someone - whether a neighbor, a family member or God, is to be in a harmonious relationship with them. When we ask Christ to cleanse us of our sin and make us new creations, we are asking for peace, a new harmonious relationship with our creator.

Topher Dohl and Travis Amon gathered the offering. The offertory hymn was "There Is A Balm In Gilead." In the prayers of the church, thanksgiving was given for the peace that our savior brought to share with others. Blessings were asked on our congregation and for the church at large to be receptive to the Gospel.

The members of St. Matthew's at Nortonville with Pastor Van Velzer were remembered as well as missionary Sean Harlow, whose father died recently. A petition was offered for the leaders of our country, our armed forces and those who work to protect us. Blessings were asked on those who are recovering or submitting to surgery. The congregation joined in The Lord's Prayer.

Following the benediction, the service closed with the hymn "Go My Children With My Blessing." Serving Sunday were Mike Keehn, elder; Abby Brey, acolyte; Joyce Peterson, organist; and on the altar committee, Elizabeth Handke and Esther Ideker.

Barbara Selby was welcomed to adult Bible class. The Immanuel Church council met after confirmation class for lunch and a meeting.

Saturday morning found many participating in Lisa's Legacy 5K Run at Hornet's Nest Sports Club in Netawaka in memory of Lisa Schumann Chapman.

Whiting High School alum Don Nelson, class of 1948, shown above, played "The Star Spangled Banner" on his trumpet prior to the start of the Whiting Fire Festival parade last Saturday. Nelson also served as emcee for the parade, introducing the parade entries. He and his wife live at Shawnee Mission.

Potawatomi Methodist

By Ilene Dick

The congregation gathered at Potawatomi United Methodist Church on Sunday, Sept. 27, to celebrate the 18th Sunday after Pentecost. It was a nice, sunny fall day.

Pastor Howard opened the service by reading from the Psalm of David, followed by prayer.

A reminder was given that the quarterly board meeting will be held next Sunday following worship service. Ronald Dick thanked Jim Shenk and Keith Bell for hauling dirt and filling in the hole at the south end of the church. Laura Schreiber will need the charge conference reports completed and given to her by Oct. 11 to make the booklets.

Congratulations to Judy Thoman for receiving an award for serving nine years on the UMW Green Team. She will be retiring from the position at the end of this year – a job well done.

Prayers are needed for the Meeks family and relatives at a difficult time. LeAnna Meeks' brother-in-law and an aunt died, and Jim and LeAnna's daughter-in-law lost her father last week. Their son, Derek, has possibly developed a heart problem. He has been an avid runner in track.

LeAnna was to have eye laser surgery on Tuesday, Sept. 29.

Martha Roush was acolyte. Ann read the scripture from Mark 2:17. Hymns were "I Surrender All," "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Savior" and "Great Is Thy Faithfulness." Music was provided by Tina Pugh, Ilene Dick and Ann W.

LeAnna Meeks shared some humorous stories for the special.

The birthday song was sung to Lily Hall.

Offertory ushers were Jim Meeks and Jim Shenk.

The sermon text was from Jeremiah 8:18-9:1, with the title "Hope Born Of Despair." King Hosiash ordered the cleansing of the temple. A Bible was found. The Bible speaks of being a people of vision. Jeremiah was pleading for the people to change. An authentic confession was required. They refused.

Maybe we fail so often, as we don't want to sacrifice. Our culture often wants to know, "What's in it for me?"

Jesus said if you want to be His disciple, take up the cross and follow Him.

Christ's birth revealed Himself to the world. "God so loved the world He gave His only Son that whoever believes in Him shall not perish, but have everlasting life."

Shayne and Brian Dorris spent the night with their grandparents, Judy and Donnie Thoman, on Thursday, Sept. 24, while their parents went to a Royals baseball game.

Jim and Marjean Shenk attended the art show reception for their granddaughter, Elizabeth, in Wichita. She had 11 paintings in this show, of which she has sold seven. They stayed overnight and went to Wichita Botanical Gardens.

Darlene Rawlings accompanied Kevin and Angie Rawlings, Stephanie Wyrick, Parker and Sadie, all of Topeka, on a trip to Iowa Friday night and Saturday, Sept. 25 and 26. They visited Bill and Diane McGuire of Thayer, Iowa, and their family.

On Sept. 19, Darlene Rawlings attended the wedding of Cassandra Riggles and Andrew Childs at Prairie People's Park near Mayetta, and a reception followed in Topeka. It was a very nice wedding.

Martha Roush, Judy Thoman and I attended the Topeka District U.M.W. meeting at Grace U.M. Church in Topeka on Saturday, Sept. 27.

Ronald Dick called on Loren Roush Saturday afternoon and enjoyed a good visit.

Diane McGuire, Kacie and Kaylean Bishop and Dakota Williams of Iowa spent the weekend of Sept. 12 and 13 with Darlene Rawlings. They all attended the Scheidegger reunion while here and had a great time.

Lily Hall enjoyed lunch on her birthday with friends, Randy, Geraldine and Tom, at Trails Café. She enjoyed the rest of her birthday with her children and had a blessed birthday.

Ronald and I enjoyed eating lunch with LeAnna and Jim Meeks on Sunday after church at Trails Café.

Bill Zibell called on Betty and Cecil Bowser on Saturday.

Netawaka U.M.C.

By Mary E. Edwards

Sept. 27 was a beautiful morning as the congregation gathered for praise and worship at Netawaka United Methodist Church. Marcia Robertson was greater, acolyte and usher.

Marilyn Banaka was in charge of recorded music and gave the welcome and announcements. Plans are being made for the church's fund-raiser, the annual soup supper and bazaar on Oct. 14.

Some joys shared were Marcia Robertson saying she had a wonderful time with her grandchildren, McKenzie and Zack, last weekend. Saturday was a fine day for Whiting's Fire Festival. The Banakas were happy to have their son, David, and his wife and kids come for the day and spend the night. Mary Edwards is thankful for some improvements with her shingles.

Church members continue to pray for those on the prayer list and add Stanley Larrison, who has a brain tumor. Stanley taught seventh and eighth grades at Whiting several years ago.

The Rev. Caren Loper led the call to worship and the reading of Psalm 124.

Hymns were "Majesty," "On Eagles' Wings" and "In Unity We Lift Our Song."

The congregation prayed together the community prayer and participated in intercessory prayer for special concerns, then joined in the Lord's Prayer.

Pastor Caren's message was "Team Effort." In the children's message, some adults helped demonstrate that it takes more than one person to play a game. It also takes more than one to have an organization such as a church.

James 5:13-20 advises if anyone is in trouble, he should pray. If one is happy, sing songs of praise. If anyone is sick, he should call the elders of the church to pray for him. Pray for each other, individually and in groups. Bring back those who have turned away from the truth. Prayer and action go together.

Fall forage management

By David G. Hallauer
Meadowlark Extension
District Agent
Crops & Soils/Horticulture

With grass still green and growing, it's a little hard to think about forage dormancy, but like it or not – it's on the horizon! That means evaluation of this season and a look ahead to next.

One of the challenges forage growers face is balancing effective utilization of the standing forage they have before it goes dormant and making sure they don't over use it! The balance can be a fine line!

Do a quick evaluation now to see just how much growth you have out there. Cool season grass needs to keep three to four inches of growth on it this time of year so that adequate photosynthesis can occur to continue to replenish the plant's root system. That may mean four to six weeks of some level of rest for those forages so they can recuperate. Warm season grasses would do better to have six to eight inches of growth.

So what happens if you don't?

Well, maybe you'll get by – and maybe you'll suffer! If the pasture or hay field has been kept in pretty good shape – not overgrazed, appropriately fertilized, appropriate "open space" in the leaf canopy – then you may be just fine with going into fall with the forage being a little shorter. It may have plenty of root system to provide nutrients to make it through the fall as well as come back in good shape next spring.

For most growers, that simply isn't the case! Dry periods in the summer almost always put our forages under stress. This year, standing water reduced some stands and fertility issues continue to plague many of our cool season forage stands.

That means taking a good hard look right now. If the pasture needs rest, do your best to offer it. The resulting regrowth can help increase root mass and tillering that over time can help to increase production, vigor and early spring green up.

If you want to help it out a little, you may even consider a light application of fertilizer or at the very least taking a soil sample to make sure you are balancing nutrient needs for next spring. Warm season forages don't respond to fertilizer, so rest is your option.

At the very least, take a little time now to evaluate your forage system. Implementing some changes now may have more effect than you think!

Lawn Seeding Deadline Nears
If you are going to be seeding a lawn, the time is now!

September is the best month to reseed cool-season lawns such as tall fescue and Kentucky bluegrass, though you might be okay in to mid-October for tall fescue. Mid-October is also generally considered the last day for safely planting or over seeding a tall fescue lawn in the fall.

Late seeding will require special care to not to allow plants to dry out. Anything that slows growth will make it less likely that plants will mature enough to survive the winter.

Seeding done after the cut-off date can be successful, but the success rate goes down the later the planting date. Late plantings that fail are usually not killed by cold temperatures, but rather desiccation.

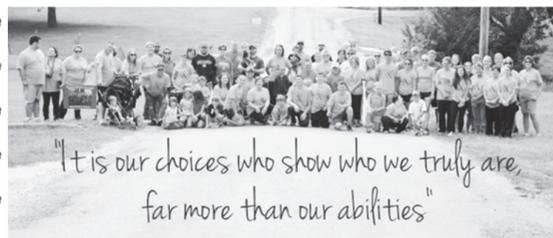

The freezing and thawing of soils heave poorly rooted grass plants out of the ground, which then dry and die. Keeping plants watered will help maximize root growth before freezing weather arrives.

Beck-Bookman Library board now meets on third Monday of the month

The Beck-Bookman Library Board of Trustees is now meeting on the third Monday of each month at 7 p.m. This is a change from the third Tuesday. The public is always welcome to attend these meetings.

Library board members said they are excited about the recent purchase of property and taking the first step towards the library's goal of expanding the current facility. Expansion of the library has been an ongoing discussion for quite some time, board members said.

After considering other alternatives, such as the selling of the current facility and purchasing other property, the board decided that the library's prime location deemed it necessary to stay where it is and to expand. The only means of expansion was to go north of the library, board members said, adding that they have been in the process of trying to acquire the property for a while, and after three attempts at the sheriff's auction, they were successful.

The board did not arrive at this decision lightly, board members said, noting that the need for more meeting spaces for public use as well as programing has been an issue for a long time. Board members said they would also like to expand the children's area, add restrooms and expand the staff work area, among other things.

The board said it looks forward to the completion of its next goal, which is demolition of the property at 410 Kansas Ave. by a local company within the next few months. The next step will be the beginning stages of planning and designing the new building, board members said.

Board members plan to have meetings involving the public to get a feel for what they want to see in the new facility. The board invites the public to write down any comments and suggestions and drop them by the library, where they will be placed in a container to be reviewed and considered by the board.

Sandee Morris has been chosen as a member of the Northeast Kansas Library System Executive Board, replacing Inga Nordstrom-Kelly. Morris will attend monthly meetings at the NEKLS office in Lawrence.

The public is invited to check out the library's Book Nook, which now allows for an ongoing book sale. It is located in the west area of the library.

Ongoing events include the library's Sit and Stitch group, which meets every Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Bring a project you are working on and join the group to chat, learn a new stitch or share patterns. No prior registration is required. Also, a veteran service representative is at the library from 10 a.m. to noon on the third Tuesday of each month.

Hours at the library are from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Saturday. For more information, call the library at 364-3532.
