School funding still inadequate

By Brian Sanders
 Despite the Kansas Legislature's most recent efforts to boost funding for public schools, the Kansas Supreme Court on Monday ruled that state spending on public schools remains inadequate, but gave state legislators a year to add more funds for public education — a request that local school administrators said they found agreeable.

"I'm happy that they've affirmed that things are the way they are, and they're still saying that adequacy was met for one year, so at least we're not looking at closing down schools and going through that rigmarole," said Bob Davies, Holton USD 336 superintendent of schools.

School finance laws passed during the 2017 and 2018 legislative sessions boosting public education spending by $522 million over a five-year period do not meet the "adequacy requirement in Article 6 of the Kansas Constitution," according to a Kansas Supreme Court press release.

However, the court voiced its approval of the Legislature's efforts to increase public education funding and gave legislators until June 30, 2019, to make adjustments for inflation part of the school funding increase as part of its sixth decision in the ongoing Gannon v. State of Kansas lawsuit.

The court also ruled that the Legislature's action to increase school spending resolved equity issues to ensure that all Kansas schools will have the same educational opportunities via the Kansas School Equity and Enhancement Act, which sets base aid and utilizes funding weightings to increase the amount of funding each school receives.

That the equity issues have been resolved is a high point for Royal Valley USD 337 superintendent Aaric Davis.

"Royal Valley has been going through an enrollment decline for the last three or four years, and I'm hoping that's tapering off sometime soon, but this additional funding coming from the state is going to reduce the amount of cuts we're taking," Davis said. "It's not that we're receiving a ton of new money, but at least it's making a reduction in the cuts we're receiving."

Kansas Gov. Jeff Colyer said the Supreme Court's ruling on Monday was encouraging and pledged to "maintain a sharp focus on sending dollars to the classroom without raising taxes."

Accident claims life of Topeka woman

By Brian Sanders
 A two-vehicle accident on U.S. Highway 75 about five miles south of Holton on Monday resulted in the death of a Topeka woman, according to the Kansas Highway Patrol.

Helen L. Nolan, 80, was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident, which occurred shortly after 7 p.m. Monday at the intersection of U.S. 75 and 190th Road, according to KHP.

Jackson County Sheriff Tim Morse, who assisted KHP in investigating the accident, said the intersection is one of the more dangerous in the county.

"There's been a couple of people killed there in the past," Sheriff Morse said. "And we've had a couple of accidents there so far this year."

The KHP report states that Nolan was driving a 2007 Chrysler PT Cruiser heading east on 190th and attempting to cross four-lane U.S. 75 but failed to yield to highway traffic.

Nolan's Chrysler was then struck in the southbound lane by a 2012 Kenworth semitrailer driven south on U.S. 75 by Steven W. Akin, 55, of St. Marys.

Akin was not injured, according to the KHP report, although Morse said Akin was "pretty shaken up" by the accident.

"He's been driving a truck for 24 years without an accident," he said.

The KHP report also stated that both drivers were wearing safety restraints at the time of the accident.

Monday's accident was the first of the year to result in a fatality on Jackson County roads, it was noted.

Holton B.O.E. closes books on school year

By David Powl
 The Holton school board wrapped up the 2017-2018 school term Monday evening, taking care of end-of-the-fiscal year business such as paying the final bills and making the necessary budget transfers.

The goal of the budget transfers, school officials said, is to strive for ending unencumbered cash balances for the various school funds to be similar to the beginning cash balance for the funds when the school term started.

This year, it was noted, the district continues to build up its contingency fund by transferring $40,000 into that fund at this time. An effort was also made to increase the district's capital outlay fund and its at-risk fund to cover some federal grants that were not renewed for the after-school program.

At the meeting, board members met with high school counselors Susan Rhule and Traci Frazier to discuss some new procedures that they plan to implement for the new school term regarding student bullying and student mental health concerns.

Rhule and Frazier said that after attending regional peer workshops and continuing ed last year, they noticed a common thread of concerns.

New this year at Holton High, students observed to be bullying or harassing other students will be counseled on how that behavior is not accepted at the school and they will be asked to read and sign a document assuring they will not do it again.

Rhule and Frazier also reported to the board about "mental health crisis" situations that school officials must have action plans to address.

They said they are seeing "a lot more" student problems in this regard.

They presented an "intervention report, parent/guardian" plan of action" form and a "school re-entry plan" form that will be filled out and delivered to parents. The forms also indicated that KANZA Mental Health provides services locally.

RV OKs phone system, reviews handbooks

By Ali Holcomb
 A new district phone system was approved for Royal Valley during the USD 337 Board of Education meeting Monday evening.

The board approved an upgrade to the phone system from Giant Communications at a cost of $10,000.

The new system is Internet-based, and the purchase also includes new handsets, installation and training on the new phones. The system will also allow for call forwarding, which is something staff have requested in recent years, Superintendent Aaric Davis said.

Davis estimated that the new system will reduce the district's phone bill by $300 per month or $3,600 per year.

Also during the meeting, board members reviewed proposed changes and updates to student, staff and coaching handbooks.

Davis said that a lactation accommodation policy has been included in all handbooks at each school to reaffirm the district's stance on providing an adequate location and time for nursing mothers to express milk for at least one year after the birth of the employee's child.

The athletic and activity eligibility policy at the high school is being revised to keep students accountable to their work in the classroom, according to Jim Holloman, RVHS principal.

Students who want to participate in school-sponsored activities, including sports practices and competitions, must be passing seven of their eight classes, Holloman said.

Local Democrats to host candidate debate

Three of the five Democrats seeking election to the Kansas governor's seat will participate in one of the final gubernatorial debates to be held prior to the Aug. 7 primary election, according to the Jackson County Democratic Party.

The three-candidate debate, featuring former Wichita mayor Carl Brewer, Kansas Sen. Laura Kelly and former Rep. Joshua Svaty, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, July 8 at the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation's Old Bingo Hall west of Mayetta. The public is invited to attend the debate, which will be moderated by former U.S. Attorney Bary Grissom.

Candidates will address questions from members of the Jackson County Democratic Party and representatives of the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation, said Jackson County party chairman Dustin Brinkman, who also said Jackson County is "an absolute swing county in the governor's race."

"In 2014, the governor's race in our county was decided by a handful of votes," Brinkman said. "Residents in Jackson County pride themselves in being informed voters and politically active to push our state forward."

A Topeka man was arrested in Jackson County Tuesday after he was found in possession of stolen vehicle, it was reported.

According to Jackson County Sheriff Tim Morse, a Jackson County Sheriff's Office deputy observed a dark blue Chevrolet Impala near Mayetta on 150th Road at 12:45 p.m. yesterday.

The deputy determined that the vehicle had been stolen from Overbrook, and the driver of the vehicle, Gino Vincint Vicchiullo, 25, of Topeka, was arrested on charges of possession of stolen property.

Vicchiullo is currently being held in the Jackson County Jail. Bond is pending at this time.

Concealed carry license application fee to drop

The application fee for a Kansas concealed carry license will be reduced effective July 1, Kansas Attorney General Derek Schmidt said in a press release issued Monday.

Under the terms of the budget for state fiscal year 2019 passed earlier this year by the Kansas Legislature, the application fee will be lowered from $132.50 to $112.

The reduced rate applies to applications received by sheriff's offices between July 1, 2018, and June 30, 2019.

Applicants should submit their applications with one check for $79.50 payable to the Office of the Attorney General and one check for $32.50 payable to the sheriff of the applicant's county of residence.

The cost for license renewals remains unchanged at $25, it was reported.

An updated application form reflecting the new fee structure is available on the attorney general's Web site at www.ag.ks.gov/concealed-carry

Locals on University of Kansas honor rolls

More than 5,400 undergraduate students at The University of Kansas earned honor roll distinction for the spring 2018 semester, it has been reported.

Circleville News

By Jeannie Arnold

The Circleville Senior Executives met Monday, June 18 at the Lodge Hall. The meeting was called to order by President Sharon S. Cochren, who then led the flag salute. Dale Askren gave the blessing before the meal. There were 20 in attendance.

Guests were introduced and included Jackson County Commissioners Bill Elmer and Rob Ladner, and Tara Peek and Ed Rostetter, mayor of Circleville. Also, Sharon's two grandchildren, Eli and Makayla, were guests. The secretary read the minutes from the May meeting, which was held at the Holton Senior Citizens Center, and the treasurer's report was given.

The program consisted of the two commissioners presenting a framed certificate to Kenny Wykert in recognition of his 14 years of service on the board of the Area Aging Council. Mayor Rostetter also gave a "State of the City" report.

Some of the issues covered were the Fletcher property sale, sealed bids are accepted until July 2 for street repairs and chip and seal, heliport project, maintenance of property and the need for a restroom at the Circleville Cemetery.

Several questions were fielded from the audience, and appreciation was given to the mayor for keeping people informed. The next Circleville Senior Executives meeting will be held at noon on Aug. 20 at the Masonic Hall. The meeting adjourned at 1:30 p.m.

The fourth-annual Quilts of Valor presentation was held at the Methodist Church in Holton on Saturday, June 23. Steve Wilkerson, Matt Browning, Rochelle Browning, Brian Howe, Jeremy Rollins and Corey Butler, all of Circleville, were some of the honorees that received quilts. The quilts are presented to Jackson County military veterans.

Ron and Marlyn Parrett and Angel recently took a little family vacation. They went to Fantastic Caverns, north of Springfield, Mo., and Promised Land Zoo, which is a Christian based zoo in Branson. They thought the zoo was an awesome place to visit. Then they went to see a giant tree house that was at Dogwood Canyon and Silver Dollar City, where they got soaked on the Lost River. They all had a wonderful time, and Angel even got to be the boat captain and drive the duck ride at Branson.

Ken Wykert and Barbara Hutchinson attended the Bancroft Depot picnic. Entertainment was provided by Gary Bell and others. Everyone enjoyed a meal complete with homemade ice cream. Roger Brown of Rossville is the new president.

The annual Fisher-Stauffer cousins' reunion was held Sunday, June 24 at Homestead Apartments. Committee members were Russ Stauffer, Mary Beightel Edwards and Barbara Hutchinson. They enjoyed a good turnout with plenty of good food.

Supreme Court upholds travel ban on its merits

U.S. President Donald Trump's policy to ban travelers from five Muslim-majority countries is lawful after all, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

The 5-4 ruling comes after several lower courts had acted on their own to limit or suspend the policy, which Trump introduced in January 2017.

The original ban had repercussions reportedly for legitimate researchers from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen - stranding several in transit and preventing others from coming to the United States to work, study or attend scientific meetings.

The White House has since revised the policy. It now applies to travelers from five majority-Muslim nations - Iran, Libya, Syria, Yemen and Somalia - plus Venezuela and North Korea.

The travel restrictions now vary by country, and include some exemptions for students. But data from the Department of Justice reveal that the government issued just 289 visas to students from Iran, Libya, Yemen and Somalia in the first three months of this year, about 75 percent lower than in 2016.

The high court's ruling came on a challenge to the third version of the travel ban, which Trump issued in September of 2017.

The lawsuit was filed by the University of Hawaii, along with individuals and a Muslim-advocacy group; they contended that the policy amounted to discrimination based on religion.

Several universities and higher-education groups have been vocal in opposing the travel ban in all its versions, arguing that the policy would create an unwelcoming environment for international scholars.

But a majority of Supreme Court justices rejected the idea that the ban was premised on religious discrimination.

Instead, Chief Justice John Roberts wrote that the policy is justified on national-security grounds. He noted that the Trump administration had amended the original ban to include North Korea and Venezuela - countries without significant Muslim populations - and had allowed people from Iraq and Sudan to enter the United States after their home countries changed certain security-screening procedures.

But in a dissenting opinion, Justice Sonia Sotomayor argued that the ban "was driven primarily by anti-Muslim animus," citing several statements by Trump before he was elected president - including his oft-repeated campaign promise to bar Muslims from entering the United States.

Some opponents of the travel ban say that while the travel ban itself may not have enormous implications for science, it is indicative of the Trump administration's approach to foreign policy.

"A lot of foreigners are concluding that the United States is no longer interested in people who were not born here," said Russell Harrison, a senior legislative representative based in Washington, D.C. "And that is a big problem."

The high court's ruling makes it clear that our country has the right to investigate and sometimes restrict people from foreign countries from entering our country if they could possibly pose a national security risk.

The split vote on the issue is also a clear indication that the court took into account some of the tough campaign rhetoric that Trump used in his bid to get elected. Ultimately, however, the court felt compelled to approve the travel ban on its merit alone.

The ruling also may be an indication that the country is stepping back a little with regard to some of the politically correct policies that in recent years have compromised our national security.

While President Trump continues to often be his own worst enemy due to his constant off the cuff remarks, this Supreme Court ruling is definitely a signal to lower court judges to refrain from citing their own personal, political agendas in their court rulings.

Summer is the preferred time for outdoor chefs to smoke and grill meats for a family get-together, and in the photo above, Luke Dillon (right) of Holton and his father-in-law, Ron Kranz (left) of Holton, could be seen at the recent "Smokin' For The Park" event in Denison preparing a honey and brown sugar rub for two sides of barbecued ribs. Barbecue grills and smokers are sure to be put to work for family cook-outs over the Independence Day holiday.

PLAINS FOLK: Vivid scene from "My Antonia"

By Tom Isern

It is a literary episode so vibrant, so sensate as to compel the reader to lay aside the text and let it sink in.

Jim Burden, the ambivalent narrator of Willa Cather's "My Antonia" has come to the Cuzak farm to look up Antonia following a lapse of decades.

There is the reunion in the kitchen, and the gathering of the curious children, whereupon Antonia's able daughter, Anna, suggests, Why don't we show Mr. Burden our new fruit cave?

Out from the farmhouse they troop, the children at our heels, Jim recounts. "When we descended, they all came down after us, and [the boys] seemed quite as proud of the cave as the girls were."

The cellar was chock-full not only with symbolism but also with the abundance of the land. There were barrels of cucumber and watermelon pickles, and there were shelves stacked with glass jars exhibiting cherries and strawberries and crabapples, and of course, the spiced plums with which Antonia topped her kolache.

As the boys murmur behind his back, Jim turns on them to say, "You think I don't know what kolaches are, eh? You're mistaken, young man. I've eaten your mother's kolaches long before that Easter Day when you were born."

The first week of June we ate a few kolaches ourselves in Red Cloud, Neb., the town known as Black Hawk in Cather's novel. There was a great gathering of Cather scholars and aficionados to celebrate the publication centenary of "My Antonia." The outpouring of scholarship, enthusiasm and fellowship was heartening.

The proceedings, hosted by the Willa Cather Foundation, centered on the Red Cloud Opera House, the very place where young Willa delivered her commencement address in 1890. There is great work being done in Red Cloud to foster heritage tourism powered by literary pilgrimage.

We were among the kolache-munching literati in attendance, hanging on every word, but at the same time anticipating the final day, when the meeting would adjourn to the Pavelka farmstead, near Bladen. There we were to be hosted by the descendants of Anna Sadilek Pavelka, the Bohemian immigrant prototype for Cather's fictional character of Antonia.

When the time came, of course, the fruit cellar was the focus of affectionate attention. Children of the Pavalka clan assembled to re-enact the pell mell descent into the ground, which they rendered with enthusiasm.

It is truly an impressive cave, brick-walled with a vaulted ceiling. I paced it six feet by 16, with a ceiling height of seven feet, the top of which was a good six feet underground.

Now at home this afternoon, I reread the reunion passages from "My Antonia" and visualize the hollyhocks alongside the farmhouse, the grape arbors, the well tended orchard, and the mulberry hedge that saved the cherries from the birds. I scent with Cather the dewy sunflowers and the ironweed while the boys milk the cows.

These things I ponder as I settle into my own garden at dusk to pluck the pigweed and quackgrass from my onion rows. We've had a good rain, and I have to stay on top of these things. I appreciate the soras and the ringnecks calling from the creek bottom, await the contributions of our neighborhood coyotes.

And I think about digging a deep, deep cellar.

Let freedom ring!

The Holton/Jackson County Chamber of Commerce will present the community's annual "July Jubilee" here on Saturday at Banner Creek Reservoir. Everyone is invited to join in the fun!

A schedule for the big event is published on page one of this edition and includes lots of good music, games and activities for all ages, good food and, of course, an outstanding fireworks display!

Following Saturday's activities, Hoyt will be the site for another Independence Day community celebration on Tuesday, July 3, with a cookout, ice cream social and fireworks, all in the evening.

Have fun and celebrate all the freedoms we enjoy in the land of the free and the home of the brave!

The Jackson County Ministerial Alliance held a special meeting on June 21, 2018, at the First Methodist Church, Holton, it was reported.

It was noted, that with Pastor Tim leaving the Baptist church, we will be losing Alecia O'Byrne as the manager of the Food Pantry, so this will necessitate finding a new manager. It was suggested that everyone ask their church if there was any interest from their congregations. A small stipend is paid to the manager.

The summer food program for youth is up and running. After Friday, June 29, it will move to Holton Parks and Rec Center. Volunteers are needed for these programs. There's also food distribution at the Health Department, as long as the food is available each month. The Health Department food distribution, is income controlled, while the distribution at Parks and Rec is not.

It was also noted the Harvesters truck is available in Holton, in the mornings of the first Tuesday of the month, in Netawaka, the first Tuesday of the month. (In the afternoons) and in Hoyt on the fourth Monday. At least 20-25 volunteers are needed at each location, if anyone would like to volunteer. A list of available places will be made and put in various places around town.

We were told that anyone could have a birthday party coordination with Harvesters. Instead of gifts, invitees would bring food, in lieu of gifts, and that food, would be used to fill backpacks, for children, after the party. Cup cakes are served after the party.

JCMA is still working towards having another after-school program to replace Wild Ones, which was discontinued early this year. It starts after school, on Wednesday, the first week of September and ends when the school year ends, or possibly a week or two sooner. Children are bused from the elementary school to the host church. Children are to be picked up at 5 p.m.

Volunteers are needed, age sixth grade, up to and including adults. Volunteers will need to attend Safe Gathering Training. There are usually eight to 10 children in a group, with each group having two volunteers per group. It is open to grades first through fifth, but there is an application process. A small fee is assessed, with an additional charge for the T-shirt, which the children wear every Wednesday.

Thrive has received a grant that will allow them to expand to include a youth program. Thrive will be able to hire two teachers. There can be up to seven to 10 children in these classes. Volunteers are also needed for this age level.

It was also noted that Thrive is collecting Best Choice labels to raise money and another way to raise money for Thrive is if you have a Dillon's Card. You can sign up for the Rewards Program online. Each time you use your Dillon's Card, money will go into Thrive's account and be distributed quarterly.

JCMA is gearing up for Tools for Schools. Churches, or individuals, can donate items for school, per the lists that are provided for each school, and make their donation at the Evangel United Methodist Church. Anyone who receives free or reduced school lunches is eligible to receive these supplies; however, application must be made to receive them. A $5 charge has been assessed in the past.

Kathy Williams is volunteering the First United Methodist Church for the JCMA meetings for the rest of the year.

July 3: There will be a community wide Independence Day celebration on July 3 in Hoyt. The Hoyt Fire Department will be selling hot dogs and hamburgers from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. that evening; and, the Hoyt Methodist Church will be selling homemade ice cream and desserts from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., to be followed by fireworks. Free will donations can be made.

The next regular meeting of the JCMA will be held at 8:30 a.m. on July 19, 2018 at the First United Methodist Church in Holton.

Cooking with kids around the campfire

By Cindy S. Williams
Meadowlark Extension
District Agent, Family and Consumer Sciences

The family fun of camping season is upon us. Camping with kids while doing fun healthy outdoor cooking is the best!

Getting kids involved in the cooking process while keeping safety as a top priority can teach invaluable lessons and make great family memories.

Recipes that involve putting a mix of ingredients together into a foil packet allows kids to pick and choose what they want in their mix. Some ideas include diced potatoes, sliced onions, shredded cheese, bacon bits, butter or oil such as olive, canola, etc. herbs (basil, chives, etc.), salt and pepper to taste.

Place the potatoes on pieces of heavy-duty foil. Sprinkle desired toppings over potatoes; dot with butter or lightly drizzle with oil. Fold foil up around potatoes. Seal the edges of foil well.

Grill, covered, over medium heat for 30 to 40 minutes or until potatoes are tender.

Try to prepare as much in advance of your camping trip as possible such as shredding cheese and dicing onions. Place ingredients in plastic bags and keep cold in coolers until ready to use.

Building a variety of vegetables and meat on skewers to be grilled or cooked over the campfire can be another fun opportunity for children to help prepare a meal.

Kids can learn more about the foods they eat and how to be safe when cooking. Be sure to review food safety with your child in any cooking environment.

Campfire Safety

Campfire safety will make the experience more enjoyable.

Rules around campfires include:

- Safety always comes first!
- A first aid kit, directions to the closest emergency care facility and cell or landline phone should be readily available before the campfire activity starts.
- Always supervise children carefully. Absolutely no running or playing near campfires.
- Never leave the campfire or grill unattended and have a bucket of water nearby. A responsible adult must be present at all times.
- Have a safety circle around the campfire or grate.
- Never wear loose or flammable clothing near campfires.

Fenceline: Watering systems for cattle

By Jody G. Holthaus
Meadowlark Extension
District Agent, Livestock and Natural Resources

I was out with two of our water quality specialists this week.

Watering systems for cattle was the theme. Thankfully we got rained on wherever we went!

The minimum requirement of cattle for water reflects the amount needed for body growth and fetal growth or lactation and the amount needed to replace what is lost by excretion in urine, feces or sweat or lost by evaporation from the lungs or skin. Anything influencing these needs or losses will influence the water needs of livestock.

Under conditions of restricted water intake, an animal may concentrate its urine by reabsorbing a greater amount of water than usual. While this capacity for urine concentration is limited, it can reduce the water requirement. When an animal consumes a diet high in protein or salt or a diet containing substances having a diuretic effect, the excretion of urine increases and there is an increased water requirement.

The amount of water lost through evaporation from the skin or lungs is important and, in some cases, may even exceed what is lost in the urine. If the environmental temperature and/or physical activity increases, water losses through evaporation and sweating increases.

Water needs are influenced by environmental temperature, class of livestock and weight. Water needs increase as temperature increases. Lactating cows have greater needs than non-lactating cows. Bulls have a greater daily water requirement than non-lactating cows. This is a function of weight. As cattle get heavier, daily water intake increases.

A University of Georgia publication lists the estimated water requirements for cattle in different production stages when the daily high temperature is 90 degrees F. The data suggest for cattle in this environmental condition, a growing animal or a lactating cow needs two gallons of water per 100 pounds of body weight. A non-lactating cow or bull needs one gallon of water per 100 pounds of body weight.

As an example, spring-calving cows will need close to 20 to 24 gallons of water per day for themselves and another five to 10 gallons for their calf in these high temperature environmental conditions. Remember, some of the water will come from the feed they eat and/or vegetative grass, which is high in water content.

Also, for the nursing calf, a portion of the daily water needs will come from the dam's milk.

Nitrates, sulfates and blue-green algae can affect water quality. A safe level of nitrate nitrogen (NO3N) in the water for cattle is less than 100 ppm. The sulfate upper limit for calves is less than 500 ppm (167 ppm sulfur as sulfate). For adult cattle, the upper limit is less than 1,000 ppm (333 ppm sulfur as sulfate).

Stagnant water, lakes and ponds are ideal environments for the growth of blue-green algae, which can be toxic to cattle. When in abundance, blue-green algae gives the water the appearance that someone has dumped a bucket of light green or turquoise paint in the water. Signs of blue-green algae poisoning are diarrhea, vomiting, lack of coordination, labored breathing, seizures, convulsions and possibly death.

Horticulture: Controlling grubs on the lawn

By David G. Hallauer
Meadowlark Extension
District Agent, Crops and Soils/Horticulture

One warm evening a few weeks ago, the side of the garage under my yard light was covered with bugs. Upon closer inspection, they were determined to be masked chafer beetles.

While annoying, they aren't nearly as damaging as their larvae: the white grub.

Because of our warmer than normal May, the masked chafer emergence that typically occurs in mid-June was 10 days to two weeks early. That means any treatment we typically apply for grubs needs to be ready to apply sooner as well. That sooner is now.

If a blemish free turf stand is your goal or if you have had a history of grub pressure, a preventative treatment might be a good option. These treatments are typically applied during the first couple of weeks of July (you might consider moving that up about a week this year). They contain active ingredients like imidacloprid, thiamethoxam and others that provide longer control windows, thus allowing greater flexibility in application timing.

More traditional grub insecticides are applied after grubs are present, or as rescue treatments after damage is noticed, normally in mid-August. These products typically contain the active ingredients carbaryl or trichlorfon.

If grubs are a concern, scout turf frequently, looking for feeding signs that can include areas with off colored turf near healthy grass, that are dry/wilted or are thinning. Further exploration under the turf grass stand may reveal the presence of grubs and thinned grass roots.

In severe cases, you can pull firmly on the turf and it will roll back easily to show grubs present. In these cases, it's time to act quickly to apply control measures.

Grub control products vary greatly in their residual, application rate, and even safety to pets. For example, products that contain Merit (imidacloprid) are considered preventers, but they actually kill grubs when they are quite small before they cause damage. Plus, they are safer to use around pets and humans than traditional grub killers.

With any product, read and follow label directions and make sure equipment is calibrated properly so you are not over or under applying. Water prior to application to pull grubs to the surface where they are more easily killed.

Irrigation after application will help move insecticide from the grass surface (where it degrades quickly) into the soil profile. Most products will take a little time to kill desired pests. Wait 10 days after application to assess treatment effectiveness.

For a list of product trade names that correspond to the active ingredients noted above, check out "Annual White Grubs in Turf" (MF2635) available via any Meadowlark Extension District Office or online at www.bookstore.ksre.ksu.edu/pubs/mf2635.pdf

OBITUARIES

Nott

Dick Nott passed away peacefully on Tuesday, June 19, 2018, after a hard-fought battle with Parkinson's disease. He had resided in Enumclaw, Wash., in the last year, a town near his son Terry.

Dick was born in Soldier on July 23, 1929, to Alba and Ulva Nott. He attended school in Soldier and worked on the family farm. Dick was high-energy and adventurous. Friends and relatives enjoyed telling tales of their exciting and sometimes hair-raising adventures with him.

At the age of 15, he took a motorcycle trip to Southern California with his good friend Jerry Pollack. He eventually returned to Kansas before joining the army. Dick proudly served his country in the Korean War and received a medal for his bravery there.

After the war, Dick moved to Lebanon, Ore., with his wife Betty Shupe. Their two children, Nena and Randy, were born there. After their divorce, Dick married Judy Gunderson and had twins, Terry and Tess. Mayetta Methodist

By Shirley Stauffer

Church services at Mayetta Methodist Church on June 24, the fifth Sunday after Pentecost, began with Pastor Howard reading from the Psalms, followed by prayer.

Joys included an invitation to the church members to attend an 80th birthday party for Bud Stauffer on July 7, and visitors Daniel and Nancy Burns in church.

It was reported that the surgery for Wanda White's dad was successful. Please continue to keep Charles Harden's sister, Joyce, in your prayers as she goes through some upcoming tests, and continue to pray for Mike Harding. Prayers for Jerry Harter were requested.

The candles were lighted by Lilly and Randy Rickel rang the bell. Karen Burns read the living word of God from Galatians 4:7. Hymns sung were "Leaning On The Everlasting Arms," "Jesus, Keep Me Near The Cross" and "This Is My Father." The special was "Great Is Thy Faithfulness."

The birthday song was sung to Rose and Everett Stauffer and Becky Burns. The children's message was titled "Pray And Be Thankful." Connie Reding and Mary Anderson took up the offering.

Pastor Sudduth's message was titled "Being God's Children" and was based on the word of God from 1 John 3:1-3. Services closed with the circle of friendship and prayer.

Mary Anderson and Kevin Smith went to Hays on Wednesday to pick up Karsen, who was attending the Fort Hays State University wrestling camp. They stopped in Manhattan to have sup-perwith MaRyka on the way home.

Mary Anderson was in Topeka on Monday to attend the monthly meeting of the 21 Book Club held at Perkins Restaurant.

On Thursday, June Schlotter joined friends in Denison for a special meal of fried chicken. She enjoyed having her friend, Cindy Meerpohl, go with her.

June Schlotter and Karen Burns attended a memorial service for Caroline Keyser in Topeka. They helped with the OES service given, as Caroline had loved her time enjoying Eastern Star meetings.

Caliber Miller enjoyed Wheat State Church camp in Wichita this week. It was an experience he will never forget. Caliber also enjoyed his week at Boy Scout camp, earning his Baden-Powell merit badge and others.

Bud and Shirley Stauffer attended the Fisher-Stauffer cousins family reunion in Holton on Sunday. In the evening, they attended a first birthday party for their great-grandson, Everett Stauffer.

On Wednesday evening, June 20, Karen Burns was delighted to have dinner in Topeka with her grandson, James Burns, whom she had not seen since November. His job has had him working out of the United States, and now he is finished. Also present for the meal were Matthew and Rhonda Burns and James' friend, Mary.

At church services on Sunday, June 24, Karen was pleased to have her son, Daniel, and his wife, Nancy, as guests. After services, they went to Topeka to have lunch with Becky and Tom Neely and Carol and Allan Just. The occasion was Becky's birthday.

Circleville Christian

By Jeannie Arnold

Mark and Carol Fenton served as greeters at the door for the 9:15 a.m. service on June 24 at Circleville Christian Church. Brody Bliss gave the welcome and announcements. Music was provided by the praise team of Gary Bell, Johnny Lynch, David Spencer, Shelly Will, Max Lierz and Paul and Sue Davault. The prayer for concerns and praises was given by Blair Wagner.

Blair Wagner gave the communion meditation using text from 1 Corinthians 11:26. Communion servers were Donald Askren, Mike Cochran, Jeremy Kennedy and John Ray. The prayer for the offering was given by Paul Davault. Kay Hallauer provided a lovely piano medley of hymns as communion was served and the offering received.

Brody Bliss used text from Ecclesiastes 2:24-26 as he gave the morning sermon titled "Finding Contentment." His message brought out four ways to find contentment in life.

First: Find satisfaction with your understanding that your daily allotment comes from God. Second: True enjoyment is only found in the providential God. Third: Happiness is derived from spiritual wisdom in God. Fourth: Peace is attainable through God's justice.

You can find contentment in the simplicities of life if you look for it, and you can find peace in this world in God's justice. God needs to be the center of our life if we are to find true satisfaction and contentment.

The service closed by singing "I'll Fly Away."

Vacation Bible School is scheduled from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. July 8-12. Volunteers are needed and welcome. Please talk to Brandon if you would like to help in any way.

Netawaka U.M.C.

By Mary E. Edwards
June 24, the fifth Sunday after Pentecost, it was a nice calm morning. Steve Banaka lighted the altar candles as we listened to the recorded "Freely, Freely."

Worship leader Marilyn Banaka gave the welcome and announcements. A carry-in luncheon celebrating Pastor Young Won's recent commission and his mother and sister's visit will be held Sunday, July 8 at noon at Horton UMC.

The cooler weather has been much enjoyed. Bob Williamson is reported to be feeling better. We continue to pray for all on our list, adding the names of Edna Baker who had emergency surgery, and Young-Eun Won with a suspected allergy.

Pastor Young led the responsive call to worship. The hymns were "This Is The Day," "I Surrender All," "Cares Chorus," and "It Is Well With My Soul." It was nice to have Verona Grannell back to tend the recorded music.

After the silent prayer, pastoral prayer, and the Lord's Prayer, Steve took up the offering, and the Doxology was sung. Marilyn read scripture, 2 Corinthians 6:1-10. The sermon was "We Possess Everything In Him."

We all like to be treated right and fairly. We don't like to see our friends, family, or anyone else treated unfairly.

When Jesus lived on earth, He wanted to experience life just like anyone else. Some people treated Him like a king for a time, and later turned against Him with hatred, and betrayed and mistreated Him.

In the early 20th century, missionaries began to go to many unknown places. Native peoples would not accept their teaching until the learned to trust the missionaries. Sometimes missionaries received unfair treatment.

In early days of Christianity, Paul wrote to the churches, urging them to reconcile their differences in beliefs, embrace the Gospel, and live accordingly.

As Christians our goal is to love God and love our neighbors. We should not let anyone or anything keep us from that goal.

We possess everything we need because we live in God, and He lives in us. Philippians 4: 8 tells us, "Whatever is true, noble, Right, pure, lovely, admirable, excellent, or praiseworthy—think about such things."

Pastor Young closed with a benediction.

Mary Edwards helped host the Fisher-Stauffer Reunion Sunday afternoon at Homestead Apartments' community room. There was a good turnout and enjoyable day.

On June 17, Father's Day, at Netawaka United Methodist Church Marcia Robertson lighted the altar candles as the recorded music, "This Is My Father's World" played.

Worship leader Marilyn Banaka gave the welcome and announcements. Joys expressed were last Tuesday's nice rain and a new thermostat for the air conditioner was installed by Jeremy Edwards making it nice and cool in church. Thanks to Everett Mullins for his help and all the calls he made.

Marcia is thankful for time with grandchildren. Mike Edwards finished "Bike Across Kansas" at Fort Scott Saturday. Alex Edwards is home from the hospital.

Prayer concerns include Glenn Oxandale, who was to have a test procedure Monday; Jack Grannell, who is not doing well; Pat James, who has pneumonia; Everett's brother's friend, Billy, in Oklahoma who is ill; the family of Cindy Thornton, who died Saturday; and others on the prayer list.

The hymn of praise was "Jesus, Name Above All Names." Other songs were "God Will Take Care Of You," "Cares Chorus" and "Happy The Home When God Is There." Marilyn was in charge of recorded music.

Pastor Young Won led the congregational prayer and the litany of peace for Father's Day to honor fathers and other men. Marcia was the offering usher as the church offered gifts, prayers and hearts to God.

The scripture lesson was 1 Corinthians 13:1-7, which is often called the "love chapter." Pastor Young's sermon was "Love Is."

Pastor Young mentioned again the Great Plains Conference annual meeting, which he attended last week. Many plans and new ideas for the growth of the church were presented. He said that without love, these plans and ideas are nothing.

He then talked about the love of fathers for their children. Sometimes the father of the family must discipline and teach the children about the wise use of money, which can cause the children disappointment and anger. Patience and kindness are needed and much appreciated later in life.

An image of God might be seen in our earthly fathers and mothers, as well perhaps, in uncles, pastors, brothers, teachers or friends.

Love is ordered in the Bible, as in "Love One Another," "Be Ye Kind To One Another." God's kingdom is expanded by love. We often fail to show love, kindness and forgiveness, especially to our own family when it is easier to see the faults than the good points of the other member. The time to love is now. Pastor Young gave the benediction.

Potawatomi U.M.C.

By Ilene Dick

Members and friends gathered at Potawatomi United Methodist Church on Sunday, June 24, to celebrate the fifth Sunday of Pentecost. Pastor Howard opened the service with scripture and prayer. He welcomed the guests and thanked Tina Pugh for sharing her flowers.

Judy Thoman was acolyte. The call to worship was from Galatians 5:1, 24.

Martha Roush read the scripture from Galatians 4:7. The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison. Laura Schreiber gave the special, sharing a reading titled "Power Of Prayer." The birthday song was sung to Dorthea Bell and McKenzie Shenk.

Offertory ushers were Jim Shenk and Keith Bell.

The hymn of praise was "Leaning On The Everlasting Arms" and the hymn of witness was "Jesus, Keep Me Near The Cross." Tina Pugh and Ann Wilkening provided the music.

Pastor Howard's message was titled "Being God's Children," with the text coming from 1 John 3:1-3. We are heirs of God but each of us has good and bad habits. Can we be judged for love of money, gossip or someone of faith? Everyone is wonderfully made. Our children pick up good and bad habits from parents.

John says, "See what love God has given us." The work of the Holy Spirit is in us by following Christ.

The service closed with the hymn, "This Is My Father's World," followed by the benediction.

Pam and Leon Daugherty attended a cookout at the home of Loretta Roush on Father's Day, Sunday, June 17. There were 15 people in attendance. They had good food, a good visit and a great time.

Lily Hall had a nice visit via phone with her son, Terry Red-lightning, in Sacramento, Calif. It is good to hear that he and his family are doing well.

Jim and Marjean Shenk enjoyed having their son, Greg, visit them from June 17-19. They are now enjoying a visit from Marilee's children, Gabriel and Chloe. They were happy to have them at church with them Sunday, along with their granddaughter, McKenzie.

Judy Thoman attended the ball game of her grandson, Brian Dorris, on June 22 in Holton.

Buck's Grove Church

By Betty Bernritter

Jack Bernritter rang the bell at Buck's Grove United Methodist Church on cloudy Sunday, June 24.

Mary Ringel brought in the light of Christ as Theresa Rieschick provided the recorded music and filled the position of song leader.

Lay pastor Charlotte Milroy welcomed everyone and after announcements led the congregants in the call to worship, opening prayer and Psalm 9:9-20. Scripture reading included 1 Samuel 17:32-49 and 2 Corinthians 6:1-13.

Hymns sung were "Victory In Jesus," "It Is Well With My Soul" and "Stand By Me."

Pastor Charlotte's message titled "In The Boat" was from Mark 4:35-41. This scripture tells of Jesus in a boat with His disciples crossing to the other side of the sea. Jesus is sleeping in the stern of the boat and a great storm comes up. The disciples are fearful, as the boat is taking on water. They wake Jesus and He calms the wind and sea. He then turns to His disciples and says, "Why are you so fearful? How is it that you have no faith?"

So what are the storms in your life that are rocking your boat? The boat is a metaphor and Jesus is trying to get us to change and get us to the other side. Change is painful, but not as painful as staying in one place. The hardest thing is just getting in the boat. Take Jesus Christ into your heart as He is always in our boat.

The congregation recited the offertory prayer as Don Boling and Wayne Rieschick accepted the contributions.

As the service closed by singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," Mary carried the light of Christ out.

Commissioners attend senior meeting

By Barbara Hutchinson
The June 18 meeting of the Circleville Senior Executives was called to order by President Sharon S. Cochren, who then led the flag salute.

Dale Askren gave the blessing. There were 20 in attendance. Guests were introduced and included Jackson County Commissioners Bill Elmer and Rob Ladner, as well as Tara Peek. Also present were Sharon's two grandchildren, Eli and Makayla, and also Circleville Mayor Ed Rostetter.

Secretary Barbara Hutchinson read the minutes from the May meeting, which was held at the Holton meal site. The treasurer's report was given by Sharon, as treasurer Dixie Mannell was absent.

A motion was made by Renae and seconded by Dennis to pay the expenses of food furnished by the group and rent for the building. It was a unanimous vote.

The program consisted of the two commissioners and their presentation of a framed certificate in recognition of Kenneth Wykert and his 14 years of service serving on the board of the NEK Area Agency on Aging. He has retired from the board. A round of applause was given for his effort and work on the board.

Mayor Ed Rostetter also gave a state of the city report. Some of the issues covered were: sealed bids for the Fletcher property sale will be accepted until July 2; street repairs and chip-and-seal; heliport project; maintenance of property; and need for a bathroom at the Circleville Cemetery.

It was noted that there were a large number at the Memorial Day reception at the cemetery, and many were from out of town. Other small area cemeteries have bathroom facilities.

Appreciation was also given for the Jackson Heights High School Community Service Day.

Several questions were fielded from the audience and appreciation to the mayor for keeping us informed. Ken Wykert is also on the city council, replacing a person who has moved out of the city.

The next Circleville Senior Executives meeting will be held at the Masonic Hall.

The meeting adjourned at 1:30 p.m.

Immanuel Lutheran

By Esther L. Ideker

The fifth Sunday after Pentecost worship service at Immanuel Lutheran Church opened with the hymn "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee." Following the confession and absolution, the congregation read Psalm 124 responsively.

Elder Tex Manuel II read the Old Testament lesson from Job chapter 38 and the Epistle lesson from 2 Corinthians chapter 6. Pastor Michael Van Velzer read the Holy Gospel from Mark 4:35-41, which was the text of his sermon. The sermon hymn was the Sunday school song, "Jesus Loves Me, This I Know."

Pastor Van Velzer said in his sermon that the miraculous stilling of the storm is recorded in all three synoptic Gospels (Matthew, Luke and in Mark). It probably occurred several months after Jesus began his Galilean ministry. By this time, the disciples should have come to know Jesus as the Son of God. They fully deserved it when Jesus rebuked them for their lack of faith.

Leaving the crowd behind, the disciples and Jesus with them launched out on the Sea of Galilee in a boat. A furious squall came up and the waves broke over the boat. The Sea of Galilee is notorious for its sudden storms, but this one was special. Jesus was in the stern, sleeping on a cushion.

The disciples woke Him and said, "Teacher, don't you care if we drown?" Jesus got up, rebuked the wind and said to the waves, "Quiet! Be still!" Then the wind died down and it was completely calm.

The man in the boat speaks to the inanimate forces and elements of nature, and they obey Him. The man in the boat is the Lord of Israel, the God of history and the king of the universe. When Jesus asks, "Do you still have no faith?" He means specifically faith in God's saving power, as this is present and released through Him. He is looking for faith in the Old Testament Messiah, the Savior-God of Israel and the world.

The congregation professed The Apostles' Creed. In the prayers of the church, they were directed to the Him whose word the very winds and waves obey and before whose mighty work the morning stars sang together for joy. Remembered were all pastors, missionaries and church workers, that working together with God, they would proclaim the day of salvation and God's help; for the office of the Holy Ministry, that God would raise up workers for His harvest fields; for our president, our governor and all who make, administer and judge our laws; for the poor, the unemployed, the lonely and abandoned and all who feel swamped by the storms of life; for the sick and suffering that God would bless them with grace and healing according to His will; and for those we named in our hearts. The congregation joined in The Lord's Prayer.

The offering ushers were Tex Manuel II and Doug Amon. The musical piece during the offering was "I Love Thee, Lord." The congregation sang the offertory. Following the benediction, the service closed with the hymn "Send Forth With God's Blessing."

Welcomed to the service were Karen and Larry Scheets of Dover and Lucille Washburn of Millstock, Ill.

Pastor Van Velzer led Bible study on the book of Jeremiah following worship. Immanuel's 125th anniversary planning committee then met.

Kientz Corner

By Beverly Ramey Newell

On June 17, Father's Day, the Pleasant Hill United Methodist Church congregation opened its worship service by singing "God Of The Ages."

The birthdays for June 17 through June 23 were: Greg Baldwin and Sunnyeo Kim, June 19; Bob Forman, June 20; Wayne McNorton, June 21; Kyle Cochran, June 22; and Becky Tomlinson, June 23.

The anniversaries for the week were John and Rita Dowd, June 18; Zach and Annika Wilson, June 21; and Larry and Aurel Marney, June 22.

The concern were prayers for safe travels for Cory Griffiths, who is moving to Colorado; and Jay Smith, who is being deployed with his troop.

For special music, Carol Powell played a piano solo, "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee." This was in honor of Greg Baldwin for sharing his musical talents with us the last 10 years. This song is Greg's favorite hymn.

The children's story was given by Kevin McDowell. He told the children his dad was in heaven. His dad meant a lot to him.

He told a story about the three B's: bread, baseball and Bible. Our father provides us with our daily bread. His dad always had time to play baseball with him and his brother. His dad's Bible went with him when he joined the Navy.

Kevin's dad read the Bible and taught his sons about things in the Bible. He taught his sons about God's love.

Linda Griffiths read the scripture Matthew 6:9b-13.

The sermon "Our Father" was given by the Rev. Hyun-Jin Cho. A prayer is important to us. We need to know what it means and what it represents. Prayer can be done any time.

What are our prayers like? We pray to "Our Father." We are God's children. We may call Him our dad. God wants a happy and close relationship with us.

Our Father is in heaven. After our earthly life, we will go to heaven to our Father's house and live with Him. We want to glorify God's name. When we pray the Lord's Prayer, let us remember, we are God's children.

The closing hymn was "God Will Take Care Of You." Those assisting with the service were Linda Griffiths, liturgist; Greg Baldwin, organist; Megan Strobel, acolyte; Betty Domer, song leader; and John and Linda Reed and Gary and Barbara Slimmer, usher team.

On June 15, Rusty and Monica Newell were evening visitors of Dick and Beverly Newell. They brought Dick a Father's Day gift and card.

On June 17, Chris Farmer treated Dick and Beverly Newell to supper at the Vikings Grille in Topeka in honor of Father's Day.

On June 19, Bruce and Linda Lanning, Dick and Beverly Newell, Dennis and Kim Smerchek, Berniece Chadwell and Mary Hudson ate supper at the Blind Tiger restaurant in Topeka.

Ag Week Recap: Grains finishing lower

By Matt Hines

Cash feedlot trade finally got going last Friday as packers held firm all week. Trading began at $109 to $110 live, steady to $1 lower than the week previous. It continued to fall throughout the day, down to $107 live and $170 to $174 on a dressed basis in the North, up to $6 lower than a week ago.

A bearish USDA Cold Storage report saw total red meat 9 percent higher than a year ago and beef up 13 percent from a year ago. That was followed by another bearish Cattle on Feed report, with cattle on feed as of June 1 totaling 11.6 million head, 104 percent vs. a year ago, and one point higher than the pre-report estimate.

Placements during May were equal to last year, compared to a 96-percent estimate, and more than 10 percent above the five-year average. Marketings during May matched the estimates at 105 percent.

Compared to last week, steers and heifers sold steady to $4 higher. Cattle feeders have been selling their fed cattle in a timely manner and have been aggressively filling their empty pens. Auction receipts are spotty this time of year, but when auction receipts are sizable, willing buyers are there to fill the seats.

Direct trading receipts in the Southern Plains were heavy with future delivery contracts as producers capitalized on the strong CME cattle complex. In the Northern Plains, some upcoming large video sales in the next several weeks will gauge buying interest as buyers are content at this time to take a wait-and-see approach on what direction the market will move when dealing with summer and fall delivery cattle.

With deteriorating pastures conditions in the central part of the country, many more cows will find their way to the marketplace in some capacity this summer. If conditions worsen, some producers may be looking into an early weaning program to save as much stored water as possible.

For the week, Friday, June 15, to Friday, June 22, June live cattle were down $.17, August was up $.12, August feeder cattle were up $.122, September was up $.155, July lean hogs were down $.190 and August was down $.287. Boxed Beef, Choice was down $.443 at $217.16 and Select was down $.71 at $202.02.

Cattle slaughter for the week was estimated at 664,000 head, up 10,000 from the week previous and up 25,000 from last year. Beef production last week was at 528.1 million pounds, 519.4 million the week previous and 511.5 million last year. Hog slaughter for the week was estimated at 2,168,000 head, down 47,000 from the week previous but up 13,000 from last year.

June live cattle expire this coming Friday with cash trade looking to be lower as well if futures stay under pressure. August gapped lower on Monday, breaking through the trend line and technical support with the next near $100.

August feeders also gapped lower but are still trending higher with last week's high at $150.75 and support at $145, then near $142. July lean hogs pulling back nearly $6 from last week's high, up at $83.82 with good support at $75.

Soybeans rebounded to end the week, but all grains still finished lower for the week. The trade concerns continue to pressure the markets, but weather may be now supporting prices instead of helping to drag prices lower. Some very excessively wet areas exist throughout the Corn Belt, and heat comes back into the forecast this week.

It didn't appear that there was much conversation last week between China and the U.S., which is discouraging as July 6 is the next target date for implementation of the next round of tariffs. Managed money or funds were sellers in the all the grains last week, flipping long grain positions in corn, soybeans and Chicago wheat to a net short position.

For the week, Friday, June 15, to Friday, June 22, July corn was down $.04, December was down $.043, July soybeans were down $.11, November was down $.144, July Kansas City wheat was down $.31, December was down $.294, July Chicago wheat was down $.084, December was down $.124, July Minneapolis wheat was down $.214, September was down $.20, July soybean meal was up $.20 per ton and December was down $.41 per ton.

Export inspections for the week ending June 21 were again above the average needed for corn at 59.5 million bushels (MBU). Soybeans and wheat are still slow at 18.9 MBU and 13 MBU, respectively, while only 13,228 bushels of grain sorghum went across the border into Mexico.

Crop progress and conditions released after the close on Monday continue to show very good conditions overall for the fall crops. Corn conditions are down one point now to 77 percent rated good to excellent, soybeans unchanged at 73 percent, grain sorghum up two points to 56 percent and spring wheat down one to 77 percent good to excellent.

Winter wheat harvest is now 41 percent complete, with Kansas at 52 percent, Texas at 71 percent and Oklahoma at 92 percent.

Rain makes grain so long as it isn't under water. More heavy rains are in the forecast for Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota this week, with scattered showers for the rest of the Midwest.

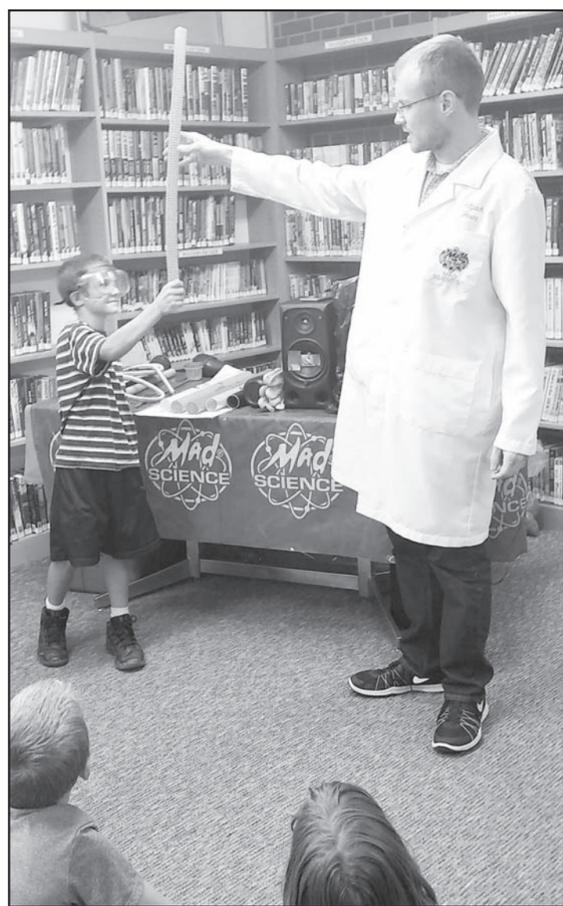

The six-to-10-day outlook shows above normal precipitation for the North and Southeast, with below normal for the Southern Plains. Temperatures are forecasted above normal central and east with below normal for the western third of the U.S.

July corn spiked lower for a new contact low last week at $3.38 3/4, with resistance at $3.60. The December contract was down to $3.60 last week after matching the contract high at $4.29 1/2 back on May 24. The first line of resistance is now at $3.80, then around $4.

July soybeans were down to $8.41 1/2 last week, with resistance at $9. November was down to $8.64 1/2, with resistance at $9.20. July Kansas City wheat fell nearly $.90 in two weeks, breaking the long term higher trend. Monday was a new recent low at $4.68 3/4 with resistance up at $4.96. July Chicago wheat looks similar with last week's low at $4.67 1/2 and resistance at $4.97 1/2.

The previous policy required students to pass a minimum of six classes in order to participate.

Administrators at the high school will continue to compile weekly progress reports on students to determine those not in good standing.

Students failing two or more classes are unable to participate in any sporting event, dances, club meetings, plays, etc.

Additional minor changes to the handbooks were also discussed, and board members are expected to approve all the handbooks, as well as a handbook for the district's new pre-school program, at their next board meeting.

In other business, the board:
* Approved consent items.

* Learned from Davis that the Kansas Supreme Court ruled Monday that the new state school funding plan is equitable but is still inadequate.

The court ruled that the state did not account for inflation for the 2017-2022 school years.

* Approved site council reports as presented from all three schools.

* Approved early payment of special education cooperative funds to Holton Coop for the 2018-19 school year.

* Declared several items as surplus property to be listed for sale, including several computers, band instruments and a hydraulic bumper jack.

* Approved the June 30 transfers and estimated ending cash balances for the 2017-18 school year.

* Approved a motion to allow Davis to waive the preliminary training period for new classified employees at his discretion.

Davis said that waiving the 60-day training period for qualified candidates will help the district secure more qualified applications for open positions.

* Met with Davis and Susan Pfrang, director of curriculum and instruction, for 25 minutes to discuss non-elected personnel.

Back in open session, the board approved an employment contact with Jonathan Arnold as the district technology assistant and Samantha White as a high school assistant volleyball coach.

The board also approved salaries for certified teachers, classified staff and administrators as presented for the 2018-19 school year.

* Adjourned the meeting. Board member Jim O'Toole was absent.

School Funding...

"When I became governor earlier this year, I outlined my priorities for a school finance plan — specifically, one that would keep our schools open, get more money into the classroom and improve student outcomes without raising taxes. And we got it done," Gov. Colyer said.

Others, such as Kansas Attorney General Derek Schmidt, were skeptical about the ruling's long-term implications despite its "several positive attributes."

"It affirms that the school-funding system is constitutionally equitable, approves of targeting new funding toward helping underperforming students, ensures Kansas schools remain open and operating this fall, flatly rejects the plaintiffs' unreasonable demands for an additional $1 billion windfall and provides a relatively clear path for the Legislature to reach what the court will consider constitutionally adequate school funding," Schmidt said.

However, Schmidt added that, in his opinion, Kansans "should be given the chance to vote on a constitutional amendment to indicate whether this litigation-driven funding system is really how they want school-funding decisions to be made."

The Gannon lawsuit was first filed in 2010 after a group of school districts lodged a protest over what they saw as inadequate funding for public schools in Kansas despite the Legislature's claims that schools are adequately funded.

With Monday's ruling, Royal Valley's Davis said he sees a final resolution to the Gannon case in the near future.

"I think there's some light at the end of the tunnel," Davis said. "Monday was the first time that I had seen some evidence to believe that it might happen next year, but that's dependent on the Legislature, so we'll just have to see how they respond to this."

Holton's Davies, on the other hand, said that even though the funding issue has been identified and a deadline has been set to resolve it, the Legislature still has a long way to go.

"The hard part for me is that they really never got back to where they were in 2008, and we still haven't really gotten there," Davies said. "They've been adding new money to different things, and they keep spreading it out so that it's harder for districts to utilize that money when it's needed for other things."

In spite of that, Davies said he is pleased with the Kansas Supreme Court's ruling.

"I'm happy that we're not looking at closing schools until the Legislature comes back next year," he said. "In the end, I couldn't have asked for things to go better than they did."

Veterans receive quilts

Several Jackson County veterans were honored for their service in the Army, Coast Guard, Navy, Marines and Air Force during the fourth annual Quilts of Valor presentation last Saturday.

The event, which was held at the First United Methodist Church in Holton, featured music by Gary Bell and friends and then a dinner provided by Quilts In The Courtyard organizers.

Veterans are eligible to receive a quilt if they've served "on land, in the air or at sea; at home or in foreign lands."

Honorees are nominated each year to receive a quilt, which serves as a 'thank you' for their service to the country.

Holton National renamed GNBank

Girard National Bank has announced that it will change its name and all branch location names to GNBank on Monday, July 2.

Previously, branch locations, including Holton National Bank, operated under individual trade names.

There are no ownership or bank structure changes occurring other than the change in the bank's name, it was reported.

Use of a single brand will allow GNBank to serve its customers better through a common name at all of its banking facilities, bank official said.

The name change will simplify a customer's ability to conduct transactions at any GNBank location, without any disruption to customers' banking services.

"In today's world of online, mobile, telephone and debit card banking channels and services, we felt it was important to have a high-quality, recognizable and consistent brand for our customers," said Mark Schifferdecker, president and CEO. "When our customers see the GNBank name or logo, they can expect the same great service and friendly faces wherever they are."

GNBank's name change coincides with its celebration of 100 years of business. The family-owned and operated bank was established in 1918 in Girard and began expanding in 1986 with branch facilities in other communities vested in agriculture and small businesses.

CHCS receives Centers of Excellence Award

Community HealthCare System of northeast Kansas is walking the talk when it comes to improving the health of the communities it serves.

In recognition of the system's investments in providing and promoting healthier nutritional options, as well as serving as a role model for healthy lifestyle choices, the Kansas Hospital Association presented one of two 2018 Healthy Kansas Hospitals Centers of Excellence Awards to Community HealthCare System.

The award and a monetary contribution to help support the hospital's innovative healthy living programs were presented during a special recognition ceremony on June 19.

"We are honored by this award," said Nancy Willert, RN educator and chair of the system's LiveWell Committee. "We realize how important it is to create a healthy environment for our associates and the communities we serve. Our system's mission is to enrich the health and lives of the people we serve. This award shows us that we are headed in the right direction, and it encourages us as we move forward with new initiatives."

Since joining the Healthy Kansas Hospitals initiative in 2016, Community HealthCare System has broadened its wellness focus beyond fitness and weight loss programs to include healthy nutrition options in hospital food, alternatives to soda and sugary beverages and healthier snack options in hospital vending machines, and access to fresh herbs and vegetables for hospital patients/visitors/staff and community members.

Supporting a community-based farmers' market, offering tastings of pizzas with cauliflower or whole wheat crusts at a community health fair, and sharing recipes for healthier versions of foods, such as lasagna and brownies, have engaged the community in improving nutritional choices.

"When I'm asked why we do this and spend the time and effort on these health improvement initiatives, I tell people, this not about return-on-investment," said Todd Willert, CEO of Community HealthCare System. "This is about doing what's right, and it's a long-term strategy. Our various initiatives are part of a global population health strategy to impact the entire community. It's about figuring out how to put ourselves in their shoes and help them improve their health, and we have a very broad definition of health. We needed to start with our associates first, and then continue to move out into the community."

In 2017, the hospital expanded its community partnerships, working with the Kansas Association for Conservation & Environmental Education to create herb and vegetable gardens at the Onaga campus, where the hospital uses the produce in associate and visitor meals.

The system also helped inroduce the community to Greens and Gills Greenhouse, a Havensville start-up business growing microgreens via aquaponics. The hospital hosted a public tasting, and uses the produce in its kitchen and provides a venue for sales to hospital associates.

System leaders are active members of the LiveWell Committee, and participate in fitness activities – like fun runs – and the L.E.A.N. (Lifestyle, Exercise and Nutrition) weight-loss program.

"While Community HealthCare System had been doing a great deal in terms of fitness and weight loss, Healthy Kansas Hospitals helped us bring all the people to the table and focus on what avenues to take going forward," Nancy Willert explained. "Strong support from leadership and the board has been critical to the success of our efforts."

"I'm incredibly proud of the organization," Todd Willert said. "I've been a part of the committee, but I know committee members have spent a lot of time and effort working on our health-improvement initiatives over the past two years. These are people who have full-time jobs and the LiveWell Committee and its work is something else they are doing for the good of the organization and the community."

While school officials can't force parents or guardians to seek mental health help for their students, it was stated, they can assist with a school re-entry plan for the students that can be filled out documenting that mental health help was suggested and documenting the help received for the students.

Rhule and Frazier said they must take every suicide threat seriously, for example.

Food service bids for the high school and middle school improvements planned over the summer include a tile skillet for HMS, a grease trap for HMS, a Valrath dual temperature mobile bar for HES, the electric hookup needed for the mobile bar, a two-door refrigerator for HHS, a 15-watt single phase booster heater for HMS, a tray dispenser for HES, and three dry-ingredient bins for HHS. The total estimated cost was listed at $49,133.63.

In other business, the school board:

*Approved a motion to pay final bills for the term totaling $85,310.08.

*Approved a motion to pay final payroll for the term totaling $2,778,256.32. This amount covers payroll for June, July and August, it was noted.

*Approved a motion to allow 12-month classified staff to roll over up to 10 days of vacation per year and one personal day per year to the next year without losing them, as has been the policy in the past.

*Approved a motion to allow some 12-month classified staff to take off Monday, July 2, for their holiday instead of Wednesday, July 4.

*Announced the following new hires – Lakota Bohl, third grade teacher; Dustin McBride, fourth grade teacher; Corey Grosse, high school assistant secretary; and Pat Tuck, elementary school head secretary.

*Approved the following transfers – Sue Woltje from special ed para at HES to EL Holton para; and Marie Nightingale from special ed para at HES to special ed para at Royal Valley Middle School.

*Accepted the following resignations – Suzie Conger, head secretary at HES; Amanda Childs, ACE after-school program; Becky Long, special ed IRC teacher at Royal Valley Elementary.

*Approved the following renewal – Pam Parlett, para at HES.

*Approved the following position/services shifts – Tara Ladusch will assist in special ed classroom at HES without a new hire; the Holton special ed speech position will be filled with Greenbush services and once a week face-to-face services from Jenny Stous.

*Approved nine FFA trips for the next school term.

*Announced details of the new two-year broadband internet agreement with Giant Communications as follows – the district will pay $51,000 annually, of which 70 percent will be covered by e-rate funds from federal government ($36,050), reducing district's net pay annually to $14,950, which is the same as the previous year, for 1 gigabyte speeds, which are much faster.

*Approved the "second step program and curriculum" for the elementary school for the district's "social/emotional curriculum" at a cost of $10,207.80.

*Accepted a donation of $3,500 from an anonymous donor for field trips for elementary and middle school students.

*Accepted a donation of $5,000 from Bob Carson to help with the national trip expenses for the HHS FCLA program.

*Learned that while summer school started with 82 students, some have stopped attending.

*Learned that the district will not be able to offer online enrollment for this upcoming school term. The Powerschool company that the computer program is being purchased from announced it had "oversold" the program, it was reported.

*Approved a motion to transfer $18.80 to the food service budget to cover adult gratis meals and up to $2,100.18 to cover bad debt in the budget caused by non-payment of school meals during the year. This transfer is needed because of new laws stating that state and federal funds to schools for school meals cannot be used to cover bad debt for the school meals, it was reported.

*Approved a motion to approve a three-year agreement with Stormont-Vail Healthcare for athletic training services for August through May each year at a cost of $2,250 per year for the initial year. For the fee, Stormont representatives will meet with students twice a week for 1.5 hours each time.

*Noted the receipt of two letters – one from Certus Structural Engineers, Inc. of Topeka and one from Eisenbarth Construction of Holton stating that, in their opinions, the retaining wall at the football field does not require any major repairs at this time.

Toby R. Taggart of Certus and Chuck Eisenbarth, authors of the letters, did indicate that some slab joints and cracks in the retaining wall need to be re-sealed to prevent water damage.

*Met in executive session six times for a total of 45 minutes to discuss non-elected personnel with Superintendent Bob Davies.

*Noted that the next school board meeting will be held July 9.

*Adjourned the meeting at 8:50 p.m.
