New state laws now in effect

By Ali Holcomb
 During the 2018 Legislative session, Kansas lawmakers passed 118 bills, and of those, 87 have provisions that took effect on July 1.

The laws span from school finance to taxation to adoption. A new wrongful conviction compensation statute (HB 2579) was also passed during the session.

Individuals found by a court to meet the definition of wrongfully convicted will now receive $65,000 for each year held on that conviction and $25,000 for each year wrongfully served on parole, probation or on a sex offender registry.

Known as "Caitlin's Law," HB 2439 strengthens penalties for repeat DUI (driving under the influence) offenders who kill or seriously injure others.

The bill is named after Caitlin Vogel, who was killed in 2016 by a repeat drunk driving offender in Johnson County.

In May, Gov. Jeff Colyer signed the Adoption Protection Act (SB 284) that allows adoption agencies to refuse the placement of child for foster care or adoption "when the proposed placement of such child would violate such agency's sincerely held religious beliefs." Some people believe this bill discriminates against LGBT people.

With temperatures in the 100s recently, one bill (HB 2516) legally protects Good Samaritans who break into vehicles to save overheating children and vulnerable adults and animals in situations where there is "imminent danger of harm" after law enforcement has been notified.

A new lobbying bill (SB 394) redefines lobbying to include executive and judicial branches in order to promote more transparency. The state has had ethical issues concerning the effect lobbyists have on contract decisions.

Another new law (HB 2650)

designates the state rock as greenhorn limestone, the state mineral as galena, the state gemstone as jelinite amber and the state fish as the channel catfish.

All new laws that took effect on Sunday, July 1, include:

Senate substitute for HB 2028: Establishes the Kansas Telemedicine Act.

HB 2067: Enhances the Achieving a Better Life Experience ("ABLE") program created by the Legislature in 2015.

HB 2106: Authorizes the Secretary for Aging and Disability Services to grant a treatment facility a license renewal based on accreditation, referred to as "deemed status."

HB 2111: Creates a sales tax exemption for cars purchased using manufacturer rebates. Under the previous law, the value of rebates was included in the calculation of the sales tax liability on the purchase of new cars. This law is known as the Motor Vehicle Rebate Sales Tax Exclusion.

Senate substitute for HB 2129: Exempts division of legislative post audit from the monumental building surcharge.

Substitute for HB 2147: Provides an income tax refund for certain Native American veterans.

Senate substitute for HB 2184: Amends some workers compensation death benefits.

HB 2232: Allows a resident of an adult care home, or a resident's guardian or legal representative, to conduct authorized electronic monitoring in the resident's room subject to requirements set out in the bill.

HB 2343: Helps to ensure nondiscrimination of organ transplants on the basis of disability.

HB 2362: Establishes the alcoholic beverage control modernization fees.

Purple Heart Profile

Claude Rieschick

Rieschick injured during WWII battle

Editor's note: This is the 94th in a series of stories about past and present Jackson County residents who earned the Purple Heart Medal, which is awarded to military personnel wounded or killed in the line of duty.

Claude Rieschick of rural Soldier was in the U.S. Army for little more than a year at the tail end of World War II, but he can still remember some pretty vivid details about his time as a private first class in Italy with Company B of the 86th Mountain Infantry Regiment of the 10th Infantry Division.

There are recollections of German soldiers who, at the drop of a certain phrase, would turn around and run away from Rieschick and his squad. There's the time he had to pull a German soldier out of a foxhole and "strip him down," taking away the enemy combatant's jewelry and weapons before making him run away.

There's the memory of a battle on April 22, 1945, near the northern Italian village of San Benedetto in the Po Valley, in which Rieschick was hit by German ammunition but he still fought off the German army until his troop was ordered to withdraw — an incident that earned him both the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart Medal.

"They fired their grenades," Rieschick said. "One of them hit me in the arm."

But with his son LeRoy's reminder — and a couple of citations from the Army — he's reminded that he was hit in the cheek by German rifle fire. Still, he kept on fighting, even though one of his buddies, "Whitey," wasn't so lucky in the battle.

"They captured him," Rieschick said of his buddy. "I just outran them, but Whitey, they got him by the shirt tail. We didn't hear from him anymore, and we didn't know if he was killed, or what."

Prison sentence ordered

By Brian Sanders
 The third Missouri resident charged with several thefts from different businesses in a four-state area, including the Holton Walmart, received prison time during a Friday morning hearing in Jackson County District Court. Raven A. Neece, 36, of Ferrelview, Mo., was one of three residents of the Kansas City, Mo. area charged with the removal of theft detection devices from and subsequent theft of thousands of dollars worth of various electronic products in February and March from the Holton Walmart and other department stores in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa.

District Court Judge Norbert Marek sentenced Neece to two consecutive 10-month sentences on charges of felony theft and illegal possession of theft detection device removers after Neece pleaded no contest to the charges in May. The 20-month (one year and eight months) total sentence included credit for 93 days that Neece has been held at the Jackson County Detention Center.

Judge Marek noted that the two charges against Neece could have resulted in presumptive probation time, but since the charges against her stemmed from crimes allegedly committed while she was on felony bond in a Platte County, Mo. criminal case, the court had, and exercised, the option of a prison sentence.

Highland set to close Holton regional center

The Holton regional center of Highland Community College, located at the southern edge of town along the east side of U.S. Highway 75, will not be the site of any college courses this fall, it has been learned, fueling speculation that the site may be in the process of being sold.

A spokesperson for HCC said yesterday that the college would continue to have a presence in Holton in the fall, however, through evening courses offered at Holton High School and some day courses offered there to high school students.

HCC has had a Holton regional center since 2002 when it opened a site at the corner of Fourth Street and Colorado Avenue. Prior to that, HCC offered evening courses at the high school.

In 2010, HCC opened its current location in Holton in what originally was the Gary Hardy Dodge building.

At that time, HCC's Holton regional facility had classrooms, labs, personnel offices, a learning lab and an auto body shop area for the school's automotive technology class, which was offered through a partnership with Washburn Tech.

In 2007, The Recorder reported that Highland's regional center at Holton had 190 students enrolled in local classes, plus 85 high school juniors and seniors were taking college credit courses through Highland, also.

In 2014, The Recorder reported that the Highland regional center at Holton was averaging about 100 students enrolled locally per semester, including some high school students.

In the past eight years, HCC Holton has been offering a variety of courses in mathematics, accounting, science, technology, early childhood development, English, history, psychology and public speaking.

Many local teachers and professionals are employed through Highland as adjunct professors.

A note on the front door of the Highland Holton regional center states that "The HCC Holton Center will cease operations on July 31, 2018. Until then, we will only have limited operating hours on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings."

While no other formal, official announcement about the Holton regional center of Highland Community College had been made by press time on Tuesday, printed, promotional material distributed by HCC regarding 2018 fall enrollment opportunities does not include any mention of the Holton regional center.

Rains, strong winds postpone July Jubilee

By Ali Holcomb
 Just as July Jubilee was getting under way at Banner Creek Reservoir on Saturday, Mother Nature stepped in.

Hard rain, hail and strong wind early Saturday evening at the reservoir cancelled most of July Jubilee activities and postponed the fireworks display until Sunday night.

Activities began at 5 p.m. Saturday when members of the Holton VFW Post presented the flags, Nick Walsh, the opening act for musician Erik Dylan, didn't even have time to play his first song before the storm hit, said Lori Banks, Holton/Jackson County Chamber of Commerce director.

"We were all watching the radar, and it looked like a shower was coming through," Banks said. "The wind started gusting, and it got bad pretty fast."

Everyone sought shelter while the wind ripped through the vendors' pop-up tents.

"Everybody pitched in to help the vendors," Banks said. "I know some of the vendors lost a lot of their merchandise, which is terrible. The band packed up their equipment as quickly as they could, but I know most of it got wet. We're just thankful no one got hurt."

Performances by Erik Dylan and the community band were cancelled, and since it was going to keep raining throughout the night, Banks' said organizers decided to move the fireworks to Sunday night.

2 Kirks Fireworks organized the fireworks display. Some of their fireworks also suffered damage in the storm, Banks said, but they were still able to put on a 15-minute display on Sunday evening.

"The community was so supportive through the whole thing," Banks said. "A lot of people showed up on Sunday night to see the fireworks. It was amazing to see all the headlights afterwards."

The annual July Jubilee fireworks display was moved to Sunday after Saturday rains cancelled other event activities, including music by Erik Dylan and the Jackson County Community Band. Sunday's fireworks show was put on by 2 Kirks Fireworks. Photo by Ali Holcomb

Kansas ranks high in child well-being

Kansas children are in a strong position, as the state ranks 13th nationally in overall child well-being, but that progress could be at risk with an undercount of the state's youngest children, according to the 2018 KIDS COUNT Data Book released June 27 by the Annie E. Casey Foundation.

Despite the strong showing in many areas of child well-being for Kansas kids, much work remains to be done to ensure that positive trends are equitably shared. Complementary research and analysis from Kansas Action for Children (KAC) has shown alarming trends in infant mortality and insurance rates among children of color.

"As the country regains footing from the Great Recession, we're seeing similar movement here in Kansas, but we cannot afford to stand still," said Annie McKay, KAC president and CEO. "This state's children need investments that prepare them for the future."

The annual Data Book uses 16 indicators to rank each state across four domains — health, education, economic well-being and family and community — as an assessment of child well-being. Kansas ranks eighth in economic well-being, 18th in health, 21st in education, and 23rd in family and community context.

The Data Book includes much more information than the four domains, though. According to KAC researchers, other information of note includes these changes (all new numbers are from 2016, the most recent data available):

- The percentage of Kansas children in poverty dropped to 14 percent, from 18 percent in 2010. Similar movement was seen nationally, with 19 percent of children in poverty, down from 22 percent in 2010.

- The percentage of children whose parents lack secure employment declined to 20 percent from 27 percent in 2010. Nationally, the percentage is 28 percent, down from 33 percent in 2010.

- The percent of children in families where the household head lacks a high school diploma dipped to 10 percent from 12 percent in 2010.

Nelson-Atkins exhibit features work by Castle

"Wendell Castle: Shifting Vocabularies," an exhibition of the latest and last works created by Castle, is now open at The Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art in Kansas City.

Castle, a graduate of Holton High School, is hailed as the most important postwar American furniture designers. He died in January at the age of 85.

"Wendell Castle: Shifting Vocabularies" includes five large works in the Bloch Building and four on the lawn of the Donald J. Hall Sculpture Park.

"Wendell Castle constantly pursued new ways of approaching art, making major conceptual leaps in the worlds of sculpture, design and craft," said Julián Zugazagoitia, Menefee D. and Mary Louise Blackwell CEO and director of the Nelson-Atkins. "He was a master at articulating a presence in a void."

Castle, whose first work in an exhibition was shown at the Nelson-Atkins in 1960, considered form and function equally, defying categorization by generating creations that skirted the boundaries of both art and furniture.

His work, intentionally enigmatic, could be a chair from one perspective and a sculpture from another.

"He was an innovator who turned furniture into an art form and an experience," said Stefanie Kae Dlugosz-Acton, assistant curator of architecture, design and decorative arts.

"The strength of his work lies in subtlety, and there's a coyness about it that's so interesting. The organic nature of his art is a clear response to both materials and form."

Born in Emporia in 1932,

Castle is considered the father of the art furniture movement, and he continually pushed boundaries during his prolific career of more than 60 years.

Castle was raised in Holton, Blue Rapids and Coffeyville and graduated from Holton High School in 1951.

Trained as an industrial designer and sculptor at The University of Kansas, Castle moved to New York in the early 1960s to teach at the School of American Craftsmen at the Rochester Institute of Technology in New York.

He set up a studio in nearby Scottsville and began his professional career making sculptural furniture with a chainsaw.

Castle developed a stack lamination process, allowing him to create virtually any shape out of wood.

Castle published "10 Adopted Rules of Thumb" in 1996, which served as creative advice both for him and other artists. The list included "If you are in love with an idea, you are no judge of its beauty or value," "The dog that stays on the porch will find no bones" and "If you hit the bullseye every time, the target is too near." He rarely let his imagination, or technology, stop him.

For a 2016 exhibition of his work at the Rochester Institute, Castle wrote, "I invent, distort, deform, exaggerate, compound and confuse as I see it. I obey only my own instincts, which often I do not understand myself. I often draw things I do not understand but am secure in the knowledge that they may at some point become clear and meaningful."

The exhibit runs through Jan. 20, 2019. The museum, which is located at 4525 Oak

Moran trip to Russia:

■ How important is it, really?

When then presidential candidate Donald Trump talked about "draining the swamp" at Washington, D.C., if he got elected, I don't remember him saying it was Democrat-only swamp. Could that be why some Republicans seem bent on opposing the president, too?

U.S. Sen. Jerry Moran, R-KS, is celebrating the Fourth of July holiday in Moscow during a trip in which he hopes to get the chance to warn Russian President Vladimir Putin - on behalf of the American people, he says - against interfering in future elections, according to a report in The Kansas City Star newspaper.

Sen. Moran reportedly is part of a group of eight Republican lawmakers visiting Norway, Finland and Russia during the Senate's holiday break.

How important is this trip to Russia, really?

Sen. Moran seems to be seeking ways to put some distance between himself and President Trump. Both are Republicans.

The visit to Russia, which was organized by U.S. Ambassador Jon Huntsman, occurs ahead of a planned meeting between Putin and Trump, which will take place July 16 in Helsinki.

"Everything I know from the investigations indicate that Russia interfered with elections in the United States. I also believe that they interfered with elections in France and Germany," Sen. Moran said last Thursday.

And Moran said he intends to discuss election interference when he meets with other members of Russia's government, too.

"Over the last five years, Russia has had unacceptable behavior ... and I want to learn from the leadership of Russia what we can do to change their behavior," he said. "Interference in our elections is unacceptable."

Moran said the lawmakers have requested a meeting with Putin but will not know for sure whether they'll receive one until they arrive in Russia.

He noted that the visit by the GOP lawmakers was scheduled before the announcement of Trump's upcoming meeting with Putin.

Moran said he wanted to stress to Russian leaders that the U.S. Congress authorized the sanctions on the country and that they will remove the sanctions only if given assurances that election interference has stopped.

Moran - again sounding very much likes he wants to distance himself from the president - strongly disagrees with the president's calls for the year-long

LETTER

Dear editor,

We are with the Tools 4 School program for Jackson County. We help students that attend the three Jackson County schools (Royal Valley, Holton and Jackson Heights) get the supplies they need to start the school year off in the right direction.

The families have to fill out an application that proves the need because of financial hardship, pay a minimal fee and prove that their child is enrolled in one of the said schools.

Over the last nine years, we have helped provide more than 900 bags of supplies to help Jackson County students start on the right foot to a great school year. These bags provide the students with self-confidence and self-worth that so many children are lacking on the first day of school.

We are asking for support to help us with funding. If you can do anything to help us, that would be great. Even the smallest donations add up and can start a student off on the right foot this school year.

Any monetary donations need to be made out to Evangel United Methodist Church and Tools 4 School put in the memo section of the check.

If you would prefer to buy supplies for us, that works also, and they can be dropped off at Evangel United Methodist Church, or you can contact Janci Smith at 785-851-1092 to arrange pick up if possible.

We would like to thank you in advance for being God's hands and feet to help those in need. The meek shall inherit the earth, so let's prepare them with the supplies they need for their education.

PLAINS FOLK: More history on the Texas Longhorns

By Jim Hoy

Although the major use for the Texas Longhorn was originally for its hide and tallow, they were also used for meat with many driven to New Orleans for shipping to eastern markets in the 1830s.

In the 1840s and 1850s longhorns were driven from eastern Texas through Indian Territory, south-east Kansas, northwest Arkansas, and into Missouri along the Shawnee Trail, again headed for eastern markets.

After gold was discovered in California in 1848, resulting in the big Forty Niners gold rush, some intrepid Texans braved the deserts, and the Navajo and Apache Indians who lived in what is now New Mexico and Arizona, to supply that market.

As described in earlier columns, the longhorn was a hardy, if not a meaty, breed. It had evolved from its ancestors' first introduction into the New World into a survivor. What were those ancestors? As opposed to every other breed of domestic cattle in the world, the Texas Longhorn was a self-developer.

In other words, all other breeds, from beef to dairy to work cattle, were the result of selective breeding by human beings with an end result in mind. Those end results might be for volume of milk produced or for a higher percentage of cream in the milk. They might be for color or for a naturally muley cow (i.e., one without horns). They might be for meat or for size.

French Charolaise, for instance, are a larger animal than the average British breed. Back in my younger years, Aberdeen-Angus cattle were short, squatty and fat. Photographs from big livestock shows or from county fairs show the handler, halter rope in hand, standing a couple of feet taller than the steer. Probably with the introduction of the taller Charolaise in the later 1950s (I'm not sure of the date, but that's when I first remember seeing them), Angus breeders began to select for a rangier animal. 4-H kids showing an Angus at a county fair today can barely see over the shoulder of the steer they are leading.

The longhorn, on the other hand, had no one watching over its development. From Colorado's time on, many of these Spanish cattle had run wild until, by the mid-1800s, there were several million in Mexico and the southern United States. Along the way, they had fought off bears, wolves and mountain lions and developed immunity to disease, such as the tick-carried Spanish Fever.

But back to the ancestors of the longhorn. The Spanish had imported Andalusian cattle (ultimately descended from aurochs, first domesticated over 10,000 years ago and extinct by the end of the 17th century), which are black, tan, or gray with large horns. Over time, these became known as criollo, or "cattle of the country." The French also imported cattle in the early 16th century, but none of them survived. The English were more successful with cattle they brought to Virginia in 1609. These cattle reproduced and spread, becoming known as "Native American" cattle.

The longhorn, according to some authorities, resulted from the accidental crossbreeding of criollo and Native American cattle. In 1704, the British army, along with Creek Indians, raided the Spanish in Florida, bringing back with them some criollos, which interbred with Native American cattle in South Carolina, the major cattle-raising colony.

Settlers and their cattle moved westward into Mississippi, where they encountered Spanish cattle in Louisiana, which had been brought over from Mexico.

By mid-19th century, the bovine we know as the Texas Longhorn had become a recognizable breed. Then came the Texas-to-Kansas post-Civil War cattle drives in which the longhorn and the young men who drove them became American icons.

MAYETTA METHODIST

By Shirley Stauffer

Church services on July 1, Independence Sunday and the sixth Sunday after Pentecost, began with Pastor Howard reading from Psalms 34, followed by prayer. It was a pleasure to have Vicki and Mike Armstrong and Sarah Price as visitors.

Prayers were requested this week for the sister and brother of Charles Harden. The brother fell and broke his hip and his sister continues to recover. Prayers also for Ann Williking, Jerry Harter and Chuck Norris.

Bud Stauffer was the candle lighter and Randy Rickel rang the bell. Hymns sung were: "America the Beautiful," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America." Jonathan Wimer and David Oakley took up the offering.

The birthday song was sung to Pastor Howard and Bud Stauffer. Pastor Howard's message was based on Matthew 22:15-22. He spoke to us about being Citizens of Two Kingdoms. We closed with the circle of friendship.

This was a very special day as we received by baptism and reception as church members Pat Armstrong and Joan Chapman. Welcome to our church ladies!

Dustin Gunter sets sights on U.S. Paralympic team

Hoyt native Dustin Gunter, 21, is seeking to become a member of the U.S. Paralympic team, it has been reported.

"That's my biggest dream, to be on Team USA," Gunter said recently to a WIBW TV reporter. "That's why this year I wanted to go to a Grand Prix because I love competition."

Gunter recently competed in the 2018 Grand Prix Desert Challenge Games in Arizona, taking home the gold in long jump, the 400-meter dash and the 800-meter dash. The meet featured 454 disabled athletes from 18 different countries.

"I have to say probably the biggest thing that has led to his successes is work ethic," said Russell Hodison, Gunter's coach. "It's second to none."

When Gunter was eight years old, he was in an ATV accident. The handlebars of the dirt bike he collided with went through his helmet, his skull and came to a stop lodged inside his brain.

"I don't remember (it)," Gunter told WIBW. "My parents said I passed away and came back to life like four or five times. When I woke up, I was like a newborn baby. I didn't know how to speak or how to walk. It (took) maybe three or four years to walk again."

Gunter competes in the T35 category which, according to the International Paralympic Committee, means he has one or more coordination impairments. In Gunter's case, he also has difficulty with understanding and expressing speech.

"His attitude has led to his success also," Hodison said. "First thing he does when he comes to the track, he'll say 'It's a great day to practice.' It could be rainy or 95 degrees, and it doesn't matter to him. He's just glad to have another day, another opportunity to try to improve."

Gunter has more than improved this last season. On top of taking first in the three aforementioned events, he also placed third in the 200-meter dash and fourth in the 100-meter dash—races in which he ran against athletes from the U.S. Paralympic team.

"He came in 5 or 6 tenths in the 100 meters behind (one of the U.S. athletes)," Hodison said. "He has some problems still with his balance which affects his starts. If he can improve those starts, he can make that time up I believe."

"I was really nervous but you have to think of what you worked on," Gunter said. "All you have to do is believe in yourself. I never believe I can look down and never give up so I just push myself nonstop."

Gunter learned in Arizona that within his disability classification, the U.S. Paralympic team can only take athletes in the shot put, the 100 and the 200.

"Now, I have a target to look at," he said.

Until then, Gunter will continue to wake up every morning to a two-mile run, then head to work before weightlifting and workouts. Sometimes after his workouts, he even runs more.

"If nobody is ahead of me in my race, it doesn't push me," Gunter said. "I just always believe in myself."

Gunter, the son of Linda and Chuck Gunter of Hoyt, also competed this year in the Derby Challenge, the Gateway Games and the Endeavor Games, and hopes he can soon find a college with a para track team.

Students to attend Masonic band camp

The Kansas Masonic Foundation, Inc. will host the 35th annual Kansas Masonic All-State High School Marching Band and corresponding band camp at Pittsburg State University from July 24 - 28, it has been reported.

A total of 172 high school musicians, including five from Jackson County, will attend this year's camp, directed by PSU's Doug Whitten and his staff.

The five-day camp ends with performances at the Shrine Bowl parade, as well as pre-game and halftime performances during the Kansas East-West Shrine Bowl football game on Saturday, July 28, at PSU's Carnie Smith Stadium.

Local students set to attend the camp and their local lodge sponsors include:

* Riley Althaus of Holton High School, sponsored by Holton Lodge #42, AF&AM.

* Christina Hanshaw of Royal Valley High School, sponsored by Mayetta Lodge #393, AF&AM and Mayetta Chapter #383, OES.

* Tanner Holte of Royal Valley High School, sponsored by Mayetta Lodge #393, AF&AM and Mayetta Chapter #383, OES.

* Karsen Smith of Royal Valley High School, sponsored by Orient Lodge #51, AF&AM.

* Grace Linck of Jackson Heights High School, sponsored by Circleville Lodge #20, AF&AM.

The Kansas Masonic All-State High School Marching Band first appeared at the East-West Shrine Bowl in 1984.

"The idea for the marching band and camp was actually borne out of necessity," said Robert Shively, executive director for the Kansas Masonic Foundation. "Because of the summer break, high school bands are not readily available so we created our own. The entertainment provided by the marching band is a perfect complement to the atmosphere of the East-West Shrine Bowl."

Band Camp participants have the opportunity to win one of three prestigious awards presented annually:

The Outstanding Musician Award: the Kansas Masonic All-State Marching Band staff chooses the winner of this competitive award.

The Masonic Pride Award: Presented to the student who stands out through random acts of kindness and service to "all band kind."

The Jeff Atherly Inspiration Award: Given in memory of Jeff Atherly — a four-year veteran of band camp. This award is presented to the student who epitomizes the character of the Kansas Masonic All-Star Marching Band tradition.

Since 1984, more than 6,000 high schools students have participated in the Kansas Masonic All-State High School Marching Band.

Local Masonic Lodges and other community partners sponsor participants. Monies left after band camp expenses are given back to the students in the form of scholarships.

Net proceeds from the East-West Shrine Bowl football game are donated to the Shriners Hospitals for Children.

The Kansas Masonic Foundation is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) Foundation benefiting Kansans and Kansas communities. The Kansas Masonic Foundation was founded in 1966 to encourage philanthropy from Kansas Masons, their family and friends for charitable, educational and scientific programs. One hundred percent of all donations go toward the various charitable programs. For more information, visit kmfonline.org.

Baxter receives DAISY Award for excellence in nursing

Community HealthCare System (CHCS) recently recognized Danielle Baxter, RN, Onaga, with a DAISY Award for extraordinary nursing, it was reported.

Baxter's nomination was written by a patient who said they struggled to choose just one story about Baxter because they have one from each and every time she and her husband visited the Onaga Clinic.

The nominator did provide a couple examples that highlight Baxter's outstanding nursing, which include the gentle, kind and considerate manner in which she conducts her day and the extra time she takes to help collect information for health insurance.

Baxter perpetually displays what being a nurse is all about, "compassionately caring for others."

There is one illustration the patient provided that made the selection committee think "this is a DAISY Award winner."

The patient wrote, "We really appreciate her and often people do not think to say thank you at the time they are seeing the doctor, but it is people like her that make us happy to go to the clinic in Onaga as our main care facility."

CHCS selects DAISY Award winners twice a year, in May and December, through a blind selection process. Six nominations were received for the May award from co-workers, patients and patient families.

In addition to Baxter's nomination, the following nurses were nominated:

* Kristan Alverson- LPN, Eastridge longterm care.

* Carmen D'Alaio - LPN, Eastridge longterm care.

* Amanda Rempe - RN, Onaga Acute.

* Kelly Schmelze - LPN, Eastridge longterm care.

Danielle Baxter

* Jolene Wessel - RN, Onaga Acute.

The DAISY Foundation was established in 1999 by the family of J. Patrick Barnes, who died of complications of the autoimmune disease idiopathic thrombocytopenia purpura (ITP) at the age of 33.

During Barnes' eight-week hospitalization, his family was awestruck by the care and compassion his nurses provided. One of the goals they set in creating a foundation in Barnes' memory was to recognize extraordinary nurses who make an enormous difference in the lives of so many people by the superhuman work they do every day.

From this the family created the DAISY Award for Extraordinary Nurses. This simple award and thank you to nurses has grown into a meaningful recognition program embraced by healthcare organizations around the world.

GARDENER'S COLUMN: 101 things to do at 101 degrees

By Sandra M. Siebert

This morning, I lay in bed as my body and brain rebelled against the idea of going out into the heat to tend to garden duties.

The forecast high was set at more than 100 degrees, the hottest day so far this year. My plan was to work outside only in the morning, but I knew that even at 6:30 a.m. we were most likely looking at a temperature above 80.

I can handle 80, even 90. The profuse sweating even feels therapeutic.

And yet my mind and body rebelled. Only once I decided that dealing with the weeds could wait one more day, and I would spend the day focused on indoor pursuits did I motivate myself to get out of bed.

Even when the day's forecast isn't incredibly hot, I sometimes find myself rejecting another day of garden tasks.

I usually start my week with great enthusiasm, but find it flagging by Thursday or Friday.

Typically, all I need to do is set a less ambitious agenda for the day, or switch to less strenuous tasks. I might even allow myself to knock off early, or head out late. I can then face the next day with more enthusiasm.

Today required more drastic measures, though – staying in the air-conditioned house doing the 101 things that get neglected when I'm outdoors all day.

Not that I'm accomplishing 101 things. I've accomplished two tasks – besides the normal preparation and cleanup of meals. The day is not over yet, though, and I may yet accomplish more.

Or I may not. Sometimes self-care is more important than what gets accomplished.

My morning's tasks, while done indoors, were still garden focused – garden produce focused.

Summer squash season has started and a refrigerator drawer full of the green and yellow Zephyr squash and a few round lemon squashes were waiting to be dealt with.

Most of these luscious summer squashes were cut into thin slices (one-quarter inch thick and less), lightly salted, and arranged in the solar powered dehydrator. I anticipate the squash slices will be crisply dried by the end of this hot, sunny day. When prepared this way, the squash slices become crispy squash chips, a perfect guilt-free chip-like snack. No added fats or sugars.

The salt is critical. It enhances the flavor of the finished product and pulls out moisture so the squash dries crispier. I store the fully dried squash chips in glass jars with tight lids and they kept quite well last year.

With the exception of a couple of small squashes that I chopped into my cucumber salad, the rest of the squash got roasted. My recipe: cut chunks of summer squash into a shallow glass baking dish (I used a 10x13x2-inch dish); coarsely chop an onion and add it to the squash; cut up one to two apples and add them.

Drizzle on avocado oil and mix to coat. Season to taste with salt and pepper and put in a 400-degree oven for about an hour, stirring every 15 to 20 minutes.

This is probably my favorite way to cook summer squash. I always make plenty. It's good cold (use it as a salad topping) or reheated. I even spread some on a cookie sheet, stick it in the freezer. Once the squash is fully frozen, it goes into a freezer bag to eat much later.

For years, I struggled to get much summer squash production. Vine borers, cucumber beetles and those nefarious squash bugs always seemed to have the last word.

So last year I tried keeping the summer squash under row cover until they started to bloom, at which time they also are so large they're almost bursting through the protective covering. It worked.

Although the squash bugs still had the last word, it was not until I had harvested bushels of squash. This year my squash has made it into production mode, although the row cover is not 100 percent squash bug-proof. When I removed it a couple of weeks ago I immediately found coppery squash bug eggs on one leaf.

If I get on them early, I can keep the pesky critters from demolishing the squash – for a while, anyway.

Inspect leaves and scrape off any eggs (they're on the undersides of the leaves). The "glue" they're stuck on with is water soluble, so splash a little water on them to loosen before scraping.

A couple of days ago I found a clutch of tiny squash bug nymphs and soaked them with an insecticidal soap solution. I didn't see a single leg twitching after that.

It is critical that you get on these guys when they're young and vulnerable. The only sure-fire way to kill and adult squash bug is with two rocks, making it a squished bug. Or knock them (and those pesky Japanese beetles) into a bucket of soapy water.

All of the squashes are native to the Americas, and so, unfortunately, are the squash bugs. They were here long before I started trying to grow squash. I've often wondered how First Nations people kept squash bugs from taking down their squash crops, which were an important part of the diet in some areas.

They certainly didn't have the row cover that I use. So far, the Internet isn't telling me. It only wants to give me advice on modern ways of management.

More research is required. Sounds like a good way to spend a day in the air conditioning.

Note: Sandra Siebert, a former long time employee at The Holton Recorder, is now a regular columnist.

Dear editor,

This is concerning Sen. Jerry Moran coming to Holton on Saturday, June 23, 2018. A story was printed in the Wednesday, June 20 edition of The Holton Recorder.

The very important immigration bill was up for a vote. Yet, it was cancelled Thursday, June 21, due to not enough senators being present.

So, Sen. Moran, you had no intention of being present for a very important vote affecting American citizens.

I hope you showed up for the farm bill vote. And what have you done to improve our veterans' lives? How many years have you been in Congress?

I think you are very self-serving and you do not support our President Trump, who is trying and accomplishing much to help the American people, even with all the road blocks.

You, Sen. Moran, I believe, will (no matter what) receive at least two retirements and health care benefits paid for by us. I do not think you are serving Kansans well.

This is a good example for term limits.

Kientz Corner

By Beverly Ramey Newell

On June 24, the Pleasant Hill United Methodist Church congregation opened its worship service by singing "Glorious Things Of Thee Are Spoken."

The birthday for June 24 through June 30 was Dorothy Holt, June 26.

The anniversaries for the week were Al and Joyce Mannell and Matt and Deb Mannell, June 29.

The concerns were prayers for the 21 scouts and leaders of Troop 193 for safe travels to and from Arkansas.

A presentation to Greg and Janet Baldwin was given by Carrie Law, Annie McDowell and Kelly Neiman. A gift was given to the Baldwins from the congregation. Greg has been the music director of our church for the last 10 years. They have moved to Overland Park to be close to their children and grandchildren. We will miss both of them.

The men's gospel ensemble sang two songs, "I Saw The Light" and "Methodist Pie." Those singing were Gary Domer, Ron Griffiths, Clifford Hurst, Bruce Lanning, Bruce Tomlinson and John Wilson. Greg Baldwin accompanied them on the piano.

The children's story was given by Kevin McDowell. He asked the children, "Does Jesus care about you?" They all said, "Yes."

A minister named Rev. Frank E. Graeff was a cheerful person. He was known as "the sunshine minister." He faced some difficulties in his life. He wrote the hymn "Does Jesus Care?"

"O, yes, He cares, I know He cares, His heart is touched with my grief, When the days are weary, the long night dreary, I know my Savior cares, He cares."

Let us remember that Jesus cares about each one of us.

Carrie Law and Kelly Neiman sang "Lord, I Need You." Marc Serrano accompanied them on his guitar.

The sermon "Thy Kingdom Come" was given by the Rev. Hyun-Jin Cho. He read the scripture Matthew 6:9b-13. Our Father hears our prayers. The people of Israel were waiting for the kingdom to come. The kingdom to come to earth, as in heaven.

In our prayers, we generally ask for things such as good health, a better job and for our children to be safe and happy. It is OK to ask for these things. Jesus prayed for His safety.

We are encouraged to do God's will. We can also give forgiveness. Are we making His will be done on earth? Let us pray for God's kingdom.

The communion elements were served by Pastor Jin, Kevin McDowell and four other members of the church.

The praise band and choir sang "Come To The Table" during communion. Those singing were Alex Adame, Carrie Law, Annie McDowell and Kelly Neiman. Steve Noble played drums. Marc Serrano played electric guitar. Greg Baldwin played the piano.

While the offering was collected, Bruce Tomlinson sang "Before The Throne Of God."

The closing hymn was "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations." Those assisting with the worship service were Pastor Jin, liturgist; Greg Baldwin, organist; Betty Domer, song leader; and Deb and Matt Mannell, sound system.

After worship, everyone enjoyed good food and great fellowship in honor of Greg and Janet Baldwin. They will be missed.

Libraries Rock!

INSIGHT: Time to see fruits of your labor

By John Schlageck
Going into the first week of July, most Kansans are experiencing the dog-days of summer – blistering heat, strong southerly winds and a few scattered showers.

In the fields across our state, the corn crop is holding its own and the beans and milo are in “pretty” good shape as well.

Wheat harvest turned out better than most farmers expected but they know with the continued summer heat their Kansas row crops will need additional moisture during the next few months. Same for the pastures and ponds.

Still, for those Kansans lucky enough to toil in their own gardens, it's time to taste, enjoy and appreciate the fruits of their labor. Some are already picking tomatoes and cucumbers by the armfuls. Lettuce and radishes remain in the mix as well.

Just a few short weeks ago, many folks walked out to their machine sheds or garage and plucked a spade out of one of the dark corners or cranked up the turf tiller and headed for the garden. Springtime on the farm or in town always means preparing the soil, planting seeds and growing food.

Growing up in the late '50s and early '60s, fresh produce wasn't as abundant in the grocery store as it is today. Knox Market, located on old Highway 24 on the west edge of Hoxie, did boast cantaloupes and watermelons trucked in from western Colorado and New Mexico.

This amounted to some fine, delicious summer eating. Juicy and cold, a big slice of watermelon – you couldn't beat it for a summer treat.

During this period, most families grew their own. Many couldn't afford to go to the store and buy their fresh fruits and vegetables.

Today, while most people can afford to buy their produce from the local grocery, some still prefer to grow their own.

Few things are better in life than fresh sweet corn picked, steamed and served slathered with butter a few minutes before lunch or dinner. The kernels taste as sweet as candy. Yep, tomatoes, cucumbers, cantaloupes and watermelons all taste better when they're “fresh picked.”

Also, there is nothing more satisfying than to walk out to your own garden, pick a couple of tomatoes and head for the kitchen. Once inside, wash and cut the red delight, sprinkle on a little salt and pepper. Umm, they're so good.

People are discovering once again, or in most cases for the first time, how good foods taste fresh right out of the soil.

If you don't believe me, just bite into a fresh carrot, radish or slice up a cool, refreshing cucumber and slip it into your mouth. The proof is in the tasting.

Some of us were born with a sweet tooth. I'm one of them. Fresh fruit, ice cream and chocolates are my favorites.

If you've ever picked fresh strawberries and sprinkled them on a heaping bowl of vanilla ice cream, you know you've just experienced a little bit of heaven right here on earth. Sometimes popping a few fresh ones right from the vine and into your mouth is even better.

So, the next time you're working in your garden this summer and the sweat begins to drip down your face and into your eyes, think about all those wonderful fresh strawberries, tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers you'll soon eat on your own dinner table. When you harvest the fruits of your labor, you'll know it is worth it.

Note: John Schlageck is a commentator on agriculture and rural Kansas. Born and raised on a diversified farm in northwestern Kansas, his writing reflects a lifetime of experience, knowledge and passion.

Neece's sentencing hearing was postponed from June 15 after her defense attorney, Christopher Etzel of Onaga, said he needed to investigate an alleged Missouri Supreme Court ruling that could have reduced charges against Neece in a Platte County case from felonies to misdemeanors.

On Friday, Etzel said a review of the Platte County case resulted in that county's court denying the reduction of charges. He and Neece also asked Marek to consider running the sentences on the charges, both felonies with a sentencing range of eight to 10 months, concurrently.

Etzel also asked Marek to consider a release of property belonging to Neece that has been seized under a search warrant issued following her arrest, noting that "the bulk of (seized property) was not connected to this case" and that Neece was entitled to a return of the property unless it was requested by another jurisdiction.

Jackson County Attorney Shawna Miller said that "a large amount" of property obtained under the search warrant may have been stolen items, and as a result, "there will likely be criminal charges" while "several stores" reportedly involved in the thefts seek the return of stolen items.

Marek authorized Etzel to create a list of properties seized under warrant, noting that "there could be some property that your client is entitled to" but noted other items may be considered stolen.

Two others charged with Neece in the thefts, Joshua B. Thigpen, 31, also of Ferrelview, Mo., and Karly L. Barnes, 24, of Kansas City, Mo., were sentenced during the June 15 hearing. Thigpen and Barnes also were charged with felonies that could have resulted in presumptive probation, but Marek invoked the same "special rule" as with Neece that resulted in prison sentences for both.

Thigpen received a 26-month (two years and two months) sentence on charges of felony theft and illegal possession of a theft detection device remover, while Barnes received a 22-month (a year and 10 months) sentence on charges of felony theft and obstruction of official duty. Thigpen and Barnes were given 79 days credit against their prison sentences for time already served.

The three of them were arrested on March 28 following an investigation by the Jackson County Sheriff's Office into the removal of theft detection devices from and subsequent theft of thousands of dollars worth of electronic products such as electronic tablets, iPads and video games from Walmart and other department stores in Holton and the four states listed above.

Claude Marvin Rieschick and Clyde Milton Rieschick were born July 1, 1922, in Soldier, twin sons of Henry Fred and Audrey McKinsey Rieschick. The family's lot in life was the farm, and the Rieschick boys — along with their younger brother, Keith — were largely left alone by the U.S. government to tend to the farm during the heat of World War II.

"They deferred me a few times," he said.

But in the spring of 1944, Rieschick's number came up, and on June 9, 1944 — three days after the D-Day invasion in France, and almost two months after his marriage to Betty Capsey — he was inducted into Army service at Fort Leavenworth and trained, rather quickly, at Camp Robinson in Little Rock, Ark., as an automatic rifleman.

"I knew I was going to be a replacement," Rieschick said. "It was a pretty fast move. Our captain was telling us, 'You men are all going overseas, but you're all not coming home.' Those weren't some good words."

Rieschick did have one good thing to count on during his basic training — no matter where he went while he was still stateside, Betty wasn't far behind.

"I always had the little wife there with me," he said. "She followed me wherever I went. She'd wash dishes and do laundry for people to make a little money."

But as Rieschick recalled, "the minute the training was over, we were headed overseas," and on Dec. 10, 1944, Company B of the "Mountaineers" left for Europe aboard the S.S. Argentina, arriving in Naples, Italy, a dozen days later.

"They had big tanks waiting for us when we landed," Rieschick said. "I walked in tank tracks right after I got off the ship."

The company spent the next few days in a Naples suburb before heading out toward Rome on Christmas Day. For the next month, they slowly made their way through deep snow and mud.

"Keep moving," they'd say. Even with the packs on our backs, they'd say, 'Keep moving. Don't stop,'" Rieschick said.

Company B continued to press on into northern Italy, taking on a few skirmishes with German troops along the way.

"I carried an M1 rifle," Rieschick said. "We got shelled one night and it ruined my Army blanket... My blanket was laying beside the fox hole, and I said, 'Whitey, we got shelled here.' The blanket looked like mice chewed it up."

They caught their first glimpse of the Po Valley on April 20, 1945, clashing with the Germans and taking prisoners. Two days later, on April 22, the company had marched all day into San Benedetto, where they prepared to leave on a truck, but just as the motor convoy had started to pull out of town, a German battalion with a tank ambushed the company.

Most of the battalion got away, but not Company B.

"We were ambushed two or three times," Rieschick said. "We had to run down the valley to get away."

It was at that time that Rieschick was wounded in the cheek by the German rifle bullet, but he continued to stand strong, looking for and finding his squad leader and continuing to fight back against the Germans, who were using machine guns and "bazookas" against the company.

When the unit was ordered to withdraw, Rieschick aided in the evacuation of casualties and motor vehicles, mainly Jeeps, that had come under heavy enemy fire, according to Rieschick's Bronze Star and Purple Heart citations.

"The sterling efforts of Private First Class Rieschick under hazardous conditions and the handicap of a painful injury are deserving of the highest praise and commendation," the citations stated.

The company got word on May 3 that the German forces in Italy were ready for unconditional surrender, and with the war in Europe wrapping up, Rieschick received word that he was going to be shipped off to the South Pacific following a few weeks' furlough.

And then President Harry Truman dropped the bomb. Two of them, in fact, on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, that effectively brought World War II to its conclusion.

"It was a great thing, I thought," Rieschick said. "A lot of guys criticized Truman, but one of my happiest days, that was when they dropped that bomb and ended it all."

After being officially discharged on Nov. 14, 1945, at Camp Carson, Colo., Rieschick and his wife returned home to the family farm north of Soldier, where they raised three sons and a daughter.

He credited Betty with standing by him during a time when the wives of many soldiers did not.

"She was good to me all during my service," he said. "One of the sad things with some of the guys that I knew real well, they got 'Dear Johns' from their wives. I've had them leaning on my shoulder, crying, when they found out their wives found other men back home. I knew all of those guys, and I felt so sad about it."

Betty was also helpful with getting him to exorcise the ghosts of war, as he would still see German soldiers in his dreams after coming home. The Rieschicks stayed together for 72 years, and Betty died on May 13, 2016.

In the years following the war, Rieschick's stayed busy with farming and his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and he's also been involved in celebrating the work of his fellow World War II veterans by helping get the Honor Flight program started at Jackson Heights.

Lately, though, Rieschick — who celebrated his 96th birthday this past Sunday, on the same day as a grandchild and a great-grandchild — prefers to take it easy.

"I used to say, 'We do this and we do that,'" he said. "Now, you know, I just relax."

2018 KIDS COUNT...

The number of teen births per 1,000 is 22, down from 39 in 2010.

Despite those positive numbers, the percentage of Kansas eighth-graders not proficient in math was 65 percent in 2017, up from 61 percent in 2009. That highlights the continued importance of making education a priority in Kansas, where we have seen repeated court action over school funding.

Of Kansas' neighbors, Missouri ranks 26th, Colorado ranks 20th, Oklahoma ranks 44th, and Nebraska ranks ninth overall in the 2018 Data Book. "Kansas kids and families rely on great schools, affordable health care, great infrastructure, and thriving communities," said KAC's Vice President of Advocacy John Wilson. "As we recover from the Brownback administration's tax policies, we have to keep rebuilding these core services."

has also been highlighting the importance of race and gender equity across the state. Gains in well-being for Kansas kids and families have not been evenly distributed, with communities of color facing barriers from systemic racism. Disaggregated data briefs and other publications from KAC over the coming year will highlight these challenges.

"All children and families should have pathways to success, and KAC is committed to making sure that happens," Wilson said. "Information from the Data Book, along with our own analysis, will shape our priorities throughout the year."

It's critical, given the needs of Kansas kids, that they be accurately counted in the 2020 U.S. Census. Kansas is in jeopardy of not securing needed federal resources for programs that support child well-being, as research shows 13 percent of children under the age of 5 live in hard-to-count areas.

That's 25,000 kids, many from communities of color and low-income or immigrant families, who would be most harmed by cuts.

With one million young children undercounted nationally in 2010, we are at risk of missing even more in two years. According to the Data Book, some 300 federal programs rely on data derived from the census to distribute $800 billion a year.

"That's money that goes to helping our state's children and families — including those who most need it," Wilson said.

"We will count on children of all races and ethnicities to build America's future, so the country must count all children in this upcoming census, so we can direct funding to meet their needs," said Casey Foundation President and CEO Patrick McCarthy.
