Kelly elected new governor

By Ali Holcomb

Democrat Laura Kelly (shown at right) was elected the 48th governor of Kansas last night after a hotly contested race against Republican Kris Kobach that drew 62 percent of Jackson County voters to the polls, it was reported.

A total of 5,344 of the county's registered voters participated in yesterday's election, with 1,047 voting in advance.

Kelly received 48 percent of the statewide vote (489,337 votes), over Kobach, who received 43 percent (443,346 votes).

Locally, however, Kobach was favored, as he received 2,534 votes in Jackson County compared to Kelly's 2,045 votes.

In addition here, independent candidates Greg Orman and Rick Kloos received 479 votes and 59 votes, respectively, while Libertarian candidate Jeff Caldwell received 98 votes.

"We all know we have a very long, challenging road ahead of us," Kelly said after she was declared the winner of the governor's race. "These past eight years have been a hardship. But we're a people united by a common set of values; the spirit of neighbor helping neighbor, respect for one another and always doing right by our children."

Republican Steve Watkins, whose father grew up in Holton, was elected to represent District Two in the U.S. House of Repre-

PD vehicle purchase OK'd

By Brian Sanders

Monday's Holton City Commission meeting saw commissioners approving the purchase of a new police patrol vehicle for the Holton Police Department, after commissioners delayed action for a month because only one bid for a new police vehicle had been received.

Commissioners approved the purchase of a 2019 Dodge Durango police patrol vehicle from Ellis Boys Chrysler/Jeep of Holton for the police department at a cost of no more than $30,276 at the recommendation of Holton Police Chief Gale Gakle. The new vehicle will be paid for out of the police department's capital outlay fund, commissioners noted.

Commissioners had received a bid from Ellis Boys for a new police patrol vehicle at their Oct. 1 meeting, but tabled action on the bid until Monday because at that time, that bid was the only one received by the city.

Holton HS to present 'Into The Woods'

By Brian Sanders

It's the ultimate "fractured fairy tale," combining several familiar stories from the Brothers Grimm and Charles Perrault with a few plot twists, and it's coming to the Holton High School stage this weekend.

"Into The Woods," the Tony Award-winning musical written by Stephen Sondheim and James Lapine, will be presented by Holton High School's music department at 7 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday in the HHS auditorium, with a dinner theater scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

The show marks the debut of HHS vocal music director Tim Smale, who noted the choice of "Into The Woods" was made by the students last year, shortly before the departure of Smale's predecessor, Randall Bond, who had staged the musical twice before at HHS.

"These kids are so dedicated, and they know the show really well, even though it is a more difficult show," Smale said during rehearsals on Monday. "I didn't have to sell the show to the kids and teach them all the aspects of the show — they were already pretty familiar with it. They knew a lot of the songs, and they knew the story and how the characters end up."

First staged in San Diego in 1986 and moved to Broadway the next year for more than 750 performances in its original run, "Into The Woods" was also adapted into a hit Disney movie musical with an all-star cast in 2014.

The main characters are taken from several well-known children's stories, including Little Red Riding Hood (Tabor Barta), Jack (Ethan Teter) and the Beanstalk, Rapunzel (Savannah Phillips), Cinderella (Danielle Adcock) and several others.

The musical is tied together by a narrator (Seth Peterson), spinning an original story involving a baker (Walker Sheldon) and his wife (Sydney Snyder) and their quest to begin a family, and their interaction with a witch (Taylor Stevens) and her curse on them.

During initial dress rehearsals on Monday, Smale noted that work on the musical is "coming together really well," with all the details to be ironed out by showtime on Thursday.

RVHS staging 'Greek Mythology' comedy

By Ali Holcomb

This coming weekend's stage production at Royal Valley High School is a refresher course in Greek mythology as two battling narrators comically explain several myths in "The Greek Mythology Olympiaganza."

Written by Don Zolidis, the comedy offers a different look at Greek mythology stories, such as Pandora's Box, Hercules and Achilles' Heel.

"The play covers a variety of Greek myths, including some that aren't widely known," said director Stephanie Allen.

Each myth is introduced by two narrators, who are students making an oral presentation in class, and then the myth is acted out by additional characters.

"The fun part is that we have lots of students playing multiple roles," Allen said. "We'll be switching wigs, facial hair and costume pieces. It's going to be a lot of fun."

Cast members include Hanna Allen (Narrator 1/Rhea), Gabi Simmons (Narrator 2), Tanner Holte (Cronos, Man, Hera, King, Trojan 2 and Helen), Serenity Hopkins (Uranus, Father, Euphemus/Zombie and Greek), McKenzie Handley (Prometheus, Woman, Aphrodite, TV News Anchor, Harpies/Sirens/Lonely Single Woman/Medea, Sue and Furies).

Blake Holte (Epimetheus/Titan, Apollo, Bob, Actor 2 and Greek 2), Allison Clements (Therapist, Mother, Orpheus, Daedalus and Achilles), Karsen

JH community rallies around Alex Edwards

■ Sophomore recovering after heart transplant

By Brian Sanders

Jackson Heights High School students are raising funds to help one of their own who recently underwent a heart transplant, it was reported.

Alex Edwards, a sophomore at JHHS, is currently recovering from a transplant operation at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City on Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Edwards' fellow JHHS students and supporters are currently raising funds to help Edwards and his family with medical bills resulting from the transplant and his stay at Children's Mercy.

According to Edwards' father, Jeremy Edwards, Alex was diagnosed with hypertrophic cardiomyopathy — a condition in which the heart muscle becomes abnormally thick — when he was about eight months old.

Hypertrophic cardiomyopathy, or HCM, affects one in about 500 people, it was reported. Often, only one part of the heart is thicker than the other parts, and the thickening can make it harder for blood to leave the heart, forcing the heart to work harder to pump blood.

After a wait of about a year, according to Jeremy, it was reported that a matching donor heart had been located on Monday, Oct. 29, and the next day, Edwards underwent the transplant operation.

On Tuesday, Jeremy said Alex was still in the pediatric intensive care unit at Children's Mercy, where doctors have estimated that Alex will be released in "two to three weeks, possibly, if things go right."

Jeremy also said Tuesday that Alex is in good spirits following the transplant, although "he's having a few small troubles with his kidneys, but they're hoping that those will resolve in the next week or so."

At last Friday's JHHS regional football playoff game against Valley Heights — which the Cobras won, 35-20 — Edwards' supporters were encouraged to wear red in honor of his new heart.

Cleaning stainless steel?

■ Take note below

By Nancy C. Nelson
Meadowlark Extension District Agent

Are you shopping for a stainless steel appliance or cookware? As part of the purchasing decision think about the cleaning and care.

At The American Cleaning Institute, they get asked how to clean stainless steel.

For those of you who have this wildly popular finish on appliances, pots and pans and more, they recommend using a professionally-formulated cleaner designed for use on stainless steel.

Here are some other tips they provided to Consumer Reports earlier this year:

Step 1: Dip a soft cloth in warm water mixed with a mild dish detergent. Wipe the surface, rinse the cloth and wipe again, then dry with a towel to prevent water spots.

Step 2: If you still see fingerprints, spray a glass cleaner onto a soft cloth and wipe fingerprints away.

Step 3: To remove baked-on food and grease, make a paste of baking soda and warm water. Gently rub onto the surface using a soft cloth or sponge. Wipe with a clean wet cloth and towel dry.

For scratches and stains, use a stainless steel cleaner and apply to the area, following directions. Rinse with a clean damp cloth, then dry.

Circleville United Methodist

By Sue Wichman

All Saints Sunday was observed at the Circleville United Methodist Church on Nov. 3.

Leesa Harshaw played "Autumn Leaves" for a beautiful prelude while Barbara Hutchinson and Ginger Johnson lighted the altar candles.

Lay Pastor Charlotte Milroy invited each member of the congregation to come forward and light a candle in memory of the saints in their lives.

The hymns were "O For A Thousand Tongues To Sing," "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations" and "Nothing But The Blood." Dawn Duryea served as song leader, with Leesa's accompaniment.

Charlotte led the Call to Worship, the Opening Prayer and the Psalter. The Scripture Lesson from the books of Ruth and Hebrews was read by Mary Jo Fernkopf.

The title of Charlotte's message was "All Saints." Only in recent years has All Saints Sunday been celebrated in the Protestant Churches. We remember those who have gone before us in the faith. "We know that all those who believed in Jesus have seen the glory of God."

Allen Fernkopf and Dennis Hutchinson received the offering as Leesa played "Come Thou Fount Of Every Blessing."

The service closed with "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Note: Next Sunday will be "Thank Offering" Sunday. The Sunday School class will not meet. The congregation will meet at 9:45 a.m. for rolls, coffee and fellowship prior to the service at 10:30 a.m.

Buck's Grove

By Betty Bernritter

All Saints Day Sunday was celebrated at Buck's Grove United Methodist Church on Nov. 4, 2018. To begin the worship service, Leesa Harshaw played "Amazing Grace" as Mary Ringel lighted the altar candles.

After announcements, Pastor Charlotte Milroy led the congregation in the opening prayer and Psalm 146. She read scripture Ruth 1:1-18 and Hebrews 9:11-14.

During the hymn, "O For A Thousand Tongues To Sing" the congregants lighted a candle for the Saints in their lives. Other hymns sung were "Nothing But The Blood" and "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations." Donna Ashcraft was our song leader.

For Don and Jean Boling's special, Claude Rieschick and his daughter Claudia Long sang "What A Friend We Have In Jesus."

Pastor Charlotte read scripture John 11:32-44 and titled her message "All Saints." This is one of those Sundays that only in recent years has become a part of the Protestant tradition, however, it has been celebrated within the Roman Catholic tradition for centuries.

As Protestants have become more comfortable with the concept of saints, recognizing that all those redeemed and sanctified by Christ are saints, the celebration has taken on significant value.

We remember those who have gone before us in the faith are united with those who share the faith in holy communion. There is something quite mystical and powerful in this celebration as we strive to understand the linkage between saints in the church.

Therefore, All Saints Day is a day when we remember those who have gone before us in the faith. Their title is not important but in church history some have come to be called saints. We know that all those who believe in Jesus have seen the glory of God and now share a joy in which details are not important.

We thank God for His grace in the lives of these saints and for the ways in which they have touched and influenced us. Amen

After the offertory prayer, Leesa played "Without Him." Don Boling and Wayne Rieschick were the ushers.

The service closed by singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" as Mary carried out the Light of Christ.

Circleville Masonic Lodge plans breakfast, talk

The Circleville Masonic Lodge will be hosting a free breakfast and "Discovering Freemasonry'' seminar at their Lodge Building for those in the community interested in learning more about this 300-year-old organization, it has been reported.

The breakfast will be held at 8 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 17, at the Lodge Building located at 201 Lovejoy Ave. in Circleville. The seminar will follow.

Freemasonry is the largest and oldest fraternity in the world, it has been reported. No one knows just how old Freemasonry is because its origins have been lost over the years. It is believed, however, that it originated with the ancient stonemasons' guild formed by the builders of the great cathedrals and castles of the Middle Ages.

In 1717, the Freemasons formally organized as a fraternal group in London, established their first governing body and called it a Grand Lodge.

Within the next 20 years, Freemasonry spread throughout Europe and made its way to the American colonies.

In 1738, the first American Grand Lodge was established in Boston. The Kansas Grand Lodge was formed in 1856.

Circleville Lodge No. 20 would like to share with the community its proud heritage and answer questions that people may have about Freemasonry. For more information and to RSVP, call Steve Banaka at 785-851-0526.

OPINION

Whether you vote or not should be private - but it's not

Now that the election is over, it's time to consider whether Americans should continue to allow any part of their voting records to become matters of public record.

While "who you vote for" is still supposed to be a secret, did you know that "whether you vote, or not" is a public record being utilized by the major political parties these days?

More than a few Lee County, Fla., voters were upset a few years back when they received a mailer that urged them to vote — and included a list of their neighbors' names and their neighbors' voting records and a threat to include recipients' names and voting records in the future.

"This year, we are providing the names of your neighbors and their voting record," read the mailer, adding that next time "we will include information on who voted in the upcoming November election."

The threatening tone of this mailer predictably caused a lot of bad feelings. People were very upset. Some of them thought (the sender) knew who they voted for.

Reports of the discovery of a database, accessible on the internet, containing the voter records of 191 million Americans, also alarmed many privacy advocates and concerned citizens in recent years.

The voter participation records are reportedly collected for public purposes, not private ones supposedly and there's no opt-out for us voters on sharing this information.

Voter records may contain facts about individuals, including your name, your street address, your party affiliation, the elections in which you did or did not, vote, your phone number and your e-mail address.

While each state sets its own rules, voter data from every state is available for some uses.

Voter data records are not necessarily easy for regular people to obtain or use, however.

Reaching out to state government election offices for the voting data reportedly requires a certain level of know how just to make the requests.

Specialists for the Republican and Democrat parties don't seem to have the same problems. They obtain the data and supply it in accessible forms for election campaigns.

Effective use of the voter database reportedly was a major factor in the 2008 and 2012 Obama for America campaigns.

Private voter data was transferred by a Kansas official over an unsecured e-mail in 2013 and inadvertently released by Florida officials working to fulfill an open records request.

Kansas Secretary of State Kris Kobach's quest to discover voter fraud exposed sensitive data for nearly 1,000 Kansans when an official tried to compare partial Social Security numbers sent via an unsecured email to election staff in Florida.

Voters' data was exposed in the course of the Interstate Crosscheck System, which serves to detect illegal double voting and find people registered to vote in more than one state.

The spreadsheet, sent over an unsecured email, included Kansans' partial Social Security numbers among other details about them.

The Florida Department of State then released that list in response to an open records request filed by Anita Parsa, a Mission Hills, Kan. resident interested in Kansas' role leading Crosscheck.

Parsa, who began working with the advocacy group Indivisible Chicago after filing the request, said she didn't ask for any data in her request. She wanted to know why Florida decided to leave the Crosscheck program.

The first time she looked through the disclosed emails between Florida and Kansas officials, she said, she didn't see the spreadsheet of 945 voters.

"And when I opened it, I was floored," Parsa said.

Crosscheck's database contained the voting records of about 100 million voters all told, but Kansas officials said the Crosscheck data was never breached.

If political party operatives can find a way to use the voter records to their party's advantage, they will do it.

Whether you vote in an election, or not, is your business and no one else's - just as the information about who you voted for is supposed to be private.

Certainly, Americans shouldn't have their voting records used against them for the political gain of any political party, or as a way to shame them into voting one way or another.

What do you think?

Quilts of Valor group honors vets, deserves community's support

Dear editor,

On a beautiful summer evening this past June, I had the esteemed privilege of accompanying my husband to the Fourth Annual Quilts of Valor dinner and presentation held at the First United Methodist Church in Holton.

My husband was one of 50 veterans who was nominated and accepted the invitation to be honored for their service by receiving a handmade quilt.

While I had vaguely heard of this annual event, I was completely unaware of the dedication, attention to detail and heartfelt work that goes into its existence.

It was truly a humbling experience to listen as each alphabetical name was called, then details of his or her service, branch of military, ranking, conflicts fought in and medals and honors given were read.

Every branch of the United States Military was represented and veterans from WWII, the Korean War and Vietnam were honored as well as Desert Storm and the current War on Terrorism.

The room was filled with emotion as each beautiful quilt was unfolded for the crowd to see as the recipient went forth to be presented with it. The styles and patterns, colors and themes were each magnificent, mostly patriotic, with some designed specifically pertaining to the branch its veteran belonged to.

Each quilt was as beautiful and unique as the veteran receiving it. I sat there mesmerized by the quality, the workmanship and the love that went into every stitch as mere strangers poured their hearts into those fabrics and created a masterpiece.

I thought about how many service men and women whom we'll never meet have fought and continue to fight for our lives and our freedoms every single day, protecting and paying the highest of prices to ensure our peace and independence.

Strangers. Essentially that's what they are, until one of them becomes your son, daughter, sister, brother, wife… or husband. So many times their selfless acts are taken for granted.

My husband's quilt (shown in the photo above) is a true labor of love. Many of the donated quilts are made by strangers to their veterans but we have the privilege of knowing and loving our nominator/talented seamstress.

I want to personally thank Jo Ann Nott (also shown in the photo above) for dedicating countless selfless hours to honor my husband with this quilt and matching pillowcase. It is a treasured heirloom we will enjoy and hold dear for the rest of our lives.

Jo Ann has graciously donated a quilt every year to Quilts of Valor. In the eight years I've known her, she has graced my home with her talents in many ways from an amazing quilt for my son's eighth birthday to crochet doilies to beautiful sunflower needlepoint pillows.

Every gift she's given me means the world to me knowing the amount of creativity and work that's gone into them.

I would also like to thank each and every kindhearted soul that donated their time and efforts for this event. It was an evening we will never forget.

VETERANS DAY LETTER

As you can probably imagine, an unprecedented amount of work also goes into this event. This year, a delicious dinner was provided for more than 200 people, prepared and served by volunteers.

Each quilt recipient and one guest received their dinner as part of the award and the rest was free-will donation.

The Quilts of Valor relies solely on the profits of the dinner to purchase everything needed to make this wonderful event a reality.

There are only about 12 members of the Quilts of Valor and no detail was overlooked. I would love to see our wonderful community come together and support this extremely special event that is unique to our little Jackson County.

Please consider supporting in any way you can. For more information on ways to contribute, please contact Connie Morgan at Quilting on the Square at (785) 364-4050.

PLAINS FOLK: Vigilantes hanged the Reno Gang

By Jim Hoy

At the end of my last column, six Reno Gang members (but no Renos) had robbed an Ohio and Mississippi train near Brownstown, Ind. on July 10, 1868.

The citizens of Indiana had had enough. They decided that if the law couldn't stop the Reno Gang, they could and they would.

One of the gang members had been caught at the scene of the heist and two more were arrested the next day.

Ten days later, these three were being moved to the county jail at Brownstown when the train carrying them was flagged down by a large group of men wearing red masks, members of the Jackson County Vigilance Committee, also known as the Scarlet Mask Society. The vigilantes seized the prisoners and strung them up from a nearby tree.

When the other three gang members in on the O&M robbery heard about the lynching, they fled to Illinois, where they were arrested five days later.

Authorities, fearing the prisoners would also be lynched if transported by train, decided to secretly move them by wagon to Brownstown.

The vigilantes learned of this attempt and intercepted the wagon very near the same place where they had earlier stopped the train, and they hanged these three outlaws from the same tree where they had lynched the other three.

A couple of days later, Sim and William Reno were jailed in New Albany.

Frank Reno and another gang member, however, had fled to Windsor, Canada.

Allen Pinkerton's attempt to have them arrested and extradited took some doing. Canada feared that if they sent the outlaws back to the states, they would also be lynched.

After much legal wrangling, in which Pinkerton had enlisted the aid of Secretary of State William Seward, who himself at one point dispatched a gunboat to Windsor, it ultimately took a letter from President Andrew Johnson assuring their safety before the prisoners were returned to Indiana and also placed in the New Albany jail.

Despite assurances for the safety of the imprisoned Renos, however, sometime after midnight on Dec. 12, 1868, about 70 Scarlet Mask vigilantes boarded the train in Seymour and alit in New Albany, where they stormed the sheriff's office.

When the sheriff attempted to go for help, he was shot in the arm. Two county commissioners also in the jail to help guard the prisoners were taken into custody by the mob, along with the sheriff and his wife.

The Scarlet Maskers then approached the cell holding Frank, William, and Sim Reno and Charlie Anderson with five nooses.

The jailer, Thomas Matthews, at first resisted the mob, but when they threatened him with the extra noose, he opened the door.

Frank Reno, oldest of the brothers, was the first to be hanged, then William, the youngest, was hanged next to him, both from the second story stairwell.

Sim resisted violently, but was overpowered and hanged in his cell.

Charlie Anderson had to be hanged twice, the first noose breaking.

By 5 a.m., Judge Lynch's sentences had all been executed and the mob returned to Seymour.

In all, 10 gang members were lynched. John Reno, serving time in the Missouri penitentiary, was the only one to escape a noose. He was released 10 years later, but soon after went back to the pen for counterfeiting. He died in 1895, thus ending the life of the last member of the notorious Reno Gang.

Some criminal elements of Jackson County, Ind., made noises about revenge for the lynchings, but notices published by the Vigilance Committee promising "short shrift and a hempen collar" were taken seriously, thus restoring order if not exactly legal law to the area. No Scarlet Mask member was ever identified.

DAR Chapter meeting held Oct. 20

By Tena Brucken

The Samuel Linscott DAR Chapter met on Oct. 20, 2018 at the Denison State Bank Conference Room.

Members present were Anne Brockelman, Sharon Beaman, Jerry Brees, Tena Brucken, Sherry Durst and Dorothy Be-Dunnah.

Regent Brucken led the opening ritual followed by Brees' presentation of the President General's message.

The National Defense message was presented by Brucken.

Veterans Day is Sunday, Nov. 11.

Each community will be celebrating on different days ranging from Saturday Nov. 10 through Monday, Nov.12.

Several DAR members will be helping with decorating and serving dinner for our veterans in their respective communities.

There were no minutes for May of 2018 as the DAR group visited the Council Grove Madonna of the Trail.

Chapter members dined with the Council Oak DAR at the Hays House and visited several historical sites at Council Grove.

Treasurer Brees gave the monthly report regarding the group's account, including the Gene Dickinson's Memorial Fund.

Under committee reports, Durst announced there will no longer be any need to save stamps. The office in Arizona sent this information to her.

Durst will check further to confirm this is correct. She also reported on the Women Veterans Memorial being available to DAR veterans.

Brees attended the fall conference in September where the local chapter was presented the Level 2 Chapter Achievement Award by the National Society.

Brees also presented the flag report. The flag is codified in Title 4 of the United States Code: a code of etiquette and respect. There are no criminal sanctions for violating the code's provisions.

The chapter discussed sponsoring a membership workshop, which had been tabled at the April 2018 meeting.

The chapter decided that it would be best to wait until the spring of 2019 to have the workshop, due to the upcoming holiday season.

The chapter will be hosting Kansas State Regent, Kathryn Walker West, at its November meeting. The meeting is scheduled to be at Red Rock Ranch with a brief meeting, lunch and then visiting the gravesite at the Soldier Cemetery for Real Daughter, Frances Loveland (1823-1922).

The program was an interesting and humorous presentation by Durst on the New Mexico Madonna located in Albuquerque.

Back in the early 1920s, the first placement of the state's Madonna was in Santa Fe.

Citizen Mary Austin - known feminist, Southwestern naturalist and environmentalist - was against placing the Madonna in Santa Fe. She felt the statue was inappropriate for New Mexico as New Mexico's pioneer mothers were not in the DAR; they were Hispanic.

After much heated discussions, the Madonna was removed from Santa Fe and taken to Albuquerque, its present location.

"This is the first time that we've been running things with the pit orchestra and with the stage crew moving everything, and with the lighting and the sounds," he said on Monday.

Work on the musical began "a month and a half ago," Smale said, starting with the music and working toward the staging.

"The music is pretty much the trickiest stuff to put together," he said.

Smale also expressed anticipation that this weekend's audiences will be as enthusiastic about the performance as the students.

"These kids were excited about it, and we wanted to choose a musical that they'd want to do," Smale said. "And I think the audience is going to love it. There's a lot of humor in the show, and the music is really coming together well."

This particular performance of "Into The Woods" will feature a five-person "pit orchestra," featuring longtime HHS accompanist Pat Grindol on piano, along with Jayme Malsom on trombone, Karen Ford on flute, Matt Bell on percussion and Smale on additional keyboards.

Other cast members include Paige Crouch, Abbigail Hundley, Ana Lemon, Cailin Parks, Trasen Snavely, Kale Purcell, Kyler Rose, Chris Roush, Ethan Brownell, Mary Pritchett, Kinleigh Rhodd, Lexi Jenner, Marcus Pruett, Kaelah Nelson and Sadie Gilliland.

Smale acknowledged the work of Bree Teter in assisting with painting the set pieces and the backdrop. Students involved with the sets and the crew include Parker Gilliland, Jackson Gilliland, Connor Gilliland, Kolby Roush, Sarah Holaday, Danielle Adcock, Andrew Morris, Abbigail Hundley, Megan Mercer, Kale Purcell, Rees Robinson, Damon Ruckman, Walker Sheldon, Garrett Harris, Kaden Watkins, Ethan Teter, Cameron Smith and Cody Mulroy.

Curtain time on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday is 7 p.m. and tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students, with tickets available at the door. There also will be a dinner theater on Saturday, starting at 5 p.m.; tickets are $15 per person and must be purchased in advanced by calling the HHS office at 364-2181 to make reservations.

Foster Ford of Holton had submitted a bid for a patrol car to be considered on Oct. 1, but it was noted that the bid was withdrawn since Ford Motor Company's government pricing program for 2018 had expired and it would be "another month" before Ford finalized a program for 2019.

On Monday, commissioners noted that Foster Ford had submitted a bid of $33,495 for a 2020 model Ford Explorer Police Interceptor vehicle. Doug Richert Chevrolet-Buick of Holton was contacted for a bid but did not submit one, it was noted.

The new Dodge Durango will replace a 2009 model Ford Crown Victoria that has racked up more than $4,000 in maintenance costs in the past three years, commissioners were reminded. Holton's police department has a fleet of eight vehicles, it was reported.

In other business on Monday, Holton City Manager Kerwin McKee updated commissioners on ongoing city projects, including restoration work on the clarifier at the city's water treatment plant and expansion work on the concrete fitness path at Holton's Countryside Park.

Repair work at the water plant's clarifier was "moving along," McKee said, noting that the clarifier had been "sandblasted and primed" and painting work on the clarifier's walls was in the "intermediate" stage. He also noted that the clarifier's trays had been rebuilt and were being painted on site, while the clarifier's cement walls were in "good shape."

Commissioners voted in August to authorize the expenditure of $239,890 to have Utility Contractors Inc. of Wichita repair the clarifier, which removes elements and minerals from raw water. The plant has been serving as a backup for the Public Wholesale Water Supply District 18 treatment plant since that plant went online in 2002.

Repairing and repainting the clarifier system could extend its service life by more than 20 years, based on an engineer's estimate. The repair work involves sandblasting and painting sheet metal inside the clarifier, as well as water trough replacement work that would be locally sourced, commissioners noted.

McKee also noted that city employees had also started work on extending the concrete path along the east side of Countryside Park, bringing the path, intended to make a loop around the perimeter of the park, closer to completion.

He reminded commissioners that funds for construction and expansion of the path were acquired by the KAY (Kansas Association for Youth) group at Holton Middle School and were available for completing the path around the park.

Commissioners also:

■ Noted the absence of Mayor Robert Dieckmann and commissioner Twila White. Commissioner Tim Morris acted as mayor pro tem in Dieckmann's absence; also present were commissioners Dan Brenner and Mike Meerpohl.

■ Heard comments from Meerpohl about a possible policy review on the placement of streets in new residential developments, as well as the type of streets included in new developments.

Supporters also held a fundraising bake sale that evening, through which more than $1,050 was raised for Edwards and his family, school officials noted.

The Farmers State Bank in Holton is accepting donations to offset the Edwards family's medical bills, it was reported.

JH Cobras to tangle with Colgan Panthers

■ Winner will play Friday, Nov. 16 in sub-state round vs. winner of Olpe-Centralia game

Jackson Heights High School varsity football head coach Caleb Wick said that in 2004, the year after he graduated from Smith Center High School, his alma mater snapped a 66-game winning streak held by St. Mary's-Colgan High School of Pittsburg in the state championship game.

"We know what they're all about, with me growing up knowing about Colgan," Wick said. "We've watched them on film against Smith Center in the past, and we've watched a lot of them on film this year."

This Friday, Wick and his Cobra football team will go up against Colgan, led by head coach and Royal Valley alumnus Shawn Seematter, in the Class 1A sectional playoff game at Colgan. Wick — currently in his seventh year as the Cobras' head coach — said that in order to bring home a win and a sub-state berth, the Cobras' strategy is to be themselves.

"We're doing everything in our power to do the same routine we normally do," Wick said. "We need to be us and do what we do — run the football downhill and block to the whistle, win the turnover battle and not give up a big special team play. If we stick to our fundamentals, I think we will like where we are at the end of the game."

If the Cobras, 9-1 at this point, can win against the 8-2 Colgan Panthers, they could get another shot at unbeaten Olpe — the team responsible for the Cobras' only loss this season — on Friday, Nov. 16 in the sub-state round of the Class 1A football playoffs.

But first, the Cobras have to get past the Panthers, a team that Wick said reminded him of Valley Heights, who the Cobras beat in regional play last Friday.

"Colgan is a very well-coached football team that has a ton of speed and likes to run the football," he said. "They have had some injuries during the course of this season, but with those guys coming back, they will be a totally different team. With that being said, we know they played a very good Centralia team, so they are battle-tested."

But then again, so are the Cobras, who have so far averaged 30 points scored per game and have held their opponents to an average of 10.5 points per game.

Offensively, the Cobras are led by junior quarterback Cable Wareham, who has rushed for 249 yards on 39 carries, including four touchdowns, and has gone 10-for-13 in the passing game, racking up 183 yards in the air including four touchdowns.

On the ground, the Cobras are led by junior running back Cooper Williams, who has rushed for more than 1,500 yards this season (1,544 yards on 182 carries, including 17 touchdowns). Wareham has connected with Williams four times in the air for 129 yards, including a TD.

Other offensive leaders for the Cobras include senior Conlan Bruggeman (689 yards on 124 carries, including eight TDs), senior Kolby Rethman (393 yards on 75 carries, including five TDs) and Dylan Thompson (283 yards on 53 carries, including 3 TDs).

Bruggeman is the leading tackler for the Cobras, getting 125 takedowns including six for losses, an interception and a sack, along with junior Riley Watkins (75 tackles including four for losses, a sack and an interception), senior Lane Thomas (72 tackles including six for losses, three sacks and two interceptions), Cooper Williams (68 tackles including eight for losses and an interception) and junior Carson Williams (63 tackles including nine for losses and five sacks).

Improving on those numbers will be key to a Cobra win on Friday, Wick said.

"Our kids are working hard, each and every week, trying to improve," he said. "I feel you need to keep improving each and every week to be the team you want to be. I hope this week is no different and we can get that much better during practice and the game Friday."

That practice includes working out on turf, as opposed to a natural grass field.

"It's going to be a little bit different, playing on turf, since Colgan plays on turf for 80 percent of their games," Wick said. "It'll be an adjustment period for us, but hopefully we can go down there, just be us and don't let the game get too big for us."

A win on Friday, Wick added, would not just be a win for the Cobras.

"We look forward to not only representing Jackson Heights, but Jackson County," he said.

Jackson Heights students will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m. Friday to allow for Cobra fans to travel to Pittsburg to see the game, it was reported. Game time is 6 p.m. at Hutchinson Field, located at 1310 N. Broadway in Pittsburg.

Here's the path the Cobras took during the 2018 season to get to the sectional game:

*42-0 win over Horton.
*38-0 win over Atchison County.
*14-0 win over Maur Hill.
*20-18 loss to Olpe.
*22-14 win over Valley Heights.
*8-7 win over Troy.
*38-8 win over Jefferson County North.
*47-8 win over Lyndon.
*36-28 win over Northern Heights.
*35-20 win over Valley Heights (regional).

By David Powls

The head coach of the 8-2 St. Mary's Colgan Panthers football team at Pittsburg is Shawn Seematter, a 2009 graduate of Royal Valley High School.

Seematter, son of Jim and Marsha Seematter of Hoyt, is in his second year as head coach of the Panthers. He is also the athletics director at the school. He is a 2013 graduate of Kansas State University.

Prior to Colgan, Seematter was the defensive coordinator at Halstead High School for three years. At Halstead, he coached with Jason Grider, who was his head football coach in high school for the RV Panthers.

The Colgan Panthers compete in the Crawford-Neosho-Cherokee football league of southeast Kansas.

"I know that Jackson Heights is having a great year," Seematter said yesterday. "They have beat some quality teams and their only loss is a close loss to a very good Olpe team. They are big and physical up front and have a talented backfield."

Seematter said the Panthers run the option on offense and base out of a 4-4 on defense.

"JH reminds me of Centralia, who we played in week four," Seematter said. "Both are run-first teams with big, physical offensive lines. Both teams also have fast, talented running backs capable of producing big plays."

Seematter said that his team "will have to execute and hold on to the ball offensively."

"We will have to maintain drives and control their size up front," he added. "Defensively, we will have to get them off the field. We will have to limit them on first and second down and be strong on third and fourth and short yardage situations."

Winning the turnover battle and the field position battle will also be key, he said.

"Both offenses like to control the ball, and control the game," he said.

Colgan is led by senior quarterback Cade Simmons who, so far, has passed for 827 yards, completing 35 of 61 passes (57.38 percent), rushed for nine touchdowns and thrown just two interceptions.

Simmons is also the leading rusher for the team, so far, with 951 yards on 96 carries, 15 touchdowns and no fumbles.

Two other Panther ballcarrries to watch out for are senior Kash Marietta (812 yards rushing this season) and senior Matthew Lomshek (494 yards rushing this season).

Simmons' favorite receiver, so far, is senior Cal Marquardt, who has caught 21 passes for 544 yards, seven touchdowns and no fumbles.

Leading tackler on the Colgan team is senior linebacker Luke Orender with 66 total tackles, three sacks and one forced fumble.

Other defensive leaders include Marquardt (59 tackles and three interceptions), sophomore Kannon Keller (30 tackles), senior Garrett Bollinger (30 tackles) and junior Andrew Lomshek (18 tackles and four interceptions).

Colgan averages 320 yards rushing per game and holds its opponents to an average of 144 yards rushing per game.

In passing, Colgan averages 82 yards per game while holding its opponents to an average of 50 yards per game and a 37 percent pass completion rate. The Panthers have allowed 504 passing yards this season, so far.

Colgan has just nine turnovers on the season while forcing its opponents into 21.

In total yards, Colgan has 4.033 while its opponents have 1,953 agains them.

Colgan – a team with eight seniors on the roster - is averaging 40 points a game and holding its opponents to an average of 8 points per game.

Here's how Colgan got to this sectional game:

*40-6 win over Columbus.
*14-0 win over Frontenac.
*47-8 win over Baxter Springs.
*20-0 loss to Centralia.
*22-20 loss to Abilene.
*70-15 win over Yates Center.
*46-0 win over Pleasanton.
*48-8 win over Uniontown.
*68-8 win over Leon-Bluestem.
*45-20 win over Hillsboro.

Darting basketball camp popular at Netawaka

By Darcy Foster
Netawaka Family & Fitness Center

A lot of basketballs were bouncing at the Netawaka Family & Fitness Center on Nov. 3 as youngsters from towns across Northeast Kansas took part in a free pre-season kickoff skills clinic.

The annual camp, conducted by the Darting Basketball Academy, drew 63 attendees in grades third through 11. Plus, there were 69 on the waitlist, it was reported.

The campers came from Horton, Holton, Manhattan, Onaga, Hoyt, Topeka and several other area communities.

Eager to get a start on the upcoming season, the young athletes were run through drills by instructors Kerry Darting and his assistants.

One eager participant was Kolbie Noel, a fifth-grader at Holton Elementary School.

"We've been going to this annual academy for several years now," said her father, Ryan Noel, of Holton. "This academy has been great for Kolbie and the other kids. They're challenged to improve their skills, and they learn how to train themselves, too."

The parents of the attendees didn't stand idle while the young ones bounced about.

A dozen of them were led in kickboxing and HIIT (High Intensity Interval Training) by Katie Askren and Casey Patterson, who are regular class instructors at the center.

"This free basketball camp attracted people from good distances, and offered us another opportunity to have them visit this 30,000 square-foot facility for the first time," said Scott Steffes, director. "We've hosted a wide number of functions recently. Our facility is fast becoming the community gathering place. These events allow us to show we're proud of that role. A lot of people are discovering Netawaka."

Elkhorn should be stocked with trout soon

By Ali Holcomb

Holton's Elkhorn Lake hasn't been stocked with trout yet, but city officials are hopeful that some fish will be delivered in the next week, it was reported.

For the past nine years, the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks and Tourism has stocked the city lake with about 1,000 trout at about Nov. 1 as part of the Community Fisheries Assistance Program.

As of yesterday, the city still hadn't received any fish from the state, said Kerwin McKee, Holton city manager.

"We're working with a new person with the state this year, and we're hopeful that we'll get them soon," McKee said. "We're looking forward to getting them."

McKee said City Hall has received "a few calls" from local fishermen anxious for the fish delivery.

Trout tend to thrive in colder water and that fishing season runs Nov. 1 through April 15, according to the KDWPT.

Elkhorn Lake is classified as "Type 2 trout water," meaning that trout permits are required for fishing or possessing trout during trout season.

After April 15, KDWPT officials noted, trout permits are not necessary, but the daily limit of five trout is still in effect after that point.

All Kansas residents ages 16 to 74 and non-residents 16 and older must have a valid fishing license. Trout permits may be purchased at https://ksoutdoors.com/License-Permits

Soldier Boosters have busy fall

By MaKenzie Kennedy
Senior Reporter

The Soldier Boosters 4-H Club's meeting was held on Sunday, Oct. 14 at the Soldier Hall.

The meeting was called to order at 6:10 p.m. The flag salute and the 4-H pledge were recited. Roll Call was name your favorite spooky character.

The treasurer's report was followed by the leader's report. Achievement Night and the enrollment deadline were discussed. The council's report and old business was next.

The Soldier Boosters have been busy during the months of September and October with many activities.

On Sept. 23 club members spent more than three hours painting the Wetmore Vet Clinic fence. Then on Oct. 13, club members spent the evening helping serve food for a fund-raiser that was raising money to replace the current heating and cooling unit in the Soldier Hall.

On Oct. 21, club members had a fun afternoon with a club hayrack ride.

Joel Kennedy gave a project talk. The next club meeting was scheduled for 6 p.m. on Nov. 11 at Soldier Hall. The meeting was adjourned at 6:30 p.m.

Gardener's Corner

Rooting out the truth about radishes

By Sandra M. Siebert

All remnants of the summer vegetables are gone. In their place are tidy beds covered with a nice layer of hay, or a green growth of cover crops.

But the fall-winter garden is going strong. However, the cabbages have not yet produced harvestable heads; the radicchio is still developing; and I planted no broccoli.

So what's there to eat while I'm waiting for these vegetables to mature?

Leafy greens, as always – lettuce, kale, collards – and roots. The first rutabagas have been dug and the last carrots pulled. I'm still waiting on the turnips, but radishes, I have radishes, a particularly good crop of radishes this year.

I plant radishes in both spring and fall. However, I think they always grow best in the fall.

While they're always in my garden, I've thought of radishes simply as something to add a little diversity to salads, or as a garnish, not as something that deserves top billing. I've used the long, white daikon radish sliced into stir fries and as an ingredient in kimchi or some other ferment, but always in a supporting role.

I'm beginning to change my mind, however.

The first radish pull netted me a good number of round roots. I'm not eating that many salads, though. Instead I used the tender lettuce as a wilted green, pouring my hot vegetable stews over the raw leaves. Radishes have simply served as garnishes. But looking at the large pile of radishes and knowing that many more will come over the next few weeks, I knew I had to do something besides garnish.

Then I remembered that someone had mentioned roasted radishes – or maybe I read about them online. I did a Web search for recipes, picked one, prepared the radishes and roasted.

Delightful! Why have I not done this before?

Cooking the radishes tamed the bite and added maybe a little sweetness. I simply sprinkled salt and pepper over the oil-coated radishes before roasting. They are best served warm (I reheat them in the toaster oven) but are good cold, as well. A little balsamic or red wine vinegar sprinkled over the cold radishes enhances their flavor as a cold side dish.

Radishes come in summer and winter varieties. The summer varieties actually are "spring" varieties. Unless you have rather cool summers, that isn't the time to plant radishes. Warm weather causes radishes to bolt quickly without ever sizing up the roots.

Spring radishes grow very quickly, often being ready about three weeks after planting, especially if you keep the soil evenly moist but not soggy. These tend to be small radishes, best picked when no larger than a ping pong ball, although size varies from cultivar to cultivar. My spring radish of choice is Cherry Belle, probably the variety you find in most grocery stores.

My Cherry Belle radishes always have more of a bite than those from the grocery store. I'm not sure why. However, they add a pleasant bite to salads, and cooking tames it.

I also plant Cherry Belle in the fall, alongside the beautiful Watermelon radish, also known as Red Meat radish. As the two names tell you, the distinctive characteristic of these radishes is the lovely watermelon pink-red of the interior. The exterior is white, usually bearing green shoulders. Slices of watermelon radishes add beauty to any plate.

The Watermelon is a winter radish that can grow much larger than the Cherry Belle. One source noted that they can get as large as softballs, although I've never seen any that large. I think a more common size approximates a tennis ball.

One key to achieving size with any radish type is to thin seedlings, as well as provide sufficient moisture. Shade can cause radishes to put their energy into making larger leaves, taking that energy from root growth. Because they don't require long days, and prefer cool weather, radishes will grow well into the winter, as long as you protect them from deep cold. I've had Cherry Belle continue to size up into December under a plastic low tunnel and mulch.

Other than discovering that radishes can be prepared in many ways other than raw (steam them to replace the potatoes in potato salad, or puree with avocado and cucumber for a cooling gazpacho, for example), I was awed when I learned of the nutritional value of these watery roots.

Of course they have great nutritional value, they are a member of Brassica family (cousins to nutritional stars like cabbage, broccoli, kale, etc.) they contain various substances that support the body's detoxification system, and are particularly good at removing bilirubin (a build-up of which causes jaundice). They provide many other benefits, as well, including as a source of vitamins C and B, and numerous minerals.

The ancient Egyptians knew of the value of the radish 5,000 years ago. Radishes were so valued that they were part of the payment to workers building the pyramids, along with garlic and onions. Ancient Greeks considered radishes so worthy that they make golden replicas of them as offerings to the god Apollo.

Today, in Oaxaca Mexico, Dec. 23 is officially The Night of the Radishes (Noche de Rabanos), when professional artists and amateurs compete to make the most creative and elaborate scenes of carved radishes. The tradition began more than 100 years ago when merchants started using displays of carved radishes to attract shoppers on their way home from Christmas services.

Whatever I thought about radishes before, I'm learning that this humble root deserves a lot more respect.

AG WEEK: Trades mixed last week

By Matt Hines

Western Corn Belt and Nebraska cash feedlot trades through last Thursday were more than 6,000 head at $1 higher than the week previous at $113 to $114 live and $180 dressed. Cash trade late Friday and into the weekend was finally confirmed in Kansas and Texas at $116 live.

For the week, Friday, Oct. 26 to Friday, Nov. 2, December live cattle were down $1.32, February was down $1.25, November feeder cattle were down $2.52, January was up $.12, December lean hogs were up $.20 and February was down $1.72. Boxed Beef, Choice was up $5.03 at $218.50 and Select was up $2.64 at $201.47.

Feeder cattle were uneven with those above 800 pounds steady to $2 higher, while those under 800 pounds were steady to $2 lower. Steer and heifer calves sold unevenly steady. Demand for feeder weight cattle was very uneven this week and mainly depended on age, especially six-weight cattle, who were either too young for the feed yard or too big for new wheat.

Typically, this time of year, buyers are looking for cattle weaned 60 days or more. However, due to this year's wet and muddy conditions in many areas, 120 days seemed to be the earmark for numbers of days weaned. Demand for heavier weight cattle and those that would finish in April was very good. Calf demand improved some and was moderate to good.

Cattle slaughter for the week was estimated at 643,000 head, up 10,000 from the week previous but down 3,000 compared to a year ago. Year-to-date was running 2.5 percent ahead of last year. Beef production was at 530.6 million pounds last week, compared to 524.8 million the week previous and 534.2 million last year. Year-to-date was running 2.7 percent ahead of last year.

Hog slaughter for the week was estimated at 2,593,000 head, up 32,000 from the week previous and up 150,000 compared to a year ago. Year-to-date was running 2.3 percent ahead of last year. Pork production for the week was at 545 million pounds, compared to 537.1 million the week previous and 517.5 million last year. Year-to-date was running 2.6 percent ahead of last year.

Livestock Futures Settlements

Monday, Nov. 5

• December live cattle down $1.75 at $115.32, February down $1.55 at $120.65.

• November feeder cattle down $3 at $149.50, January down $3.32 at $146.42.

• December lean hogs down $1.02 at $57.10, February down $.52 at $64.12.

December live cattle broke through the $116 support on Monday, with the next down at $113.40, then $111. November feeders are holding a lower trend since Oct. 1, also breaking nearby price support to start this week with the next down at $148. January looks similar with support next at $144.50. December lean hogs reached up for a new recent high last week at $60.20, finding support on Monday at $56.70.

Corn and wheat futures both held small gains for the week as soybeans shot higher on Thursday from the "good talks" between President Trump and China's President Xi Jinping. Their next meeting will not be held until the end of November at the next G-20 Summit in Argentina.

Soybeans shot higher again early Friday but pulled back as mixed comments were expressed by the U.S. administration on the trade war. Another gauge to watch is the Brazilian bean basis, which has already weakened some 50 cents nearby with the new crop February dropping 20 cents on Friday.

Markets were also supported by wet weather and forecasts for the eastern half of the U.S. as fall harvest still has a ways to go before it is complete. This week we have the mid-term elections on Tuesday and a USDA crop report on Thursday to contend with.

USDA reported September domestic crush or mill usage for grains last week. Soybeans crushed for crude oil was 169 million bushels (MBU) in September, compared to 170 MBU in August and 145 MBU in September 2017. All wheat ground for flour during the third quarter 2018 was 233 MBU, compared to second quarter grind of 227 MBU.

Total corn for alcohol and other uses was 501 MBU in September. Total corn consumption was down 7 percent from August but up 1 percent from September 2017. Grain sorghum used for alcohol production was at 7.66 MBU, compared to 6.17 MBU in August and 4.27 MBU last September. DDGS production was 1.95 million tons during September, down 11 percent from August but up 5 percent from September 2017.

For the week, Friday, Oct. 26 to Friday, Nov. 2, December corn was up $.03½, March was up $.03¼, November soybeans were up $.30¼, January was up $.30, December Kansas City wheat was up $.04, March was up $.01¼, December Chicago wheat was up $.03½, March was down $.00¼, December Minneapolis wheat was up $.02¾ and December soybean meal was up $3.70 per ton.

Export inspections for the week ending Nov. 1 were bullish for both corn and soybeans. Corn totaled 49.4 MBU with soybeans at 45.2 MBU. A total of 2.5 MBU was inspected for China, but the last two cargoes, originally destined for China, were diverted to Vietnam and South Korea last week. Grain sorghum shipments popped higher to 897,478 bushels, with Japan taking 76 percent of the total while wheat shipments continue to disappoint at only 12 MBU.

AgRural pegged 2018-19 Brazil soybean planting progress at 60 percent complete, which is well ahead of the 43 percent pace seen last year and the long-term average for this point in the season at 41 percent complete. U.S. corn harvest is now 76 percent complete, which is right in line with the five-year average. Soybean harvest is 83 percent complete, compared to the 89 percent average.

Grain sorghum harvest is also behind at 64 percent complete compared to 76 percent average pace. Winter wheat planted is at 84 percent with 70 percent emerged. Conditions moved more to the fair category from both directions with a two-percent drop in good to excellent and poor to very poor.

Grain Futures Settlements

Monday, Nov. 5

• December corn up $.02¾ at $3.74, March up $.02½ at $3.85¾.

• January soybeans down $.02 at $8.85¾, March down $.01¾ at $8.98¼.

• December KC wheat up $.00½ at $5.04¾, March down $.00¼ at $5.27¾.

• December Chicago wheat down $.01½ at $5.07¼, December soybean meal down $.40 per ton at $310.60.

December corn is back to a higher trend with support still at $3.60 and the next resistance up at $3.78½. January soybeans had support around $8.45 and resistance up at $9.06. December Kansas City wheat broke into new recent lows last week at $4.84½, with resistance up at $5.30.

Immanuel Lutheran Church

By Esther L. Ideker

"Come, Ye Thankful People, Come" was the opening hymn of the early morning worship at Immanuel Lutheran Church on Nov. 4.

Following the confession and absolution, the responsorial Psalm from 119:1-8, the Introit, the Gloria Patri, the Kyrie, the Gloria in Excelsis and the collect of the day, Elder Travis Amon read the Old Testament lesson from Deuteronomy chapter 6 and the epistle lesson from Hebrews chapter 9.

Pastor Michael Van Velzer read the holy gospel for the day from Mark 12:28-37. The congregation professed the Nicene Creed.

The sermon hymn was the first two verses of "At The Name Of Jesus." Pastor Van Velzer's sermon theme was "The Lord Our God Is One." On the theme of All Saints Day, "a great multitude...from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages," cry out, "Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne," (Rev. 7:9-17).

Faith-filled saints from every place and time, with unified voices, eternally magnify the Lamb of God. As His beloved children, we, too, "shall see Him as He is (1 John 3:1-3). Joined with the throng of angels and myriad saints, we shall "serve Him day and night in His temple" (Rev. 7:9-17).

In our earthly tension vacillating between saint and sinner, faith and doubt, sacred and profane, we earnestly seek Jesus to calm our fears, comfort our spirits and forgive our sins. The Holy Spirit through faith in Christ propels us forward, fortifying us in word and sacrament, to our eternal home.

In the midst of our constant struggle as believers, we need to be blessed. And so we are. The poor in spirit, the meek, the hungry, the thirsty, the merciful, the pure and the persecuted are all blessed, and we will most certainly inherit the kingdom of heaven (Matthew 5:1-12).

The congregation joined in the singing of the "Offertory." The offering ushers were Topher Dohl and Travis Amon. In the prayers of the church, petitions were offered for the whole church in heaven and on earth to give His light and His peace; for today's communicants, for those who mourn to comfort them in their grief and in the sure confidence of Your loving care, that casting all their sorrow on You, they may know the consolation of Your love, for all who pass through difficult and trying time commending them then to Your care; and for all entrusted with civil authority among us, and given them wisdom, courage and integrity.

We remembered with thanksgiving those who have loved and served You in Your Church on earth and who now rest from their labors. The congregation joined in the Lord's Prayer.

Elders Travis Amon and Topher Dohl assisted Pastor Van Velzer in the distribution of holy communion. The distribution hymns were "Come, Let Us Eat," and "What Is This Bread?"

Following the Nunc Dimittis, the Thanksgiving, the post-communion collect and benediction, the service closed with the third and fourth verses of "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come."

Serving Sunday were Travis Amon, elder, Rylan Amon, acolyte, Joyce Peterson, organist, and on the altar committee, Inga Klahr and Heather Amon.

A congregational quarterly meeting was held following the service. Stacy Amon met with the young children of the congregation for an activity time. Later in the day, Stacy and Gerald Amon entertained the youth of the church for lunch at their home.

Three in custody on burglary charges

Two men and one juvenile were arrested here Monday on burglary and theft charges, according to Jackson County Sheriff Tim Morse.

A county resident reported seeing a red Chevrolet passenger car leaving their address at 18075 98th Rd. in southeastern Jackson County on Monday at about 1 p.m. and soon discovered that their residence had been broken into, Morse said.

The resident then found the vehicle unoccupied and broken down near 98th and V.4 Roads.

Jackson County Sheriff's Office deputies, Kansas Highway Patrol troopers and Jefferson County Sheriff's Office deputies "scoured the area looking for the suspects," Morse said.

"It was later determined that a passerby had picked up the vehicle's three occupants and drove them to a residence in the 9000 block of Topeka Boulevard in Shawnee County," Morse said.

A Shawnee County deputy later reported seeing two subjects west of the address in a wooded area. Deputies from Shawnee County, Jefferson County, Jackson County and KHP troopers arrived in the area to continue the search. A KHP aircraft also assisted with the search.

One of the suspects was taken into custody after being apprehended by a KHP K-9 unit. Two more subjects were taken into custody west of the address in the 8900 block of Rochester Road.

All three subjects were taken into custody shortly after 3 p.m. and transported to the Jackson County Sheriff's Office for questioning.

Jackson County deputies impounded the red Chevy passenger car along with property believed to have been taken from the residence.

Ty Daniel Haire, 21, Mayetta; Robert Anthony Witmer, 20, Topeka; and a 17-year-old male from Hoyt were all arrested on charges of aggravated burglary and theft.

Morse said the trio allegedly wore masks during the burglary and are also suspected of allegedly committing another half dozen burglaries in the surrounding counties.

Netawaka UMC

By Mary E. Edwards

Nov. 4 was a wet, chilly morning at Netawaka United Methodist Church. Frederika and Everett Mullins were the greeters; Frederika was acolyte and Everett the offertory usher. The recorded prelude was "God Is So Good" as the altar candles were lighted. Verona Grannell was player of recorded music.

Worship leader Marilyn Banaka gave the welcome and announcements. Joys and concerns were shared. Our biggest joy was the news that Alex Edwards received a heart transplant last Tuesday, Oct. 30, at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City. He is doing well in the ICU and can now sit up in a chair, talk, and eat.

Jackson Heights won at regional football and will play Pittsburg-St. Mary's Colgan.

Neva Douglas had an early Thanksgiving get together with about 29 family members Saturday at Netawaka Community Center. Several of our friends on the prayer list are much improved.

Marilyn led the responsive call to worship. Congregational hymns were "The Lily Of The Valley," "I Surrender All," "Cares Chorus," and "In His Time."

Pastor Younghwan Won led the reading of the congregational prayer followed by silent prayer. Pastor Young prayed the pastoral prayer and all joined in praying the Lord's Prayer. Marilyn read the scripture, Isaiah 25:6-9. Pastor Young's sermon was titled "In His Time."

There are many challenges in the world today, poverty, sickness, political unrest, environmental problems, etc. There are also many things to be thankful for.

Churches also have challenges today. One of those is that Church is not the main focus for many people. People have so many interests that church concerns are left out, regarded as unimportant.

There have always been challenges in the world and in the church. History repeats itself. In the past, the church was respected and admired more than today.

The Bible says there is a time for all things. God helps us when we are weak and saves when there is no hope. Remember the saints, our ancestors and friends who delivered hope and proclaimed faith in God to us. We (the church) are supposed to continue the process of living in the faith and sharing it with the next generation.

Pastor Young served Holy Communion, assisted by Marcia Robertson.

Mayetta Methodist

By Shirley Stauffer

Church services on the 24th Sunday after Pentecost began with Pastor Howard reading scripture, followed by prayer at Mayetta Methodist Church.

Announcements included a reminder to bring your cereal for the Christmas Bureau, Hanging of the Greens on Nov. 20 preceded by a soup supper and Charge Conference on Nov. 27 at the Holton Evangel UMC at 6:30 p.m.

Prayer concerns continue for Ann Williking, who is now at home, and any others who are in need of our prayers.

Tim Stauffer was the acolyte and Todd Stauffer rang the bell. Karen Burns read the Living Word of God from John 6:51. The special was a background article about the hymn: In The Garden, followed by the congregation singing this beautiful hymn.

Other hymns sung were: "Come, Thou Fount Of Every Blessing," "Fill My Cup Lord" and "Leaning On The Everlasting Arms."

Mary Anderson assisted Pastor Howard with the serving of communion. Jonathan Wimer and David Oakley took up the offering.

Pastor Howard spoke about "Supper Of Commitment" for his sermon based on text from Mark 14:12-25. We closed with the circle of friendship and prayer.

The birthday song was sung to Brad and Russell Stauffer, June's sister-in-law and Lilly (Todd's granddaughter).

June Schlodder and Bud and Shirley Stauffer attended the funerals of Gary Bohnenkemper and Darrell Morgan this past week.

Sharon Gabriel went to Lawrence on Thursday evening to Billy Mills Middle School for her granddaughter, Gabriel Spray's play. Gabriel had the lead in the play "Alice in Wonderland."

It was a fun evening on Wednesday with friends Diane and Doug helping June Schlodder hand out candy to the many trick or treaters. June was blessed to be asked to participate in Karen's birthday party at Trails Cafe on Tuesday evening.

Saturday was shopping day in Topeka for June Schlodder as she enjoyed spending time and money with her daughter, Kathy. When June arrived home, she found her son, Darrell, had been there and raked up many bags of leaves from her yard.

On Friday evening, several church members attended a pot-luck meal and fellowship at the Mary Anderson home. After the meal, we spent the evening making out our church calendar for the year 2019.

Royal Valley students Hanna Allen (left) and Gabi Simmons (right) serve as the narrators during the school's production of "The Greek Mythology Olympiaganza." The students will lead the audience through many different Greek myths acted out by other student actors. The performances are being held at 7 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday at the Royal Valley Elementary School gym in Hoyt. Photo by Ali Holcomb
