Members of a work crew from Topeka Landscaping, working in conjunction with Brahma Excavating of Holton, worked on a brick retaining wall Thursday afternoon at the Holton Elementary School construction site. Construction superintendent David Lassiter of Nabholz Construction said that in spite of spring rains "putting a dent in our schedule," construction crews are doing their best to get the new school building ready in time for its fall 2016 opening.

Christmas Bureau still looking for leader

By Ali Holcomb

Leadership is still being sought for this year's upcoming Jackson County Ministerial Alliance Christmas Bureau.

The following is a brief history of the Christmas Bureau and some of the changes that have occurred over the years since its formation.

Jackson County's Christmas Bureau has been serving needy families each holiday season since 1981, it was reported.

The Northeast Kansas Human Resources Association initially implemented Christmas Bureau events for families in Brown, Doniphan, Atchison Nemaha and Jackson that year, according to an article in the Dec. 10, 1981, issue of The Holton Recorder.

The Northeast Kansas Human Resources Association was a non-profit group of social service agencies that served those five counties.

Although created by the human resources association, the Christmas Bureau in Jackson County was organized locally through the Northeast Kansas Community Action Program (NEK-CAP) from 1981 to 2009.

During its first year of existence, families that needed extra assistance during the holidays filled out an application at NEK-CAP's office and oves of donated items specifically selected for each family were put together and delivered to the applicants' homes.

Many of the families were also "adopted" by area organizations, churches and individuals that agreed to take over the responsibility of filling the families' boxes with gifts and

In 1981, donations sought included money, canned goods, blankets and new or used toys, as well as food for a Christmas dinner. One of the goals of the bureau was to prevent the abuse that sometimes occurs when a family goes from one charitable group to another soliciting gifts while other needy families

ceive nothing, the article said.
In its eighth year, 183 families were "adopted" and more than 400 additional families were served by the bureau, according to a report in The Recorder.

In 1990, 657 applications were accepted that included 2,099 people.

In the early 1990s, the Christmas

Bureau "store" was set up in an area church each year to allow families to "shop" for Christmas gifts. The store was previously set up as a two-day event. St. Dominic's Parish Hall hosted the event in 1992, and Trinity Lutheran Church hosted it in 1999.

Local parole absconder captured in Oklahoma

A Jackson County resident who had been at large after leading law enforcement on an Aug. 1 manhunt has been captured in northeastern Oklahoma, according to Jackson County Sheriff Tim Morse. Danny Ross Adams, 25, of Denison, was picked up by law enforcement in Pryor, Okla., after the Jackson County Sheriff's Office received information that Adams may have been headed to Oklahoma, Morse said. Adams is currently being held by Oklahoma authorities on local charges there. Adams had been reported as a suspicious person while in southeastern Jackson County earlier this month, Morse said. A Jackson County deputy was attempting to identify Adams when it was reported that Adams was listed as a parole absconder in relation to a 2012 conviction on a burglary charge in Wyandotte County, and Adams reportedly fled on foot into a thickly wooded area.

Morse said more Jackson County officers arrived, along with officers from other counties, Kansas Highway Patrol, K-9 units and a helicopter, to assist the deputy in finding Adams, but he was not immediately located due to the thick terrain. Deputies responded to a variety of reports of possible sightings of Adams over the next few days, he added. The sheriff's office had received information since then that Adams may have headed to Oklahoma, and Morse said an Internet social media comment led to Adams' possible location at a bar in Pryor, a community located about 45 miles northeast of Tulsa. Morse's office then called Oklahoma law enforcement and requested Adams' arrest, which occurred shortly afterward in Pryor.

According to Morse, Adams had allegedly provided a false name to Oklahoma authorities. Adams is also facing local charges in Oklahoma, it was reported.

Fair leaders: 2015's event 'huge success'

By Brian Sanders

recently-concluded 2015 Jackson County Fair — the 90th such event in the county's history — marked the first time that all fair events were held at the Northeast Kansas Heritage Complex, and many involved with the fair said the transition from the old fairgrounds in Holton to the fair's new home went smoother than expected.

"The fair was a huge success at the new location," said Cara Robinson, Jackson County 4-H program manager. "This was a transition year for us, locating to a brand new facility, and I was really impressed with the work that the Jackson County Fair Board and the volunteers that came out to help did, making the 2015 fair one to remember."

Jackson County Fair Board President Aaron Allen agreed.

"I thought we had a great fair," Allen said. "We didn't hear any negative comments on it, and I couldn't have been more pleased."

For several years, starting in the late 1940s and early 1950s, when the first buildings were erected at the intersection of U.S. Highway 75 and Kansas Highway 16 in Holton, the Jackson County Fair was held at the fairgrounds located at that intersection, with the exception of the fair's horse show, held at the Circleville Saddle Club. In 2010, the horse show was moved to the Heritage Complex, becoming the first fair event to be held at that site.

The fair board has been working to sell the fairground land and property to help fund construction of buildings at the Heritage Complex, and in early 2014, it was announced that Casey's General Store would build a new store on part of the grounds. The livestock barns were demolished shortly after the 2014 fair ended, and construction the new Casey's began soon afterward.

Later in the year, the Holton school district acquired the Jackson County Fair Building. The sale of both the plot where the new Casey's is located and the Fair Building guaranteed that the 2015 fair would be held at the Heritage Complex.

The only aspect of the fair that some expressed disappointment about was the midway, provided again by Toby's Amusements of Arma. However, Allen noted that the number of rides and games provided by Toby's, which some said was fewer than in previous years, was "out of the fair board's control."

'To us, the fair's really about 4-H and the 4-H kids, and that all went terrifically," he said. "The midway generates some income for us, but it's a sideline."

Robinson said this year's fair saw a total of 2,043 4-H entries, which marked a slight decline from last year. The reason for the decline, she said, was that 4-H members were more limited in the number of items they could submit in the foods and photography categories, and poultry exhibits were not allowed this year due to avian flu concerns.

"This was due to the limited space in the small exhibit building, because we didn't know what kind of entries we would get for the open class department," Robinson said. We did not display the food samples this year like in years past, and the 4-Hers could only display three of their arts and crafts entries during the fair. But they were able to have all six of their arts and crafts judged at the pre-fair judging."

Cowger has been a lifelong supporter of the Jackson County Fair and continues to participate in the open class competitions. This year she won a purple ribbon for a large quilt appliquéd by two or more peo-ple and a blue ribbon for her angel food cake.

She was included in the dedication ceremony for her donation of a large quilt that was sold in 2009 during a special "Wolf Hunt" type dinner organized by the East Grant Club.

A drawing was held to win the quilt, and tickets were sold for $1 each. All proceeds went directly Among the government officials, to the construction of the new fair grounds. The quilt drawing plus the meal from the "Wolf Hunt" dinner raised $20,000, it was reported.

"I've quilted all my life," Cowger said. "My mother sewed and taught me very early on.' The eight-foot by eight-foot quilt donated by Cowger was constructed in a star pattern and was red and

"I decided I wanted to do something to help out so I donated it," she said. "Every dollar helps."

Cowger, whose maiden name was Spiker, was born in Jackson County near Soldier. She joined 4-H at a young age.

New school year begins this week for area students

Wednesday marks the start of the new 2015-16 school year for most young people in the Jackson County area, and students and teachers alike are looking forward to a few more activities as they make the transition from pool days to school days.

Some middle and high school students are hitting the practice fields today before hitting the books later this week, as today marks the beginning of fall sports practice for all area schools. Royal Valley High School is scheduled to host a volleyball parent meeting at 6 p.m. today in the RVHS gym commons.

Open house events have also been scheduled to help elementary students get familiar with their school buildings. At Royal Valley Elementary School in Hoyt, an open house has been scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, followed by an open house and fifth grade orientation meeting at 7 p.m. at Royal Valley Middle School in Mayetta.

At Jackson Heights, an elementary school open house will be held from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday. And at Wetmore, a back-to-school supper is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, followed by an iPad meeting for parents at 7:30 p.m.

In the Holton district, open houses at the city's two elementary schools mark the beginning of the final year of classes at those two facilities, as construction of the new Holton Elementary School near the Colorado Elementary School site is expected to be complete in time for the 2016-17 school year. The new school will house all Holton students in pre-kindergarten through fifth grades, it was

A Holton pre-school open house has been scheduled for 5:30 p.m. today at Central Elementary School, and two more elementary open houses are set for Tuesday. Students in kindergarten through second grades and their parents may take part in the blackout in Denison area

Residents in the Denison area will be without electricity late Tuesday due to a power outage scheduled by Westar Energy, it was reported. The power outage is expected to start at about 11 p.m. Tuesday and last through Wednesday morning, or about eight hours, Westar officials noted. The outage is necessary to allow Westar crews to safely replace a utility pole in need of repair at the intersection of V6 Road and Seventh Street in Denison.

Denison area residents south of V6 and 198th roads will be impacted by this outage, which Westar said was scheduled for late at night to help mitigate some of the inconvenience caused by the outage. Affected residents have also been mailed notices of the upcoming outage, it was reported.

Doris Foster of rural Hoyt has been active in 4-H for about 40 years as a leader with the Hoyt Livewires. Foster will be stepping down and devoting her energies to canning and making jams and jellies, as well as sharing her food preservation and baking skills with young people. Even at 88, Foster said she plans to continue working one-on-one with young people for as long as she can. She brought home a couple of openclass grand champion ribbons at this year's Jackson County Fair.

Although Holton veterinarian Dr. Tim Parks mainly practices on cattle, horses and domestic animals, his consultation with the care of a giraffe at the Topeka Zoo hasn't been too much of a stretch. Parks has been one of the resources interim zoo veterinarian Joe Kamer has turned to since Hope was born on July 11, as the two have known each other since high school.

Ray and Becky Campbell recently held a ribbon cutting ceremony at their new winery. The Campbells have grown grapes and made wine at their homestead east of Holton and north of Denison for nearly a decade. The award-winning winemakers are turning this hobby into a business, both for fun and to draw tourism and money to the area.

"Modern medicine with oldfashioned values." That is the motto of Dr. Roy Hall of Family Practice Associates in Holton. In October, Hall purchased an authentic doctor's buggy built in 1892, and about once a month, he drives the buggy on home visits to patients. His 10-yearold Haflinger horse, Molly, pulls the buggy most frequently (Hall has six other horses that run the pasture near his Whiting home).

When it's completed a year from now, the size of the new Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation health care center will be comparable to the size of Holton Community Hospital, and its quality will make it perhaps the best of its kind in the midwest-5,000 patients.

"A little dab of the Old West" remains in Jackson County on the Christian Longhorn ranch south of Holton. About 50 of the original American cattle graze there, eliciting nostalgic feelings in passersby. One such cow, Franz, a 15-yearold Longhorn, sports the trademark Texas twist" horn shape, measuring 44 inches from tip to tip.

Holton could bustle with the excitement of Hollywood for two days in November if the Jackson County Commission agrees to a request from the Kansas Film Commission. According to chamber director Dianna Wilson, the Kansas Film Commission had contacted her about using the district courtroom for one scene in a film, and allowing a helicopter to land or hover over the roof of the Courthouse in another.

Tom Brown has resigned as Jackson County's appraiser, it was reported. In the letter, Brown stated that he was leaving to find new challenges, but he expressed appreciation for the commission's support and cooperation with him during reappraisal.

On Thursday, about 32 trays of beef were delivered to residents at Homestead Senior Residences Holton, Trinity Place Senior Residences in Atchison, Bartell Place Senior Residences in Junction City and Homestead Senior Residences in Wamego, Bishop said. ## OPINION

Moving Guantanamo Bay detainees around does not solve anything

One of President Barack Obama's first acts in office was to promise that he would close the U.S. military prison at Guantanamo Bay in order to "restore the standards of due process and the core constitutional values that have made this country great even in the midst of war, even in dealing with terrorism."

Six years later, the facility located within Guantanamo Bay Naval Base, which fronts on Guantanamo Bay in Cuba, is still open, although the population has dwindled to 116, 52 of whom have been cleared for transfer if security conditions can be satisfied.

Following the terrorist attacks on 9/11/2001, the Guantanamo Bay prison was established in January 2002 "to detain extradordinary, dangerous persons, to interrogate detainees in an optimal setting, and to prosecute detainees for war crimes."

The Bush administration asserted the detainees held at Guantaamo prison were not entitled to any of the protections of the Geneva Convention. U.S. Supreme Court rulings have determined otherwise, however.

Now the Obama adminstration says it is preparing to present Congress with a new plan to close the facility, and the federal prison at Leavenworth in our state is being considered as a possible place to transfer the detainees.

The problem with Guantanamo has never been just its location. The prison has become a symbol of a denial of due process.

Opposition to closing Guantanamo involves two issues. One is whether even "low-risk" detainees should be released to their homelands or to some other country. The other is whether inmates — including dozens of more dangerous detainees the administration says it can neither release nor try — should be moved to the United States.

The current administration argues that "supermax" prisons in this country provide adequate protection for public safety.

But, again, that is beside the Guantanamo has been a stain on America's reputation and a recruiting tool for terrorists. Moving the detainees to Kansas or anywhere else will not wipe the stain away.

In a 2013 speech, Obama acknowledged that indefinitely detaining suspected terrorists without a trial was a problem but said it could be resolved "consistent with our commitment to the rule of law."

My view is that the U.S. should either continue to hold them at Guantanamo Bay without charge or trial – or charge them and take them to trial. But don't move these detainees. That doesn't solve anything.

America is only as good as our workers and doers. Dreamers are critical. Faith is vital. However, faith and dreams without works are dead.

Everywhere I travel these days I see Nigerians, Kenyans, Egyptians, Asians and of course Hispanics doing jobs all over the United States.

They seem to occupy 90 percent of the maid service jobs in hotels and continue to dominate the taxi industry.

taxi industry.

In many areas the Chinese and Mexicans appear to be the ones opening new restaurants. Two of the best restaurants in my town are the local Mexican and Chinese restaurants. Farmers desperate for workers and cheap labor bring Mexicans into America legally by the thousands on H-2 Visas.

Farmers reportedly say the Mexicans will do the cheap labor jobs that Americans won't do.

I keep hearing that these Internationals are doing the jobs that Americans won't do.

Why is this? Too many Americans are quite happy to survive on a government check and food stamps rather than work.

Disabled Social Security, SSI and food stamps are disabling this nation. Too many people are willing to survive rather than work and try to better themselves.

For all the people who truly deserve these benefits I say God bless you. I'm glad America can help.

For the rest of the liars and thieves who work harder at cheating the system rather than trying to earn a paycheck, it's time that your lazy ways end and you start paying back all the money you've stolen from your country.

President Jimmy Carter, age 90, has demonstrated an ethic of hard work. The president's retirement package is generous. He could have lived in an exotic retirement spot the rest of his life but he kept working.

President Carter's labor for Habitat for Humanity has been remarkable plus all of the other national and international diplomatic efforts that he has performed. Thus, Carter has remained sharp and has continued to be a working American.

Carter recently announced he has liver cancer that has spread to other parts of his body. Our thoughts and prayers go out to him and his family as he now battles for his life.

If abled Americans would go back to work and start doing some of these jobs that Internationals are doing we could begin to take back some of our

Many of the illegals would go home because there would not be work for them to do. They are surviving well here because there is so much work to do!

Americans would become healthier physically and mentally. Many Americans have just enough financial support to watch television all day and then do little else with their lives.

Millions of Americans are on massive amounts of medication and taking antidepressants and pain medicine each day. They know their lives are going nowhere and many become suicidal.

In the meantime their eating and exercise habits are unhealthy and they become obese with declining health. This is further dragging our nation down because it costs hundreds of millions each year to treat all the people who are on welfare. If they were working to feed themselves they would be doing something meaningful. They would be out of the house and their health would be better thus saving the nation billions in medical and other welfare costs.

Homebound welfare Americans also produce children. Many of these children become second-generation welfare recipients because that's all they have learned to do. This vicious cycle is eroding the very core of America that made us great and that core is the heart to work.

We truly need to get our good paying jobs back in America. However, we are only going to lose more if we aren't willing to work.

SPORTS Monday

"Fall ball" opportunity to be offered to area softball players starting next month

If you organize it, they will come. At least, that's what Holton High School softball coach John Deitrich is hoping for as he moves forward with plans for the "Lila Belle (LB) Fall Softball League" in Holton to begin competition this September.

For the inaugural season, sign-up is open to students entering eighth through 12th grade and Deitrich noted he would like to be able to, optimally, field six teams in the first Deitrich has done the groundwork this summer in working to establish the league, creating a limited liability corporation (LLC), arranging for team coaches, lining up insurance coverage and getting the all-clear from the Holton Parks and Recreation department for the fall games to be held at Chandler Park, which will come at no cost to the league. The one variable that the coach can't account for, though, is players.

"It's yet to be seen if the numbers are going to be there or not, but if you don't try, you never know," Deitrich said.

This has been an idea the coach has been kicking around for a few years and he pushed for this fall if for no other reason than the experience it affords local players.

"There's kind of a need for it. I've talked to five area coaches and four league coaches who think it's a great idea to try to generate a few more innings," Deitrich said. "Our goal's to try to get them 14 more games in the fall in kind of a low key, stressfree situation.

Deitrich took his inspiration from a fall league in Lawrence and noted he is hoping to attract players from the surrounding areas, not just Holton, though he hopes the location helps in the sign-up process.

"If we center the league in our community, hopefully we can generate enough interest with local kids that we can get them a few more not playing with their teammates, they're playing, and that's kind of

"I think a lot of people back away from a lot of competitive softball opportunities just simply because they fear the expense. They fear the expense of going up and down the road in the summer; going to Wichita, going to Kansas City and those types of things. "This just has to be as simple and as low key as it can," Deitrich said.

While the goal is to draw as much interest as possible, Deitrich noted the league also has to be very careful in following Kansas State High School Activities Association guidelines for non-school sports, especially in its first year.

That is partly why Deitrich had to work to line up coaches, as no school coaches can coach teams with their potential players during the school year outside the season of the sport.

KSHSAA also mandates that no more than five members of a school team (including A, B, C, 9th, JV and varsity) from the previous season can play together on a non-school team during the school year outside the season of sport and those rosters must be set, with no rotation from week to week or game to game.

"We have to make sure, seeing it's a new thing, that we keep everything on the up and up. It has to be as transparent as it can possibly be when it comes to obeying KSHSAA rules," Deitrich said.

Game play will follow KSHSAA rules, as well, with the inclusion of the flex/designated player roster spot and courtesy runners, with coaches given the option of roster hitting or batting nine. Run rules will be 12 after three innings, eight after five innings and one after seven.

All other High School Federation rules will apply and no new innings innings and get them a little more time," Deitrich said. "Even if they're will begin upon completion of the 75-minute time limit, though innings a make-up date, if needed, reserved in progress will be allowed to finish.

> At its core, though, this league is about the players. It's about the experience, making room for some players that may get pushed to the fringe on summer league teams and perhaps, according to Deitrich, making some lifelong friendships. In addition, the HHS coach noted it could create some recruiting benefits in the near future.

> "The other thing that it promotes is it promotes some of the college people, who don't have things going on Sunday afternoon to be able to force themselves up, come to Holton and watch some kids play," Deitrich

> Already, the HHS coach said he has heard from some college coaches who will be watching the formation progress of the league and noted they may be interested in bringing their teams up to face an all-star squad from the league in a couple of years.

> Deitrich noted he clearly sees the benefits this type of league could provide for his team, but it applies to any area players who take part in it. He noted there has been a surge of solid players from the area the past few years and, even at the most basic level, they can get something out of

> "When they finish the summer season, some of them still want to play. They don't want to practice, they want to play, so this gives them another opportunity to get out, get dirty, get grass stains on their pants and have some fun with some kids and try to get better," Deitrich said.

> With enough participation, Deitrich said the Holton community could get something out of this as well in regards to economic stimulus or just having another entertainment option over the weekend.

> Currently, the league is set to have six weeks of games starting on Sept.

Holton's Ron Strader (shown above) nears the finish of the biking portion of a recent triathlon in Rafter's Park. Strader, who has a storied competitive career, has influenced numerous triathletes and runners in the community.

Strader sees success reflected in strong running community

Athletes taking part in Holton's most recent triathlon got a rare treat as highly decorated local runner Ron Strader, recently retired from competition, filled in at the last minute and took part in the biking portion of the event.

Even among Holton runners who have achieved so much in their own right, the 75-year-old Strader is in rarified area.

While Strader stepped away from competition a few years ago, his numbers are still impressive as he has run in 70 marathons and done so in 42 of the 50 states, while also competing in one international event (the London marathon).

On average when he was competing, Stader said he would race in about five marathons a year and 20 miscellaneous other races (5K, 10K, half marathon, etc.).

It all started nearly 40 years ago after taking in the KU Relays, according to Strader. While he was running and training with kids in Holton at the time, seeing the athletes in those KU Relays back in the late 1970s got him interested in competing and he took the plunge the very next year.

Strader's competitive event was, in fact, the KU Relays marathon and while he noted it was overwhelming, he also clocked a strong time of three hours and 17 minutes and was hooked.

The strong running community in Holton is another influence that kept Strader involved in competition, he said. While many runners look up to Strader as a role model, he reciprocates the feeling by noting there are several strong runners in the Holton Scramblers running club that continued to push him.

Part of the push came from some friendly competition and led Strader to set that goal of running marathons in all 50 states, which he came very close to doing though, somehow, some nearby states (like Iowa) were left unchecked on that list.

Even missing eight states, Strader has plenty of highlights and good memories to recount, including racing in the Boston and New York marathons, as well as one of the biggest challenges that came in nearby Colorado.

"Probably the toughest marathon was Pike's Peak in Colorado, running up Pike's Peak. That was a great challenge because of the altitude," Strader said.

More than just the achievements, though, Strader has also gotten to share this interest with his family. He noted he used to compete with a brother-in-law in Kansas City while he's also had the opportunity to run with his children, Scott Strader, Jennifer Paxton and Ryan Strader, as well as several of his grandchildren (like Taylor Stonerock, Sidney Strader, Connor Strader, Riley Strader, Mason Strader and Paige

Now, Strader has the opportunity to watch many of them compete instead of competing himself and he said he enjoys that and seeing how the community in Holton is strengthening them as well. "It is fantastic. They're doing so well and it's just great to see them. They're so competitive and driven and work hard and we have really good coaching up here in cross country, track, football and all of our sports," Strader said.

While the need for competition has ebbed away for Strader, who spends most of his time now volunteering around the community, gardening or at home with his wife Linda, there are others in his family and in the community who will carry the banner for what he represents.

'We have great opportunities here in Holton. The Scramblers; anyone, any age can run with them about any time once or twice a week. They're a fun bunch of people to run with and they're absolutely real competitive," Strader said. "It's just a great community to run in.'

Several Holton runners have followed in Strader's footsteps and gone on to compete in the Boston marathon and other prestigious events, so his impact has clearly been felt.

By no means is Strader done running, either, he's just retired from competing. He noted he still gets out three or four times a week (once in a while with the Scramblers), but he has to limit his distance to three or four miles at a time. Strader noted he will keep going, too, as long he continues to reap the benefits.

"It's no guarantee that if you run long distance that you're going to live longer, but it probably helps out quite a little," Strader said.

Running will probably always be in Strader's blood given all he's accomplished since moving to Holton from Frankfort nearly 60 years ago, but with a long list of family and friends influenced by him, there are plenty of candidates to take up the competitive torch for him and be a role model for future

Be wary of certain lakes around Kansas

Two public lakes in Nemaha and Brown counties have been placed under a warning status due to the apparent presence of blue-green gae, the Kansas Department of Health and Environment reported in recent days.

KDHE samples publicly accessible bodies of water for cyanobacteria, commonly called blue-green algae, when the agency is alerted to a potential algae bloom in Kansas lakes. KDHE, in cooperation with the Kansas Department of Wildlife, Parks and Tourism (KDWPT) and other lake managers where appropriate, responds by informing the public of harmful conditions.

Brown County State Fishing Lake and Nemaha State Fishing Lake are two of nine public lakes placed on KDHE's most recent list of lakes under warning. The others are Chisholm Creek Park Lake in Sedgwick County, Crystal Lake in Anderson County, McPherson County State Fishing Lake in McPherson

County, Melvern River Pond (not Melvern Lake) in Osage County, Memorial Park Lake in Barton County, Milford Reservoir (zones A and C) in Dickinson and Geary counties and Plainville Township Lake in Rooks County.

Lakes under a warning are not closed. Marinas, lakeside businesses and park camping facilities are open for business. If swim beaches or lakes are closed, it will be specifically noted. Drinking water and showers at parks are safe and not affected by algae blooms.

Boating and fishing are safe on lakes under a warning, but contact with the water should be avoided. It is safe to eat fish caught during a harmful blue-green algae outbreak, as long as the fish is rinsed with clean water; consume only the fillet portion and discard all other parts. Hands should also be washed with clean water after handling fish taken from an affected lake.

Kansans should be aware that blooms are unpredictable. They can develop rapidly and may float around the lake, requiring visitors to exercise their best judgment. If there is scum, a paint-like surface or the water is bright green, avoid contact and keep pets away. These are indications that a harmful bloom may be present. KDHE and KDWPT urge pet owners to be particularly mindful of the presence of blue-green algae. Pets that swim in or drink water affected by a harmful algal bloom or eat dried algae along the shore may become seriously ill or die.

A "Public Health Warning" indicates that high levels of toxic bluegreen algae have been detected. Such a warning indicates that activities like boating and fishing may be safe; however, direct contact with water (i.e., wading, skiing and swimming) is strongly discouraged for people, pets and livestock. ## Dove hunting opportunity Young hunters looking to take advantage of a learning opportunity in the northeast Kansas area can sign-up for the Westar Energy Green Team's annual youth dove hunt at the start of dove season over Labor Day weekend.

The annual hunt helps teach the basics of dove hunting, with plenty of birds flying at close range. The hunt will be held at Jeffrey Energy Center in St. Marys on Saturday, Sept. 5 and Sunday, Sept. 6 in the early morning or late afternoon.

Anyone age 16 or younger may participate in the hunt, but guidelines require they bring their own shotgun, be accompanied by a non-hunting adult and have a license and Harvest Information Program stamp (if age 16). Non-toxic shells will be provided.

With the spacious wheat and sunflower fields prepared to draw the doves, there should be plenty of action, organizers say. Hunters will be accepted on a first-come, firstserved basis. Hunts will be scheduled as requests dictate and hunting groups can be formed. Guides will be provided for each group.

To register, call Barb Cornelius at (785) 575-8125 by Friday, Aug. 28.

The couple served as leaders of the Pleasant Valley Rustlers 4-H Club for more than 20 years. She was selected as the grand marshal of the Jackson County 4-H Parade in 2006.

After visiting the new fairgrounds this year, Cowger said she sees a lot of potential.

"It's going to take a few years to get everything worked out, but it's going to be real nice," she said. "I think it'll work out wonderful. They've got a lot of room."

In order to honor Cowger's efforts with 4-H, the kitchen at the new exhibit hall is named in her honor. A plaque notes this honor at the building

Both Allen and Robinson noted that the Heritage Complex remains a work in progress, stating that while some aspects of the new fairgrounds mark an improvement over the old grounds, there is still room for improvement in other areas. Allen said the livestock building was a good example of the former, noting that the only improvement he would suggest for it would be "maybe a couple of bigger fans placed in certain locations."

Still, he added, the new building was "about 10 times cooler" than the livestock arena at the old fairgrounds.

Cooler temperatures are also needed inside the small exhibit building, Robinson added.

"As of right now, just the kitchen, restrooms and lobby are air-conditioned," she said. "Maybe in the fu-

Delinquent tax collection tops $6,200 in first week

A total of $6,215.60 in delinquent taxes on Jackson County properties have been collected since a list of delinquent properties was first published in The Holton Recorder last week, it was noted.

The names of property owners who have paid their delinquent taxes this past week have been removed from the updated tax list. The updated list is printed on Pages 8 through 10 of today's edition of The Recorder.

The list will be published in three consecutive Monday editions.

Those who pay their past due tax bill also must pay a four percent interest penalty on the amount due, plus a publishing fee of $16. The interest penalty amount due will increase a little each day that the tax bill goes unpaid, it was reported.

Taxpayers with questions about their tax bills should call the treasurer's office at 364-3791.

Christmas Bureau...

In 1993, organizers of the Christmas Bureau set a goal to gift two toys per child, one gift per adult, one item of clothing for each family member and a basket of food for Christmas dinner. Winter coats were also available to individuals who needed them.

The Christmas Bureau was hosted at Evangel United Methodist Church's Family Life Center in 2000. The church has served as the home for the Christmas Bureau every year since then and has been operated as just a one-day event for many years.

In 2005 and 2006, NEK-CAP partnered with Toys For Tots to collect toys for the store.

In 2009, NEK-CAP partnered with the Jackson County Ministerial Alliance to provide the event, and the following year, the JCMA and Evangel partnered to organize the store.

In 2011, the event expanded and began offering essential items and pharmacy cards to seniors and disabled members of the community. In addition, bicycles were added to the store, and volunteers were on hand to help gift wrap the items in time for Christmas.

Last year, instead of collecting various essential items to compile into bags for each family, volunteers sought bags from the public that were already full of the items.

Based on a list of items sought, more than 300 bags stuffed with soap, shampoos, toilet paper and other necessities were donated, saving volunteers times.

In 2014, a total of 762 families were served by the Christmas Bureau

Needy families and individuals have always been required to fill out an application in order to qualify for the Christmas Bureau. Participants were required to attach a copy of a Women, Infants and Children (WIC) receipt (for children ages five and younger) and either a copy of a free and reduced form from school or verification of food stamp assistance (for school-aged children) with their applications.

Senior citizens and adults with disabilities also needed to provide proof of a limited income, such as a copy of an income tax statement, monthly bank statement, Envision card or proof of monthly income.

Anyone or any group or organization interested in volunteering as the lead coordinator for the Christmas Bureau is encouraged to contact a local pastor or any member of the Jackson County Ministerial Alliance.
