Budget hearing set for Tuesday

■ County is seeking 3.783-mill increase

By Ali Holcomb

A public hearing for the proposed 2017 county budget, which includes a 3.783 mill increase, has been set for 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6, in the Jackson County Commission's chambers on the second floor of the Jackson County Courthouse.

The proposed budget, which was published in the Aug. 24 edition of The Holton Recorder, includes a total mill levy of 77.622 mills for the next fiscal year, compared to 73.839 used to fund the 2016 budget.

The commissioners said the increase is directly related to the upcoming statewide tax lid, which takes effect in 2018.

Once the tax lid is in effect, counties and cities will not be allowed to raise their budgets beyond the Consumer Price Index without having a public vote. The commissioners say the 3.783 mill increase will establish a funding level to sustain the county through the next five years without the need for exceeding the tax lid.

For a home valued at $100,000, an additional $43.50 in taxes would be collected with the proposed mill levy increase, it was reported.

Total maximum expenditures for the county for 2017 have been set at $12,493,356, which includes $6,256,316 for the general fund, $3,357,107 for the road and bridge department and $2,421,705 for the sheriff's office. Last year, total expenditures were set at $11,427,841, which is a difference of $1.06 million.

With the proposed budget, the county expects to collect $8,404,549 in local taxes, which is up $732,718 from last year's total of $7,671,831.

The county's assessed valuation continues to grow and has been set at $108,275,877, which is up $4,377,716 from last year's $103,898,161. In 2015, the county's valuation was set at $99,241,720.

One mill of the proposed 3.783 mill increase will be used to purchase and haul rock for county roads over the next five years, it was reported.

Purple Heart Profiles

Blocker spent 22 months in Stalag 17-B POW camp

Editor's note: This is the 27th in a series of stories about past and present Jackson County residents who earned the Purple Heart Medal, which is awarded to military personnel wounded or killed in the line of duty.

The names of those profiled in these stories will be placed on a special monument for Purple Heart Medal recipients to be built soon in Holton's Linscott Park.

By Leroy Blocker's account, he was among "some of the first POWs the United States had ever had," spending nearly two years in a Nazi prisoner of war camp in northern Austria.

But the Nemaha County native who spent his later years as a resident of Holton survived the notorious Stalag 17-B POW camp near Krems, Austria, and came home to serve as Wetmore's postmaster for more than two decades.

Born Feb. 1, 1921, at St. Benedict, Blocker grew up in Nemaha County and graduated from Atchison County Community High School in 1939. He was drafted into the Army and opted to serve in the U.S. Army Air Forces, which had been created for WWII and would eventually become the U.S. Air Force.

"They asked for volunteers, and that was the first mistake I made," Blocker told The Hol- ton Recorder in 2010. "I said I'd go into the Air Forces, I didn't like to walk anyhow."

Blocker's training began in Leavenworth, and he was sent to Texas for additional training before shipping out to Las Vegas, Nev., for gunner's school, training with 30-caliber machine guns. He eventually trained on a B-17 Flying Fortress bomber, making on-the-spot repairs in the air and on the ground during and after his training and transport to England.

During an air mission in June of 1943, Blocker and his crew were shot down by German forces, and he was hit in

Van Wagoner seeks House seat

Democrat Lauren Van Wagoner (pictured), 27, of rural Hoyt is running for the District 61st seat in the Kansas House of Representatives.

The House seat is currently held by Rep. Becky Hutchins (Republican) of Holton, who is not seeking re-election.

In the general election, Van Wagoner will face Francis Awerkamp of St. Marys, who won the Republican primary this past summer. A profile of Awerkamp ran in the July 20 edition of The Holton Recorder.

"In 2013, my oldest daughter was diagnosed with autism. I have spent the last three years advocating for her and others like her, and somewhere along the way, I discovered that I have a talent for advocacy," Van Wagoner said. "I am able to get things done. I have paid close attention to Kansas politics, and I believe that serving as a state representative would put my talent to good use. I want to fight for our schools, our rural hospitals and safe roads. I also want to give a rural Kansas a voice. We have been ignored for far too long. Our challenges are unique, and we need Topeka to know that."

Van Wagoner has lived in northeast Kansas for four years.

"Jackson County stole my heart, and I moved here within a month of visiting," she said.

Van Wagoner graduated from Central High School of Coosa County, Ala. and has taken some courses at Highland Community College.

She is a full-time mom, advocate and candidate.

She was previously employed as the 4-H after-school coordinator at Utah State University from 2007 to 2010.

She and her husband, Colby, have four children, ages five months, two, five and seven. Her school-aged children attend Royal Valley schools. She is active on the school site council.

This is her first time running for office.

Would you vote to eliminate the LLC income tax exemption?

"I think it is time for Kansas to take an honest look at what is happening to our state," Van Wagoner said. "I do not foresee us being able to continue down this path. At the end of the day, we have to do what is best for our economy."

"I would give other options a hard look, but as I have not seen any at this point, I would vote to eliminate the tax exemption. That said, I know that there are some small business owners who

This issue of The Holton Recorder was printed on Friday, Sept. 2, so staff could enjoy the Labor Day holiday.

Due to the Monday holiday, the Jackson County Commission will hold its weekly meeting at 9 a.m. on Tuesday on the second floor of the Jackson County Courthouse and the Holton City Commission will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Holton City Hall for its regular meeting.

It's last call for those wanting to register for the Grazing School in Perry on Sept. 20 and 21. We've toured the farms we will be visiting, and you won't want to miss this! You can call or email me to register. The event flyer and registration info is on our website, www.meadowlark.ksu.edu.

As usual, we have the grazing expert from Missouri, Mark Green. He's been doing rotational grazing for 25-plus years, professionally and personally. He's partnering with Wesley Tucker, an ag economist from Missouri, then we've called in our Kansas experts, David Kraft, Doug Spencer and Dusty Schwandt. We have only the best presenting this school!

It's about last call for the goat project. Just when I think that I've got the goats going, we hit some cloudy days and my solar energy quits me. I get that remedied, and the batteries went out on the collars and Clifford and George are at the patio door wanting in the house!

Maybe I should give up on all the electronics and go old school. Barb Mattox tells me there was an article in the Sunday paper about a lady that will bring her herd of goats, two dogs and trailer and camp out in your pasture to rid it of brush

Crops and Soils

September is best time to fertilize turf grass

By David G. Hallauer
Meadowlark Extension
District Agent
Crops & Soils/Horticulture

For most homeowners, a good fertilization in spring is what we think our fescue and bluegrass turf grass stands really need. It can sure help, but if you could only fertilize your cool-season grasses once per year, September would actually be the best time to do it.

September is when days shorten and temperatures, particularly nighttime temperatures, moderate. That means time for cool season turf grasses to start their natural thickening process by a process known as tillering – forming new shoots at the base of existing plants (or in the case of bluegrass, spreading by underground stems called rhizomes). That's what makes a September fertilization the most important one!

For most situations, apply a pound to a pound and a half of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet (the settings recommended on lawn fertilizer bags usually result in about one pound). Try to use a quick release source during this time frame. Most fertilizers sold in stores are quick release unless they specifically say they are intended for summer use.

Fall fertilization may be a change of mindset for some, but to help thicken your turf stands, it's the most important season for fertilizer application. In fact, the second most important fertilization timing for cool-season grasses also occurs in the fall – in November!

One pound of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet in November will help the grass green up earlier next spring and provide the nutrients needed until summer. If you thought your 2017 lawn care program wasn't going to start until a fertilizer application next spring – think again!

Foliage Feeding On Soybeans

Green cloverworm larvae feeding has really become noticeable across northeast Kansas during the last couple of weeks. Feeding on the underside of leaves has become holes in the leaves to a point that damage is visible in many fields from the road!

In some cases, feeding has reached an economic threshold requiring a fungicide application to prevent further damage. This is generally the case when densities reach 10-12 larvae/row ft. with about 30 percent defoliation, and larvae are still small (½ inch or less).

In addition to insecticides (which are very effective when proper coverage is achieved), there is also an entomopathogenic fungus that can help with control by rapidly cutting down the population. It typically kicks in about the time the aforementioned densities are attained, and it seems to be doing so again this year.

This fungus causes the green cloverworm larvae to stop feeding after 12 to 24 hours of infection and causes death 24 to 48 hours later. Sometimes, infected larvae still look alive even in death, which is one of the characteristics of this fungus.

Scouting is still necessary even if economic thresholds for cloverworm aren't reached at this time. There will likely be at least one more generation of green cloverworms and continued scouting is also necessary for adult bean leaf beetles, stink bugs and podworms (there will likely be one more generation of these insects as well), all of which may feed on pods and/or seeds.

For information on soybean pests, please see "Soybean Insect Management 2016," available via your District Office or online at www.bookstore.ksre.ksu.edu/pubs/MF743.pdf

Agreement reached on Republican River basin

Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska recently established an agreement in the longstanding conflict over water from the Republican River basin, as the Republican River Compact Administration signed two resolutions, it was reported.

Representatives from the three states have been meeting monthly for more than two years, in an effort to change the approach and improve how they manage interstate water matters. This effort has created a new focus on transparency and certainty as all three states work to serve their water users. The intent of these resolutions is to replace the need for annual reviews and instead provide long-term surety to water users.

"Signing these resolutions shows the commitment from all three states to engage in open and transparent dialogue for the past two years," Kansas Gov. Sam Brownback said. "This long-term agreement will ultimately improve water management for water users in Kansas, as well as Nebraska and Colorado."

The resolutions signed in recent days will provide flexib-ity and greater certainty to all water users in the region, while remaining consistent with the terms of the Republican River Compact and the Final Settlement Stipulation of 2002, it was reported.

The three states have been involved in various litigation and arbitrations for the past 15 years over administration of water in the Republican River basin. Signatories said the agreement is a significant and positive step forward, with the next steps focusing on working with the basin's water users to implement these agreements.

"We are proud to be part of this historic agreement," Colorado Gov. John Hickenlooper said. "For the first time since signing the compact, the three states have worked together to resolve their issues without litigation and have brought certainty to the water users in the basin. This is how we do our best work in Colorado and defines our approach to addressing our water challenges — cooperation and collaboration."

It has been a priority of the states to collaborate on interstate water matters to ensure each state's water users are protected while also maintaining a positive working relationship between the compacting states.

"These resolutions represent a long-term strategy for representing each state and ultimately improving water management for water users in all three states," Nebraska Gov. Pete Ricketts said.

The Republican River basin begins in the plains of eastern Colorado and flows through northwest Kansas and southern Nebraska, ultimately returning to Kansas. The Republican River Compact was negotiated during the early 1940s with participation by the states of Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska and a representative of the president of the United States. The compact was formally signed in 1942.

Its purposes are to provide for equitable division of such waters, remove all causes of controversy, promote interstate comity, promote joint action by the states and the United States in the efficient use of water and the control of destructive floods, and provide for the most efficient use of waters in the Republican River basin, it was reported.

The state official in each of the three states who is charged with administering water law serves on the Republican River Compact Administration. For more information about the compact, visit agriculture.ks.gov/divisions-programs/dwr/ interstate-rivers-and-compacts/republican-river-compact

Holton First Baptist Church

By Shirley M. Cameron
On Sunday, Aug. 28, at Holton First Baptist Church, Pastor Tim brought a message from Philipians chapter 3 and from the Old Testament book of Isaiah.

Philippians 3:7-8 says, "But whatever was to my profit I now consider loss for the sake of Christ. I consider everything a loss compared to the surpassing greatness of knowing Jesus Christ my Lord, for whose sake, have lost all things. I consider them rubbish, that I may gain Christ and be found in Him."

Before the apostle was called to order to be a religious zealot and very learned, Jesus met Paul on the road to Damascus. Paul's life was forever changed.

Whether in prison because of his newfound faith, he served the Lord in many ways and shared with others the precious gospel, no matter what situation he was in. He was always grateful and loved the Lord.

When Paul received Jesus Christ, he was clothed in the righteousness of Christ. He was humbled, just as the Prophet Isaiah went before the Lord and said, "Woe is me; I am undone."

There is a difference between adoring Christ and allowing Him to be Lord of our lives. Pastor also told the congregation to totally surrender to Christ; give Him our pains and hurts and our relationship with our family and friends.

Regular Sunday school classes resumed for the youth in church. Some were promoted to a new class and some will remain another year in the same class they'd attended.

Pastor shared his appreciation for those involved in the summer class that included several grades. Some will have new teachers. Sunday school teachers of all ages need a round of applause and shown appreciation to them by teaching. They consider this as serving the Lord.

Youth evening will be held at the Bell home from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 7. They are to bring chips or a dessert. Future plans will be revealed that evening.

Wildcats steal some thunder from NC

By Ali Holcomb

Holton’s varsity volleyball team opened its season Thursday at home by splitting a pair of Big Seven league matches with talented Nemaha Central.

The Lady Wildcats had a rocky start and lost the opening set 25-13 but were able to hustle back and take the next set 25-22. The Lady Thunder claimed the match, however, in the final set 25-18.

“Nemaha came out strong, and they are good team. They are probably the best team in our league this year,” said head coach Janelle Noel. “We have a lot of new girls on varsity this year, too, so I think there were some nerves. I understand that, but I think we played a little timid and were not as confident in our abilities.”

After the first match, Noel said she told the team in the locker room to refocus on their hitting skills.

“When we hit, we’re really good, and in that first game, we didn’t hit as much,” she said. “They came out and played very well after that. They were so much better.”

In the second match, the Wildcats won in two straight sets, 25-23 and 25-18.

Noel said that senior Lauren Leavendusky had a great game.

“She is a great hitter and adjusts so well,” she said. “She got a lot of touches and blocks for us.”

“She’s all over the place in the back row and really helped us. She got some big hustle plays that we needed.”

Noel said that as the team moves forward this season, the players need to continue to work on their defensive skills.

“We also need to know who is going to be where and get what on the court,” she said. “Receiving is another area we still need to work on. I tell the girls all the time that we can hit but that doesn’t mean a thing if we can’t pass the ball.”

The Wildcats will travel to Jeff West on Tuesday with games starting at 5 p.m.

Denison Bible

By Esther L. Hall

It was good to see so many people filling the pews at Denison Bible Church on Aug. 28.

Pastor Tom's message, "Wisdom Better Than Folly," was based on Ecclesiastes 9:13-18. Wisdom versus foolishness, but wisdom doesn't always win. If we're not where God wants us to be, then we need to repent. Solomon was a wise man but didn't always use his wisdom wisely.

Like Solomon, we sometimes travel a lot of different paths that lead us to nowhere before we finally get on the right path. As much wisdom as Solomon had, he wasn't very wise in his use of it. It took him a lifetime to finally figure it out.

If we say we have a relationship with God but don't live like we do, we'll always be searching for something more in life. But when we finally find the meaning of life, we can enjoy a fulfilling relationship with God – we finally get life right.

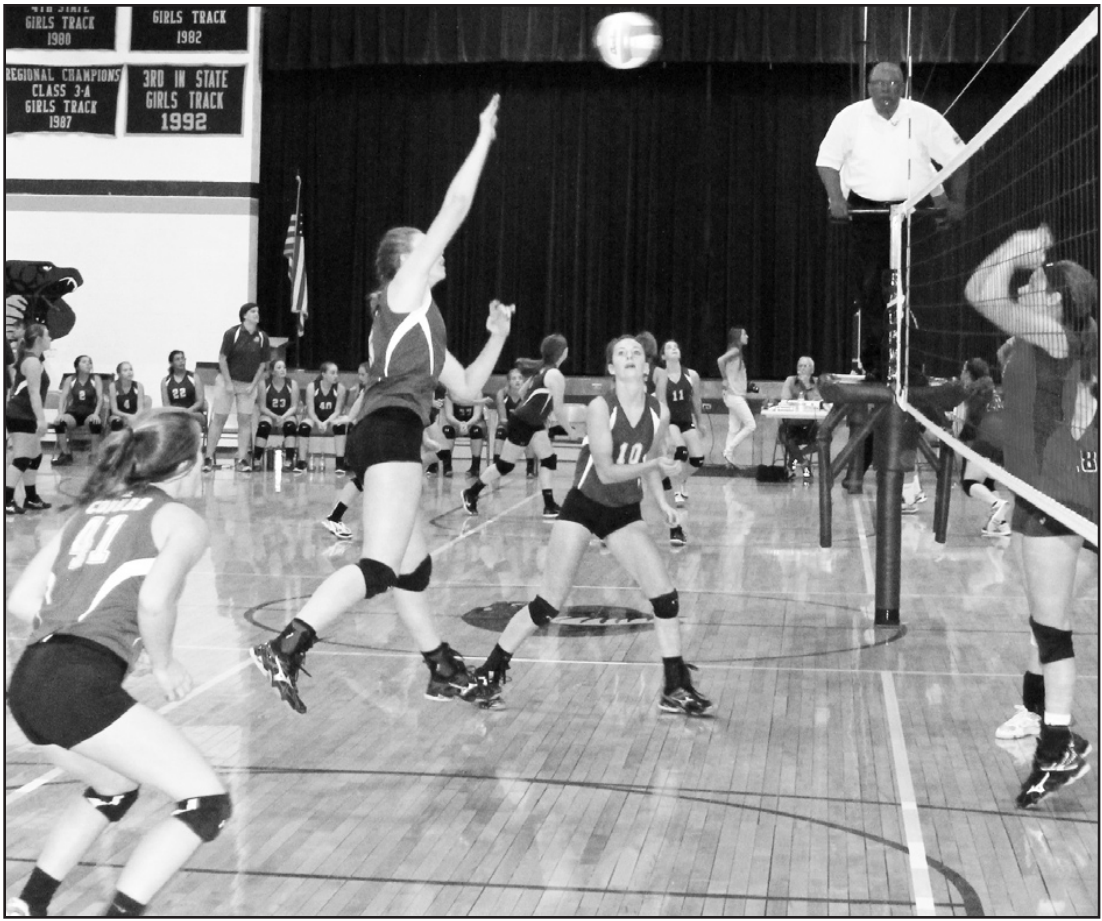

It's best to be wise, poor and happy with a life filled with God. But it's dangerous to be a fool because when we come to the end of our lives, everything material that we've put our hopes in will not give us eternal hope. Only Jesus Christ can satisfy us and only a fool gets satisfaction from things. Anyone can be saved if their hope is in Jesus Christ.

Trinity Lutheran

By Marcia Coufal

Sunday, Aug. 28, was a joyous celebration at Trinity Lutheran Church in Holton as four new members were welcomed into our congregation. They were Jennifer Baker, Jeff Tanking, Jenny Wells and Whitney Robinson. A reception with refreshments was held in the Fellowship Hall following the Divine Service to meet and welcome the new members.

All members are concerned about the welfare of the people due to all the flooding in Baton Rouge, La. Our congregation is collecting funds the next two Sundays, which will be sent in care of the Trinity Lutheran

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

KANZA Mental Health & Guidance Center

CHILDREN OF DEPRESSED PARENTS

When one or both parents are depressed, the entire family can be affected. According to a 30-year study of families at risk for depression, the offspring of depressed parents have a higher risk for depression, death, and serious disease that extends into middle age. The study assessed the health of the offspring of depressed parents at 10- and 20-year intervals. After establishing baseline health, interviews were also conducted at 2, 10, 20, 25, and 30 years. This study confirms the findings of previous research that children of depressed parents continue to have a three-fold increase in the risk of major depression or anxiety. This means that depressed adults have more reasons than their own health to seek treatment for depression.

P.S. A family history and assessment of major depression can help identify individuals at long-term risk for depression.

Protecting your children is just one of many reasons to get treatment for your depression. If you're wrestling with depression, please call our office to make an appointment right away. We understand how depression can invade every part of your life, even the futures of your loved ones, and we offer proven techniques for helping you lift the darkness. You and your family deserve to be healthy again.

OFFERING HOPE FOR A HEALTHIER TOMORROW.

Circleville Christian

By Jeannie Arnold

Carol Fenton served as greeter at the door for Cowboy Church at Circleville Christian Church on Aug. 28. Brody Bliss gave the welcome and announcements. The opening prayer was given by David Allen. Music was provided by the praise team of Dale and Ilah Rose Askren, David Allen, Max Lierz, Sandra Hurt and Paul and Sue Davault.

David Allen gave the communion meditation and prayer. Communion servers were Donnie Askren, Matt McCauley, John Ray and Jeremy Kennedy. Hannah Davault provided the lovely piano music as communion was served. The prayer for the offering was given by Paul Davault.

Brody Bliss used text from Deuteronomy 6:1-9 as he finished up his mini series on "Getting Back To The Basics," with the sermon title being "The Parent Teacher." His message was about building a foundation of discipleship. We must learn God's word so that we can teach our children. Teaching must become a habit, always teaching the children. The teacher must remember the message and live it by example.

Teach your children the word of God and remember the overall purpose of teaching. We teach our children for righteousness sake. Teach them that they must face the consequences of bad choices. Our only true savior is Jesus Christ, but if we don't teach our children they will never know that.

The service closed by singing "Happy Trails To You."

The men will be working each Saturday for the next several weeks framing walls in the new addition. Start time is 8:30 a.m. and lunch will be provided. If anyone is willing to provide a meal on a Saturday during September, please let Andra know.

Sheldon teaching some WHS classes

By Dakota McQueen

WHS Student Correspondent

Lana (Stover) Sheldon is certainly not a new face to Wetmore, but her presence is, in fact, new to the third floor.

Sheldon is married to Steve Sheldon, and together they have three children (Sonora, a freshman at Kansas State University; Walker, a sophomore at Holton High School; and Cooper, a seventh-grade student at Holton Middle School).

They live outside of Holton in the countryside where they raise chickens, dogs, barn cats and honeybees.

This year Sheldon has a new job assignment ahead of her. She has gone from teaching several different subjects, including English and social science to Wetmore's middle school students, to now teaching social sciences to students in grades seven through 11 and being the KAY sponsor for the high school.

Her classes include American history, world history, American government, seventh-grade social studies, current events and eighth-grade social studies. Sheldon is replacing Sarah Smith who resigned last spring.

Some challenges she has faced include climbing all the way up to the third floor and trying to prepare for six completely different classes. One of Sheldon's main goals this year was, in her words, "Survive," yet she hopes that by the end of the year that her students realize that she made them accomplish things they doubted they could do themselves and enjoyed their time learning about the past.

Pleasant Valley Rustlers hold meetings

By Marcus Pruett

Reporter

The July meeting of the Pleasant Valley Rustlers 4-H Club was held on July 10, 2016. The meeting was called to order by Joel. The pledge and song were led by Lora and Josh.

Jerilyn read the roll call by "What are you taking to the fair?" She then read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer's report was given by Judd.

The leader's report was given by JoAnn Nelson. She told club members that pre-fair judging was to be held on July 19 at Holton High School. She also said that the rodeo was set for July 22 and 23.

The Jackson County Fair would be held from July 25 through July 29. The club was in charge of the concession stand on that Tuesday.

Old business was to sell tickets for the pig drawing. The program was given by Lane Pruett. He talked about his calf, Peanut. Next month's program was to be given by Kevin and Jacob Davis. Lora would also give a talk on camp.

The next meeting was to be held at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 14.

The August meeting of the Pleasant Valley Rustlers was held on Aug. 14. It was the club's annual end of the year meeting and pizza party. JoAnn and Jerry also threw in a few snacks, so dinner was really good.

The meeting was called to order by Vice President Alex. Pledge and songs were led by Lora and Josh.

Roll call was led by Jerilyn by answering, "What is your biggest pet peeve?"

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Jerilyn. The treasurer's report was read by Judd.

The club then moved on to the leader's report. JoAnn told club members that the pig raffle was a huge success. The club made more than $1,000 on it, and members wish to thank the Zeller family for the donated hog and Holton Meat Processing for their donation of processing. The Kucan family and Marla Larison were the winners of the two halves.

In new business, the club owes $60 for its fair trophies. This is also election of officers month.

The new club president is Alex. Judd is the vice president. Jerilyn agreed to stay secretary and does a good job of it. Treasurer is Lora, who will be helped by her dad. Josh and Claire are song leaders, Marcus is reporter and Parker is activity leader.

The club is thankful to have two seniors still as members this year.

The 4-H council representatives for this year will be Jerry, Alex, Jerilyn and Judd.

The program was given by Lora, who told club members about 4-H camp, and Parker, who told about his love/hate relationships with hogs and his steer.

The next monthly meeting will be held at 7 p.m. on Oct. 9.

Prepare Kansas offers tips on keeping food safe during various emergencies

By Cindy Williams
Meadowlark Extension
District Agent
Food & Nutrition, FNP

Ice storms, tornadoes and flooding – Kansas has them all and more. Do you really know how long food will stay safe in the refrigerator if your power is out? Or what foods and supplies you should have on hand in case of emergencies?

Starting Sept. 1, Prepare Kansas 2016 will provide tips on keeping food safe in emergency situations. This year's program will be conducted through the K-State Research and Extension Facebook page. No registration is required, so Kansans and anyone interested in planning ahead for emergencies can follow on Facebook at any time during September, pick up handy information and interact with K-State extension specialists and agents.

Throughout 2015, a total of 126 tornadoes occurred across the state, which made it the fourth highest year for tornadoes since 1950, according to the Kansas Department of Emergency Management.

"Kansas has its share of disasters, whether it's a homeowner's basement flooding or a fire affecting a whole block in a community. We're committed to working with people across the state to help them be prepared for anything that comes their way," said Kansas State University associate professor Elizabeth Kiss. "We can't always keep disasters from happening, but we know that being as prepared as possible, whether it's making an emergency kit or having copies of your financial and personal information in a separate, safe place, aids in the recovery from disasters."

Kiss, a K-State and Extension financial management specialist, produces the Prepare Kansas blog, which provides tips and resources on a range of emergency preparedness topics, including this year's focus on food safety during September.

"It is very important to keep food safety in mind before, during and after emergencies such as power outages and floods, to help to reduce the likelihood of people getting sick from eating contaminated food. That would make a challenging situation even worse," said Londa Nwadike, consumer food safety specialist with K-State Research and Extension. "Some of the food safety practices that are important in emergency situations are good practices to help prevent people from getting sick at any time."
