Riley reunited with war plane

By Brian Sanders
 About 10 years ago, former Holton superintendent of schools C.L. Riley was in Omaha, Neb., hosting a meeting of “an antique china club” of which he was president when he offered to take members of the club to the Strategic Air Command and Aerospace Museum in Ashland, Neb., just west of Omaha.

Riley, who also served in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War, noticed that one of the airplanes on display at the SAC Museum — a Grumman HU-16 Albatross, originally designated as an SA-16 during the Korean War — looked more than a little familiar.

“I saw the plane down there, and I was close enough to see the serial number, even though I was far away from it — it was ‘0006.’ That was our plane!” he said of the Albatross on display at the SAC museum.

Indeed, during Riley’s time in the Air Force in Korea, he served as a radar operator and a mechanic on an SA-16 Albatross, a large, twin-radial engine amphibious flying boat that was used as a search-and-rescue aircraft. But this particular Albatross, he noted, was one that he flew in during the Korean War.

Unfortunately, at that time, nobody at the SAC Museum was willing to let Riley get in — or near — the plane.

“It was on a Saturday, and the curator wasn’t there,” he said. “I asked the people there if I could go down there and look in that plane, that was my old plane, and the lady said you couldn’t do that today because the curator’s not there to give you permission.”

Just recently, though, Riley made a return trip to the SAC Museum with one of his grandsons in tow. This time, not only did he get a chance to get closer to the Albatross or look through the windows — he was allowed to step inside the plane for the first time in 65 years.

“The radar set was still there,” Riley said. “Everything looked just like it did some 65 years ago.”

Prior to the Korean War, Riley was teaching at a one-room schoolhouse in Anderson County during the 1949-50 school year when he made the decision to join the Air Force.

Sheriff’s office set to collect unused medications Saturday

By Ali Holcomb
 Saturday is National Prescription Drug Take Back Day and unused leftover medication is being collected at the Jackson County Sheriff’s Office in Holton that day from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A collection box will be set up Saturday in the lobby of the Jackson County Sheriff’s Office, 210 Old U.S. Highway 75 in Holton, according to Sergeant Detective Andy Caviness.

“Any unused or expired prescription drugs can be dropped off. No needles are accepted,” Caviness said.

The sheriff’s office is the only law enforcement agency in the county collecting drugs that day.

Each year, the U.S. Department of Justice and Drug Enforcement Administration partner with law enforcement agencies around the country during National Prescription Drug Take Back Day.

The goal of the event is to provide a safe, convenient and responsible means of disposing of prescription drugs while also educating the general public about the potential for abuse and medications.

Since the program began in 2010, more than 50 tons of unwanted medications have been collected and destroyed in Kansas alone, it was reported.

Medicines that are forgotten in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are increasing, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs, it was reported.

Studies show a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet.

Additional laptops purchased for RV

By Ali Holcomb
 New Chromebook laptops for incoming fifth-grade students and freshmen were approved by Royal Valley Board of Education members Monday evening.

The board agreed to purchase 115 Lenovo ThinkPad Chromebooks from TwoTrees Technologies of Wichita at a cost of $25,760. Superintendent Aaric Davis said the purchase will be made with capital outlay funds.

“We’re in year three of our one to one technology initiative, and we’re just trying to get a jumpstart on next year when those original machines hit their fourth year,” Davis said.

With parent permission, all high school students are assigned a Chromebook laptop to take to and from school for school use.

At the middle school, the Chromebooks are checked in and out each day and they never leave the school.

Other bids included $34,143.50 from ITsavvy LLC of Addison, Ill. and $42,541.95 from CDW-G of Vernon Hills, Ill.

Also during the meeting, Davis presented a bid to rebuild the hydraulic system at the elevator at the middle school in Mayetta.

Davis said the elevator updates, which include a new hydraulic line and the installation of an emergency phone and alarm bell, have been on the district’s maintenance list for a while and need to be addressed.

Since some parts for the elevator are not available, the company will need to refabricate a new hydraulic line.

The board approved the bid of $14,845.53 from Otis Elevator Company of Kansas City to make the improvements this summer.

In other business, the board:

- * Approved consent items.
- * Met with district parents Rob and Heather Holt, who expressed their concern with how students are disciplined at the high school.

“There seems to be a wild curve on how we discipline kids,” Rob Holt said.

The Holts’ daughter was recently removed from a spring sports team after an incident.

“My wife and I didn’t know the punishment was going to be so severe. We didn’t think the punishment fit the crime,” Rob said.

Recorder hosting Mother’s Day contest

The Holton Recorder is sponsoring a Mother’s Day Youth Essay Contest. The theme of the essay contest is “Why My Mother Is A Superhero.” Essays are due Friday, May 5.

The top winning essay in each of the three age divisions will be published in the Wednesday, May 10, edition of the newspaper along with a photo of the mother and child.

Winning essays will be selected from three age group divisions — grade school, middle school and high school. All area students are encouraged to participate.

Pizza Hut in Holton is providing a free medium size, two-topping pizza to each of the winning essay authors in The Holton Recorder’s Mother Day Essay Contest.

Essays should be typed and be no more than 500 words.

Please include your name, age, hometown, your mother’s name and phone number.

Essays can be sent to The Holton Recorder Mother’s Day Essay Contest, P.O. Box 311, Holton, KS 66436 or hand-delivered to our office at 109 W. Fourth St. They can also be emailed to holtonrecorder@giantcomm.net

Purple Heart Profiles

South injured in Normandy Invasion

Editor’s note: This is the 53rd in a series of stories about past and present Jackson County residents who earned the Purple Heart Medal, which is awarded to military personnel wounded or killed in the line of duty.

The names of those profiled in these stories will be among those placed on a special monument for Purple Heart Medal recipients that will be unveiled on Saturday, May 6 in Holton’s Linscott Park.

On July 11, 1944, in the last days of the Allied invasion of Normandy in France during World War II, a young Kansas National Guard corporal from Holton was making his way through Normandy when he was struck in the thigh by enemy fire.

But despite machine gun and mortar fire coming from the German Army, Cpl. George South was able to make it to safety thanks to the help of another National Guard soldier from Jackson County. For wounds received in battle, South received the Purple Heart Medal.

Born March 16, 1916, George Earl South was born in Woodward, Okla., the son of Robert and Alice E. Day South. George eventually came to live in the Jackson County area with the T.A. Goodwyn family, and on Nov. 1, 1940, he enlisted in the U.S. Army at Holton with the National Guard.

South initially served as a private and a rifleman with Company E of the Guard’s 137th Infantry and was mustered into the Army as a private on Dec. 23, 1940, at Holton. He would go with his company to Camp Joseph T. Robinson at Little Rock, Ark., for a year’s training, and he was promoted to the rank of corporal in 1943 at Camp Rucker in Alabama.

He and his company were sent to Normandy in northern France to participate in the German campaign, and it was little more than a month after D-Day when he was hit in the thigh with enemy fire on July 11, 1944. The Goodwyn family would learn of his battle wounds in early 1944, it was reported.

Had it not been for a fellow soldier from Soldier, however, South would not have made it to safety. According to a local newspaper article published that September, a Private Robert O. Sumner had gone back to locate two of his fellow soldiers — including South — who were hit by enemy fire.

Sumner, it was reported, crawled about 100 yards to a position from which he could throw hand grenades to hit the

Denison Bible Church

By Esther L. Hall

On April 23 at Denison Bible Church, Pastor Tom continued his sermon on the week leading up to Christ's crucifixion. The sermon was titled "Trials: From A Foregone Conclusion." The responsive reading was John 1:19-24.

The whole week leading up to the crucifixion is more than Jesus riding into Jerusalem and Christ arising from the dead, but that's about all most people know. The trials of Jesus Christ were the worst of all evil trials throughout history.

After Judas betrayed Jesus, he led a crowd of several hundred to the Garden of Gethsemane to meet up with Jesus. Among the crowd were the Jewish leaders and 200 Roman soldiers. Jesus was arrested and was taken away bound like a criminal.

There were three Jewish trials that night. All of them were illegal because they were held at night, in secret, and they only invited the people they wanted at the trial. They didn't even have a quorum. The purpose of these trials was to find something on Jesus that would condemn Him to death.

The first trial was with former high priest, Annas. He shouldn't have even been involved because he was no longer the high priest. He asked Jesus questions regarding His followers and His teachings and Jesus answered Annas' questions truthfully.

Jesus then asked Annas "... Why do you question me? Ask the people who heard my teachings..." and one of Annas' guards stepped up and slapped Jesus for questioning Annas. This was the first physical abuse to Jesus.

Annas sent Jesus to Caiaphas and the Sanhedrin for the second trial. Jesus underwent further questioning and harsher physical abuse as He was imprisoned at Caiaphas' palace. He was mocked, slapped, beaten, bloodied and spit upon.

At the third trial, the Jewish elders, Caiaphas and all the Sanhedrin gathered and all they could think of to charge Jesus with was blasphemy. They accused Jesus of leading the nation astray, telling the people "not" to pay taxes and claiming to be a king. All lies. Deliberate lies.

The religious leaders couldn't agree on anything except to get rid of Jesus. They could charge Him but it took a Roman trial to condemn Him to crucifixion. They didn't want Jesus stoned or imprisoned; they wanted Him crucified so they decided to ask the Roman government to kill Jesus.

The whole ordeal was illegal. The impartial judgment was nothing more than "hate crimes" against Jesus. It was improper from the very beginning because it was against the law to have meetings in the night.

They made a decision without the government and already decided on a verdict. The accusers sought false testimonies against Jesus and there was no valid evidence found against Him.

Even with inadequate testimony, they found Jesus guilty anyhow. No one spoke up on Jesus' behalf. Even Peter denied Christ three times.

Thank You

We would like to thank our children and their families for the wonderful 50th Anniversary celebration.

Thank you to all our family and friends who attended the Open House and sent cards and warm wishes. We appreciate your thoughtfulness. God Bless You.

Existence of sanctuary cities makes no sense

President Donald Trump and members of his administration are intensifying their efforts to crack down on so-called sanctuary cities that refuse to cooperate with federal immigration authorities, it has been reported.

It's a matter of national defense and national security.

The Trump administration sent letters last Friday to officials in California and major cities including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and New Orleans, all places that the Justice Department's inspector general has identified as limiting the information that local law enforcement are allowed to provide to federal immigration authorities about those in their custody.

The nine jurisdictions reportedly were warned that they may lose coveted law enforcement grant money unless they start cooperating.

U.S. Attorney General Jeff Sessions also warned that the administration will punish communities in other ways, too, that refuse to cooperate with efforts to find and deport illegal immigrants who are also criminals.

The United States is supposed to be a country based on law and order. Isn't it time to start acting like it?

So far, some state courts are ruling that the sanctuary from federal laws offered by some cities is OK. How odd.

According to the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement estimates, about 2.1 million illegal immigrants who are also criminals live in the U.S., more than 1.9 million of which could be deported.

These illegal immigrants/criminals continue to live in U.S. communities and engage in further criminal activity when state and local law enforcement are prohibited from cooperating with federal immigration officials.

The cost of illegal immigrants to state and local governments was an estimated $113 billion in 2013 in education costs, healthcare costs, welfare costs and law enforcement costs.

Americans face serious threats from terrorist organizations. Sanctuary policies that create an environment where illegal immigrants/criminals go undetected, undermines our national security efforts.

Tolerating illegal immigrants and providing a safe haven for them is also unfair to immigrants who respect and abide by our nation's laws.

The existence of sanctuary cities makes no sense in the U.S. It never has. For a safer U.S., we need the officials in sanctuary cities to stop playing politics and get with the program.

Davis may run for Congress

Paul Davis, a former legislator and Democratic candidate for Kansas governor, said recently he is considering a run for the 2nd District congressional seat being vacated by U.S. Rep. Lynn Jenkins.

Davis narrowly lost to incumbent Republican Sam Brownback in the 2014 race for governor. Davis is from Lawrence and served as the Democratic leader in the Kansas House of Representatives.

In an interview with the Kansas News Service, Davis said he has concerns about some of President Donald Trump's proposed policies.

"A lot of people who supported President Trump expected that he was going to try to change Washington in a positive way, get rid of the special interest influence," Davis said. "He's certainly changing Washington in some ways, but I'm not sure that's necessarily for the better."

Davis said he worked across the aisle during his time as a lawmaker in Topeka and could take that spirit to the U.S. Capitol to combat "political bickering."

Davis had been rumored as a candidate for governor in 2018, but he's instead pinning his hopes on the congressional seat.

"Congress right now desperately needs people who are going to attack the problems that people want to have addressed," he said.

Tops among those issues is the economy, which Davis said "just is not working for middle-class and lower-income Americans."

Davis is the most recent person to announce interest in the seat since Jenkins announced in January she won't run for reelection or any other political office in 2018. The 2nd District seat covers much of eastern Kansas and includes Topeka, Lawrence and Pittsburg.

Encumbrances weigh you down

By Glenn Mollette

An encumbrance will often weigh us down or prevent us from going forward. Trinity Lutheran church in Columbia, Mo., for example, should not receive taxpayer dollars for its preschool daycare playground.

A few years back, the church's leaders requested money from the state to rubberize the surface of their daycare children's playground. The money was denied and it has since become a case appearing before the U.S. Supreme Court.

A church asking the state for money sets a bad precedent, especially if the Supreme Court rules in its favor. If churches and any of their ministries take money from the federal government, then they should pay taxes from their weekly offerings and endowment funds that some of them pile up for future endeavors.

Most churches couldn't make it if they had to pay such taxes. A state-controlled church is the last thing America needs. Once that happens to a church, there will be no going back.

I don't think Christian churches want to be told they have to hire gay and lesbian leadership. Many already do so by their own choice but it's they who make the choice, not the government. Equally, the churches that do hire gays and lesbians don't want to be told they can't.

Most churches do not want to be told they must hire a Muslim to teach daycare Bible stories either. They have demanded and fought for a few liberties and it's not wise for any church or religious group to give up its freedom in order to teach and exercise its faith free from most federal encumbrances for money.

Speaking of encumbrances, neither Bill O'Reilly nor Fox News should ever have paid a dime to anyone if the allegations against him of sexual harassment were false. Paying out $13 million does not speak of innocence.

We understand that $13 million is small change to O'Reilly and Fox. We also understand them wanting to settle and move on without further encumbering themselves. Unfortunately, though, malignant cancers return unless met head on and dealt with in a conclusive fashion. Putting a little salve or a Band-Aid on a tumor does not bring about real resolution or a cure. For Fox, the end result is a network that is now reeling and the greatest primetime cable program in history is now just that - history.

Still speaking of encumbrances, Kim Jong-un of North Korea is a pain in the neck. The world has already faced his aggravations and rear ends and now we are staring at one again.

The people of South Korea have to live in the realms of "what if." What if Kim really messes up and fires a missile at Seoul? America cannot battle North Korea, Iran, Syria, Afghanistan, Iraq and Russia. We don't have enough tax dollars to fund enough military, nor the weapons and ships, to cover all the territory.

I remember a cartoon character who ran out of breath while trying to keep seven plates spinning on sticks. He was successful but only for a few seconds.

Our wars and nation building go on for years while our country and people are neglected. I would rather fight any war in another country than have one come to America. We must be defensive in our daily strategy against terrorism and threats like Kim's. If we have to attack, then so be it, but how many nations can we battle before we begin to crumble?

Encumbrances come to all, including churches, national figures and even our nation.

Kansas Hospital Association says...

Medicaid expansion would be "lifeline"

The continued financial struggle of several Kansas hospitals is giving supporters of Medicaid expansion in Kansas a potentially powerful argument as they work to build a veto-proof majority for a new bill.

"The conversation became much more real with the renewed talk about hospital closures," said David Jordan, director of the Alliance for a Healthy Kansas, a pro-expansion coalition to the Kansas News Service. "I think legislators are seeing how motivated their constituents are and may be rethinking their votes."

Republican Gov. Sam Brownback's rejection of expansion reportedly was a factor in the 2015 closure of Mercy Hospital in Independence.

Now, sources say St. Francis Health in Topeka could be on the brink of shutting its doors after more than 100 years of operation. Hospitals in Wellington and Fort Scott are also said to be in dire financial straits.

Officials from the hospital's parent organization, Denver-based SCL Health, were in Topeka recently to meet with the hospital's board of directors, according to Topeka Mayor Larry Wolgast.

Expansion opponents argue there are many reasons for the increasing financial pressure on Kansas hospitals. Expanding KanCare, the state's privatized Medicaid program, would not generate enough additional federal revenue to save many of them, opponents say.

However, House Minority Leader Jim Ward, a Wichita Democrat, said information provided by the Kansas Hospital Association has convinced him that expansion would be a "lifeline" to many of the state's struggling hospitals.

"Knowing that help was on the way would allow many of them to hang on until that money got to them," Ward said. "More hospitals will close if we don't take action."

The rejection of expansion has cost Kansas health care providers more than $1.8 billion in additional federal funding, according to the hospital association.

Brownback recently vetoed an expansion bill that the House and Senate passed by wide margins. An override attempt in the House fell three votes short of the two-thirds majority needed.

Expansion supporters are now using the threat of additional hospital closings to build a veto-proof majority by convincing a handful of lawmakers to switch their votes. They hope to force another vote soon after they return May 1 for the wrap-up portion of the 2017 session.

Because of the failure of the override vote, expansion supporters would have to pass a new bill. That makes the process more difficult, but it also allows supporters to gain votes by modifying the bill.

Possible changes include prohibiting payments to abortion providers and requiring non-disabled adults covered by expansion to work or participate in job training.

Cost is one of the issues that expansion opponents cite most often. They point to the fact that enrollment has greatly exceeded projections in many of expansion states and District of Columbia.

"Their budgets have ballooned," said Dan Hawkins, a Wichita Republican and chairman of the House Health and Human Services Committee. "Their budgets are just enormous on this. And with what we're doing here in the state, and the budget constraints that we have, I think it's truly irresponsible for us to expand."

But a study in the May edition of Health Affairs finds that federal funds have so more than covered the cost of expansion, even in those states where enrollment has been higher than expected.

"There were no significant increases in spending from state funds as a result of the expansion, nor any significant reductions in spending on education and other programs," the study said.

The federal government covered 100 percent of expansion costs for the period covered by the study. If the Affordable Care Act remains in place, the federal obligation will gradually decline until it reaches a floor of 90 percent in 2020, at which time state costs will increase.

Expansion would qualify all Kansans earning up to 138 percent of the poverty level, annually about $16,642 for individuals and $33,465 for a family of four, for Medicaid coverage.

An estimated 300,000 Kansans would qualify for coverage under expansion, though only about 180,000 would initially enroll, according to estimates.

Even when it upsets and overwhelms us, truth above all.

Mayetta Methodist

By Shirley Stauffer

The second Sunday of Easter at Mayetta Methodist Church began with Pastor Sudduth reading from the Psalms, followed by prayer.

During joys and concerns, it was reported that Mary Harden had been in the hospital this past week, but is now home. Prayers are also for Rob McIntosh, who had back surgery.

The candle lighter was Cody Smith and Randy Rickel rang the bell. Call to worship was from Psalms 118:14-15, 19-24. The hymn of praise was "In The Garden." Other hymns sung were "Where He Leads Me" and "Softly And Tenderly, Jesus Is Calling."

Karen Burns read the living word of God from John 5:24. The birthday song was sung to Liz Smith and Mary Anderson, and the children's message was titled "A Word That Works." Randy Rickel was the offering usher.

Pastor Sudduth shared the word of God from John 19-31 and his sermon was called "Thomas, Locked Out By Doubt." Services closed with the circle of friendship.

A couple of weeks ago, Karen Burns helped her granddaughter, Leanna Strecker, and her husband, Brady, move to their new home in Circleville.

Karen Burns attended Good Friday services at Whiting Baptist Church, where her son, Daniel Burns, is pastor. On Easter Sunday, dinner guests in her home were Daniel and Nancy Burns of Horton, Becky and Tom Neely of Elmont and Cordell, Aaron and Kacie Neely of Manhattan.

After services on April 23, Karen went to Bethel Baptist Church to listen to her son, Matthew, speak. She also enjoyed sharing the noon meal with Matthew and Rhonda Burns. On her way home, she stopped to visit with Francis and Elmer Eckhoff.

Sharon Gabriel went to Lawrence South Middle School on Thursday evening to see her granddaughter, Ellis Spray, in a play. The play was "Winnie the Pooh" and Ellis played the rabbit and in grandma's view, she was awesome.

Mary Anderson was in Topeka for the monthly meeting of the 21 Book Club held at Perkins Restaurant.

Tim Stauffer and Robyn Potter attended the Holton High School prom on Saturday evening. Grandpa and Grandma went to Holton to see them having their pictures taken by mother Rose, and after they had settled on the tractor that dad Todd provided for them to ride in the promenade.

Visitors in the home of June Schlodder on Saturday were Darrell Brown and Kathy and Lalo Ramirez.

Bud and Shirley were hosts to Darrell and Mary Morgan, June Schlodder and Roy and Bev Kranz for pizza on Friday evening. On Sunday afternoon, they enjoyed watching their granddaughters, Aidan and Brenna, play soccer in Topeka.

A board meeting on April 30 will be preceded by lunch at 11:45 a.m.

Potawatomi United Methodist Church

By Ilene Dick

Sunday, April 23, was a beautiful spring day as the congregation at Potawatomi United Methodist Church celebrated the second Sunday of Easter.

Pastor Howard opened the service with scripture and prayer. Acolyte was Laura Schreiber.

It was a joy to have Leetha Smith back after being housebound several weeks and in a wheelchair following ankle surgery.

Prayers continue for those in ICU following surgeries, and added to the list is Jim Shenk, who injured his knee when struggling with a baby calf.

Laura Schreiber expressed joy for having good luck in her early morning turkey hunt.

Hymns for the service were "In The Garden," "Where He Leads Me" and "Softly And Tenderly Jesus Is Calling." Music was provided by Ilene.

Martha Roush was liturgist, reading from John 5:24. The Sundays of Easter prayer was prayed in unison.

For the special, Betty Bowser shared the song "His Eye Is On The Sparrow" on CD.

Offertory usher was Keith Bell.

The sermon text was from John 20:19-31, with the title "Thomas: Locked Out By Doubt." Thomas teaches us how to transform doubt into faith. In several verses of scripture, we find how Thomas expresses his doubt. Like some of us, Thomas wanted proof.

God hasn't given us a spirit of fear, but a spirit of love.

Thomas was fearful, pessimistic, doubtful and grief-stricken. Grief not shared leads to loneliness.

The next time, Thomas was locked in with the other disciples. We miss a great deal when we lock ourselves out of fellowship. The church gives help to the helpless.

The door of Jesus Christ appears in the group of disciples. He let Thomas feel His side and Thomas confessed admittance to Christ. Christ wants to transform doubt to faith if you let Him.

Pastor Howard's sermon next Sunday will be "Christianity As It Really Is."

Potawatomi U.M.W. will meet at the church at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 2, with a guest speaker.

Judy Thoman attended the soccer game of her grandson, Kaden, in Topeka on Saturday morning, April 22. It was a chilly morning, but the players probably didn't mind that.

Jim and Marjean Shenk attended a funeral of Jim's cousin in Horton on April 20. The Shensks also went to the softball game on Tuesday evening in which their granddaughter, McKenzie, participated.

Buck's Grove Methodist Church

By Betty Bernitter

Congregants waltzed through the doors of Buck's Grove United Methodist Church on April 23 to the tune of 15 attendants while the songbirds outside heralded the beautiful day the Lord made.

Marcus Bauman, serving as acolyte, carried the light of Christ as the prelude "Morning Has Broken" greeted the congregation.

The congregation sang the familiar hymns "In The Garden," "Love Divine, All Love Excelling" and "Breathe On Me, O Breath Of God."

Pastor Charlotte Milroy led the congregation in the call to worship as all continued to celebrate the resurrection and the new living hope. She also led those present in the opening prayer, the offertory prayer and the Psalter reading from Psalm 16.

While the Gaither family entertained the congregation in recorded music "He Touched Me," they tapped their toes to the special provided by LeRoy and Linda Rieschick.

Pastor Charlotte provided a special message as well, asking the congregation how we might react had we been present when Jesus walked through the wall to the disciples following the resurrection. Would we doubt His appearance? Would we reach out to touch Jesus to be sure? We tend to need to see and touch to believe. Yet, Jesus said, "Peace be with you."

Pastor Charlotte recited the scripture from Acts 2:14a and 2:22-32; 1 Peter 1:3-9 and the gospel reading from John 20:19-31. "What Is Your Story" titled Pastor Charlotte's message. Have you ever played the game "What are the stories behind your scars" as an icebreaker? Every scar has a story; some scars represent pain and shame; some scars are a result of a funny story; other scars are related with pride.

Jesus had scars formed by pain and suffering. But His scars represent hope. The cross, then a symbol of torture, pain and scars, is now a symbol of hope. His resurrection is hope. We can't skip directly from Palm Sunday to Easter Sunday, though; we have to recognize the torture, pain and suffering between those two Sundays. If we skip the pain and suffering, the scars from the nails and the spear and the crown of thorns become meaningless.

What if Jesus had not had the scars after His resurrection? Doubting Thomas would have gone on doubting. Admittedly, we are all a little like Thomas; we have to see the scars to understand the hope. Scars of hope are the foundation of our faith.

Thomas saw the scars and declared, "My Lord, My God!" Jesus' scars remind us that Jesus suffers with us. Jesus hung on that cross and declared, "My God! My God!" Jesus knows our pains and our suffering and He has the scars that offer us hope.

Service closed with the also familiar hymn "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Bible study followed the service. As we work our way

HHS tracksters compete at 5-team Thunder meet

Wildcats travel to Hiawatha meet on Thursday

By Brian Sanders

Holton's Wildcat track squad returned from a five-team Big Seven League meet on Tuesday at the Nemaha Central Thunder Track and Stadium in Seneca with mixed results.

The Wildcat boys finished in second place on the strength of continued good running from Mason Strader, Spencer Baum and Bryson Patch, as well as high-ranking throwing performances from Andrew Harrison and Tel Wittmer. The girls, however, took fourth place, led by good running work from Courtney Boswell and Cailin Parks, among others.

For the boys, Strader picked up another victory in the 800-meter and 1,600-meter runs, as well as anchoring a first-place 4x400m relay with Jayger Carson, Bryson Patch and Baum in the top three relay spots. Baum also anchored the second-place 4x100m relay team with Carson, Miles McClintock-Strozier and Patch in the top three slots and also took second in the 100-meter dash.

Patch, Carson and Trey Wright shored up second through fourth-place finishes in the 400-meter run, while the 4x800m relay team of Keegan Purcell, Riley Althausser, Ian Watkins and Skyler Weir took second. In throwing, Harrison took first in the discus throw and Wittmer took second in the shot put.

RV girls sweep Santa Fe Trail

By Ali Holcomb

After falling behind at the start of the first game of their doubleheader against Santa Fe Trail Monday, Royal Valley softball coach Corey Katzer said he "pulled the reins back a bit," which helped the players settle down and regain control of the game.

"The kids finally relaxed a little bit," coach Katzer said. "We've been really successful in the regular season, but we haven't been successful in the post season in regards to making it to the state tournament. I've put a lot of pressure on this group to be successful, and I think they were pressing a bit at the start of the first game. They were each trying to hit a five-run home run. After I took some of that pressure off, they relaxed and took off."

The Panthers won the first game 15-5 and the momentum carried into the second game where the team won 22-7.

The non-league wins boost the Panthers' record to 9-3 overall, and they are 6-2 in the Big Seven League.

In the first game, the Lady Chargers were up 4-1 in the fourth inning before the Lady Panthers rallied with five runs in the bottom of the fourth, including doubles by Lexi Baker, Sarah Beam and Cassidy Parks.

Santa Fe Trail scored one more run in the sixth inning while the Panthers added three runs in the fifth and six in the sixth before the game was called.

Beam went three for five at the plate, driving in five runs on a double in the fourth and a home run in the fifth. Parks had five hits in five at bats and had 4 RBI.

The Panthers had 17 hits in the game in 32 at bats. Both Beam and Morgan New stole two bases each.

Danielle Stithem earned the win for the Panthers. Stithem tossed six innings, allowing five runs and eight hits and striking out three. She walked one.

In the second game, the Lady Chargers scored two runs early on a wild pitch by Masey Lafferty in the first inning, and the Panthers remained scoreless in the bottom of the inning.

The momentum picked up for RV though in the bottom of the second inning, as six RV batters were walked, and the team scored seven runs on a single and a double.

The Chargers answered with four runs in the third, but the Panthers kept the bats moving with five more runs in the inning. RV allowed one more run by Santa Fe Trail in the fourth before adding 10 more runs in the bottom of the fourth to end the game.

Both Beam and New had two doubles each. Beam also had a triple in the fourth as she went five for five during the game and had 4 RBI. New also had 4 RBI and was four for four at the plate.

Lafferty pitched two and a third innings, giving up six runs, six hits and striking out three. Abigail Harding then came in and threw 36 pitches, including two walks and one strikeout.

"I felt like we played better Monday night, but I'm still not happy where we are at defensively," coach Katzer said. "I think we make a few too many mistakes that we can easily take care of with more focus. I think we are also walking too many batters. I think they both go hand in hand."

With two weeks left in the regular season, Katzer said the team is still learning how to become more aggressive at the beginning of their games.

"We're don't come out of the gate very quickly," he said. "We almost dig ourselves in a hole in these games before we come back. I'm trying to convince the girls it's a lot easier to come out ahead in the beginning."

The Panthers will host ACCHS on Thursday at Hoyt City Park. Games begin at 4:30 p.m.

Holton, RV golfers compete at Cool Springs

Next stop Bellevue Country Club

By Ali Holcomb

It was a windy day on the links Monday at Cool Springs Golf Course, but several Holton and Royal Valley golfers found success during the Centralia Invitational.

Holton's AJ Haussler had the second best round of the day, shooting an 85, which was one stroke behind Vermillion's Jason Gore.

With a 96, Royal Valley's Corey Humpert tied for sixth with three other area golfers.

Vermillion's four-man team dominated the invitational with team members taking first, second, fourth and fifth places.

The team took first with a combined score of 359 on the 18 holes.

Team scores: 1. Vermillion 359, 2. Onaga 424, 3. Sabetha 425, 4. Blue Rapids-Valley Heights 433, 5. Royal Valley 469. Holton, Linn,

Washington County and Hanover also had golfers competing but did not have a four-man score.

Individual scores: Holton: AJ Haussler 85 (second place), Brady Boswell 125 and Karsen Brandt, 138.

Royal Valley: Corey Humpert 96 (tied for sixth), August Delin 116, Max Hennis 126, Bem Hubbard 131 and Sheldon Hess 167.

RV Coach Willie McClane said that Charlotte Rooks was injured and unable to finish the 18-hole tournament.

"With the weather, I'm proud of our team's first 18-hole tournament," McClane said. "Now we've got work to put in before league and regionals."

Both the Holton and RV golf teams will travel to the Bellevue Country Club on Thursday for a tournament hosted by Atchison. The event begins at 1 p.m.

Lady Wildcats go 3-1 at tournament

By Brian Sanders

Despite a rough game at Shawnee Mission's Sunflower Softball Festival against Shawnee Mission Northwest, Holton High School's varsity girls softball team bounced back to go 3-1 in the annual tournament, held last Thursday and Friday.

The Lady Cats opened up the annual Kansas City-area tournament on Thursday with a 14-3 win against Shawnee Mission North before falling 11-1 to Shawnee Mission Northwest in the second game of the day. On Friday, they bounced back with back-to-back wins against Leavenworth and Shawnee Mission West.

"We handled the ball in that tournament really well," Head Coach John Deitrich said of the Lady Cats' performances against bigger schools. "Everybody got involved in the offense against them. We defended decently, even though we're still susceptible to an error every once in a while."

The Cats' bats were led by Annalys Phillips in this game, as she went two-for-four with three RBI. Lutz contributed a triple while Casi VanAusdall added an RBI with a double.

The Lady Cats finished their Sunflower tournament play with a crushing 19-1 win over SM West, a game that Deitrich recognized as a blow-out — and a frustrating one at that.

"They were running out of pitching, and we caught them at a bad moment," Deitrich said. "Their first kid scored, and they couldn't get past second for the rest of the game. But their pitching was very, very suspect. It was really, really challenging for us to be patient enough to keep the ball in play."

Deitrich cited the "really, really solid" work of Phillips in the tournament, along with Booth and Bond for propelling the team to a 3-1 overall tournament standing. The Lady Cats will host Hiawatha on Thursday in another Big Seven League contest that Deitrich said could go either way despite Hiawatha's recent run of bad luck.

"We let them put nine on us in the first two, and we had a hard time recovering," Deitrich said. "We came out and put runners in scoring position, but we couldn't push them across... They might not have been the best team in the tournament, but we just didn't respond real well."

The only scoring opportunity for the Lady Cats came in the fourth inning, when Lutz walked and Moore bashed a triple to score Lutz.

Friday's games left the Lady Cats in a better mood, starting with a 7-4 win over Leavenworth that proved to be more of a solid game to play, particularly with a good Pioneer pitcher in the circle.

"We forced her to pitch from behind, and when she fattened it up, we turned it around," Deitrich said. "Everybody got involved in the offense against them. We defended decently, even though we're still susceptible to an error every once in a while."

Tanking named one of five KSU team captains

The Kansas State University football team has announced its five team captains for the 2017 season and one of them is Holton high school product Trent Tanking.

Quarterback Jesse Ertz, defensive back D.J. Reed, offensive lineman Dalton Risner, linebacker Trent Tanking and tight end Dayton Valentine — have been chosen by their teammates to serve as captains for the 2017 season, head coach Bill Snyder announced last Saturday prior to the Purple/White Spring Game.

Ertz and Risner are serving their second terms as team captains, while Tanking, Reed and Valentine are first-time selections.

A product of Mediapolis, Iowa, Ertz is the third quarterback under Snyder to be elected a captain on multiple occasions, joining Jonathan Beasley (1999-2000) and current K-State quarterbacks coach Collin Klein (2010-12).

Starting all 13 games under center in 2016, Ertz rushed for 1,012 yards and 12 touchdowns while throwing for 1,755 yards and another nine scores. He became one of three quarterbacks in school history to record 1,500 passing yards and 1,000 rushing yards in a season and one of only four in the nation to accomplish the feat last year.

Ertz is coming off a stellar end to his junior campaign in which he was named the MVP of the 2016 AdvoCare V100 Texas Bowl, accounting for three touchdowns in K-State's 33-28 victory over Texas A&M.

Reed, a community-college transfer, burst onto the scene last season as he led the Big 12 and ranked fifth nationally with 19 passes defended en route to Big 12 Defensive Newcomer of the Year honors.

Ranking second on the team with 75 tackles as a sophomore, Reed intercepted three passes, including a 35-yard pick-six against Texas Tech. He also totaled a 28.3-yard average on nine kickoff returns over the final four games of 2016.

Risner, a product of Wiggins, Colo., started all 13 games of 2016 at right tackle after playing his redshirt freshman campaign at center. Despite the position switch, Risner went on to earn

First Team All-Big 12 honors from the league's coaches and ESPN.com.

A junior for the upcoming season, Risner spearheaded an offensive line last year that paved the way for a school record 5.27-yard per carry average, while the Wildcats ranked third in school history in total rushing yards (3,013) and seventh in rushing touchdowns (39).

A special-teams standout from Holton, Tanking has played in 34 career games entering his senior year, including all 13 last season in which he led the team with 12 special teams tackles.

Tanking also filled in at line-backer for a majority of the regular-season finale at TCU, recording a career-high five tackles and an interception at the goal line on the final play of a 30-6 victory.

Valentine, a native of Baldwin City, started all 13 games as a sophomore in 2016 en route to Honorable Mention All-Big 12 accolades. He caught two passes for eight yards but made his biggest mark as a powerful run-blocking tight end. Valentine also picked up his second-straight First Team Academic All-Big 12 nod in 2016.

K-State, which returns 45 letterwinners and 18 starters from last year's 9-4 squad, kicks off the 2017 campaign on Saturday, Sept. 2, with the ninth-annual K-State Family Reunion against Central Arkansas in Bill Snyder Family Stadium. K-State then hosts Charlotte on Sept. 9, followed by a trip to Nashville, Tenn., to take on SEC foe Vanderbilt on Sept. 16. K-State's five-game Big 12 home slate opens on Sept. 30, against Bay-

Getting ticked off: The hazards of country living

By Sandra M. Siebert

The black raspberry bed is shaping up. At this writing I've cleared at least half the bed of extra-neous raspberry canes and weeds, as well as pounded in t-posts to which I will attach cables for tying up fruiting canes. By the time you read this, I hope the project will be complete and I can focus on planting tomatoes.

Getting the black raspberries "tamed" is good news; the bad news is that the area is a tick haven.

On the day I started clearing the bed, I sat down to dinner and felt a tickle on my stomach. When I raised my shirt, I found nearly half a dozen tiny ticks crawling on me. When I undressed later, I found more on me and many crawling on the inside of my clothes.

These days, whenever I spend time outside, I undress outdoors, inspect my clothes, turning them inside out and inspecting them more. Then I shake them out. Don't want to carry them inside. (Tumble dry clothes on high for 10 minutes to kill ticks.) After showering, I get a thorough tick check.

And I mean "thorough." Ticks have no modesty and have been found on me in the most embarrassing locations. It's best to have someone else check you, as ticks like places that are difficult to see yourself.

Ten years ago when we moved here, I was concerned about the presence of venomous snakes. Copperheads are particularly numerous in these wooded, rocky hillsides. When faced with a new "threat," it's easy to imagine that whatever it is lurks behind every tree and under every stone.

That usually isn't the case, however. Over the past 10 years I've encountered a few copperheads with no harm coming to either party. I don't worry about them at all. Of course I am cautious, especially when turning over stones or working at the woods' edge. I keep my eyes peeled for any kind of snake, venomous or not, as I don't want to step on or harm anyone.

While a bite from a venomous snake can be dangerous and traumatic, it is relatively unlikely with minimal precautions. And they aren't out to get me. In fact, they'd rather I didn't see them at all.

But the tick is behind every tree and under every leaf. They are out to get me. And a bite could lead to lifelong health issues or even death.

I can hardly step outside these days without encountering one, or two, or dozens (depending on where I go). They can't leap at me or crawl long distances to find me, and any animal with blood will fit their menu. But they are everywhere. It's difficult to avoid them.

The danger in ticks is the diseases that they potentially carry. Lyme disease is the most well-known, but they also carry much more deadly diseases, such as ehrlichiosis. They also carry two more recently identified diseases, "Heartland virus" and "Bourbon virus," which do not respond to the antibiotics used to treat the other, more common illnesses.

The good news is that the ticks need to be attached for a while, at least 24 hours according to common knowledge, to transmit disease. However, some recent information indicates that four hours of attachment is all they need to transmit Lyme disease. So daily or twice-daily tick checks will prevent most disease. But, as I said, they get into the most awkward places, so be thorough.

Ticks progress through three stages once they hatch from the eggs. The larval stage (often called "seed ticks") is tiny and has just six legs. They attach to mainly small animals, but larger ones (like humans) will do if they get in range.

While working in the black raspberry patch, I was crawling on the ground a lot to prune out dead canes and pull weeds, putting myself well in range. After feeding, the larvae drop off and molt and become eight-legged nymphs, which grab onto another host.

This is the stage at which the tick (typically the black-legged, aka "deer" tick) is most likely to transmit Lyme disease. They feed, drop off, molt and become eight-legged adults, which feed, mate and lay eggs. The eight legs give you a clue that ticks are arachnids (related to spiders) and not insects. Ticks pick up and spread disease so readily because of their multiple hosts.

Fortunately, clearing away some of the cover in the black raspberry bed might reduce its status as tick-haven. Ticks prefer shady, humid conditions, which is why they are most prevalent in woods, shrubby areas and tall grasses. However, I find them when crawling around in my raised garden beds, which are surrounded by chipped wood mulch-covered paths. Wood mulched and graveled areas without vegetation supposedly are tick-free zones.

However, the ticks might drop off of passersby (like rabbits) and be able to progress to the next stage in the now-damp mulch. Or the ticks are on the hay bales I move in, or whatever. They can hitch a ride on pretty much anything.

Now that I've convinced you that going outdoors is unsafe, I say, don't worry about it. Enjoy the outdoors as often as you can. Just get a thorough tick check any time you're out. If a mysterious summer flu develops, take no chances and seek treatment.

The ticks don't keep me indoors. And I'm going to thoroughly enjoy eating those black raspberries for which I risk life and limb to harvest among these tiny predators.

Holton hosts area P.E.O. chapters

The 81st annual meeting of the Northeast Kansas P.E.O. Reciprocity Group took place on Saturday, April 8, at Penny's in Holton and was hosted by Holton's Chapter JI.

There were 70 in attendance, with members of P.E.O. chapters from Sabetha, Hiawatha, Horton, Rossville, Valley Falls and Holton represented, joining the host Holton group to celebrate the good works being done by P.E.O. to further the education of women.

The theme for the event was "Ad Astra - To The Stars With P.E.O." Following a catered brunch, an informative and entertaining program was provided by Chapter JI member Helen Murphy Plankinton and her husband, Boyd, sharing facts and fun about the Civil War era, prominently featuring the formation of the state of Kansas.

Holton Middle School Kays members served the brunch, which was catered by Boomers' Catering.

Hospice volunteers honored

During National Volunteer Week, April 23-29, Jackson County Friends of Hospice is honoring the 80 dedicated volunteers from the community who ensure that patients and families facing serious and life-limiting illness find hope, dignity and love.

"Hospice volunteers play an indispensable role in enabling Holton Community Hospital Hospice to offer the best care possible for our patients, their families and caregivers. By sharing their time, energy and expertise, our volunteers bring compassion and caring to the lives of those in need," said Mandy Bontrager, director of Holton Community Hospital Home Health and Hospice.

Hospice volunteers often serve patients and families at the bedside but they also assist in the office, help raise awareness, contribute to educational programs and provide fund-raising support and more.

The National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization reports that there are an estimated 430,000 trained hospice volunteers providing more than 19 million hours of service to hospice programs each year.

An estimated 1.6 million patients in the U.S. are cared for by hospice every year.

Hospice volunteers help the people they serve live every moment of life to the fullest and enable the organizations they work with to achieve their mission in the community. Most hospice volunteers choose to give their time helping others because of their own experience with the compassionate care hospice provided to a dying loved one.

During this Volunteer Week, Jackson County Friends of Hospice volunteers will be honored at a recognition banquet Friday where 25-year, 20-year, 15-year, 10-year and five-year service will be awarded.

It is federally mandated under Medicare that five percent of all patient care hours be provided by trained volunteers reflecting the vital role that volunteers play in the provision of care.

For those interested in learning more about hospice or volunteer opportunities, call 785-364-9617.

On the girls' side, Boswell and Parks took the top side of the 4x100m relay victory along with Shay Tanking and Abigail Hundley, while Parks, along with Tabor Barta, Taygen Altenburg and Hundley took second in the 4x400m relay. The 4x800m relay team of Ashlyn Carlson, Olivia Mulenga, Kaitlyn Peven and Mary Pritchett also came up with a second-place finish. Boswell also brought home a first-place trophy in the 300-meter hurdles, while Isabell Watkins finished third behind Boswell in that race. Elsewhere, Parks finished fourth in the 400-meter run, Barta took fourth in both the 100-meter hurdles and 300-meter hurdles, and Alex Myers took third in the 100-meter hurdles and fourth in the long jump. Full team results from Tuesday's meet will be featured in Monday's Recorder.

man. On the girls side, Panther Mary Broxterman won the 200-meter dash (28.99), Panther Taylor Russell won the shot put (33'2") and the discus throw (106'10.5") and Panther Kenzie Hegemann won the pole vault (8'0"). Complete track meet results will be published in Monday's edition.

JH track teams compete at Silver Lake

By Brian Sanders
 Jackson Heights High School's varsity girls and junior varsity boys earned good positions on Tuesday at the Silver Lake High School Spring Meet, it was reported. While host school Silver Lake took top team honors in all but the women's JV categories, the Lady Cobras did well, finishing in second place, while the Heights JV boys took third. Elsewhere at the meet, the Cobras' varsity boys and JV girls also took fifth place in a nine-team field. The Lady Cobras' varsity team was once again led by Faith Little, who continued to dominate the field in the 800-meter and 1,600-meter runs, and also featured strong finishes from Abby Williams, who took first in the high jump, third in the long jump and led off the 4x400m relay team with Karley Dieckmann, Trinity McMahon and Kylie Dohl to a third-place finish. The 4x800m relay team, featuring Dohl, McMahon, Dieckmann and MaKenzie Kennedy, also earned first-place honors on Tuesday. Dohl and Jodi White finished third and fourth, respectively, in the 400-meter dash, and Dohl also took fourth in high jump while Kennedy finished third in the 3,200-meter run. The Cobra varsity boys were led by first-place finishes from Steven Marshall in the 200-meter dash and Dalton Chartier in the 800-meter run. Chartier also anchored the second-place 4x800m relay team, which also included Mark Mavrovich, Xavier Fritz and AJ Mock. Also scoring well for the varsity boys were Wyatt Olberding, third in triple jump, and Mason Hamilton, fourth in the 200-meter dash. Full results from the track meet will be printed in Monday's Recorder.

Broxterman, Strader compete at KU Relays

Ag Week: Cattle, corn up; wheat, hogs down

By Matt Hines

Slaughter cattle traded $2 higher in the South, most at $132. In the North, cash trade was $2 to $4 higher at $132 to $133 live and mostly $210 to $212 dressed. Beef prices continue to advance and exports have been solid the past couple weeks.

After the close, cattle on feed as of April 1 totaled 10.9 million head, slightly above April 1, 2016, still reported at 100 percent vs. a year ago. Marketings were strong at 110 percent and should be friendly to the front end futures this week while placements at 111 percent are not friendly to deferred contracts. Placements in feedlots during March totaled 2.1 million head and were the highest for March since the series began in 1996.

Compared to last week, feeder steers and heifers sold $2 to $6 higher, with steer and heifer calves being mostly $3 to $8 higher and instances up to $10 to $12 higher. Two weeks ago when there was a lull in the market, order buyers were bargain hunting as feedyards weren't too interested in placements at that time. However, this week most feedyards upped their bids and those same order buyers can't purchase them fast enough to satisfy their customers.

Feeder numbers in the Northern Plains are tightening up very quickly so anyone that wanted to purchase had to pounce quickly on the cattle offered for sale. Moisture levels in most grazing areas seem to be all right for this time of year and ranchers do not want a repeat of the Southern Plains horrendous wildfires that happened just a short month or so ago.

For the week, Thursday, April 13, to Friday, April 21, April live cattle were up $4.42, June was up $2, April feeder cattle were up $.75, May was up $.85, August was up $1.97, June lean hogs were down $4.17 and July was down $4.10. Boxed Beef Choice was up $5.08 at $217.16, Select was up $4.41 at $203.89 and Pork Carcass Cutout was up $.89 at $74.58.

Cattle slaughter from Friday was estimated at 104,000 head, down 4,000 from a week ago and down 7,000 compared to a year ago. For the week, the total was 595,000 head, up 5,000 from the week previous and up 10,000 compared to last year.

Hog slaughter from Friday was estimated at 443,000 head, up 69,000 from a week ago and up 24,000 compared to a year ago. For the week, the total was 2,287,000 head, up 64,000 from the week previous and up 54,000 compared to last year.

Cattle markets opened this week steady to slightly lower, but soon fell triple digits lower pressured by the bearish cattle on feed report along with some overbought conditions. Looking at the weekly charts, live cattle may see some resistance on the front month near $135 and $140. When the April contract goes off at the end of this week, we start over again with resistance for the June contract at $120 and every $5 above.

Nearby feeders took a few weeks to break through the $135 to $137 resistance areas and are now unable to break the $140 resistance. August and September, though, reached past $145 last week with support in the $130 area. A drop of more than $4 to $5 on live cattle futures and pushing feeders below $130 would make me very nervous that the top may be in.

Livestock Futures Settlements

Monday, April 24

- April live cattle down $.70 at $129.10, June down $1.42 at $115.27.
- April feeder cattle down $.12 at $138.42, May down $1.47 at $137.77, August down $1.15 at $141.10.
- June lean hogs up $1.15 at $69.47, July up $.85 at $70.37.

Corn and wheat were under pressure for most of last week as soybeans were flat. The rains in the Southern Plains continued keeping pressure on wheat, but it also did not allow corn harvest to begin in many areas. Those that missed the rains were able to advance, and we should see some decent progress in this week's crop progress report, even though it isn't locally.

Soybeans sold off early on Friday following the Stats Can acreage report showing soybean acres at 6.9 million, which was a million above the trade estimate, along with a record 22.4 million canola acreage number.

Spring wheat planting intentions are 16.66 million acres vs. 15.40 million last year. All wheat acreage intentions are 23.18 million acres, very similar to last year's 23.2. Stats Canada acreage report found 3.8 million corn acres, up from 3.3 million last year.

For the week, Thursday, April 13, to Friday, April 21, May corn was down $.14, December was down $.12½, May soybeans were down $.04½, November was down $.02¼, May KC wheat was down $.22¾, July was down $.22, May Chicago wheat was down $.24¾ and July was down $.21¾.

Grain Futures Settlements

Monday, April 24

- May corn up $.02¼ at $3.59¾, New Crop December up $.01½ at $3.83½.
- May soybeans up $.10¼ at $9.61¼, New Crop November up $.08 at $9.67½.
- May KC wheat down $.02¾ at $4.01¾, New Crop July down $.03 at $4.14¼.
- May Chicago wheat down $.02½ at $4.02½, New Crop July down $.01¾ at $4.19¼.

Winter wheat conditions were unchanged this week at 54 percent good to excellent nationally, although Kansas and Oklahoma both improved 1 point to 52 percent and 44 percent respectively. Winter wheat headed is at 32 percent vs. 24 percent last year and 23 percent average pace. Grain sorghum planted is at 24 percent nationwide vs. 19 percent last year and 23 percent average pace.

Corn planting is progressing, but still a bit behind at 17 percent complete, compared to 28 percent last year and 18 percent average pace. Kansas only has 21 percent in the ground compared to 42 percent last year.

Iowa is at 8 percent vs. 36 percent last year and Missouri at 46 percent vs. 78 percent last year. Illinois and Nebraska made huge strides last week, now even with or ahead of their average pace. Illinois went from 6 percent to 34 percent complete and Nebraska from 32 percent to 63 percent.

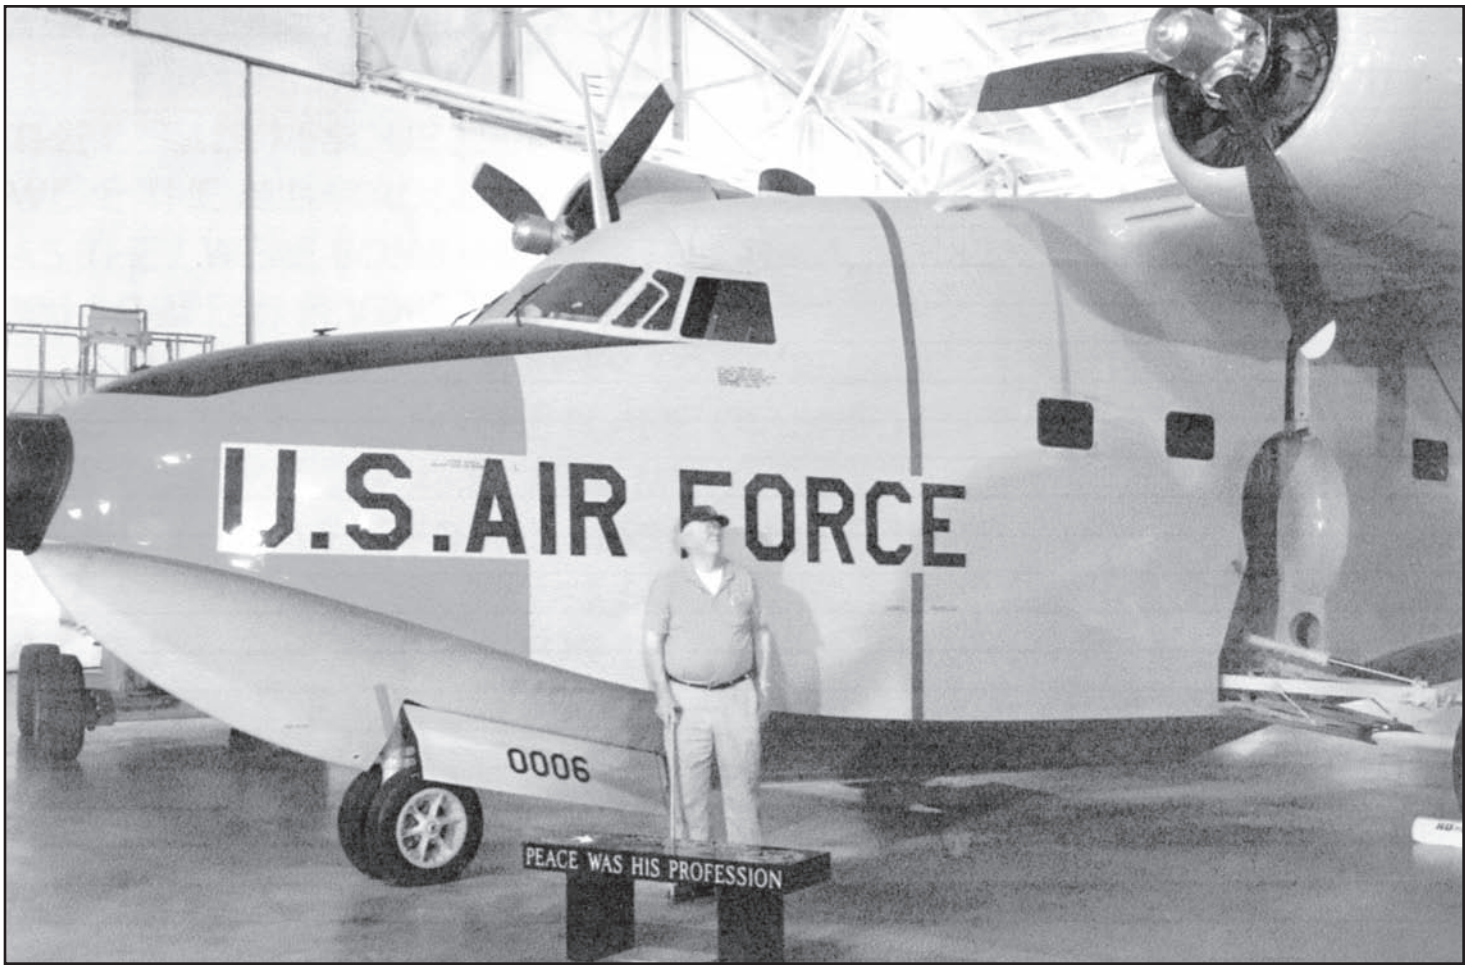

Soybean planting was reported for the first time this crop year at 6 percent vs. 3 percent last year and average pace.

May corn is trading at a three-week low and appears to be trying to ease back to the levels seen on the March contract expiration. We should find some support in the $3.52 to $3.49 area and resistance up at $3.73. The December contract did not make a new recent low last week and major support still at $3.75 with resistance up at $3.95.

May soybeans traded a $.30 range so far this month with resistance at $9.60. November has a similar range this month with the recent high at $9.68. Both the KC and Chicago wheat futures hit new contract lows last week and are trying to hold those levels here this week.

It looks to stay wet still with two to six inches forecast over major growing areas this week. The latest six-to-10-day weather models show normal to below normal temps across the Midwest with above normal temps on both coasts. Precipitation is still above normal for the Plains and Corn Belt.

Former Holton superintendent of schools and U.S. Air Force veteran C.L. Riley recently stood for a photo beside a Grumman HU-16 Albatross that he flew in during the Korean War as a radar operator. The plane is located at the Strategic Air Command and Aerospace Museum at Ashland, Neb., where personnel allowed Riley to board the plane and remember his Korean War missions up close. Riley's Plane...

"I knew I was going to get drafted, so I enlisted in the Air Force to keep out of trouble and to keep out of the Army," he said with a chuckle.

Riley had been through airborne electronics training and radar school at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss., by the time he landed in Okinawa with the 2nd Rescue Squadron at the Kadena Air Base in July of 1951.

At Kadena, he said, the Air Force maintained a fleet of more than 100 B-29 bombers and four SA-16 Albatrosses, and he was trained as a radar man and mechanic for the latter aircraft.

"They would sometimes send 120 to 130 B-29s up each day and bomb the devil out of Korea," Riley said.

His job with the Albatross crew was to listen for "mayday" calls from B-29 crews who had been "shot up real good" and rescue pilots who had to bail out over open water.

"We'd go about 50 or 60 miles south of Korea, where we could just orbit in a 50 or 60-mile circle and kind of follow the B-29s back," he said. "Otherwise, we would get a call that there was one in trouble and he was going down."

As the Albatross was an amphibious rescue plane, it could land on the water, pick up crew members from the downed B-29s and take off again from the water. Riley said he was involved in "six or seven" air missions and four landings on the China Sea between his arrival at Kadena and the spring of 1952.

"That was when they decided that the operating of the radar set should be done by someone with a little more pizzazz or authority," Riley said. "An enlistee man could not operate it."

Riley was then grounded at Kadena, where he said he was sent "two second lieutenants for me and two other guys to train" on the Albatross' radar set while he stayed back to maintain and repair equipment.

"It cost me $17 a month in flying pay," he said. "I didn't get to fly anymore."

After two years in Okinawa, Riley was transferred to the O'Hare Air Reserve Station in Chicago, Ill., which is now part of the airport of the same name. He spent a year at O'Hare before returning to civilian life as an educator.

Riley served in various capacities at school districts in Maize, Clearwater, Sylvan Grove and Paradise, the latter in Russell County, before he came to the Holton school district. He served as superintendent of schools here from 1973 to 1990.

In retirement, Riley and his late wife Lavonne were founding members of the Heartland R.S. Prussia Collectors Club, the aforementioned "antique china club" with which he visited the SAC Museum, where the Albatross — redesignated as the HU-16 in 1962 — was on display. The club had another meeting in Omaha in March, he said.

"My grandson thought he'd do something, so he called up there and made arrangements," Riley said. "We went up on a Friday, and we had a private tour."

This time, he said, thanks to the efforts of his grandson, Riley was able to get onto the plane.

"It was déjà vu all over again!" he said with a laugh. "I was pretty sure that I knew exactly what it was going to be like, and it was. I just wish that I'd put my name somewhere that I could look for it again!"

Despite not seeing any memorable marks that he or his crew had left behind on the plane, either intentionally or accidentally, Riley was proud to be inside the old Albatross again, even though there were still parts of the plane where access was restricted.

"They had a plastic vinyl sheet or something put in so that you couldn't sit down in the old seat that I was in," he said. "But I stood right there by it and looked, and the radar set was still there. Everything looked just like it did 65 years ago."

The plane was so well-preserved, Riley said, that he was encouraged to relive his days in the Air Force — almost.

"I thought, I ought to sit down here, turn the power on and see if things are working right. But you know, 65 years later, I might not have been able to figure out how to turn the dang thing on anymore!" he said, laughing.

HES students attend STEM Day at Washburn

By Ali Holcomb
 Holton Elementary School's second-grade students recently took a field trip to Washburn University that helped expand their knowledge of science and math with several hands-on learning activities.

Washburn University education students held a STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) Day with the 80 second-graders on Friday, April 9, at the university in Topeka.

Some of the third-year college students who hosted the event are completing their teaching practicum at area schools, including Holton Elementary School.

Sheila Day, HES second-grade teacher, said the Holton students rotated through seven stations that were set up during the event. Two college students led the younger kids through a lesson and activity at each station.

"At one station, they made harmonicas out of popsicle sticks, rubber bands and straws," Day said. "They talked about static electricity with balloons and used food coloring to learn how clouds release rain."

Washburn professors said the STEM Day is hopefully the first of many activities the campus hopes to host in the future.

"The students had a great time and learned more about science and math concepts," Day said. "And even though they are just in second grade, they also got to experience a college campus"

A week after the STEM Day, the university received $85,000 from AT&T Kansas, Westar Energy and Bartlett & West to establish a STEM education program to help education majors foster a love of science, technology and math in the classroom.

"STEM is more than just science and math," Day said. "It's about how to solve a problem and think creatively."

Allen honored with Anderson Senior Award

Zev Allen, a graduating Kansas State University student from Soldier, was among three other senior students recognized by the K-State Alumni Association for outstanding achievements throughout their college careers during an awards luncheon on April 18, it was reported.

Allen and the other three students earned the Anderson Senior Award, which recognizes graduating seniors for academics, leadership, inspiration and service. Faculty and peers nominate students for the awards, and committees consisting of members of the Alumni Association board of directors and K-State students select the recipients.

Allen is a bachelor's candidate in life sciences and pre-medicine. He is a member of Acacia Fraternity, Blue Key Senior Honorary, Student Alumni Board, the K-State FEED task force and was an integral part of the establishment of HandsOn Kansas State, which distributes more than 20,000 pounds of food each semester.

Allen has been accepted into The University of Kansas Medical School and will begin his studies there in the fall semester.

He is the son of David and Angela Allen. Grandparents are David and Evelyn Allen and Larry and Andra Holliday.

enemy's machine gun position. Upon returning to his unit, he discovered South and another soldier down and exposed to enemy mortar fire, and he gave first aid to South and the other soldier before dragging them to a safe position.

"The tenacity of purpose and unselfish loyalty reflects credit upon Private Sumner and furnishes inspiration to his comrades-in-arms," according to a citation that accompanied a Silver Star received by Sumner for his actions in rescuing South and the other soldier.

South received the Purple Heart Medal and sent it home to the Goodwyn family during his recuperation, it was reported. He would go on to be discharged on June 14, 1945, from a military hospital at Camp Robinson and return to northeastern Kansas.

George E. South died Aug. 19, 1974, in Oklahoma City, Okla. He is buried in Valley Falls Cemetery.

In addition, Americans are now advised that traditional methods for disposing of unused medicines - flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash - pose potential safety and health hazards and should be avoided.

To help reduce harm from accidental exposure or intentional misuse of medication, the DEA recommends following any specific disposal instructions on the prescription drug label or patient information that accompanies the medicine. Do not flush medicines down the sink or toilet unless this information specifically instructs you to do so.

Take advantage of take-back programs, such as the event this weekend.

Transfer unused medicines to collectors registered with the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA). Authorized sites may be retail, hospital or clinic pharmacies and law enforcement locations. Some offer mail-back programs or collection receptacles ("drop-boxes").

If no disposal instructions are given on the prescription drug label and no take-back program is available in your area, throw the drugs in the household trash following these steps:

- * Remove them from their original containers and mix them with an undesirable substance, such as used coffee grounds, dirt or kitty litter (this makes the drug less appealing to children and pets and unrecognizable to people who may intentionally go through the trash seeking drugs).
- * Place the mixture in a sealable bag, empty can or other container to prevent the drug from leaking or breaking out of a garbage bag.

Visit the DEA's website or call 1-800-882-9539 for more information.

Rob Holt alleged that other students, in the past, have been engaged in worse offenses and only been suspended one game from an activity and not the whole season.

"I am just looking for a bit of fairness and equal opportunity for our children," he said.

The board then met in executive session with Davis to discuss the privacy rights of an individual for 10 minutes. The Holts entered into executive session with the board for a portion of the closed meeting. No action was taken back in open session.

* Received a legislative update from Davis, who reported that Gov. Brownback signed a rescission bill but no action has been taken on a school finance formula.

* Gave pre-approval to Nate McAlister, RVMS history teacher, and Brenda Hainey, RVMS educational technology specialist, to purchase flights and accommodations for themselves and any student who qualifies for National History Day this summer.

The students are competing this weekend at the Kansas History Day event, and the top two winners in each category qualify for nationals in Washington D.C.

McAlister and Hainey said that they would be able to find less expensive flights this weekend instead of waiting on approval during the next board meeting in May.

Students who qualify are expected to pay their own expenses, and the board agreed to cover the costs of both the sponsors, which was estimated at $800 each.

* Reviewed RVHS commencement plans with Jim Holloman, RVHS principal.

* Received district enrollment projections from Davis for the 2017-18 school year.

Davis is estimating that next year's headcount will be near 819 students, compared to this year's 837 students.

After kindergarten roundup, Davis is estimating that 60 kindergarten students will enter the district next year.

In the current proposed finance plan for schools, the state recommends counting kindergarten students at a full FTE instead of the previous .5 FTE.

So even though the district is projected to drop in headcount, the projected FTE for next year is expected to increase to 808 students because kindergarten students will be counted as full-time students. The district's FTE for the current school year is 807.1 students.

* Learned from Davis that he's received premium rate quotes from Blue Cross/Blue Shield for district staff health insurance. Several other companies are expected to bid on health insurance, and he will discuss the pricing options with faculty members.

Davis said the initial bid from BCBS looks promising.

* Approved a 10-cent increase for both student lunch and breakfast prices for the 2017-18 school year. The district is required to increase the prices in order to continue to receive federal funding.

For the 2017-18 school year, lunch prices for students will be $2.35 at the elementary school and $2.50 at both the middle and high schools. Breakfast prices will be $1.65 at the elementary school and $1.70 at both the middle and high schools.

In addition, the lunch price for adults will also increase by five cents, from $3.55 to $3.60 for next year.

Susan Pfrang, director of curriculum and instruction, reported that 44 percent of district students qualify for free or reduced lunch.

* Met in executive session for 10 minutes with Pfrang and Davis to discuss non-elected personnel.

Back in open session, the board accepted the letter of resignation from Colby Colley, fourth-grade teacher, effective at the end of the current school year.

The board agreed not to hire Penny Hegemann, current food service worker at Mayetta, for the 2017-18 school year due to budget reductions.

The board approved a contract to Sherri Schulte to serve as the district business manager during the 2017-18 school term, as well as an ES teaching contract to Caroline Yingst for next year.

The board also renewed all certified and classified staff not previously acted upon.

* Adjourned the meeting. Board members Cindy Broxterman and Jim O'Toole were absent.
