Fee for disposing used oil discussed

By Ali Holcomb The cost for Jackson County to dispose of used oil is expensive, and the county commissioners and Mixie Schafer, noxious weed and environmental services director, recently discussed charging a fee when accepting oil from county residents.

Currently, Schafer said that the county doesn't have a set fee in place for people dropping of their used oil.

"If it's under five gallons, we'll take it for free because I don't want to encourage people to dump it in the ditch," she said. "For larger quantities over five gallons, I have been asking people to make a dona-tion to the center as payment for the disposal. I want to help them, but I need them to help me, too.

The commissioners questioned whether the used oil could be used in the oil heaters at the road and bridge shop and it was determined that the oil would have to be cleaned with a separator before it could be burned.

Schafer said she is talking with other area county officials to determine if they charge to

Sumner named Haskell's Outstanding Alumnus

Helen Sumner of ru-ral Hoyt was recently honored as Haskell Indian Nations University's 2017 Outstanding Alumnus of the Year. Sumner received this award as a recognition for her leadership within the Indian community, it was reported.

Sumner was honored during the university's spring graduation ceremony May 19 where she addressed the graduates and all those in attendance.

Prior to speaking, Brittany Hall, Haskell Foundation administrator, placed a Native American shawl on Sumner. The shawl was given to Sumner by her daughter, Carrie Cornelius.

Sumner is the daughter of the late Cleve and Josephine Rice Sumner, and she is a member of the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation.

She is the third of four generations to have attended Haskell in Lawrence. Her grandmother, Katherine Rice Jessepe, was born in 1898 and was the first to have attended Haskell. Jessepe entered the first grade in 1904 and her family's generational span of attending Haskell is 85 years.

Sumner went to Haskell Institute when it was a high school in the fall of 1955 and graduated in 1959.

RV replaces school bus involved in accident

Bv Ali Holcomb The Royal Valley school bus involved in an accident in Topeka in May has been deemed "a total loss" by the district's insurance company, and members of the board of education approved the purchase of a new bus during their meeting Monday evening.

Following the recommendation from Superintendent Aaric Davis, the board approved the purchase of an IC bus from Midwest Transit at a cost of $82,421.

The other bids included an $88,033 Bluebird from Kansas Truck Equipment and an $89,487 Thomas from Midwest Bus Sales.

Davis also sought quotes for used buses, and those included $71,100 for a 2016 bus, $42,000 for a 2012 bus and $47,000 for a 2013 bus.
During a fifth-grade field trip on May 12, the district's 2005

Thomas bus was southbound on Gage Boulevard near 21st Street when, according to the Topeka Police Department accident report, the bus failed to stop when a traffic signal turned red.

Wayne Duncan, 73, Mayetta, was driving the bus which struck the back end of a 2006

Ford driven by Deborah Newman, 54, Topeka, and caused a chain-reaction crash involving four other vehicles, it was reported.

No injuries were reported and 39 students and two adults were passengers in the bus, according to the report. Duncan was ticketed for following too closely and remained under medical observation that afternoon.

The school bus sustained severe damage to its front bumper and was towed from the scene.

Davis said the district is receiving a $12,500 settlement from its insurance company for the accident, which will be used towards the purchase of the new bus. The bus purchase will be paid out of next year's fiscal budget, Davis said.

"The camera system on the totaled bus was fairly new and it was salvageable so we won't have to purchase a new system with the new bus," Davis said.

In other business, the board:

* Approved consent items. * Approved the purchase of $300 in regalia for the Native American Singers and Dancers. Impact Aid will fund these expenditures.

The Hoyt City Council met in tion a salaried position.

It was reported the overtime issue recently raised by Dillner was something that did not apply to the city.

Dreasher reported Guy Salts was planning on attending the June 6 council meeting to discuss possible annexation of the property owned by Hoyt America. Holthaus reported there would not be a bid submitted by Eric Beam with Andrews Asphalt.

Andrews from Sunflower Paving met with the council to discuss his bid recently submitted for street repair and answer any questions. There was discussion on the bid and wanting to have the option of keeping and using the millings. Andrews said this could be arranged. Andrews said if his company is awarded the bid, he thought work could be started the second week of June.

Dillner arrived at the meeting at 5:44 p.m. Allen arrived at the meeting at 5:51 p.m. The council continued discussion on the bids submitted by Sunflower Paving and Bettis Asphalt. McAlister made a motion to accept the bid from Sunflower Paving with two-inch asphalt on Central and Park Drive in the amount of $41,037. It was approved. Bachamp, PE with Olsson Associates, met with the council to discuss the drainage issues around town he recently reviewed with Dreasher and McAlister. The council would like him to submit a proposal for a complete drainage plan focusing on areas on Central that have been previously discussed.

Dreasher reported she had met with Brett Louk, P.E and Jennifer Hancock, P.E. to review the drainage concerns. Due to scheduling conflicts, they were not able to make it to a special meeting to discuss their ideas or costs for the drainage issues. They did have interest in submitting a proposal to act as an engineer on call for the city.

The city clerk reported Kenny Bryan had said he hopes to have the x-wave installed by the first of June and the parent tot swing has been put back up at the park.

There was discussion concerning the mud volleyball pit. There have been complaints of messy bathrooms/buildings because of the mud pit. The possibility of turning the mud volleyball pit into a sand volleyball court was discussed. McAlister said he did not want to spend any additional money on the older police car. The council discussed pros and cons of replacing the older car. The council would like to look into how many police cars cities use that are similar in size to Hovt.

McAlister left the meeting at 6:56 p.m.

Rinkes and Steinbacher, P.E. with CFS Engineers, met with the council to discuss their recent review of the drainage concerns around town and presented a Statement of Qualifications. The council would like CFS Engineers to put together an estimate for a comprehensive plan for the entire city.

The meeting was adjourned at 7:45 p.m.

Immanuel Lutheran Church

By Esther L. Ideker Holy Trinity Sunday was celebrated at Immanuel Lutheran Church at the June 11 worship service. Divine Service 1 opened with singing the first two verses of "Holy, Holy, Holy." Following the confession and absolution, Psalm 8 was read responsively.

Elder Topher Dohl read the Old Testament lesson from Genesis chapter 1 and the Epistle lesson from Acts chapter 2. Pastor Michael Van Velzer read the Holy Gospel from Matthew 2:16-20. The sermon hymn was "Our God, Our Help In Ages Past."

The Holy Triune God Recreates Us in the Image and Likeness of Christ Jesus – The Holy Triune God "created the heavens and the earth," and "behold, it was very good" (Genesis 1:1, 31).

However, Adam and Eve fell into sin and plunged God's good creation into decay and death, the Son of God would be "delivered up according to the definite plan and fore-knowledge of God" to be "cru-cified and killed by the hands of lawless men" (Acts 2:23). As Jesus "received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit" (Âcts 2:33), He also raises up all the baptized and pours out the Spirit upon them through the preaching of His Gospel. He sends out His apostles to "make disciples of all nations" by "baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit," and "teaching them to observe all that He has commanded" (Matthew 28:19-20).

Through such baptizing and teaching - Gospel and Sacraments – the Holy Triune God recreates us in the image and likeness of His incarnate Son, Jesus, the Christ, and behold, it is "very good" (Genesis 1:31). We are His witnesses - witnesses of the fact that Jesus has died and risen again and therefore repentance and forgiveness of sins can be preached to all the world.

The congregation read together the Athanasian Creed. In the prayers of the church, our creator, redeemer and sanctifier was asked to keep us in the faith as proclaimers of the gospel. Keep our faith strong by the Holy Spirit working in us. Comfort all who are suffering, encouraging them with the assurance of God's love and mercy. Protect those who serve our country in the Armed Forces and all who protect our land. The congregation joined in The Lord's Prayer.

The offering ushers were Topher Dohl and Doug Amon. The offertory was sung by the congregation. Following the benediction, the service closed with the last two verses of "Holy, Holy, Holy.

Serving Sunday were Topher Dohl, elder; Brantley Dohl, acolyte; Joyce Peterson, organist; and on the altar com-mittee, Beth Mellies and Kim Mellies.

Pastor Van Velzer led Bible study based upon the readings for Holy Trinity Sunday.

Pastor Younghwan Won led the congregational prayer, which was followed by silent prayer, the pastor's prayer and the Lord's Prayer. The Gloria was sung.

The scripture lesson, Mat-thew 28:16-20, The Great Commission, was read by Marilyn. Pastor Young's sermon was "The Greatest Commandment Of Jesus Christ."

OPINION Don't let summer slip away from you too soon

Here in Holton and Jackson County, much of what's good about our country today, I think, is reflected in our normal, everyday lives. Some times, however, it is easy to take it for granted. Take summer, for example.

Summer in a small town means things like kids swimming at the local pool to cool off, playing tennis at the tennis courts, enjoying picnics in the parks, fishing in our local lakes, streams and ponds, ball games for boys and girls in the evenings, a leisurely round of golf at the local course and catching a cool breeze on your back porch or deck in the evenings while you watch the neighborhood kids try to catch fireflies.

The list of the little simple things in our lives goes on and on and everyone can add a few more little things to their own list.

People who live in the cities don't know what they're missing.

What are your favorite things about the summer around here?

One of mine is the aroma and the picturesque scene of a freshly-cut hay field. You can't find that in the big cities.

Watching kids play ball also brings back a lot of good memories of my own youth.

We have a lot of good things going on but in the blink of your eye the wonderful summer days can slip away too quickly.

Don't let that happen to you. Take time to smell the - and the freshly-cut roses hay. David Powls

Harsh sentence handed down

Sometimes you don't get what you want, but you get what you need.

A federal judge on Tuesday ordered a convicted bank robber to stay home with his wife as punishment for apparently trying to leave her for the friendly confines of a prison cell.

Lawrence J. Ripple, 71, will endure six months of home confinement with his wife (the warden) and 50 hours of community service for his actions in September when he robbed the Bank of Labor in Kansas City, Kan., then waited in the bank lobby for the police to arrive and apprehend him.

Ripple reportedly told police

Shouldn't new "Disclose Act" apply to all med providers?

A bill signed into law recently by Kansas Gov. Sam Brownback is reported to be the first of its kind in the nation.

Brownback Gov. on Wednesday, June 7, signed the bill that requires doctors who perform abortions to now provide their patients with information listing all of their medical credentials, any disciplinary action ever ordered against them and whether they are currently covered with malpractice in-that he would rather go to prison than return home to his wife. The ploy didn't turn out as he had planned, however.

He pleaded guilty in January to one count of bank robbery, a crime that could have happily (in his case) landed him in federal prison (the Big House) for up to 20 years.

Instead, the federal judge gave Ripple six months probation in his own personal prison (the Little House). Ripple could have saved himself a lot of misery if he just followed the simple mantra of the married man - happy wife equals a happy life. David Powls eral hysteria about the subject, but additionally the inability to distinguish between legitimate policy differences on the one hand and signs of psychic pa-

Take Trump's climate-change decision. The hyperbole that met his withdrawal from the Paris agreement -- a traitorous act of war against the American people, America just resigned as leader of the free world, etc. was astonishing, though hardly unusual, this being Trump.

What the critics don't seem to recognize is that the Paris agreement itself was a huge failure. It contained no uniform commitments and no enforcement provisions. Sure, the whole world signed.

But onto what? A voluntary set of vaporous promises. China pledged to "achieve the peak-

Story of Caldwell's two marshals Brown

By Jim Hoy

In the aftermath of the gun battle in which Jim Talbot killed Mike Meagher, the citizenry of Caldwell, many of whom had fought the cowboy gang and chased them into Indian Territory, were in the mood for effective law enforcement.

In early spring of 1882 George S. Brown was appointed city marshal.

Brown has been described as man of "exceptional good character," but one not comfortable around the rougher elements.

One June 22, a couple of Texas cowboys hit town and started drinking and raising a ruckus. When, in the Red Light saloon (well named; in addition to whiskey the saloon was also well-known for its prostitutes), one of the two cowboys brandished a pistol, thus violating a city ordinance.

arrest him. In a scuffle, Brown pinned the cowboy's hand, in which he was holding his gun, against the wall, but was distracted when a third man came unexpectedly out of a room. The cowboy twisted his hand around enough to shoot Marshal Brown in the head, killing him instantly.

Five days later "Bat" Carr was appointed marshal, with Henry (his name sometimes given as Hendry) Newton Brown his assistant.

For reasons somewhat murky, Brown replaced Carr as marshal on Dec. 2. Some think Brown intimidated Carr into resigning, although given Carr's solid character and fearless demeanor that seems unlikely.

Perhaps it was because Carr had shot a dog belonging to city councilman I.N. Cooper, thinking it was one of several mad dogs that had been plaguing the town.

At any rate the new Marshal Brown cleaned up the town in short order. He had his friend, Texan Ben Wheeler (or Burton or Robertson) appointed assis-

Marshal Brown went there to tant marshal and the two rigorously enforced the no-carry ordinance.

During the three terms (one full, two partial) of Brown's appointment, only four men were killed in Caldwell.

He killed two of them, supposedly because they didn't surrender their pistols quickly enough when he had asked for them. One was a Pawnee Indian named Spotted Horse, and the story of his demise is a bit more complicated.

Spotted Horse had been hanging around the vicinity of Caldwell for some time. One day he stopped at the home of Ephriam Beals and demanded food.

Beals kicked him out of the house and Spotted Horse drew a gun from his robes, but did not use it.

Beals then told Marshal Brown that, contrary to the ordinance, Spotted Horse had a gun secreted on his person.

Brown found the Indian in a grocery store, approached him with gun drawn, and demanded his pistol.

Perhaps not understanding what the marshal had said, Spotted Horse did nothing, at which point Brown fired two shots above his adversary's head.

Spotted Horse then started unwrapping his gun from the blanket, and Brown shot him in the head, killing him on the spot.

In recognition of the good work that Brown had done the citizens of Caldwell they gave him a gold-plated Winchester rifle in early 1883.

inscription The "Presented to City Marread: shal H.N. Brown for valuable services rendered."

That rifle is now held by the Kansas State Historical Society in Topeka.

One of the big moments in Brown's time in Caldwell came on March 26, 1884 when he married Alice Maude Levagood, daughter of one of Caldwell's leading families and a collegeeducated teacher.

Unfortunately, the marriage was short-lived. More to come.

Paris agreement was just hot air for another 13 years.

India and China should be given a pass because the West had a two-century head start on industrialization.

I don't think the West needs to apologize -- or pay -- for having invented the steam engine. In fact, I've long favored a real climate-change pact, strong and enforceable, that would impose relatively uniform demands on China, India, the U.S., the EU and any others willing to join.

Paris was nothing but hot air. Withdrawing was a perfectly plausible policy choice (the other being remaining but trying to reduce our CO2-cutting commitments).

The subsequent attacks on Trump were all the more unhinged because the president's other behavior over the last several weeks provided ample opportunity for shock and dismay. It's the tweets, of course. Trump sees them as a direct, "unfiltered" conduit to the public. What he doesn't quite understand is that for him -- indeed, for anyone -- they are a direct conduit from the unfiltered id. They erase whatever membrane normally exists between one's internal disturbances and their external manifestations. For most people, who cares? States, there are consequences. When the president's id speaks, the world listens.

Consider his tweets mocking the mayor of London after the most recent terror attack. They were appalling. This is a time when a president expresses sympathy and solidarity -- and stops there. Trump can't stop, ever. He used the atrocity to renew an old feud with a minor official of another country. Petty in the extreme.

As was his using London to support his misbegotten travel ban, to attack his own Justice Department for having "watered down" the original executive order (ignoring the fact that Trump himself signed it) and to undermine the case for it just as it goes to the Supreme Court.

As when he boasted by tweet that the administration was already doing "extreme vetting." But that explodes the whole rationale for the travel ban -- that a 90-day moratorium on entry was needed while new vetting procedures were developed. If the vetting is already in place, the ban has no purpose. The rationale evaporates.

And if that wasn't mischief enough, he then credited his own interventions in Saudi Arabia for the sudden squeeze that the Saudis, the UAE, Egypt and other Sunni-run states are putting on Qatar for its long-running dirty game of supporting and arming terrorists (such as the Muslim Brotherhood and Hamas) and playing footsie with Iran.

It's good to see our Sunni allies confront Qatar and try to bring it into line. But why make it personal -- other than to feed the presidential id?

Gratuitously injecting the U.S. into the crisis taints the endeavor by making it seem an American rather than an Arab initiative and turns our allies into instruments of American designs rather than defenders of their own region from a double agent in their midst.

And this is just four days' worth of tweets, all vainglorious and self-injurious. Where does it end?

The economist Herb Stein once quipped that "if something cannot go on forever, it will stop." This really can't go on, can it? But it's hard to see what, short of a smoking gun produced by the Russia inquiry, actually does stop him.

Trump was elected to do politically incorrect -- and needed things like withdrawing from Paris. He was not elected to do crazy things, starting with his tweets. If he cannot distinguish between the two, Trump Derangement Syndrome will only become epidemic.

The bill signed into law also requires doctors performing abortions to provide the above-mentioned information to patients at least 24 hours before any procedure and have it printed on white paper with black ink in 12point tall, Times New Roman style font (letters).

Supporters of Senate Bill 83, called the Disclose Act, say the latter requirements are fingertips.

Kansas has enacted some of the most stringent restrictions on abortions in the nation.

I oppose abortion.

I'm just curious why the new law only targets doctors performing abortions and doesn't require all medical providers in Kansas to disclose the same things with all of their patients. David Powls

'm overweight because of constant bullying Last night I was bullied by a cheesecake, today I was bullied by a jelly doughnut...?

Beef: It's still what's for dinner on the summer grills

By John Schlageck Kansas Farm Bureau Summer means warmer temperatures and longer days, which in turn means barbecues fire up across Kansas. At my home, the choice for outdoor cooking will be beef and pork. For some, beef isn't the food of choice these days. Others believe it isn't healthy. For a few, the jury is still out. But be honest, have you ever thrown a couple pounds of linguine and watched it grill while you sipped a Gin Rickey?

Chicken? Look closely someday, real close, and decide for yourself whether you want to take it seriously as a food source, free-range or otherwise.

Fish? While I like it on occasion, it's not robust. Not strong in flavor - unless it's a very old fish. And if it's so doggone good, why is it called fish?

Truth is, nothing in the animal kingdom comes close to matching the smell, sound and taste of a hamburger or steak over an open fire. Sirloin, T-bone, porterhouse or my favorite the Kansas City strip....

Thick. Juicy. Red.

So, eat up. While some of today's diets have rekindled this nation's love affair with beef, for years Americans have been eating less beef. This has resulted in a drop in income for our livestock producers.

The question has become whether the charges and concerns about red meat are scientifically sound. Dietary guidelines are supposed to tell us what we should eat for good nutrition. Depending on whose recommendations you follow today, few agree.

Today, some guidelines are overly dogmatic. They contain specific recommendations for everyone and overlook allowances for individual differences.

Our nation is made up of individuals who need to adjust their diets to allow for their own states of health, risks of chronic disease and personal tastes.

Most U.S. Department of Agriculture guidelines are generally a good bet to begin with. Here goes:

*Eat two or three servings – a total of 5 to 7 ounces - daily of lean meat, poultry, fish and alternatives:

*Choose lean cuts of meat; *Trim fat from meat before or after cooking: *Roast, bake, broil, grill or simmer meat, poultry and fish;

*Cook meat or poultry on a rack so the fat will drip off.

To reduce sodium intake, USDA suggests eating one or two servings or less per week of cured or processed meats, such as ham, bacon, sausage, frankfurters and other luncheon meats, depending on other sources of sodium in the diet.

No matter how you cut it all lean meats are high in nutritional quality.

Beef, pork and lamb have been recognized as good sources of top quality protein, as well as thiamin, niacin and vitamins B-6 and B-12.

Red meats are also excellent sources of the trace elements iron, copper, zinc and manganese - minerals not easily obtained in sufficient amounts of diets without meat.

Well-trimmed, lean meats contain about four to nine percent fat when uncooked, according to USDA. Lean meat consists of approximately 65 percent water.

Depending on whom you talk to or where you read about it, some folks warn against too much saturated fat. The problem with this is, animal fat often is erroneously equated with saturated fat while vegetable fat is equated with unsaturated fat.

Another misconception about meat centers around cholesterol. Meat is not high in cholesterol.

Meats of all kinds, whether fat or lean, are low in cholesterol – between 70 to 90 milligrams per serving. This amount is too small to have a significant effect on the blood or serum cholesterol of most of our population, which includes those with normal blood cholesterol levels and who are not genetically likely to respond abnormally to dietary cholesterol, so says USDA.

Lean meats, eaten in moderation as part of a varied diet are not expected to become a cause of heart disease or cancer, nutritionists believe. While there will be changes in production methods and processing techniques, the beef steak, pork roast and lamb chops are here to stay.

Mayetta Methodist Church

By Shirley Stauffer

A hot, windy morning greeted the congregation members as they assembled for church at Mayetta Methodist Church on Sunday, June 11.

Joys expressed were the family of Shirley Harris coming to celebrate her mother's 87th birthday, Letha Smith doing well after her surgery and Chuck Norris feeling better. Earline Pugh is doing well after her amputation surgery and is in rehab.

Concerns included prayers for the churches in our conference along with the bishop and conference employees.

The bell ringer was Randy Rickel and Cody Smith was the acolyte. Hymns were "God Will Take Care Of You," "How Great Thou Art" and "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty.

Karen Burns read the Living Word of God from John 15:26. Randy Rickel and Delaina Miller took up the offering.

Time with children was titled 'Giving All" and Pastor Howard's message was "Our Father. Son And Holy Spirit" based on the word of God from Colossians 1:11-20. Services closed with the circle of friendship.

Sunday's birthdays were June Schlodder, Delaina Miller and Shirley Harris' mom. The birthday song was sung to them.

Best news of the day was that Pastor Howard will continue to be our minister for another year! Mary Anderson gave a report to the members about the annual conference that was held in Grand Island, Neb. this past week.

Karsen Smith finished second in the men's division of the FFA Farmers Dash on Saturday. Congratulations!

Mary Anderson was in Grand Island, Neb., from June 7-10 for the Great Plains Annual Conference held at the Heartland Event Center. Mary Swift from Goff Methodist Church accompanied her.

Clayton Stauffer of Lawrence was a visitor in the Bud Stauffer home on Saturday, June 3.

Bud and Shirley Stauffer, June Schlodder and Darrell and Margy Brown attended the Bohnenkemper reunion held in Holton on Sunday, June 11.

Visitors from Houston, Texas, arrived at the home of Karen Burns on Thursday afternoon. They were Karen's niece, Holly Allen, Holly's two daughters, Christina and Melissa, and Melissa's son, Liam. They came to Kansas to attend the wedding of Karen's great-niece, Erin Ridley, which took place in Lawrence on Saturday evening.

On Sunday, Karen went to a luncheon gathering at Reed's in Topeka. The occasion was a celebration of Elva Shepherd's birthday. There were 24 in the group, since there were a number of family members from out of town, who could join the celebration.

Afterwards, lunch folks went to the home of Becky and Tom Neely to have birthday cake and ice cream. Karen's company returned home on Monday morning.

Fenceline: The importance of dairy farmers, products

By Jody Holthaus Meadowlark Extension District Agent, Livestock & Natural Resources

cently in a conversation about what we call ourselves. A well-known ag blogger has suggested those of us raising cattle should callourselves "ranchers." Her argument is that this is the preferred term by our consumers. Ranching seems to be a more romantic, fantasy occupa- ful! Especially compared to our Brian and Kristina Haverkamp, tion over "cattle producer" and cattle farmer. The perception is that a "producer" seems to be too close to factory farming (whatever that is).

So I turned to our water quality specialist that grew up within the Sandhills of Nebraska (real ranch country) and asked him what his interpretation was. Will stated that to him, it was raising cattle on the land, mostly perennial grasses, very little crop production. He gave no mention to the size of the ranch.

I guess I must have some of those "romantic" notions about ranches. To call ourselves ranchers, to me, seems boastneighbors that have much larger ranches, operations or whatever we should call them.

The cattle backgrounder we were visiting decided to call himself BYC (Bovine Youth Counselor)! Now that's catchy.

It's not boasting to be proud of our dairies! June is Dairy Month. We have some great dairies in the Meadowlark Extension District. Two have been awarded for their management.

Gracing the cover of the Kansas Farmer magazine is David and Jan Rottinghaus of Rottinghaus Holstein Farm of Seneca. I was able to visit their calf rearing barn. It is quite impressive. Kelly Hills Dairy, owned by was also recognized by the Dairy Farmers of America. The Haverkamps have done a great job on their dairy. They hosted a dairy lameness school for us, and it's obvious they care deeply for their cows and their employees.

June Dairy Month started out as a way to distribute extra milk during the warm months of summer. The commemoration was established in 1937 by grocer organizations sponsoring "National Milk Month." By 1939, June became the official "dairy month."

Whether it's in coffee, cereal or smoothies, adding one more serving of milk to your family's day can help ensure they get the nutrients they need to build strong bones and teeth. Trusted for decades, dairy farm families pride themselves on producing wholesome dairy foods that help their families grow up strong and healthy.

Dairy's unique combination of nutrients plays key roles in preventing heart disease, obesity, high blood pressure, diabetes and osteoporosis. Dairy is important for building strong bones and teeth.

Cow's milk offers a superior nutrient package over alternative beverages such as soy, almond, rice or coconut. Fat-free cow's milk contains 15 fewer calories per glass, 70 percent more potassium and almost twice as much protein as many calcium-fortified soy beverages.

Most milk alternative drinks have only half the nutrients of real milk and cost nearly twice as much.

Dairy farming is a family tradition, one that has been a way of life for many generations. Ninety-eight percent of dairy farms are family owned and operated.

Dairy farmers are dedicated and take pride in caring for their cows by working closely with veterinarians to keep their cows healthy and comfortable. Dairy cows receive regular checkups, vaccinations and prompt medical treatment.

Dairy farmers work hard to provide your family with the same safe and wholesome dairy foods they give to their children.

Why milk matters in your diet

Although milk from the cow is processed, it is not an engineered or fabricated food. It is about 87 percent water and 13 percent solids. The fat portion of the milk contains fat soluble vitamins. The solids other than fat include proteins, carbohydrates, water soluble vitamins and minerals. These nutrients in milk help make it nature's most nearly perfect food.

Milk products contain high quality proteins. Protein is needed to build and repair body tissues and to form antibodies which circulate in the blood and help fight infection.

The whey proteins constitute about 18 percent of the protein content of milk. Casein, a protein found only in milk, contains all of the essential amino acids. It accounts for 82 percent of the total proteins in milk and is used as a standard for evaluating protein of other foods.

Milk also contains the following nutrients: calcium, phosphorus, magnesium and potassium. The calcium found in milk is readily absorbed by the body. Phosphorus plays a role in calcium absorption and utilization. Phosphorus is needed in the proper ratio to calcium to form

Milk provides these two minerals in approximately the same ratio as found in bone. Milk is also a significant source of riboflavin (vitamin B2) which helps bone.

In adults, a calcium deficiency, along with other factors, may result in bone deterioration called osteoporosis. The recommendations for calcium are 1,000 milligrams for adults, 1,300 milligrams per day for adolescents, 500 to 800 milligrams per day for young children and 1,200 milligrams per day for adults 51 years of age or older.

One serving of milk has about 250 milligrams of calcium. It is difficult to obtain adequate calcium without milk and milk products in the diet. About 73 percent of the calcium available in the food supply is provided by milk and milk products.

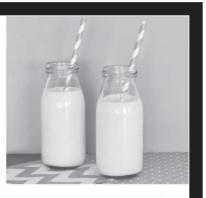

The following daily consumption of milk group foods is suggested by the government's U.S.

dietary guidelines: • Children 1-8 years old: two servings.

• Children 9 years and older: three servings.

• Adults: three servings.

For a good, healthy dairy food, say "cheese" dairy food made from milk. Cheese is defined as the fresh or matured product obtained by draining the whey (moisture or serum of original milk) after coagulation of casein, the major milk protein. Casein is coagulated by acid, which is produced through the addition of select microorganisms and/or by coagulating enzymes, resulting in curd formation.

Milk may also be acidified by adding food-grade acidulants, which is the process often used in the manufacture of fresh cheese.

Cheese can be made from whole, 2 percent reduced-fat, 1 percent low-fat or fat-free milk or combinations of these milks. About one-third of all milk produced each year in the United States is used to make cheese. Different ingredients and Cheese is a concentrated processes employed during the making and aging of cheese result in a wide variety of available cheeses, each with its own distinct texture and flavor profile. There are more than 200 varieties of cheese produced in the United States; more than 1,400 varieties are catalogued in the World Cheese Exchange Database.

Nutrition Information

Cheese is basically a concentrated source of the many nutrients found in the milk from which it was made. Milk itself is regarded as a nearly complete food. It is extremely difficult to present average nutrient values for cheese as a whole due to the differences in manufacturing processes and standards of identity. Even within one variety of cheese, variations in the type of milk, processing, season and locality can lead to marked fluctuations in nutritional composition.

Considering that it takes about 10 pounds (five quarts) of milk to make one pound of whole milk cheese, cheese is a nutrient-dense food. Cheese provides calories; high-quality protein; vitamins; and minerals, such as calcium, phosphorus and zinc.

The fat content of cheese varies by type. For healthy people, cheese can be a part of the ev-moderation, like any other food. Fat is necessary in the human diet to transport fat-soluble vitamins A, D, E and K into the body.

Many cheeses are an excellent source of calcium and a good source of protein and phosphorus while being low in trans fatty acids.

For individuals wishing to lower their calorie or fat intake, a variety of lowfat cheeses are also available. These include the following:

• Low-fat cheese: 3 grams or less of fat per reference amount (1 ounce for most cheeses, 4 ounces for cottage cheese).

• Reduced-fat cheese: 25 percent less fat per reference amount than its full fat counterpart

• Fat-free cheese: Less than 0.5 grams of fat per reference amount.

Recent research indicates that cheese, like all fat-containing dairy foods, is a significant source of conjugated linoleic acid (CLA), the conjugated dienoic fatty acid isomer of the essential fatty acid linoleic acid. CLA is highly concentrated in the fat of ruminant animals, such as cows.

The enzymes in a cow's digestive tract and mammary tissue convert linoleic and linolenic acid from the diet to CLA; CLA is passed on to consumers when they consume dairy products such as cheese.

Numerous studies over the past 25 years in several carcieryday diet when consumed in nogenic animal models have demonstrated that dietary CLA inhibits a variety of cancers including skin tumor initiation. forestomach neoplasis as well as mammary and colon tumorigenesis.

Indeed, a National Academy of Sciences report has pointed out that "CLA is the only fatty acid shown unequivocally to inhibit carcinogenesis in experimental animals."

Other research has discovered that CLA reduces the development and regression of atherosclerosis in experimental animals and may offer cardioprotective benefits. Research suggests that CLA may act to channel energy away from adipose tissue and toward oxidation in skeletal muscle.

Cheese is also defined as a source of high-quality protein. This means that cheese contains the essential amino acids in amounts proportional to the body's need for them. When proteins are consumed, they assist with building and repairing body tissue; form antibodies, hormones and enzymes; and provide energy.

Cavity Fighter

Consuming certain cheeses including aged Cheddar, Swiss, blue, Monterey Jack, Brie, Gouda and processed American cheese - immediately after meals or as a between-meal snack has been shown to help prevent tooth decay. Calcium, phosphorus and other components in cheese may contribute to this beneficial effect.

More reasons to drink your milk

As kids, most people heard phrases along the lines of "drink your milk so you'll grow big and strong!"

While many of us simply rolled our eyes and finished our milk so we could get to the good part (dessert!), the truth is that milk does provide valuable nutrients that kids need during their development.

There are several benefits from drinking milk other than just "strong bones." These ben-efits come from milk products such as cheese, butter, cottage cheese and flavored milk as well. Milk consumption is essential to maintaining good health and is a great source of calcium for all ages.

The following are six benefits kids and adults gain from drinking milk.

Calcium

Milk is the best source of calcium for our body. Calcium protects our bodies from bone loss, migraine headaches, obesity in children and aids in losing unwanted fats.

It is essential to get the recommended amount of daily calcium intake in order to maintain strong bones and health benefits and prevent future health risks due to lack of calcium.

Vitamin D

Vitamin D actually helps the body absorb calcium. Therefore, almost all milk produced within the United States has been fortified with 100 to 120 IU of Vitamin D.

Vitamin D helps bone strength by promoting bone growth and reducing the risk of brittle bones. It also reduces inflammation and increases immune function.

Healthy Bones

There are three main factors that contribute to healthy, strong bones. Genetics, physical activity, and proper calcium intake. With one eight ounce serving of milk providing 290 mg of milk, it is an excellent source of calcium.

You can also offer a serving low-fat cheese which boasts 204 mg of calcium. Since milk is rich in calcium, which is essential for growth and proper strong bone structure milk helps prevent bone growth disorders and decrease the chance of bone fractures when injured.

Healthy Teeth

Encouraging young children to drink milk will result in great dental health. Milk protects the enamel surface against acidic substances. Drinking milk for energy and good health with help children reduce the consumption of soft drinks, thus reducing the risk of decayed teeth and weak gums.

Rehydration

Milk contains a good amount of water molecules so it helps keep bodies hydrated. Especially for children who are constantly active and running around it is important to stay hydrated. Therefore having a glass of milk is a great resource for hydration. Improving Vitamin Intake

Milk contains vitamins and minerals to keep you fit, healthy and strong. These vitamins and minerals are good for eyesight, carbohydrates that increase energy and protein for body repair and growth.

Key Takeaways • Milk is one of the best sources of calcium for the body. • Milk is filled with Vitamin D that helps the body absorb calcium. Proper calcium intake contributes to strong and healthy bones. • Drinking milk provides other benefits such as healthy teeth, rehydration and improves vitamin intake.

June is Dairy Month!

Month!

National Dairy Month started out as National Milk Month in 1937 as a way to promote drinking milk. It was initially created to stabilize the dairy demand when production was at a surplus, but has now developed into an annual tradition that celebrates the contributions the dairy industry has made to the world.

After the National Dairy Council stepped in to promote the cause, the name soon changed to "Dairy Month."

National Dairy Month is a

June is National Dairy great way to start the summer with nutrient-rich dairy foods. From calcium to potassium, dairy products like milk contain nine essential nutrients which may help to better manage your weight, reduce your risk for high blood pressure, osteoporosis and certain cancers.

> Whether it's protein to help build and repair the muscle tissue of active bodies or vitamin A to help maintain healthy skin, dairy products are a natural nutrient powerhouse. Those are just a few of the reasons that you should celebrate dairy not just in June, but all year long.

Different kinds of butter

Butter is a concentrated source of milkfat (80 percent) with some water and nonfat milk solids. It is made from milk, cream or both of these ingredients. Common salt may or may not be added. Some varieties of butter are listed below.

Traditional butter (80 percent milkfat) is made from pasteurized cream under approved conditions. The U.S. government grades butter on the basis of its flavor, body, color and salt content.

Salted butter contains 1.6 percent to 1.7 percent salt. This product is also sometimes called lightly salted butter. Salted butter can be stored refrigerated for up to two months. In the freezer, Unsalted butter contains no added salt and is used in formulas where less salt is desired because of flavor or nutrition parameters. Unsalted butter can be stored for up to two weeks refrigerated and frozen for up to five months.

milkfat. FDA regulations specify the ingredients and quantities that are acceptable in a light butter formulation. The regulation states that the product must not be nutritionally inferior to traditional butter and performance characteristics should be similar. Although light butter makes a fine spread or dressing, it should not be substituted for regular butter in baking or frying due to its high moisture content.

Cultured butter, common in Europe, is made from pasteurized cream that has been inoculated with specific active lactic acid cultures, similar to those used in sour cream and buttermilk production. The reduction in pH and development of flavors produces

Have you ever wondered how foods like soy and almonds are turned into beverages? The answer is kind of surprising.

While these ingredients sound healthy enough on their own, the truth is it takes several not-so-healthy sounding ingredients to transform these foods into milk-like products. Read the label on milk substitutes and you won't only find a longer list of ingredients than you will in milk, you'll also find ingredients like magnesium phosphate and carrageenan.

If the latter should occur, Walsh said, a situation may arise that is similar to what happened last year at this time when the Legislature and the Supreme Court were deadlocked over school funding - an issue that was resolved at the last minute, allowing the state's schools to remain open for the 2016-17 school year.

"The bill is there for the governor to sign," she said.

Other changes in the teacher salary contract include the amount of reimbursement teachers receive for taking college courses to earn a master's degree. Teachers will only be reimbursed up to $323 per credit hour and only for credit-hour fees, and the policy will sunset in three years instead of five years, Walsh said.

Previously, retired teachers who taught in the Jackson Heights district for 10 years and were part of the district's health insurance group for at least five years could continue to be members of the group until Medicare is available while still receiving monthly payments from KPERS. The new contract changes the time to 15 years of service in each case.

In other business on Monday, board members approved an updated version of the high school and middle school handbook for 2017-18 after discussion as recommended by High School Principal Darren Shupe on a few topics in the handbook. One of those topics was out-of-school suspension, included in the discussion at the request of the board.

Shupe said suspended students who are considered "not in good standing" should be allowed to continue to make up school work while they are in out-of-school suspension, as most schools in the area allow for their students. He noted that the school has "maybe three" students on average getting suspended each year.

"We don't have a lot of repeaters," he said. "Most of the time, there is improve-That's the ultimate ment. goal.'

He also suggested a "credit recovery program," similar to and separate from the Fresh Start program hosted by the Holton school district, that would be available to students in out-of-school suspension with administrative approval.

"We should continue to allow them to do the work if they choose to," Shupe said. "It depends on the student whether they're going to make it up or not."

Walsh also noted that a credit recovery program would also be helpful to students who are seeking early graduation and suggested the possibility of the school splitting the cost of credits earned through such a program with the student enrolled in the program. Shupe added that participation in the program would likely be worked into the student's school day.

Walsh also noted that students taking an ACT test preparation course that was added to the curriculum this past year for juniors and seniors "thought it was very worthwhile." Shupe added that "there could be an option for sophomores" who want to take the course and the test during their sophomore year, and at present, "a lot of them want to.'

Board members also:

Approved the meeting's agenda and consent agenda, the latter including minutes of the board's May 8 meeting, monthly bills and activity reports and a $500 grant from Walmart.

■ Approved a bid of $37,006 from Accident Fund Insurance Company of America for renewal of the workman's compensation insurance for the district. Jared Beam of the Brier Payne Meade insurance firm of Topeka presented the bid and noted other bids had been received from The Hartford Financial Services Group and First Comp Insurance.

■ Discussed estimates for paving the elementary school parking lot as received from MaryCo Asphalt and Bettis Asphalt, both of Topeka, and from Kansas Asphalt Inc. of $2.20 to $2.25, middle and high school lunches from $2.40 to $2.45 and adult lunches from $3.50 to $3.60. Breakfast costs - currently $1.25 for elementary students and $1.35 for high school students - will remain unchanged, board members noted.

Approved an unpaid meal charges policy that Walsh said was a requirement for all Kansas school districts to have in place by July 1, even though Jackson Heights does not have "a big problem" with unpaid meal charges.

Approved a memorandum of understanding between Jackson County's schools and law enforcement agencies regarding the referral of school-based behaviors to law enforcement or the juvenile justice system. The memorandum is required to be in place by July 1, it was reported.

Discussed locker replacement options for the middle and high school girls locker rooms, tabling action on the matter to a future meeting.

■ Noted the election of recent Jackson Heights High School graduate John Kennedy as state FFA vice president.

Discussed items on the district's goals and priorities list that had been accomplished over the past year.

Met in executive session for 50 minutes to discuss teacher salary negotiations and personnel matters.

Upon returning to open session, the board approved teacher contracts for Olga McAlpine as fourth grade teacher and Tyler Kincaid as high school band and music teacher; approved the hiring of Kristi Streeter as a district cook; promoted Laura Sharp to food service director; accepted the resignation of high school band and music teacher Melissa Sauls; and terminated the contract of food service director Robert

* Received a legislative update from Davis. The Senate and the House have both passed Senate Bill 19, which is a school finance formula.

Due to a decline in enrollment, Royal Valley is expected to receive $212,000 less in funding in its general fund and local option budgets for the 2017-18 school year.

* Received school site council reports from each building principal, Jim Holloman (RVHS), John Linn (RVMS) and Noah Slav (RVES).

Holloman said the RVHS site council met three times and reviewed school data from the previous year, eligibility polices in and outside the Big Seven League and discussed policy changes for the following school vear.

At the middle school, Linn said the site council met four times and discussed technology, the school's reward system, new math curriculum, parent/teacher conference data, assessments and how effective Professional Learning Communities have been in the school.

'We also discussed the transition from fourth to fifth grade and had an orientation for fourthgrade students in May to tour the building and meet with staff," Linn said. "It was really fun, and I think the students enjoyed it."

Slay said the RVES site council met four times to discuss new initiatives at the school, the school's attendance policy and the accreditation process. The site council also planned the spring science fair.

Davis said a districtwide site council was established this year that included students and the council discussed the parent/ teacher conference format and the student transition from fourth to fifth grade and from eighth to ninth grade.

* Heard a report on outstanding lunch balances. This year, the National School Lunch Program requires districts to transfer money to cover "bad debt" for school lunch accounts, Davis said.

The district will have to transfer $13.60 to the food service account to cover outstanding debt. * Approved a renewal contract with Greenbush Learning Services Consortium totaling $15,034.20.

* Approved preliminary staff development points for 2016-17. * Approved a motion to renew property/fleet/casualty/ workers compensation insurance from Willis Towers Watson of Lawrence at a cost of $98,610, which is a decrease from last

* Approved a motion to renew student insurance rate renewal from Student Assurance Services, Inc. of Lawrence for the 2017-18 school year at a cost of $16,675. This is secondary insurance for parents if students are injured during an athletic event or field trip.

* Approved an updated job description for the high school assistant principal and the 7-12 athletic director. Those two positions were separate but are now being combined into one role for the upcoming school year by John Martin.

* Met in executive session for 15 minutes with Davis, Susan Pfrang, director of curriculum and instruction; and Jeff Gustin, athletic director.

Back in open session, the board approved a motion to terminate the head custodial contract with Ken Geisler and then approved Rule 10 and all other coaching contracts as presented.

* Adjourned the meeting at 8:30 p.m. Board member Boone Smith was absent from the meeting.

On June 7, the Royal Valley board of education held its annual retreat at 6 p.m. at the district office in Mayetta.

At the start of that meeting, the board met in executive session with Davis and Pfrang for five minutes to discuss non-elected personnel.

Back in open session, the accepted resignations board from Wendy Agner, middle school counselor; Christi Ingels, high school kitchen staff; and Richelle Ray, middle school assistance teacher.

The board also approved contracts for Joyce Hale, parents as teachers educator; Melissa Kimble, summer band: Carla Youngbear, language/culture specialists paid through Title VII; Russell Neilson, high school and elementary school groundskeeper; Laura Douglas, middle school counselor; and Courtney Kasson, middle school Student Council sponsor.

Also during the retreat, Davis provided a draft copy of the 2017-18 school calendar for the board to review.

Davis and Pfrang then updated the board on the Kansas Education Systems Accreditation (KESA) process.

Each building principal, Slay (RVES), Linn (RVMS) and Holloman (RVHS) presented information and plans for each of their schools for the coming school year.

The board then reviewed district goals and had an open discussion about the schools and plans for the 2017-18 school vear.

The meeting adjourned at 9:30 p.m.

Potawatomi United Methodist

By Ilene Dick

Sunday, June 11, was a hot, windy day. It was nice to worship in air conditioning. It's beginning to feel like summer has arrived a little early. Although rather warm, I am thankful it isn't winter!

Pastor Howard greeted the congregation at Potawatomi United Methodist Church and shared Psalm 100 followed by prayer.

Announcements included a reminder of Marjean Shenk's 80th birthday celebration from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday, June 16, at the church.

Ronald Dick thanked Keith Bell for helping on church repairs recently. Pastor Howard thanked the church family for prayers for his safe travels to conference at Grand Island, Neb. Judy Thoman reported on memorials for Don Fleeman.

Pastor Howard reported on conference meetings. It's a joy to learn the main conference office will be located in Topeka, where Bishop Ruben Saenz Jr. and family will reside. Martha Roush enjoyed attending the quilt show in Holton on Saturday.

Prayers are with the family of Anita Eby in her death.

Laura Schreiber was acolyte and also read the scripture from John 15:26.

Hymns were "God Will Take Care Of You," "How Great Thou Art" and "Holy, Holy, Holy! Lord God Almighty." Music was provided by Ilene Dick and Ann Wilkening. It was a joy to have Ann back on guitar.

Martha Roush gave the special. She shared a humorous story, "The Bible Through A Child's Eyes," by an unknown author. Keith Bell was offertory usher.

Pastor Howard's message was titled "Our Father, Son And Holy Spirit," with the text com-ing from Colossians 1:11-20. God revealed Himself as Trinity. Jesus is God. The Bible is written through the Holy Spirit. Belief in Trinity is to acknowledge God beyond our interpretation and accept relationships of community. Jesus is the way back to God. The Father created. The Son saved us. The Holy Spirit sustains us.

Next Sunday, Pastor Howard's sermon will be "My Father, My Teacher."

Neil and Mary Lou Harding joined Judy and Donnie Thoman to camp at Clinton Lake from Wednesday, June 7, to Friday, June 9. They had excellent weather and a great time.

Judy Thoman also attended Brian Dorris' ball game in Holton on Friday night, June 9.

Rosanna Wilson attended the meet and greet on May 26 for her 45th alumni reunion in Holton. She and Keith attended the day's activities on May 27, also. They had a nice turnout for the events. The class of 1972 won third place in class window displays. Thanks to Janine and Gary Šawyer and Janet and Paul Kennedy.

I have been busy traveling to Onaga Community Hospital, where Bob has been a patient. On Friday, June 9, Barbara Hutchinson and Sharon S. Cochren came over to visit and treated me to lunch in Onaga.

On Saturday, June 10, Merlin and Judy Arnold brought Maxine Lewis and they all came to visit Bob. We enjoyed hearing about the Alaskan cruise that Merlin and Judy treated their family to. It was their family "Christmas in June."

Dennis and Barbara Hutchinson attended the Heartland Military Day on Saturday, June 10, at the Museum of the Kansas National Guard at Forbes Field. They had a breakfast followed by the reveille ceremony. They enjoyed seeing the items on display in the museum. This was the first time they had been there.

Charles Dugan of Delia participated in the Civil War demonstration. Ed Gerheart, a retired brigadier general, is the president of the museum's board of directors. There is another event on June 24 called the Korean War Veterans Recognition Day. LeRoy and Marla Shupe got to enjoy having their granddaughter, Maizie, stay with them and Elaine for a week from June 4-11. Their week included fun at the Topeka Zoo, Gage Park, The Children's Discovery Center and Chucky Cheese's.

Barbara Hutchinson went to Topeka on Sunday afternoon, June 11, to meet her nephew, Jeremy Bain, and his two children, Reese and AJ, of Overland Park at the Topeka Gage Park Discovery Center. Barbara's sister, Marsha Morris, was also there. They really enjoyed the day and then went to Marsha's home for strawberry shortcake.

On Monday, June 19, the Circleville Senior Executives will meet at noon for lunch at the Circleville Lodge Hall. Bring a covered dish and enjoy the fellowship and meal with the group.

Circleville Christian Church

Brody Bliss gave the welcome and told a little bit about the Youth Summer Camp at Estes Park that the eighth graders through seniors had attended last week as he opened the 8 a.m. service and gave the opening prayer at Circleville Christian Church. Johnny Lynch served as song leader with Kay Hallauer providing the piano accompaniment. Brody Bliss gave the prayer for concerns and praises. Ron Parrett gave the communion meditation using text from 2 Corinthians 5:17. Communion servers were Roy Kranz and Keith Parrett. Brody Bliss gave the prayer for the offering and Kay Hallauer provided lovely piano music as communion was served and the offering was received.

Blair Wagner brought the morning sermon titled "Where Is My Healing?" He used text from John 9:1-33, a chapter about life, healing and glorifying God, as he told the story of the how Jesus healed the blind man.

His message brought out how we need to understand the progressive foundation in our life. It is God's call, it is God's plan, it is God's authority and it is God's glory. Our thoughts are not His thoughts. In the midst of our circumstances, we must give all glory to God.

The title of the sermon was "Where Is My Healing," but the better question might be "Where Is God's Glory?" Are we glorifying God in all that we do? The service closed by singing the chorus of "Victory In Jesus."

Circleville United Methodist

By Sue Wichman

Trinity Sunday was observed on June 11 at Circleville United Methodist Church. Helen Farley lighted the altar candles to begin the worship service.

Lay pastor Charlotte Milroy reported on the Great Plains Annual Conference held in Grand Island, Neb. last week.

David Allen served as song leader and provided accompaniment on his guitar. The hymns were "Come Thou Almighty King," "Holy, Holy, Holy! Lord God Almighty" and "Pass It On." Mary Jo Fernkopf read the scripture from Genesis 1:2-2:4b and 2 Corinthians 13:11-13.

Thersa Wade read a thoughtprovoking poem concerning Alzheimer's disease. Melvin Askren was responsible for this special.

Charlotte's message was based on the first chapter of Genesis. God's first act of love was creating Heaven and Earth. God is often compared to a parent. A parent's greatest love is taking the risk of creating, or adopting, a child. "In creating us, God has taken a risk on us, the risk of love." The Trinity is God, Jesus and the Holy Spirit, all for the love of us.

Thersa assisted Charlotte in offering Holy Communion before the service closed with "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Rhon Davis remembered

A longtime educator and psy-chologist with the Holton Special Education Cooperative was remembered recently as a caring co-worker and friend, it was reported.

Rhon Davis, 58, who died Friday, June 2 at a Topeka hospital, was a 20-year employee of the cooperative and was most recently serving as a psychologist in the Royal Valley district. He had also worked in the Holton school district for a number of years, it was reported.

Davis' past and present coworkers took to the internet to express their condolences to his family, including Beth, his wife of nearly 32 years, and their three children.

One of those former co-workers in the cooperative was former assistant director Susan

Sipe. "I worked with Rhon for many years at HSEC," Sipe said. "He was always a professional and a gentleman - (he) loved his kids, both biological and school kids. We all will miss him." "He always had a friendly smile and was great to work with," added Ginger Binkley, who worked with Davis at the former Colorado Elementary School and currently works as a counseling secretary at Holton High School.

And one of his current coworkers, Royal Valley Middle School teacher Brenda Hainev. remembered Davis for "his smile, (his) kind nature and the fact that he truly cared for the students he worked with."

"Rhon was the nicest, most caring man," Hainey said. "I will miss seeing him in our school."

Davis had worked in education for 33 years, with 20 of those years in the Holton Special Education Cooperative.

A full obituary for Davis appears on Page 5 of today's Holton Recorder.

Wilhelm named Outstanding Male Student at Washburn Tech

Josh Wilhelm (shown above) remembers when he was younger watching his father fix vehicles on the family farm near Holton.

"Watching him bring cold, inanimate objects back to life was fascinating," Wilhelm said.

By observing the work, Wilhelm became intrigued with the complexity of mechanical systems, which eventually led him to enroll in the automotive service technician program at Washburn University Institute of Technology.

Wilhelm was recently named the Outstanding Male Student at Washburn Tech's graduation.

"Here I was able to follow my passion for cars, get into a field I actually enjoyed and gain the skills needed for a higher paying job," he said.

Definitely an admirable outlook, considering he completed his studies at Holton High School the same month he received his certification at Washburn Tech.

While many Washburn Tech students are concurrently enrolled in high school, Wilhelm's ambition led him to participate in several activities at both schools.

At high school, he suited up in jersey #12 to play basketball for the Holton Wildcats and was involved in clubs ranging from National Honor Society and Future Farmers of America to Fellowship of Christian Athletes. And keep in mind, he was honored for his academic achievements by the Kansas Honors Program.

As a student at Washburn Tech, he was named president of the recently founded Washburn Tech Car Club, brought home a gold medal for his work in the automotive service technology event at the Kansas SkillsUSA contest and worked on more than one vehicle for the Recycled Rides program.

"I am proud to say I have helped improve the quality of life of a few families, just by donating a little of my time and skills," he said, noting that this experience enhanced his attention to detail, something he realized last year while repairing the oil pan gasket in one of the Recycled Rides vehicles.

"I made sure the tools remained organized, and that all service procedures were being followed. I had to ensure that the work was done correctly, and that the final product was safe for the family," he said.

Wilhelm is appreciative of the opportunities he has been afforded while at Washburn Tech, such as the numerous certifications he could earn.

"I can put all of these certifications on my resume to show employers that I am driven to be a superior technician and that I am willing to put in the work," he said.

His sound work ethic will be a strong asset for him in the future. In addition to his studies at Kansas State University in the fall, he plans to work as an automotive service technician to help pay for his education.

Wilhelm's ultimate goal is to earn a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering, the knowledge from which he will pair with his vocational training, and eventually design new vehicles or auto parts.

Barnett said he found two used trucks for the price of one through the Missouri Department of Transportation. The commissioners requested Barnett travel to Missouri to view the trucks.

It was noted that 4,000 tons of rock (3,500 tons of two-inch and 500 tons of 1¹/₂-inch) have been purchased and 2,500 tons of it will be stored at the Hoyt strip.

Misenhelter requested the road be closed in order for him to build a fence for his cattle. A portion of the road was abandoned in 1965 by the county.

Misenhelter said that it was not imperative that the road be closed for him to place a fence and that he just thought he would have the commission consider it

That fall, 1959, she entered a community college and graduated from Bethany Hospital School of Nursing in Kansas City in 1962 and received her license to practice as a registered nurse.

Sumner then returned after Haskell became a junior college and graduated with an associate of arts degree there. Later, she graduated from Washburn University of Topeka with a bachelor of science degree in nursing in 1982.

During that time, she was inducted into the Washburn University based Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society in which nurses are installed for scholastic achievement and sound nursing clinical practice.

Sumner helped Rosemarie Wood and Janice Kekahbah start the American Indian Nurses Association. and Sumner was an active member. Sumner taught nursing at Haskell Indian Junior College. She continued her nursing career by serving veterans at the Topeka and the Palo Alto VA Medical Centers and special-ized in oncology/cancer nurs-

She previously worked for the United States Public Health Service/Indian Health Service and returned to work in this tals in order to better alleviate the pressure and high costs for lower income individuals who are unable to pay high costs for minor health related services.

Area Office in Bemidii. Minn. and was the communicable disease specialist and served the Tribal and Urban Indian Health programs in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Later, she worked at the Red Lake Indian Health Service Hospital. She spent 11 years in what she called her "homelands," the forested northern woods.

Upon retiring from nursing with the USPHS/IHS, Sumner returned home to the Prairie Band Reservation in Mayetta to work in the nation's economic development department looking at ways to conserve its natural resources with wind energy and assisted with purchasing a local propane company so PBP members could purchase heating fuel from themselves rather than from an outside source.

Sumner cares very much for her nation's people and her Haskell family that continues to grow each day, she said. She enjoys spending time with the students within the ministry of the Haskell Lighthouse where they call her by her given Potawatomi name "Kesh-be."
