Firework mishap claims local boy

By Brian Sanders

A Friday accident involving fireworks and other minor explosive devices at a rural Mayetta residence resulted in the death of an 11-year-old Mayetta boy, Jackson County Sheriff Tim Morse said.

Colby Harris was found dead at his home shortly after noon after an apparent explosion occurred there shortly before noon, Sheriff Morse said. It was reported that Harris would have been a sixth-grader this fall at Royal Valley Middle School.

Shortly before noon on Friday, Morse said, sheriff's dispatchers received a 911 call from the victim of an apparent explosion. Sheriff's officers, assisted by Hoyt and Mayetta firefighters and Jackson County EMS personnel, responded to the rural Mayetta residence where the call was placed.

After entering the residence, emergency personnel found Harris, who was determined to be the 911 caller and victim, dead at the scene. The Kansas Bureau of Investigation's Crime Scene Team was called in to assist with the incident, Morse said.

An investigation into the incident determined that Harris had been experimenting with fireworks and "other minor explosive devices," Morse said, adding that Harris was home alone for "a very short period of time" prior to placing the 911 call.

An autopsy performed Saturday in Kansas City determined that the manner of Harris' death was accidental and that the preliminary cause of death was listed as massive blood loss caused by shrapnel from the apparent explosion.

Glenn Moore Meadows is now The Pines South

By Ali Holcomb

Nikki Rinkes and Mandy Bontrager purchased Glenn Moore Meadows senior care home on July 1, it was reported.

The two women, who also own The Pines of Holton, have renamed the rural Holton facility The Pines South and will continue to provide senior services at both locations.

'Mandy and I were looking for opportunities to expand, and this became available," Rinkes is currently full with eight senior residents, Rinkes said. "At this point, we just want to keep the same great care that Sherri was providing," Rinkes

The Pines South is located in a rural area, which is unique for most care homes.

"It's a beautiful country setting," Rinkes said.

Rinkes said that staff members from Glenn Moore Meadows two nights of riding and roping have stayed on and continue to action. Gates open at 6 p.m. both work with the new ownership "We have great group of staff, and we feel fortunate to have them there," she said.

events are coming up this week and next.

The 92nd-annual Jackson County Fair begins in earnest next Monday, when the county's 4-H kids and others who participate in open classes put their animals, crafts and collections on display. But there's still much to look forward to in the meantime, fair officials noted.

Kester takes over Hoyt veterinary clinic

By Ali Holcomb Lifelong Hoyt resident Dr. Ed Kester recently opened Kester Animal Clinic in Hoyt.

Located just outside the city limits at 13826 S. K-214 Highway, the vet clinic was previously owned by Dr. Darrell Carder, who operated Hoyt Animal Practice.

"Dr. Carder didn't use this clinic as much because he has another clinic in Topeka, and he knew I was interested in the space," Kester said.

Kester took ownership of the clinic in April, and he specializes in small and large animals.

"Everything but exotic animals," he said.

A 1987 graduate of Royal Valley, Kester graduated from Kansas State Veterinary School in 1997.

"I've always had an interest in animals," he said. "I showed horses growing up and was in 4-H."

After graduating from vet school, Kester worked at animal clinics in Topeka for 20 years.

Kester travels to farms to work on larger animals, such as cattle and horses, and he said he is considering expanding his facilities to accommodate larger animals on site.

Besides general practice medicine, boarding is also available at the clinic. He also sells dog food and flea and tick medicine.

This spring, Dr. Ed Kester opened Kester Animal Clinic in Hoyt along Kansas Highway 214 in the former Hoyt Animal Practice building. Kester is a Hoyt native, and he specializes in small and large animals. Photo by Ali Holcomb

The animal clinic is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Appointments are required since he travels to area farms for vet services.

Kester said that he and Drs. Don and Amy Sunday at Heartland Veterinary Health Center in Holton work together to answer any emergency vet calls that either clinic receives after hours.

"We rotate call times on evenings and weekends," he said.

Purple Heart Profiles Lines helped stop five German tanks in France

Editor's note: This is the 63rd in a series of stories about past and present Jackson County residents who earned the Purple Heart Medal, which is awarded to military personnel wounded or killed in the line of duty.

The names of those profiled in these stories are among those placed on a special monument for Purple Heart Medal recipients now standing in Holton's Linscott Park.

Little is known about the "supreme sacrifice" that Technical Sergeant Sherrod C. Lines of Holton made in France in late October of 1944, but the story remains of his bravery in helping beat back five German tanks little more than a month earlier.

Lines, a member of Company E, 137th Infantry Regiment, Kansas National Guard, was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously for his "extraordinary heroism" in addition to his Purple Heart Medal.

Sherrod C. Lines was born Feb. 2, 1916, the son of Arthur and Hattie Lines. He grew up in the Holton community, graduating from Holton High School with the class of 1935, and enlisting in the National Guard while he was still in high school, it was reported.

On Dec. 23, 1940, while an employee of Missouri Pacific Railroad, Lines was mustered into the Army as a private first class, and he and his company

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS Presented by

Kanza Mental Health & Guidance Center PREVENTING DEPRESSION RELAPSE

As effective as anti-depressant medications and talk therapy may be, an estimated 50 to 80 percent of people suffering from depression experience repeated bouts of depression without ongoing treatment. However, new research suggests that a hybrid form of psychotherapy, known as "mindfulness-based cognitive therapy" (MBCT), can be used to effectively lower the risk of depression recurrences. Cognitive therapy focuses on how thoughts and beliefs influence mood and behavior, with the goal of changing negative thoughts that trigger depression and replacing them with positive, supportive ones. At the same time, mindfulness encourages a person to focus his or her thoughts on the present moment, thereby eliminating distractions or distressing feelings. MBCT typically involves an eight-week program.

P.S. According to the study mentioned above, mindfulness-based cognitive therapy (MBCT) lowered the risk of recurring depression by 31 percent compared to usual care.

Depression is almost impossible to overcome without treatment. By working with one of our experienced therapists, together you can identify and change the thoughts and beliefs which trigger your sadness. We will help you successfully change your thinking so you can avoid recurring bouts of depres-sion, and in some cases, quit taking medication. Don't suffer another day. We are here to give you the help you need.

Ford's enthusiasm for astronomical events is contagious

Upcoming solar eclipse is going to be great, he says

Mike Ford of the Banner Creek Science Center, a longtime astronomy educator, is very excited about the upcoming solar eclipse set for Monday, Aug. 21, when the sun, the moon and the earth will all be perfectly aligned and easily viewable from northeast Kansas.

Ford, who was the guest speaker at the Holton/Jackson County Chamber of Commerce noon luncheon on Thursday at the Your Place Or Mine restaurant in Holton, said the Holton area is very lucky to be in almost the direct path of this astrological event's shadow that will race across the sky at 1,500 miles per hour during the eclipse.

Ford, who said he has already seen three other solar eclipses in different parts of the world, started out his remarks by saying "it's going to be a fun event for everyone.

Ford said the Holton area will experience 99.9 percent totality (total darkness) at 1:05 p.m. on Aug. 21.

"It's going to get dark for quite a while here," Ford said. "The city street lights will come on."

A little further north, from the Jackson Heights school area on to Horton, Hiawatha, Troy and St. Joseph, Mo., totality will be 100 percent, he said.

Ford explained the difference between the rare solar eclipse and the more common lunar eclipse when the sun, earth and moon are aligned.

When lunar eclipses occur "everyone sees them," he said. Solar eclipses cast a much narrower shadow, he said, about 65 miles wide. "This town (Holton) will be different," he said. "It's going to be crazy. Later, Ford estimated that more than 3,000 visitors would possibly descend on the Holton area to view the solar eclipse.

St. Joseph, Mo., he said, is expecting about 1 million visitors from across the country and the world

Hiawatha, he said, is expecting about 30,000 visitors to the town to see the event.

"There will be heav

glasses. The special glasses are also available at Koger Variety in Holton, it has been advertised.

"The sun is 100,000 times more brilliant than the full moon," he said. "You could go blind in a few seconds of looking at the sun.'

"The solar eclipse is very bizarre," Ford said. "Once you have seen one, you get hooked.'

As the solar eclipse begins, Ford said, the temperature gets cooler and it starts to get dark. Then, a bright piece of light comes out to give the sun a diamond ring look."

Ford said highway travel-ing will be congested the day of the eclipse but he nonetheless encouraged local people in the area to take the short drives north to see the total totality of the eclipse, if they get the opportunity.

"Don't lose the opportunity to see something dramatic," he said.

He also said he was chartering a bus trip to Horton on the day of the eclipse for optimal viewing. Horton will have totality for 2:12 minutes and Hiawatha will have totality 2:36 minutes, he said.

At the time of the solar eclipse, Ford said, people will get a rare and "truly amazing" daytime view of the summer stars, fall stars and winter stars - and planets around the sun.'

Eclipse photography is a little tricky, Ford said, because some special filters are needed to get the best images.

A cloudy, overcast day could ruin the opportunity to view the solar eclipse, Ford said.

"Usually, however," he said, 'Kansas weather changes so rapidly. You never know.

Two days before the eclipse, at 6 p.m. on Aug, 19, Ford said, the Banner Creek Science Center will host an eclipse presentation along with some local musical entertaiment by the Holton Community Band and others. Hot dogs will be sold. Tickets to the event will cost $5 apiece with proceeds going to the com-

As worrisome as these are, there's one problem that may be the greatest threat of all: Americans' loss of faith in politics and democratic institutions.

This has been building for decades, dating back to the Vietnam War and Watergate.

The truth is, in the face of this teeming, complicated, diverse society, our political institutions have performed inadequately.

But if we're not just to throw in the towel and declare representative democracy a noble failure, then we have to restore Americans' faith in the processes of government. To do this, we have to pursue a range of reforms and goals, some of which will require years of concerted effort to achieve.

By Tom Isern

Of all the drive-in oases that beckon under a prairie sky on a summer evening, I believe this one is my favorite: the Zesto Drive-In, on

Capitol Avenue in Pierre, S.D. It is enough, perhaps, that the Zesto offers good drivein fare with hokey names like "The Palmer," its name for a supersize footlong hotdog, hence the saying, "passing the Palmer" but besides that, Zesto caters to the canine market, or rather, the canine-lover market. It's an evening the people of Pierre turn out to buy their Labrador retrievers pup cups - ice cream servings with a doggie biscuit on top.

There is no doubt that the drive-in restaurant occupies an important niche in prairie towns - not just a culinary niche, but a social one, too.

At the same time, the operation of a drive-in on the Great Plains, with the region's continental climate, offers peculiar challenges.

Roadside historians trace the origins of the drive-in as an institution to the southern plains specifically to Kirby's Pig Stand, established September 1921, in Dallas, Texas.

Specializing in pork and chicken fried steak sandwiches, the Pig Stand turned into a multi-state chain operation with the slogan, "Quick curb ser-

Many of these are deep-seated, longstanding problems that are evident to many Americans, yet we don't see them being addressed.

Until Americans see that our political leaders recognize the erosion of faith in our political institutions that is undermining our system and are taking meaningful steps to address it, our distress will only grow.

He is survived by his daughters, Lauren and Jessica Proctor of Simi Valley, Calif .; his sister, Sharon Bolling of Lenexa; two maternal uncles, Max Forster of Independence, Mo., and Morris Forster, in Oregon; his maternal aunt, Barbara Forster of Risenhoover, Ore.; his nieces, Audra Wayland of Nashville, Tenn., Jennifer Carlson of Lawrence, and Amanda Lail of Loveland, Ohio; his nephews, Zach Proctor of Phoenix, Ariz., Shane Ravenscroft of Shawnee and Matthew Fairchild of Carlsbad, Calif.; his great-nephews, Landon Proctor of Phoenix, Ariz., Ryan Logan of Tulsa, Okla., Maxwell Ravenscroft of Shawnee, Jacob Fairchild of Carlsbad, Calif., and Nico Lail of Loveland, Ohio; and great-nieces, Ryan Carlson of Lawrence, Emma Proctor of Phoenix, Ariz., Syd-ney Ravenscroft of Lenexa, Leah Fairchild of Carlsbad, Calif., Sophia Lail of Loveland, Ohio, Grace Fairchild of Carlsbad, Calif., and Chloe Fairchild of Carlsbad, Calif.; and his 'third daughter,' Molly Moffett of Lenexa. He was preceded in death by his parents, Ivan and Virgina Proctor, and his brother, Gary Proctor.

Dan had a passion for wildlife art, the national parks and a friendly political debate. Dan grew up in his birthplace of Holton and spent many summer days playing in the creek and causing general mischief around Holton. Dan graduated from Holton High School in 1965 with classmates that he still kept in contact with throughout the years. He was active Holton High Class of '65 alumni and enjoyed their frequent reunions. Dan spent many years in teens lifeguarding and teaching swimming lessons at the local pool in Holton. Dan also worked out on the high lines with his dad and brother to pay his way through college. After graduating high school, Ivan attended Kansas State University and graduated in 1970 with a degree in the arts, even though his original major was wildlife conservation.

Ivan combined his passion for art and conservation by creating paintings and drawings portraying wild-life. He entered the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Federal Duck Stamp contest several years and got as close as third place. Proceeds from the sale of the Federal Duck Stamp are applied toward the conservation of birds.

After college, Dan married Judith Ravenscroft; they spent their twenties traveling the United States and Europe, especially the national parks, and later had two daughters, Jessica and Lauren. In his professional life, Dan worked for Hallmark Cards and Wolf Brothers as a commercial artist and later as a department manager for Home Depot.

Dan enjoyed spending time at "The Yard" with his uncle Mickey. Inspired by his Uncle Mickey, Dan developed an aptitude for restoring classic cars. He often had random car parts around the house for his latest project or projects. He didn't always finish one project before starting the next.

As per Dan's request, there will not be a formal ceremony, but a celebration of life for family and close friends.

City drainage plan discussed at June Hoyt Council meeting

By Shawna Blackwood Hoyt City Clerk

The Hoyt City Council met in regular session on June 6, 2017.

Present were Mayor Debbie Dreasher and council members Farrell Holthaus, Leonard Allen, Ed Ryan, Lana Dillner and Nathan McAlister.

Also present were Lee Hendricks, Sharon Gabriel, DJ Kester, Howard Kester, Edward Kester, DVM, Jim Petersen, Dennis Elliott, Bob Ehrhart, Shelby Lyming, Larry Valdez and Chief of Police Dan Wentling.

Mayor Dreasher called the meeting to order at 7 p.m. Minutes from the May 2 and May 17 meetings were reviewed and approved.

Hendricks said that he is continuing work on updating the animal ordinance. Valdez discussed with Hendricks how revenue from drug stops is allocated between the city, county and state

Mayor Dreasher and the council discussed the July regular meeting. It was confirmed to have the meeting on Wednesday, July 5, with the understanding all bills may not be ready for approval by that time.

Kester met with the DJ council to present a receipt for supplies from the trash cans and bench he placed at the city park. The receipt was for $213.34. City Clerk Blackwood can reimburse Kester in this amount.

Ehrhart met with the council to ask for permission to attend a class in Manhattan for water/ wastewater operators. He is currently short five hours on his continuing education and this will give him the hours he needs to remain in compliance. The class will be in mid-July. He figured mileage of $64.20 and eight hours of his time at $160 for a total of $224.20.

Holthaus made a motion to allow Ehrhart to attend the class in Manhattan and to pay him $224.20 for mileage and time. The motion carried.

Gabriel met with the council to get an update on the street repair at Park Drive. Holthaus reported that the bid had been approved from Sunflower Paving for the repair and it was set to begin on June 9.

Elliott met with the council to report a complaint regarding the number of vehicles on the property at 111 W. Second St. He also stated according to ADA regulations, there should be at the business three designated stalls for handicapped parking on a hard surface. He U.S. Highway 75 has been in-stalled and is operational.

Lyming met with the council to ask for permission to have inflatables at the July 3 event at the park. The council was in agreement with the request as long as the city is added as an additional insured on her insurance policy. Lyming was asked to provide a copy of the certificate showing the city has been added to Blackwood before the event.

Bruce Rinkes met with the council to discuss the drainage plan proposal for the city. Before beginning that discussion, Rinkes said that in looking for drainage maps, he found a concept plan from 1992 for the Hoyt America property located behind Dollar General that may be of interest to the council.

In regard to the drainage proposal for the city, Rinkes stated he was unable to find anything showing filed drain-age easements. This was confirmed with the county. For the city to begin any work on the properties, drainage easements need to be added to the deed for each property. The cost of this would be an estimated $60 per lot, plus survey costs.

As a possible solution to the drainage issues raised, Rinkes proposed flood routing to see what happens with the flow. This cost would be approximately $400 to $500. He also recommended cleaning out the brush and possibly removing trees around the Robinson Park area and other areas that are restricting flow. The cost of tree removal was discussed. No decisions were made at this time.

Blackwood presented the proposal from Olsson and Associates for preparing a drainage plan study and the monthly financial report from the accountant. She also discussed an invoice from The Holton Recorder for advertisement for the citywide garage sales.

Blackwood presented a building permit from Lisa Steele. This had been approved by the zoning board.

Blackwood, on behalf of Kenny Bryan, discussed a request to allow Ken Bailey to hay the park and area around the sewer ponds in exchange for assisting Bryan in digging the three piers he needs to in-stall the X-Wave at the park. This was approved with the contingency that it needs to be done as soon as possible and it is a one-time approval.

Mayor Dreasher said that Gary Salts was unable to make it to the meeting to discuss a development plan for the property owned behind Dollar General. Annexation of the property, surveying costs, street maintenance and utili-

Chief Wentling gave the monthly police report. Dillner provided an update on the flowers planted at the community service day.

The council discussed the upcoming street work to begin on June 9. Holthaus proposed having a weight limit sign installed on Central between First Street and Third Street to help protect the street. No decision was made relating to the sign.

The council discussed having homeowners in this area moving trash carts to the corner or front of the house on trash pickup day to avoid having the trash trucks drive down the newly paved road. It was stated the cost to clean the culverts in preparation of paving this area would be approximately $2,000, so the total cost of paving the road in this area will be approximately $12,000.

Dillner said that when the brush was cleared previously by the city pond, it took away the hardest disc golf obstacle. There was a request made to move one or two of the disc golf baskets to create a harder obstacle.

McAlister discussed the current pump repair. It was reported that the pump is still in the shop.

Ryan had nothing to report on water. He then reported that the back room at the community building has been musty. To help with the problem, the air conditioning has been turned down and fans have been used. The council discussed the proposal to prepare a drainage plan study submitted by Olsson and Associates. The cost of the proposal is $12,500.

There was a lengthy discussion relating to the Olsson proposal, the ideas suggested by Rinkes and property owners' involvement/responsibility relating to the drainage issues.

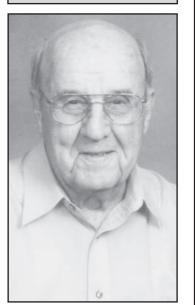

No decision was made regarding the Olsson proposal.

McAlister made a motion to pay bills. The motion carried. Mayor Dreasher said that the 2018 proposed budget needed to be submitted by Aug. 24 to the county clerk. Budget discussions for 2018 were to begin at the July 5 meeting. Dreasher stated topics to be included would be the police car and the proposal to make the clerk's position a salaried position. The amendment of the 2017 budget would also be discussed.

A special meeting was scheduled for July 19 at 7 p.m.

McAlister made a motion to adjourn. The motion carried, and the meeting adjourned at 9:06 p.m.

KHA praises Moran's stance on health care

The Kansas Hospital Association has released the following statement in regard to Sen. Jerry Moran's decision not to support the recent pro-posed health care act:

"Sen. Jerry Moran's decision to not support the revision to the Better Care Reconciliation Act is another example of his commitment to health care in Kansas and his advocacy for access to high quality health care across our state.

"This legislation would have increased the number of uninsured Kansans, as well as hospitals' uncompensated care costs. It would have reduced access to health care and led to financial outcomes that are bad for Kansas.

"We appreciate his commitment to improve health care.'

In a statement, Moran said, "We must now start fresh with an open legislative process to develop innovative solutions that provide greater personal choice, protections for preexisting conditions, increased access and lower overall costs for Kansans.'

Schuetz family holds reunion

The descendants of Clarence and Helene Gold Schuetz held their 16th biennial reunion July 15-16, 2017 at the home of Carl and Nancy Schuetz in Atchison with a Sunday potluck lunch.

Their last reunion was July 24-26, 2015 in Billings, Mont., with the Magers family hosting. Saturday was spent at the Clark's Days at Pompey's Pillar, a national monument next to the Yellowstone River.

The protocol of meetings, the order of hosting, who will retain the green C & H Reunion notebook and what newspapers to send the minutes and notices to were determined.

Since attendance has decreased, it was discussed to even continue the reunions. The answer was a unanimous yes. Even if only two families would be able to attend, one should be held. There will be down years, but there will also be years that many are able to attend.

There was discussion of how the next host is determined. Formerly it was set up for two reunions in Kansas, then one away. Since the grandchildren are becoming the hosts/hostesses, the order was changed to be the birth order of the siblings. No relatives died in the last two years, but there were two births. They were Everett (Christina Adcock) Jahn and Logan (Lydia Magers) Duffy. The host family should arrange a memorial or mass for those who have gone before us and who are members of the Clarence and Helene family, no spouses or in-laws.

In trying to keep with the times it was decided to create a Facebook page for the Clarence and Helene Gold Schuetz Reunion. Jessica and Nina will be the administrators for the page, at least for now.

There were 18 family members and three guests that attended either one or all three days of activities. Family members were Larry and Mary (Schuetz) Adcock of Hiawatha, Carl Schuetz and his son, Wade, of Atchison, John and Angela (Magers) Hebbelman of Chinook, Mont., Nathan Magers of Washougal, Wash., Fred Magers (Lucille), Nina (Magers) Gutierrez and her children Julia and Thomas, Sabrina (Magers) Theil, Reuben and Katie Magers and Rich and Jessica (Magers) Westberg and their children Cecelia and RJ, all of Billings, Mont. Randy Ross and Kim Shelton were the Hebbelmans' guests, and James Cardillo was Julia's guest.

Carl and Wade had the longest drive at 991 miles, then Larry and Mary at 952 miles and then Nathan at 878 miles.

Reunion events were planned for Friday and Saturday. On Sunday, a number of family members attended mass at St. Pius X Church. The cemeterv where Lucille (Fred) Magers and Roberto (Nina) Gutierrez are buried is right outside the church, so after mass everyone went out and visited the graves.

The reunion concluded with Fred providing breakfast at his home with his infamous "Daddy McMuffins.'

The minutes were recorded by Nina Magers Gutierrez.

There tends to be less incidence of toxic algae in native grass pastures, but doesn't mean it can't happen. When you check your cows in the pond areas with the scum and pasture, be sure to check the ponds each time. This can quickly form.

As for the rest of the green stuff in your ponds, David Hallauer says figuring out which aquatic weed you have is half the battle. We have a handy publication that you can pick up that will aid you, or Texas A & M has a website that has nice color photos to help you decide.

Grass carp can aid in the control of mosses. They don't do much for the marginal weeds and they like to travel, so if the pond is over the spillway, your fish are probably gone. David recommends restocking them every few years.

As the summer continues, we will probably see more of these problems. I'm hoping for a big rain that will eliminate this problem!

in fruits and vegetables, texture changes occur. Water expands when frozen, which ruptures food cell walls. Freezing food quickly will help reduce texture damage. Don't overload and keep the freezer as cold as possible, at least 0 degrees F or below

Over time, food loses moisture during freezing, which leads to freezer burn. Use packaging designed for freezing to reduce this problem.

Freezing does not kill bacteria. It only slows it down. When food thaws, any bacteria present will become active again. Always inspect food and packages carefully before use.

Can I Add Bacon To Green Beans Before Canning Them? This is an example of how creating your own recipe can be a dangerous practice. While low-acid foods, there are no processing recommendations for canning bacon. Therefore, can the beans by themselves. Then when ready to eat the beans, add the bacon just before serving.

Adding any fat or butter to home-canned products, unless specifically stated in the recipe, may slow the rate of heat transfer during processing. This will result in an unsafe product.

Additionally, the fat could seep in between the lid and jar rim and the lid will not seal properly.

Spices or herbs may be added in small amounts before processing.

Tips for watering fruit crops in the heat

By David Hallauer Meadowlark Extension

District Agent Crops & Soils, Horticulture

lt's mv hope that by the time you read this, we will have seen some temperature and moisture relief! Even so, a recent climate prediction report noted that expectations for August are much the same as conditions for July.

I've referenced in this space before the need for trees to be watered during the summer the stress can inhibit the develmonths. Fruit trees need to be included in that watering program as well. With the number of days above 90 degrees that we've seen over the last couple of weeks, fruit crops have certainly taken a hit. When soil moisture can't meet the plant's need, it starts to pull it from the fruit to supply the tree to help it survive.

This stress, either from high temperatures and/or moisture deficits in the root environment, can cause fruit to drop or fail to increase in size. Further, opment of fruit buds for next year's fruit crop.

Now is the time to be checking all fruit crop soil moisture levels. Do so by inserting a spade or shovel or a pointed metal or wood probe (a long screwdriver works well) into the soil to a depth of eight to 12 inches. If the soil is hard, dry and difficult to penetrate, the moisture level is very low.

At that point, plants should be watered to prevent drooping and promote fruit enlargement. Add water using sprinklers, soaker hose, drip irrigation or even a small trickle of water running from the hose for a few hours. Add enough moisture so you can easily penetrate the soil in the root area of the plant with a metal rod, wooden dowel or other probe. When it's hot and dry weather persists, check soil moisture at least once a week and apply water as needed.

Because of their shallow root system, strawberries may require special attention and more frequent watering during extreme weather. Check moisture levels with strawberries twice a week when heat is extreme.

care when using essential oils

Nutritionist advises caution,

By Nancy Nelson Meadowlark Extension District Agent Family Life

It seems like just about everyone is using essential oils these days. Dr. Linda Yarrow offers some advice on using these essential oils safely in this timely article written by Tiffany Roney. Using essential oils for healing is a centuries-old practice, but only a few essential oils have independent studies to back their claims, according to a Kansas State University nutritionist.

Essential oils are removed from plants and distilled into concentrated forms that distributors say support immunity, mood and other functions of the mind and body.

However, these oils should never be substituted for prescription medications and routine checkups, said Linda Yarrow, registered dietitian and instructor in the food, nutrition, dietetics and health department in the university's College of Human Ecology.

Yarrow recommends checking with your health care provider before trying any anecdotal treatment, including essential oils, to ensure the ailment you want to treat is not a more serious condition that needs medical intervention.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Hoyt City Council's August Meeting has been changed to Monday, Aug. 7, 2017 at 7 p.m. (Countil meeting will be held the same night as the budget meeting.)

Yarrow said there is a sparsity of scientific studies on essential oils because there has been little financial incentive to research them. The essential oils industry does not have nearly as much product development mechanisms or patents to recoup costs as the pharmaceutical industry, she said.

"Peppermint oil and lavender oil are two that have some good research studies behind them to support their use," Yarrow said. "Tea tree oil also has a couple of small studies that have shown its effectiveness.'

Studies have found peppermint oil rubbed on the forehead or chest reduced headaches, nausea and congestion. Peppermint oil capsules also have been shown to reduce colonic spasms, abdominal pain and bloating by relaxing the muscles of the digestive tract. Still, peppermint oil is not the answer for everyone who has stomach problems. Yarrow said people whose stomach discomfort is caused by gastroesophageal reflux disease should not ingest peppermint oil because it can make the reflux worse.

Lavender's usefulness has been studied in the labor and delivery room, where it reduces anxiety for women who are giving birth. The lessening of anxiety leads to better breathing, increased oxygenation, muscle relaxation and a reduction in pain, Yarrow said. The lavender is diluted and applied in body massages or diffused as aromatherapy. Yarrow said other studies have indicated that pre-surgical use of lavender decreased the pain associated with needle sticks and pre-surgical procedures. Tea tree oil has been shown to be nearly as effective on acne as benzoyl peroxide, with fewer side effects than the peroxide. The oil also has been shown to work as well as standard medical treatment in removing antibioticresistant Staphylococcus aureus from skin, according to the National Institutes of Health.

Despite the benefits essential oils have in some cases, Yarrow cautions that excess amounts could have negative side effects, such as skin rashes when undiluted oil is applied directly to skin. Nausea or even ulcers can occur from drinking too much oil, and Yarrow said no oils should be consumed without diluting them first. To avoid side effects, she recommends starting with the smallest dosage possible - one drop – or using it through a diffuser.

We sometimes think if a little bit did some good, then a lot of oil will do a lot of good, but unfortunately, that's not the way it works," Yarrow said. "If using one drop gives you the desired effect, then you don't want to increase the amount."

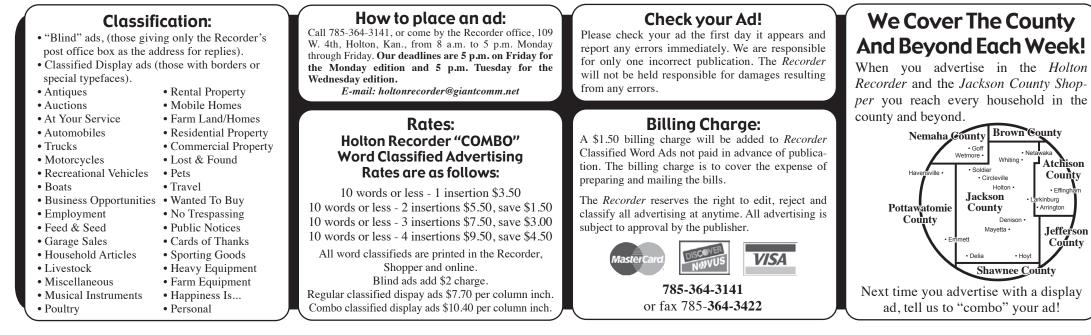

Yarrow also cautions against using essential oils on infants and children because they could cause skin irritations and allergic reactions, and increase sun sensitivity. She recommends storing essential oils out of children's reach, just as with any substance that could put children at risk for poisoning.

Yarrow recommends researching essential oil manufacturers to find ones with the most stringent harvesting, processing and storage standards to ensure the user is receiving the purest oils possible.

"It's important to emphasize that just because they're a natural product doesn't mean they're always a safe product," Yarrow said. "Do your research beforehand and be careful to follow the recommended guidelines if you're going to use essential oils

Buck's Grove Church

By Betty Bernritter

July 23, the seventh Sunday after Pentecost, was a beautiful morning to worship God at Buck's Grove United Methodist Church.

Thanks to Donna Ashcraft for filling in for me while my focus was on Jack. He is at Eastridge Skilled Nursing in Centralia and getting stronger each day and hopefully will be coming home soon.

Following the prelude, Betty Bernritter carried in the light of Christ. Pastor Charlotte Milroy lead the congregation in the call to worship, the opening prayer, scripture from Genesis 28:10-19a and Romans 8:12-25. Psalms 139:1-12, 23-24 was recited and also the Modern Apostles' Creed.

LeRoy Rieschick provided the recorded music as the congregation sang hymns "Every Time I Feel The Spirit," "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder" and Nearer My God to Thee.'

Pastor Charlotte spoke to the children about gardens and how the weeds would grow faster than the seeds sowed. She suggested maybe Jesus was testing our patience.

The gospel reading was from Matthew 13:24-30, 36-43 and Pastor Charlotte chose "All In The Garden" for the title of her message. Pastor Charlotte compared a garden that you prepare carefully but you still have weeds to churches that have weeds living among the righteous. What is the best policy - to pull the weeds or let them remain?

Jesus says to let them grow up together because if you start pulling weeds or casting people out, you are liable to throw out the good with the bad. If we learn to love the difficult people in our lives, then we will discover that they, like us, have experienced hurt and disappointment in life.

But here is the good news. In God's good garden, weeds are allowed to grow alongside the wheat. By God's grace, there is still time. God is patient with our well meaning but misguided efforts to be God's church. There will be no premature sorting out, no purge or purification until the final judgment by God.

God gives us time to grow, tually to thrive as Jesus' cherished, fruitful disciples. So let's all give thanks that, in spite of any of our shortcomings and problems, our weaknesses and inabilities, there is still time. We are in His garden.

Don Boling and Wayne Rieschick served as offertory ushers. The service closed by singing "God Be With You Ťill We Meet Again."

As Betty carried out the light of Christ, let us be reminded that we are to carry the light of Christ out into the world.

Lines and the other soldiers of the 137th were called to Europe, leaving New York harbor on May 5, 1944, and on arriving at Avonmouth, England, on May 24, they set up for two months of training exercises. The company sat out the D-Day invasion of June 6, 1944, impatiently waiting for its own call to action, it was reported.

That call came on Independence Day, when the company was rushed to Plymouth and Falmouth in England, sailing for France two days later and arriving at Omaha Beach near Coleville over the next three days.

On July 10, the company received its first field order, an attack on German forces early the next morning to overtake the nearby French village of St. Lo, it was reported.

Lines and his unit passed from First Army to Third Army control, under the leadership of Gen. George Patton, on Aug. 6. A month later, on Sept. 12, Lines, at that time a staff sergeant and serving as a platoon leader, and his company came under German tank fire while advancing into a forest.

A rocket-launcher team came up against five enemy tanks, driving them into the woods, while Lines, carrying a "sound-
