Friday afternoon was a hectic time at Lee's Flowers in Holton — just ask Sandy Bottom, shown in the photo above working to put together a floral arrangement for someone who wanted to "say it with flowers" on Valentine's Day. Bottom and others at the flower shop kept busy selling flowers and floral arrangements that day, one of the busiest holidays of the year at the store, it was noted.

Dems' primary set for May 2

Presidential runoff election for GOP cancelled in Kansas

By Ali Holcomb A presidential primary election for Democrat voters will be held in Kansas on May 2 while the state's Republican presidential primary has been cancelled, it has been reported.

State primaries and caucuses are now under way across the country as members of both parties seek nominees for president for the Nov. 3 general election.

Iowa held the first caucuses in the country on Feb. 3, and New Hampshire held its primaries last week.

So far, Democrat candidate Peter Buttigieg has 22 delegates, followed by Bernie Sanders with 21, Elizabeth Warren with eight, Amy Klobuchar with seven and Joe Biden with six.

A candidate needs 1,990 delegates to secure their nomination for president at the Democratic National Convention, which will be held in July.

President Donald Trump has received 39 delegates so far in the Republican elections, and Bill Weld has received one delegate.

To win the Republican nomination, a candidate must receive 1,276 delegates by the Republican National Convention in August.

The Kansas Republican Party has canceled its presidential primary this year. Kansas is one of seven states whose Republican parties have decided not to host a state primary because President Trump, the Republican incumbent, is running with little or no opposition for re-election in the party.

The Kansas Democratic Party (KDP) is hosting a presidential primary election on May 2 to determine which candidates will receive the state's 47 delegates. This is the first time the KDP will hold a primary election instead of a caucus, it was reported. The change is to "encourage greater participation and provide wider accessibility for voters in an open and transparent manner," according to the KDP.

During a caucus, voters gather together to determine which candidates should be supported by voters raising their hands or dividing into groups based on the candidate they support.

In a presidential primary, voters cast secret ballots for their preferred candidate.

A mailing explaining how to voter in person or by advance ballot in the Kansas Democratic presidential primary is being sent to every registered Democrat in the state on March 9, it was reported. Mail-in ballots will be available March 30 through April 17.

In-person voting will be available from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, May 2. There will be a voting center set up in each of the 40 Kansas Senate districts. Those centers are still being determined and will be announced in the March 9 mailer, according to the KDP.

Voters will be asked to rank their favorite candidates to determine their top five candidates for the nomination.

If a voter's first-choice candidate has limited support, a voter's next choice will be counted to "ensure their vote is not wasted," according to the KDP.

Any candidate who receives at least 15 percent of the firstchoice votes will automatically earn delegates.

Pyle supported "Value Them Both" amendment

How They're Voting

Kansas First District Senator Dennis Pyle (R-Hiawatha, pictured) was among those voicing his support for the proposed amendment to the Kansas Constitution that would allow elected legislators to regulate abortions, although that amendment didn't make it past the state's House of Representatives to go to a public vote, according to records from the current Legislative session.

Sen. Pyle also voted in favor of Senate bills creating "presumptions related to temporary parenting plans" and enhancing penalties for offenses causing death or serious injuries to public safety employees, but cast the sole vote against a bill removing a requirement that certain entities should report to the state's division of post audit.

division of post audit. Senate Continuing Resolution 1613, known as the "Value Them Both" constitutional amendment, saw Pyle voting in favor of the amendment but opposing several amendments to the overall resolution as proposed by other members of the Senate. Those amendments, mostly semantic in nature, were defeated largely along political party lines.

Pyle had also submitted an amendment to the resolution clarifying the date that it would go to a vote, setting a special election date of Aug. 4 rather than including the question on ballots for the state's primary election, set for the same date. That amendment was passed by the Senate and was the only amendment to receive Senate approval, it was noted.

"This is one of the most important pieces of legislation we have passed since I've been in the Legislature, and I was happy to be a part of it," Pyle said in a Feb. 3 Internet statement of the resolution, which made it past the Senate on a 28-12 vote, more than the two-thirds majority vote needed to send it to the House.

The constitutional amendment did not receive the twothirds majority vote needed in the House to put the question to a public vote, it was reported. It received 80 yes votes — four votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority — and 43 no votes in the House, which reportedly is dealing with its own constitutional amendment on abortion.

Another bill receiving Pyle's vote of approval was Senate Bill 45, which would elevate penalties for offenses that cause death or serious injuries to public safety employees, such as law enforcement officers, firefighters and other emergency management workers.

The bill is known as "Brandon's Law," named for Master Deputy Brandon Collins of the Johnson County Sheriff's Department. Collins was killed in September 2016 when a truck crashed into his patrol car while he was conducting a traffic stop.

SB 45 was approved on a 36-1 vote on Jan. 23 — Kansas City Democrat David Haley cast the

After 20 years as full-time school nurse for the Holton district, Carolyn Bartlett has announced her retirement from the district, effective at the end of the current school year. Photo by Brian Sanders

Bartlett retiring as Holton school nurse

By Brian Sanders Being a school nurse is a lot more complicated than most people think, according to Carolyn Bartlett, who has served the Holton school district as its nurse for the past 20 years.

"A lot of people think school nursing is giving a child a Band-Aid or a cough drop. That's not even close," said Bartlett, who has announced her retirement as the district nurse effective at the end of the current school year.

Bartlett said she has been proud to stand in the gap when "Dr. Mom" can't be present to take care of ailing students during a school day, sometimes figuring out what's wrong with students who might be afraid to say what's really bothering them.

"They might come in saying they have a stomachache, and they'll have a whole different problem, but they won't tell you," Bartlett said. "With my experience, I can usually tell what's going on, particularly if they come in saying they've got a broken arm."

Bartlett's experience covers almost half a century, starting with her enrollment in nursing classes at Hutchinson Junior College right after her graduation from Holton High School in 1971. Nursing, she noted, was a career choice she knew for a hospital for at least three weeks recovering," she said. "Now,

"When I was a kid, one of my favorite toys was one of those little plastic doctor's bags, with the stethoscope and the head mirror. I used to carry that thing around everywhere," she said.

After her first year in junior college, Bartlett transferred to Hutchinson Hospital School of Nursing, completing her training in 1974. Her first nursing job was at St. Francis Hospital in Topeka, where she worked in orthopedics and was involved in hip and knee replacement operations.

"At that time, you were in the hospital for at least three weeks recovering," she said. "Now, you have it done one day and you're out the next. The techniques have improved a lot over 40 years."

After 18 years at St. Francis, Bartlett worked briefly as a consultant at the Pennsylvania Place assisted living facility in Holton, then joined the staff at the Jackson County Health Department. Back then, she said, schools contracted with the health department for nursing services, and she was involved in that for six years.

INI PRESIDENTS' DAY Americans should show respect on this holiday

What do you think about Presidents' Day? Not much, you say? Presidents' Day is a federal holiday celebrated on the third Monday in February. That's today.

Is it a federal holiday that still makes sense in today's society? I don't know. We don't exactly love and respect all of our modern presidents, do we? It used to be a crime to publicly threaten a president or even joke about causing harm to the president or the White House.

In recent years, however, well-known entertainers and other celebrities have gotten away with seriously bad-mouthing the president. I don't think that is right.

It also seems like Americans used to have a lot more respect for the office of the president, regardless of who the current president was.

Originally established in 1885 in recognition of President George Washington, the holiday became popularly known as Presidents' Day after it was moved as part of 1971's Uniform Monday Holiday Act, an attempt to create more three-day weekends for workers.

Presidents' Day is now popularly viewed as a day to celebrate all U.S. presidents, past and present.

The story of Presidents' Day date begins in 1800. Following the death of George Washington in 1799, his Feb. 22 birthday became a perennial day of remembrance.

At the time, Washington was venerated as the most important figure in American history and events like the 1832 centennial of his birth and the start of construction of the Washington Monument in 1848 were cause for national celebration. While Washington's birthday was an unofficial observance for most of the 1800s, it was not until the late 1870s that it became a federal holiday.

The shift from Washington's birthday to Presidents' Day began in the late 1960s, when Congress proposed a measure known as the Uniform Monday Holiday Act.

Championed by Senator Robert McClory of Illinois, this law sought to shift the celebration of several federal holidays from specific dates to a series of predetermined Mondays. The proposed change was seen by many as a novel way to create more three-day weekends for the nation's workers.

While some argued that shifting holidays from their original dates would cheapen their meaning, the bill also had widespread support from both the private sector and labor unions and was seen as a surefire way to bolster retail sales.

The Uniform Monday Holiday Act also included a provision to combine the celebration of Washington's birthday with that of Abraham Lincoln, which fell on Feb. 12. Lincoln's birth-day had long been a state holiday in places like Illinois, and many supported joining the two days as a way of giving equal recognition to two of America's most famous statesmen.

The main piece of the Uniform Monday Holiday Act was passed in 1968 and officially took effect in 1971 following an executive order from President Richard M. Nixon.

Washington's birthday was then shifted from the fixed date of Feb. 22 to the third Monday of February.

Columbus Day, Memorial Day and Veterans Day were also moved from their traditionally designated dates. (As a result of widespread criticism, in 1980 Veterans Day was returned to its original Nov. 11 date.)

The trouble with Presidents' Day, I think, is that not everyone loves and respects every president.

Presidents Nixon and Clinton and now current President Donald Trump, for example, are as polarizing as they are popular, and as controversial as any presidents we've probably ever had. Nixon, Clinton and Trump are despised by as many Americans as they are loved.

On Presidents' Day, I think we should follow mom's golden rule: that is, "If you can't say anything nice about the presidents, don't say anything at all!' David Powls

LETTER Bids are let to be prudent with tax dollars

Dear editor,

Foster Ford has been supportive of the Jackson County com-munity since 1985. In the course of our 35 years of business, we have had the opportunity to bid several governmental agencies' requests.

We have been fortunate to have sold several units to Jackson County due to the fact that our manufacturer gives us the tools needed to make the best price available on a quality product, as evidenced by the number of Ford vehicles this county owns.

We have always supported Jackson County, financially and otherwise. When sales tax increase issues have arisen over the years, it would have been very easy to campaign against the increases which greatly impact vehicle purchases, but we elected not to do so.

Last year alone, Foster Ford collected more than a half million dollars in sales tax revenue and more than $18 million over the 35 years of doing business in Jackson County, as well as owning some the highest taxed property in the county.

We realize the county does not receive the entire amount, but this indicates just how much we do contribute to county funds.

We were appalled to be told by a county commissioner that the low bid was not accepted recently in order to "try something else.'

The State of Kansas has implemented spending laws that protect citizens from abusive spending practices by local governments.

Bid specifications for vehicles exist for a reason. They allow the dealership to construct a bid at the lowest price available for what specific aspects are deemed necessary by the business or agency requesting bids.

Bids are let in order to be most prudent with taxpayer dollars. Bids should be compared to like bids, not left up to interpretation.

We have participated in the bidding process enough times over our 35 years that we don't believe we need to practice the process when it becomes apparent the decision is made before bids are opened and fairly compared.

To end, we want to be clear this is not just a complaint that the county did not purchase from Foster Ford.

The problem is the amount of money that was wasted on not only one but two vehicles to just another product when the bid process was not followed by our elected officials. Thank you for your time, Scott Foster, Jordan Foster, Foster Ford, Inc. Holton.

U.S. Term Limits has the support of nearly 70 pledge signers in Congress.

"Roger's strong support of term limits shows that there are individuals who are willing to put self-interest aside to follow the will of the people," said USTL President Philip Blumel. "America needs a Congress that will be served by citizen legislators, not career politicians.

The USTL amendment pledge, provided to every announced candidate for federal office, reads, "I pledge that as a member of Congress, I will cosponsor and vote for the U.S. Term Limits amendment of three (3) House terms and two (2) Senate terms and no longer limit." The U.S. Term Limits constitutional amendment has been introduced in both the U.S. Senate by Senator Ted Cruz (SJR1) and the U.S. House by term limits on Congress, Blumel said. "More than 82 percent of Americans have rejected the career politician model and want to replace it with citizen leadership. The way to achieve that goal is through congressional term limits.

According to a 2018 nationwide poll on term limits conducted by McLaughlin and Associates, term limits enjoy wide bipartisan support.

"Support for term limits is broad and strong across political, geographic all demographic and groups,' McLaughlin's analysis states. "An overwhelming 82 percent of voters approve of a constitutional amendment that will place term limits on members of Congress.'

"America is in trouble," "Our career Blumel said. politicians have let the people down. It is time to return control of our nation to the people. It is time for a constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms.'

The term limits amendment resolutions would require a twothirds majority in the House and Senate and ratification by 38 states in order to become part of the U.S. Constitution.

Flu season tips offered

By Taylor Fillmore and Lindsey Barnett Student Correspondents Wetmore High School

Kansas is one out of the 25 U.S. states that has a high influenza activity level, it was reported. The symptoms of the flu are a fever, cough, runny nose, body aches, headaches and fatigue.

Most people with the flu get over the sickness within a few days. However, there are certain cases where seeing a doctor is necessary.

necessary. Beth Orenstein writes in EverydayHealth.com that if someone has any of the following symptoms, he/she should see the doctor as soon as possible: difficulty breathing, chest or stomach pain, dizziness, lightheadedness and/or severe vomiting.

Heaven Schuette, Prairie Hills USD 113 nurse, believes that the best way to prevent getting the flu is the get vaccinated for the influenza virus every year.

When asked about what if people aren't going to be vaccinated, Schuette responded, "If you are not going to get vaccinated every year, then you need to have good hygiene; for example, washing your hands and covering your nose when sneezing."

Schuette also recommended that if a person uses hand sanitizer, he/she should only use it three times in a row.

"Washing your hands is the best prevention," said Schuette.

Schuette was also asked about what to do when someone comes down with the flu. She responded by saying that it is best to avoid close contact with other people, covering their nose when sneezing and mouth when coughing.

"If a student has been diagnosed with influenza by a PCP (primary care physician), the CDC (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention) recommends that he stays home for five days after onset of symptoms," Schuette said.

JH Cobra basketball teams play Wednesday and Saturday games

By Brian Sanders Last Wednesday's wintry weather and ensuing sub-zero wind chills on Thursday put a two-day delay on the first of two meetings in less than a week between the high school varsity basketball teams from Jackson Heights and McLouth.

That first meeting on Saturday ended in a split with the Lady Cobras and the Bulldog boys picking up wins at JHHS. The Cobra and Bulldog teams will meet again tonight on McLouth's home court after the Lady Cobras took down McLouth 65-17 while the Cobra boys lost a close one to the Bulldogs by a 43-36 margin over the weekend.

Saturday's action began with the Lady Cobras (11-1 Northeast Kansas League, 14-2 overall) silencing the Lady Bulldogs (1-10 NEKL, 2-13 overall) 17-0 in the first quarter, and while McLouth began to show signs of life in the second frame, it wasn't enough to stop a Lady Cobra 27-point run in the frame, and Jackson Heights took a 44-10 lead into intermission.

The Lady Cobras kept the intensity going into the third quarter, outscoring the Lady Bulldogs 11-4 in the frame and giving Head Coach Dan Shupe a chance to play some of his younger players in the fourth quarter, since junior varsity games were not on Saturday's card.

For Jackson Heights, senior Kylie Dohl added 30 points to her career total, passing the 1,200-point mark, while senior Abby Brey also scored in double digits with 12. McLouth freshman Jill Holwick led her team in scoring with eight points.

In the nightcap, the Cobra boys (4-8 NEKL, 4-12 overall) faced off with the Bulldogs (8-3 NEKL, 11-4 overall), getting off to a good start with a 12-9 first quarter lead, but McLouth was able to even the score at 18 going into halftime.

The third quarter was a neck-and-neck run, with McLouth holding a one-point lead at the end of the frame before outscoring the Cobras 11-5 in the final quarter to get the win.

sophomore Jason Cobra Bosley led his team in scoring with 16 points, while senior Dylan Thompson added nine. For the Bulldogs, Tayshawn Barfield led with 17 points, followed by Jaxson Pope with Tonight's Cobras-Bulldogs rematches begin a week of road action for Jackson Heights, who will then travel to Atchison on Tuesday to take on Maur Hill-Mount Academy, whose boys team (10-1 NEKL, 11-4 overall) knocked off Oskaloosa 58-36 on Friday, while the MH-MA girls (3-11 NEKL, 6-15 overall) sustained a 54-29 loss to the Lady Bears.

Then, on Friday, the Cobra teams travel to Pleasant Ridge before returning home on Tuesday, Feb. 25 for regular season-ending games against Oskaloosa.

Fenceline: Unsolicited advice

By Jody G. Holthaus Meadowlark Extension District Agent, Livestock and Natural Resources

If you see me and think I'm trying a new hair color, it wasn't intentional! Putting wood in outdoor the stove, I guess I singed my hair. It was this funky orange matted mess. I was instructed to not get so close to the fire (duh), I explained my arms are shorter than said husband and son, and probably they should do it from now on!

Advice - I've worked with quite a few landowners and tenants during my tenure. Boy, there have been more than a few horror stories told. I firmly believe there are three sides to the story – the landowner, the tenant and then the truth. These negotiations are best done with a lot of communication.

With farms growing in size, it's not uncommon for the average farmer to have four to 40 landowners they are dealing with. The biggest mistake I see happening is the tenant (farmer/ rancher) thinking they know what is best and they don't consult with the owner. This is a huge mistake.

Family Life

Dr. Mykel Taylor, one of our rising star ag economists, suggests using your phone and taking some pictures of the property, crop or property structures and sending it to the landowner throughout the season. If there is a fence problem or a terrace that needs work, take a quick picture and send it along. In other words, just stay in touch!

If you are working with a landowner who is a different gender than you are, you must treat them as our equal.

The three most common types of leases used in Kansas are the fixed cash lease, the flexible cash lease, the crop share lease and the custom farming contract.

Under a fixed cash lease, the tenant pays a given amount of cash rent per acre per year for the use of the farm resources. The landlord may put some restrictions on what crops can be grown, or what tillage, conservation and pest control practices can be used. Other than this, the tenant has free rein in planning the crop and livestock production program on the farm unit and receives all the crop and any associated USDA commodity program payments.

A variation of the fixed cash lease is a flexible lease, in which the actual rent to be paid depends on the actual yields attained and/ or the selling prices available during the lease period. This ensures that the rent paid is in line with the profitability of the crops grown that year. Sometimes government payments and crop insurance benefits are also included in calculating the gross revenue. The landowner shares some of the risks of low yields or declining prices but also shares in the extra profits when prices and/or production exceed expectations.

The distinguishing characteristic of a crop share lease is that the owner receives a share of the crop and USDA payments as a return for the land resources used. There may be a separate rental charge for a good set of buildings or grain storage facilities. Both parties share the expenses, at the agreed-upon rate.

Jefferson County community under KDHE boil order

The Kansas Department of Health and Environment (KDHE) on Thursday issued a boil water order for the Lakeside Village Improvement District located in Jefferson County, it was reported.

Lakeside Village is an unincorporated community located about four miles southeast of Ozawkie near Lake Perry. The community was established in the 1960s while the lake was under construction and designated by Jefferson County as an "improvement district" in 1972, it was reported.

Customers in the community should observe the following precautions until further notice:

• If tap water appears dirty, flush water lines by letting the water run until it clears. · Boil water for one minute prior to drinking or food preparation or use bottled water. • Dispose of ice cubes and do not use ice from a household automatic icemaker.

• Disinfect dishes and other food contact surfaces by immersion for at least one minute in clean tap water that contains one teaspoon of unscented household bleach per gallon of water.

• Water used for bathing does not generally need to be boiled. Supervision of children is necessary while bathing so that water is not ingested. Persons with cuts or severe rashes may wish to consult their physicians.

Keep food safe in power outages

Bv Nancy Nelson Meadowlark Extension District Agent Family Life When refrigerators and freezers suffer a loss of electrical power, the refrigerated and frozen foods inside can become susceptible to foodborne contaminants in just a few hours. Severe weather events such as blizzards, thunderstorms and tornadoes can bring down power lines in a neighborhood. When the power goes out, the clock starts ticking on the viability of meats, seafood, ice cream, cut produce and even leftover pizza.

According to the USDA, bacteria such as E. coli, Salmonella and Campylobacter can grow within minutes of food entering the "Danger Zone" – the range of temperatures between 40 degrees F and 140 degrees F.

A refrigerator in good working order can maintain its temperature for about four hours; a full, reliable deep freezer can keep food frozen as long as 48 hours.

If you have nearby friends and neighbors that have extra space in their freezer, consolidating frozen foods is a great strategy. A full freezer will maintain its temperature longer than a freezer that's only half full.

If you know a winter storm or blizzard is on the way, consider moving as much as possible from the refrigerator to the freezer. Leftover pot roast, tuna casserole and plastic bottles of fruit juice will keep these foods in a colder environment and helps fill empty spaces in the freezer.

You can also use water bottles, plastic gallon jugs of water or plastic storage containers filled with water. Just get them frozen before the power goes out. If you have a source for dry ice, consider adding a few blocks to your freezer. Dry ice can extend your safe zone by several hours.

As much as you can, keep the out.

doors closed. Don't open them to peek in and check to see what the temperature is – just leave them closed. Avoid that temptation

Refrigerator and freezer-rated thermometers are also a good permanent addition to your appliances. They're inexpensive and will give you a reading the first time you open the appliance and after the power has been restored, and are important to use anytime.

After that, the question is simple: Keep it or toss it? Foods that are most vulnerable include meats, seafood, dairy and ice cream while those that are a bit more stable are whole fruits and vegetables, condiments and hard block cheese.

When checking the freezer, ice can be a good indicator. If an item is still frozen solid, or if you can still feel ice crystals, that's a good thing. Whatever you do, don't taste something and think, "Well, if it tastes OK, it's still good." Bacteria doesn't always reveal itself that way. The oft-repeated adage holds true: When in doubt, throw it

By Mary E. Edwards Sunday, Feb. 16, was a nice morning but very frosty, with fog in some places.

Mary Edwards lighted the altar candles and collected the offering at Netawaka United Methodist Church. Marilyn Banaka gave the welcome and announcements. She reported a joyful celebration of her mom's 85th birthday with many family members on Saturday.

Marcia Robertson had a good report on her grandson's health. Jack and Judah Williams continue to grow and progress; prayers are still needed for them. The congregation learned that Patsy Jones was recently in the hospital with pneumonia, but she has recovered and is out and about.

Marilyn requested prayers for her brother-in-law, Ron, with a health problem.

Condolences are extended to families and friends of Marilyn Zinn and June Jepson, who both died this past week.

We were happy to have Jordyn Banaka at church with her grandma. Pastor Young Won invited her to come forward for the children's message. They demonstrated how "Limbo" is played, the lesson being about challenges and trying something new.

Songs were "I've Got Peace Like A River," "It Is Well With My Soul," "Cares Chorus" and

"Make Me A Servant." Verona Grannell played the recorded music.

The scripture lesson was 1 Corinthians 3:1-9, Paul's concern about divisions in the church. Pastor Young's sermon was "Let Us Grow In God For The Mission."

When someone first comes to believe in God and wants to do His will, what is his motivation? If a person is interested in a certain sport, his or her ability, teamwork, sportsmanship and winning are all important, but enjoyment of that sport is the and neighbors.

Sign-up for cost-share program begins March 2

The Jackson County Conservation District is conducting a sign-up from March 2 through March 31 to accept requests for state financial assistance to install enduring conservation practices, it has been reported.

The conservation district administers state cost-share programs locally to improve water quality and reduce soil erosion. Funding is provided by the Division of Conservation, Kansas Department of Agriculture (DOC) through appropriation from the Kansas Water Plan Fund.

Landowners with natural resource concerns on their property are encouraged to visit the Jackson County Conservation District to discuss the possibility of receiving state financial assistance. Funding is provided through costshare payments to landowners for eligible practices such as terraces, grassed waterways, diversions, grass plantings, livestock water supplies, cross-fencing, upgrade failed septic systems, etc.

The sign-up does not guarantee approval of cost-share financial assistance. Projects started or completed prior to being approved for funding are not eligible for these funds.

Following the sign-up deadline, each request is carefully reviewed to ensure eligibility. The proposed project is ranked according to a system developed by the Jackson County Conservation District. The ranking system ensures fairness to landowners and ensures cost-share funds are used to meet local conservation priorities.

Landowners approved for the program are notified of the practice(s) approved and the estimated amount of cost-share that will be provided. Before the work can begin the, contract is approved by the DOC and must be signed by the landowner(s). Any qualifying contracts will be funded after July 1, 2020.

The conservation district works closely with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) to protect and conserve natural resources, primarily soil and water. Conservation practices funded with state cost-share funds must be installed and maintained according to NRCS and DOC specifications. All failed septic systems upgrades must meet county code requirements. It is necessary that landowners work closely with NRCS in the planning stage to ensure practices are applied correctly. Technical assistance for these practices is provided free of charge by the USDA.

For more information concerning state cost-programs and other available services, please contact Brian Boeckman, district manager, Jackson County Conservation District, at (785) 364-3329, ext. 136.

Healthy eating can be affordable

By Cindy Williams Meadowlark Extension FACS

Whole grains, vegetables, fruits, fish, low-fat milk. These foods are basic to good health, yet most children and their families don't eat enough of them. Here are some tips to get you started.

Make half of your plate fruits and vegetables.

· Know when fruits and vegetables are in season (https://snaped. fns.usda.gov/nutrition-throughseasons/seasonal-produce).

• Frozen or canned vegetables and fruits may be less expensive than fresh, especially when not in season. Choose frozen vegetables without sauces and fruits canned in juice to reduce fat and sugar.

• Buy only the foods that your family will eat before they spoil. Throwing away food is equivalent to throwing away money.

• Keep fruits and vegetables where they can be easily seen. For example, put fruit in bowls on tables or countertops so they are more visible and more likely to be eaten. Cut up vegetables like carrots, cucumbers and green peppers when you bring them home so they are readily available as snacks and to use in recipes.

• Grow some of your own veg-

Choose 100 percent whole grain cereals, breads, crackers, rice and pasta.

• Brown rice, oatmeal and unsweetened whole-grain cereal bought in bulk is usually a good buy. Look for whole-grain breads, tortillas and whole-grain pasta that are a good price.

• Be willing to spend a little more time preparing foods. In most cases, the more processed a food is, the more it will cost. For example, popcorn that is already popped or in a convenience from usually costs more than popcorn that needs to be popped in a kettle or popcorn popper.

Vary your protein sources - eat more seafood and beans.

• Canned tuna, canned pink salmon and some frozen fish are a good buy. Tuna salad, salmon patties and fish tacos are a quick and tasty way to eat fish.

Dry beans and peas (black beans, black-eyed peas, kidney beans, lentils, pinto beans, split peas) are a great buy whether purchased dry or canned. Drain and rinse beans with water to remove most of the sodium.

• Use dry beans in place of some or all of the ground beef in recipes. Cooked lentils are a great meat extender or substitute for meat in spaghetti sauce and meatloaf. Similarly, cooked pinto beans work well in burritos, enchiladas and taco.

The value of ag data to be discussed

North Carolina State University published an article in the fall of 2019 about on-farm data and increase collecin tion and interpretation of that data.

In it, communications specialist Jennifer Howard said, 'Never before have growers had so much information at their fingertips. From sensors embedded in farm machinery to constellations of satellites taking pictures, data is flowing everywhere. It is estimated that by 2025, an average-sized farm will produce more than one million data points a day.²

Think about that for a second. One million data points a day. How can you manage one million data points a day? Is it useful? How can it best be used? If it was stolen, would you pay to get it back?

All of those questions will be intertwined as part of a general discussion titled "The Value Of Ag Data (And How To Capture

It...)" hosted by the Meadowlark until you reach removal of 30 Extension District and Brown County Extension on Wednesday, Feb. 26 at the Glacial Hills Business Resource Center. We'll gather for coffee at 10 a.m. at the center, located at 913 Dakota St. in Sabetha, kicking off the meeting at 10:15 a.m. with "What Is Ag Data And How Can We Cap-ture Value From It?"

K-State Research & Extension cropping systems economist Dr. Terry Griffin has spent the better part of his career discussing ag data issues. He'll be on hand to share his observations about that data, and how it might be valued. After his presentation, we'll finish the morning with a producer/presenter discussion. We'll wrap up with a light lunch at noon.

For meal and handout count purposes, please RSVP by noon Monday, Feb. 24 to the Seneca office of the Meadowlark Extension District at (785) 336-2184 or by e-mailing me at dhallaue@ksu.edu. It should be a great morning of discussion on all things ag data.

percent of the tree:

Start by removing broken, damaged or diseased branches. When two branches form a narrow angle, prune one out. Narrow angles are weak and more prone to breaking during wind or ice storms.

Remove suckers - branches that grow straight up from the trunk or major branches.

If two branches cross and rub against one another, remove one.

Cut back or remove branches that are low and interfere with harvest or pruning.

Cut back branches to reduce the total size of the tree, if necessary.

Thin branches on the interior of the tree.

When cutting back a branch, always cut back to another branch or a bud. Do not leave a stub. Always cut at the branch collar when possible.

Naaman almost missed the miracle because he expected to do something spectacular. He had to humble himself and obev Elisha's commands to be healed. He looked for an extraordinary answer to his problem.

Hannah L. Blick, 18, Valley Falls, was driving a Pontiac Grand Am east on N.E. 46th at 1:32 a.m. that day when her car crossed over to the westbound lanes of traffic, striking a Chevrolet Traverse that was traveling west, according to the Shawnee County Sheriff's Office.

Blick was taken by ambulance to a Topeka hospital with life-threatening injuries after she was extricated from her car by Soldier Township Fire Department personnel. She was later pronounced dead at the hospital, it was reported.

The Chevrolet's driver, Bradyn J. Rottler, 21, Topeka, was taken by personal vehicle to a local hospital for treatment of minor injuries, it was reported. The crash remains under investigation.

Kansas Gov. Laura Kelly, shown above, fielded questions from journalists from across the state at the Statehouse last Thursday as part of the Kansas Press Association (KPA) at the State Legislature Day. The Kansas journalists also invited state legislators to be their guests at a luncheon on the second floor of the Statehouse.

Immanuel Lutheran Church

By Esther L. Ideker

The sixth Sunday after Epiphany worship service at Immanuel Lutheran Church on Feb. 16 opened with the first two verses of "Songs Of Thankfulness And Praise." Following the invocation and confession and absolution, Psalm 119:1-8 was spoken responsively.

Elder Topher Dohl read the Old Testament lesson from Deuteronomy 30:15-20 and the Epistle lesson from1 Corinthians 3:1-9. Pastor Michael Van Velzer read the holy gospel from Matthew 5:31-37. The congregation professed The Nicene Creed. The sermon hymn was the third verse of "Songs Of Thankfulness And Praise.'

In Pastor Van Velzer's sermon, he said that this is now the third week that we have been invited to gather around Jesus to listen to His Sermon on the Mount. Two Sunday's ago, we followed Jesus up the mountain, and listened as He poured out those wonderful Beautitudes one blessing after another.

Last Sunday, we heard Jesus tell His disciples that they are the salt of the earth and the light of the world. This morning, we hear Jesus continue His sermon by describing just what it means "light" in our generation. The offering ushers were Topher Dohl and Travis Amon. The offertory piece was "Name Above All Names.'

In the prayers of the church, petitions were asked for faithful pastors to preach God's word; for those preparing for church work; for government leaders, emergency personnel; for the poor and needy, for the widowed, orphaned and unemployed; for those who are sick to comfort them in their illness; and grant all things needful for body and soul and bring us to everlasting life. The congregation joined in The Lord's Prayer.

The Service of the Sacrament followed with Elders Topher Dohl and Travis Amon assisting Pastor Van Velzer with the distribution. Following the Nunc Dimittis, thanksgiving, postcommunion collect, salutation and benediction, the service closed with the last two verses of "Songs Of Thankfulness And Praise.'

Pastor Van Velzer led Bible class after the service. Immanuel Ladies will meet at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 21 at the church. Marcia Coufal will lead the Bible study and serve as hostess. Projects are the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod Chaplaincy and subscription to the Lutheran Women's Quarterlies. Next Sunday, the worship service will follow the LWML Day of Prayer Service with door offering for the Kansas District Guinea Missionary Project.

lone dissenting vote - and introduced the next day in the House, where it was referred to the House Committee on Corrections and Juvenile Justice.

Pyle also voted in favor of Senate Bill 157, a "shared parenting" bill that was filed in February 2019 with 17 bipartisan sponsors. The bill was recommended for approval last March by the Senate Judiciary Committee — of which Pyle is a member — but did not come up for a vote until Feb. 4, when it passed on a 39-1 vote, Lenexa Democrat Dinah Sykes casting the only "no" vote.

The bill was introduced into the House on Feb. 6; the next day, it was referred to that chamber's judiciary committee for further review.

Pyle cast the lone dissenting vote on Senate Bill 258, which reportedly addressed administrative issues within the Kansas Statehouse and removed the requirement for certain reports to be submitted to the Legislative Division of Post Audit, which no longer supervises audit work associated with specified reports due to legislation passed by the Senate in 2018.

The bill was also passed by the Senate on Feb. 4 and received by the House two days later. It has since been referred to the House Committee on Appropriations for further review.

Ålso, Senate Bill 269, increasing the mandatory retirement age for Kansas district court judges from 75 to 80, was questioned by Pyle over the appointment process for judges who step down before their term expires. Pyle said he pre-ferred "legislative oversight" rather than allowing governors to make appointments.

The bill was recommended to state legislators by Jackson County District Court Judge Norbert Marek over the impending retirement of Second District Chief Judge Gary Nafziger, who is nearing the current mandatory age but, as Judge Marek stated, is still operating at full mental capacity and could do so until age 80.

The bill was referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee,

"None of the schools in Jackson County had full-time school nurses," Bartlett said. "I would come up and work at the Holton schools for three days and Jackson Heights for a day. Another nurse went to Royal Valley. Then Holton decided they needed a full-time nurse 20 years ago."

Bartlett sought the full-time district nurse position in Holton against the advice of her friend, the late Cathleen Reed.

"She used to tell me, 'If you go there, you're going to be bored, and you don't like to be bored," Bartlett said of Reed. 'I don't think I've had a single day where that's been true.'

Bartlett said the biggest perk of being a school nurse is watching the kids she takes care of on a daily basis grow up.

If, after counting all firstchoice votes, some candidates have not received 15 percent, the candidate with the fewest first-choices is eliminated. Voters who chose this candidate as their top choice will have their votes count for their next choice. This process will repeat until all candidates remaining have reached at least 15 percent of the vote.

Candidates will earn their proportional share of delegates which recommended its approval, although the bill was withdrawn from the Senate calendar on Feb. 3 and sent back to the committee for further review. Pyle and four other senators also introduced Senate Bill 301, which would change property tax valuations from an annual occurrence to once every three years. The bill has been referred to the Senate Committee on Assessment and Taxation for review, and a hearing for the bill has been scheduled for this Wednesday.

Pyle also voted to approve 32 appointments made early in the session by Kansas Gov. Laura Kelly to various state offices, including DeAngela Burns-Wallace, secretary of the Department of Administration; Stephen Durrell, executive director of the State Lottery Commission; Herman Jones, Kansas Highway Patrol superintendent; Doug Jorgensen, state fire marshal; Earl Lewis, Kansas Water Office director; Kala Loomis, State Gaming Agency executive director; and Constance Owen, Kansas Water Authority chairperson.

Other Kelly appointments Pyle voted to approve included Erica Andrade, Michael Birzer, Patricia Hudgins, Laurel Michel and Richard Ney, State Board of Indigents Defense Services; Kent Deines, Kansas Development Finance Authority; Romano Delcore, University of Kansas Hospital Authority; Joni Franklin, Jonathan Gilbert, Michael Ryan, Keely Schneider and Donald (Rick) Wiley, Kansas Public Employee Relations Board; Sheryl Gilchrist, State Civil Service Board; Cheryl Harrison-Lee, Shellaine Kiblinger and Jonathan Rolph, State Board of Regents; David Herndon, Office of the State Banking Commissioner; Emily Hill and Owen (Brad) Stratton, Kansas Public Employees Retirement Board of Trustees; Kelly Kultala, Kansas Racing and Gaming Commission; Catherine Moyer, Kala Spigarelli and Kenneth (Ed) Trimmer, State Lottery Commission; and Ruth Stevenson and Patrick Walden, State Banking Board.

a laugh. "What are you doing? Who are you playing with?' My oldest grandson, bless his heart, spy on him all the time."

But this will be the last year of doing that, she said, because of her age.

"I'm old enough," Bartlett said. "In my mind, I always thought that I was going to work until I was 67, and it happened.'

She doesn't see herself slowing down that much, however. She has a quilting business, Carolyn's Longarm Quilting, and she also plans to continue "running the chains" at Holton High School football games for as long as she can.

And, if need be, Bartlett said, she will come back to school and fill in.

"If they still want me to hang around, I might volunteer for stuff," she said.

to be the salt of the earth and the light of the world.

His disciples are to be the preservative and the shining light in the midst of decay and darkness. The standard for God's law is love; the love of God with all of your heart, soul and mind, and to love your neighbor with the same measure of love with which God loves us.

He sums the whole thing up by saying, "You therefore must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect." It sounds like an impossibly high standard that Jesus is setting for His disciples and their little outpost in this world, but try to imagine a Christianity where everyone lived according to God's law without the additions and subtractions. What salt of the earth, what a light in the world it would be.

Try to imagine a world where the one, holy, Christian and apostolic church lived in the complete freedom that Christ has won for it by His cross and grave. What influence upon this world would His church have if the men and women, boys and girls that professed to be members of it, actually believed that since He has kept the whole law for us we don't bring it down so we can keep it.

And what if one day, the Christian church, so salted the earth and enlightened the world with this one, true faith, that it overcame the world? May the Lord bless us to be "salt" and
